Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Over the Fourth of July week-end, the Riordans had some company, Jenny and Mike Lucas, recently of Reading, England.

This young couple — British as they come — are real special to us.

Just a year ago, Cherie and I were dashing about Egypt, up the Nile to the great temples at Abu Simbel. It was while chugging along that muddy river, aboard a Sudanese steamer, we met Jenny and Mike.

They, too, were on their way to fulfill a dream, to view the sandstone mammoths carved into the cliffs 3,200 years ago during the reign of Ramses II.

The four of us had a delightful six days together — including two at the temples, where the temperatures were pushing 120 degrees and the sun turned the whole place into a blast furnace.

We last saw the pair in Cairo, before catching our plane back to Rome. Mike had mentioned he might be offered a job in America. We wondered if it would ever come off.

Well, it did and we're delighted.

Mike is a nuclear physicist and several months ago accepted a spot with the Atomic Energy Commission at Argonne, an installation near Chicago.

Jenny is an inspiring singer and the first thing that happened to her upon arrival in Illinois was to be tapped for the lead in "Guys and Dolls," which the little theatre at Argonne was producing.

When arrangements were being made for Jenny and Mike to spend the holiday weekend with us, she chided, "Will it be safe for Englishmen to be on American streets on the Fourth?"

But, to be honest, there was a grain of sincerity in the question we later realized, since this was to be their first Independence Day in the States and she wondered how far Americans get carried away in this game of Let's Toss the British Out.

Before the big day was far gone, they were really in the swing of things. Jenny even wore a small American flag on her sweater.

They were enchanted by the parade. When the Jaycees' float, depicting the flag-raising at Iwo Jima, came by, they didn't understand.

Suddenly I found myself explaining that this represented the most famous American picture taken during World War II. Jenny and Mike are in their midtwenties and were children during the war, probably had never seen the photo. Later, back at our house, a pictorial history of the war was dug out and Mike spent an hour going through it. The Iwo shot was on the cover.

"We felt a long way from home and this was a holiday which we had never celebrated before—and what is more, a celebration of independence gained from our own country.

"But how heartening it was, after centuries gone by and in a strange land, not only to witness first-hand the excitement of a real American community, but to be welcomed so warmly into your homes.

"We sincerely hope that the ties of friendship built up between our nations and strength-ened since those earlier days will long endure.

"Thank you, Tecumseh, for your hospitality."

IS IT THAT TIME? — Better hurry if you expect to get a nice Christmas tree. The sign was snapped by Ricky Duffin, alert to the last. Ricky, who has been a Herald photographer for three years, moved with his family to Lapeer Monday. He'll be entering Lapeer High School as a senior this fall. His dad, Dick Duffin, recently accepted a post with a foundry in Imlay City, which is near Lapeer.

Ear Drums Rattle as Dynamite Roars

Without a doubt, the Festivities for Fisher, staged last Thursday will rate as an all-time smash in civic untertakings. The groundbreaking at the site of the new Tecumseh Fisher Body plant was breath-taking. Attended by more than 2,000 it far exceeded expectations. In the evening, General Motors officials met with business and professional leaders at Tecumseh Country Club, to detail operations here. A color film showed a typical Fisher trim plant setup. It will be available for viewing by area organizations. Arrangements can be made through The Herald.

GOV. ROMNEY PRAISES GM

Should Be Twins

In his remarks, Gov. Romney praised General Motors, saying, "GM is a champion as industrial organizations go, excelling in producing products that people want to buy."

"So good, that I once made a statement they ought to be twins, and this is about as high a compliment that I can make."

Gov. Romney pointed out to the crowd he was experienced in his relations with GM, "having worked with them, competed against them, and as a public official."

He urged the cooperation of Tecumseh and Lenawee County in helping to make the new Fisher Body operations here a success, stressing that GM will become a "valued industrial citizen."

Joe Hainline, head of publicity and advertising for Fisher Body, was in charge of the ceremony and spoke briefly about the company's plans here.

Others on the program were Tecumseh Mayor Harold Easton, and Robert Gathman, general manager of Fisher Body Division.

Numerous local, area and company officials were introduced during the ceremony which lasted about 45 minutes.

Three police departments — Tecumseh, county and state — handled the traffic, which at 4:30, beginning of the ceremony, was backed up more than a half mile north towards Tecumseh on Occidental Rd.

Over 600 cars were parked in the roped off area at the site, and many others were parked along Occidental and Gady Rds.

A portion of the high school band played prior to the ceremony and the national anthem for the presentation of the colors by the VFW.

UP IN THE AIR — Gov. George Romney and Robert Gathman, along with more than 2,000 others, were flying low last Thursday at festivities on the new Tecumseh Fisher Body site at Occidental Hwy. and Gady Rd. An eight-page tabloid section, with this edition, pictorially reviews the action.

Plant Operations Explained

Manufacturing operations and personnel requirements at the new Fisher Body plant were discussed by General Manager Robert H. Gathman, at a meeting of over 200 civic leaders Thursday night at Tecumseh Country Club.

Mr. Gathman explained that a nucleus of specialists in production, personnel, accounting and other fields will be transferred into Tecumseh from other Fisher Body upholstery trim plants.

"These specialists," he said, "have experience in organizing and training people to ensure a successful operation."

"However, he emphasized that the vast majority of the 1,000 jobs to be created here when the plant reaches full production will be recruited locally.

MR. GATHMAN said that the Tecumseh operation will require approximately half of the employees to be women.

"One of the reasons we expect a smooth start in production here," he stated, "is that sewing fabrics is a type of skill which many women have. With some minor adjustment to differences in equipment, they should be able to perform these jobs expertly with little difficulty."

"Apart from this skill, we will also need press operators, maintenance workers of all kinds, material handling people, accounting and scheduling personnel, plant protection men and many others.

"With about 1,000 jobs available when production gets underway, you can see the opportunitiy which exists.

"We certainly hope our operation will make it possible and attractive for at least some of your younger people to remain in the community area."

☆

ALSO ON the program was Mayor of Tecumseh Harold Easton, who officially welcomed the General Motors facility to the community. Rex Martin, circuit judge of Lenawee County, served as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Blair Bashore offered the invocation.

JOSE AGUIRRE SHOWS RUSTY BLANDEN NATIVE BOW AND ARROW

Tuttle Co. Enlarges Its Plant

By JUDY FIELDER

A 10,000-square-foot addition to H. W. Tuttle Co. has been completed, announces President H. W. Tuttle.

The addition, plus blacktopping a 9,000-square-foot shipping and receiving area on the north side of the building and doubling parking capacity on the south side, are all part of a projected improvement plan undertaken last fall.

When the company came to Tecumseh five years ago, they employed 65 people, with five from this area.

Employment now stands at 100 with 35 from the Tecumseh area. Fifteen people work in the office and 85 in production.

☆

THE COMPANY started with 22,000 - square - feet, increasing size by nearly 50% to 32,000-square-feet, which includes:

► A 2,000-square-foot addition for tool and die machinery

► A 5,000-square foot addition for steel fabricating area, where sheet steel and wire are cut before going to punch presses and farming.

Mr. Tuttle remarked, "This is the first time in 28 years that we've had proper shipping and receiving facilities."

Surplus water from production has been tied into the new storm sewer on S. Evans St. by drains on both sides of the building.

Mr. Tuttle said they hope to have curb and gutter installed, then will finish off the landscaping, with entrance sidewalks to be put in this fall.

Rotary To Screen Television Film Featuring Herrick

The film was recently shown on Jackson WILX-TV and Flint WNEN-TV.

The club welcomes guests to attend. Dinner is 1.75 at the Methodist Church at 6 p.m. Interested persons may contact Hugh Walter or Harold Easton.

Annexation to City O K for New Motel

Tecumseh Township Board accepted Mr. Carpenter's petition, forwarded last week by Council, Tuesday night.

The local businessman plans to construct a motel, just west of his restaurant, and sought annexation in order to receive city sewer and water services.

City attorney James Beardsley says all legal procedures will be completed within a week.

$100 Hoisted from Bucket

CLINTON — More than $100 in change was stolen from a coin-operated pool table and an undetermined amount from a cigarette vending machine at the Bucket Tavern Friday morning.

There was no evidence of a breaking and entering, troopers said. Both machines were badly damaged.

Lavish Project Proposed

A lavish restaurant, approximately 6,000-square-feet in size, has been planned for a site just east of Billington Corners, where M-50 and 52 cross.

Thomas Corkery, Tecumseh funeral director, has formulated the project.

Dining facilities for about 300 are contemplated, with about 150 for a dining room and 150 for a bar section. The restaurant's exterior will consist mainly of stone and glass.

MR. CORKERY'S presentation also included a request for a transfer of a vacated SDM license, held by Chauncey Harrison, who 12 years ago operated a tavern on the Corners.

Several board members voiced favorable comments about the restaurant, but tabled any action until the Aug. 4 meeting, giving the board more time to review the plans.

If final approval is given, construction is expected to start the middle of August with completion scheduled for next spring.

•

2 Seek SDM License OK from Township

James B. Fielder and Harry T. Teets recently sought approval of their application for SDM license from the Raisin Township board.

The two men hope to build a bar-restaurant on Raisin Center Hwy. south of Tecumseh.

The matter was tabled until the zoning freeze in Raisin Township is lifted.

Interest was voiced by the board when Mr. Fielder and Mr. Teets explained the theme of the building, which is based on the history of the area.

2 Men Sought for Non-Support

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of two local men who have been charged with neglecting their families here.

Whereabouts of the two men — Charles Huber, gone since June 30, and Marvin Patterson, since May 1 — are unknown.

The charge against each is neglect and failure to support their families. The warrants were signed by their wives.

Junkets for Rusty and Jose Promoted by Uncle Norris

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Jose Aguirre, 15, of Quito, Ecuador is a houseguest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Blanden this summer.

Not the usual exchange program, according to Russell, 16-year-old son of the Blandens, the boy's uncle worked this one out.

Rusty's uncle and the doctor's brother, Norris Blanden, who is employed by Owens Illinois Glass Co. in Toledo met Jose or Pepe's uncle, Miquel Espanosa, while on a business trip to South America.

Senor Espanosa is also an Owens Glass representative.

Through him Mr. Blanden met Pepe's mother, Mrs. Aguirre, who said that if he knew of an American boy who would like to spend some time in South America, she would like to have him come to their home.

Thus it was that Rusty spent two months last summer in Quito and Pepe is returning the visit this year.

The handsome teen-ager arrived at Willow Run Airport Sunday. Coming from a city of 500,000 people, he finds Tecumseh somewhat smaller than he had imagined but remarked that the people are "very nice."

Having had three hours of English each week since he first started school some nine years ago, Pepe is able to understand and speak the language fairly well.

He did attend the Cardinal Spellman Catholic School and now goes to the Academia Militar Ecuador where he will be in a class to compare with tenth grade here.

His father is an "eteco" — sells German big equipment such as diesel engines that might be used to build highways. Pepe has two brothers and one sister at home.

Pepe was surprised at the size of the school here since in his country most schools are private ones and not nearly as large.

Russell explained that in Ecuador they have two classes, the Incas who are the working class and the Spanish who are usually wealthier, mainly because of their education.

Frequently homes have several servants, there are four in the Aguirre residence.

Mrs. Blanden remarked that the young Ecuadorian has adjusted so well in only two days at the Blanden residence. He seems to enjoy the food, especially the cherries from the tree in the yard.

He had never had them before though lots of fruits grow at his home, oranges, grapefruit and many that do not grow in this country.

Rusty said that he did not

Three comments from Michigan leaders have lauded the coming of Fisher Body to Tecumseh.

United State Senator Pat McNamara said: "It is a pleasure to join the residents of the Tecumseh area in welcoming the new Fisher Body upholstery trim plant to the community. Location of the plant in Michigan reflects the confidence of General Motors Corporation in the future of our state and in the continuing healthy condition of the national economy."

Congressman George Meader commented: "Congratulations to Tecumseh and General Motors Corp. for the establishment of the Fisher Body upholstery trim plant at Tecumseh. I am sure that a sound and excellent corporation and a wonderful community will enjoy prosperity and many pleasant experiences in the years to come. I hope to be able to attend the ground breaking ceremonies on July 9."

State Senator Elmer Porter noted: "I welcome with a warm heart and glad hand to Fisher Body for locating in Tecumseh. I wish the greatest success for the ones that made this possible. What is good for Fisher Body should be good for Tecumseh and Lenawee County."

'Twas members of the Little Garden Club that got blisters from weeding at Tecumseh Acres School. Inadvertently The Herald printed the story that the Hospital Auxiliary were the weeders. Confusion! All but one are members of both clubs.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Liersaph and children of Pittsburgh, Pa. have returned to Tecumseh to complete the vacation they started last year at this time.

The couple came to Hayes State Park in August, 1963 to camp but their plans were cut off completely the first night when Mr. Liersaph suffered a heart attack and was confined to Herrick Memorial Hospital for six weeks.

The four older boys went back to Pa. and Mrs. L., pregnant at the time, remained with her husband and the two found Tecumseh people quite friendly.

The couple arrived Tuesday with their family and were houseguests of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Cook before continuing their tour of Michigan. This time the Liersaphs are not camping since they have their six-month old baby, Steven, with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Hall of Geneva, N. Y. arrived Tuesday to visit Mrs. Floyd Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Joliff and family are moving to the home they purchased at 504 Murray Drive from 806 Shady Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walter and daughter, Virginia, are guests this week of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Greiman.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer House attended the Billy Graham Crusade in Columbus, O. Saturday evening. They were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gainey. Mr. Gainey was one of the counselors at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mohr attended the annual meeting of the Hiawatha Club at Engadine. They were away from June 25 until July 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon LaLonde, Sr. returned Sunday from two weeks vacation near Harrison. Mrs. Don VanCamp and four children spent the weekend with the LaLondes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCarty left Thursday morning for their home in Bakersfield, Calif., after several weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Albert Tonneberger, and brother, Robert Welch, and their families. During their stay here they went to the World's Fair and toured the eastern states with Mrs. Tonneberger and her son, Jack. The McCartys were also present at the wedding of James Tonneberger and Karen Treglawn in Allen Park Saturday. Sunday a family reunion was held in their honor at the home of Harold Kuder in Saline with relatives present from Detroit, Lansing, Saline, Ypsilanti and Tecumseh.

A farewell party for Ricky Duffin was held Thursday afternoon and evening at a Wamplers Lake cottage by Linda Easton, assisted by Kay Becker. Swimming and games were enjoyed by 20 guests. Only problem, Ricky did not arrive until refreshment time, having to process pictures of Fisher Body ground-breaking for The Herald. The young people did attend the dance, but missed Frankie Avalon by about 10 minutes. Ricky and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duffin, Michael and Diane, moved to Lapeer Monday.

House guests at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Blair Bashore last week were Professor and Mrs. Donald Bashore and daughters of Bloomsburg, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. James Haines of Bondurant, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith spent the weekend in Blenheim, Canada, to attend the 325th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne with other Orangemen, who originally came from the northern part of Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Crawford and son, Bobbie, of Big Rapids, spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sebring.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rudd and four children attended New York World's Fair last week. They also went to Pittsburgh, Pa., to visit relatives and returned home Sunday.

think Ecuador is as advanced scientifically as the U.S. but the people are very friendly. They swim there but they never wear shorts other than at the beach.

He said that the elevation at Quito is 10,000 feet above sea level and the climate is like spring most of the time. In the summer it is dry, only rained twice while he was there last year, but in the winter it rains frequently.

Naturally the homes have no central heating but beds are warmly covered since the nights are quite cold.

Pepe brought a gift of weapons for Rusty made by the natives of the Amazon jungle from Chonta wood.

Postmaster for Addison Being Picked

There will be a meeting of the Lenawee County Democratic Committee at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 16, in the Court House at Adrian.

All petitions which are being circulated for candidates, must be turned in at this meeting.

Action will be taken on the permanent appointment of a postmaster for Addison.

Information on redistricting and future plans will be discussed.

New Curb Solution to Problem

A 600-foot section of N. Union St., just south of Nokomis St., is being narrowed three feet.

To start with, the original grade for sidewalks on the west side of the street was too high.

About one year ago, the city checked with property owners to see if they would go along with lowering the walks, which would raise havoc with lawns and driveways. They weren't too happy over the idea.

In order to get cars in and out — because of the sharp slope — individual culverts had been built with each driveway, actually extending drives into the street.

AN ALTERNATE solution and much less expensive was to narrow the street by placing new curb along the 600-foot length and eliminate the culverts.

Sometime this summer, N. Union from Brown St. to the proposed Pontiac Trail in Kirby Heights, will be given a complete bituminous concrete permanent covering.

Parking will probably have to be restricted to one side of Union, states Mr. Zorn.

The entire project is being done at city expense, including a top soil covering for the old curb and opening between it and the new one.

Stauffer Co. Delays Initial Construction

Current expansion operations at the Weston plant of Stauffer Chemical Company has delayed initial work in the new Anderson Chemical plant on Sutton Rd.

Construction work for the new plant, three miles south of Tecumseh, is expected to start within the next week or 10 days.

The company also has decided to remodel and preserve the "Old Sutton Place," an old charming colonial brick house, and actually use it, probably for offices.

VOICE of THE HERALD

A Great Team Effort

Joe Hainline, Fisher's advertising manager and public relations chief, was master of ceremonies. Many will remember his melodious voice as a top-flight newscaster some years back with WJR in Detroit.

Everyone on the groundbreaking program was on hand, the VFW color guard was ready to raise the flag and more than 1,000 spectators set for the show.

EIGHT-PAGE PICTURE SUPPLEMENT ON FISHER GROUNDBREAKING INCLUDED WITH THIS EDITION

But down Occidental Hwy., as far as Joe could see, there was a massive traffic jam, hundreds of last-minute-starting people, snaking slowly along as the line pulled into the parking area.

Joe wanted to get things going, yet he didn't want to have all those others miss anything. So he delayed as long as he could, all the while thinking, "Wow, these Tecumseh people are really turning out. Isn't it wonderful!"

Joe finally opened things, and the short wait was well worth it. Before the agenda had gotten very far along, more than 2,000 were jammed around the speakers' platform and under the cool shade of the mammoth refreshment tent.

Gov. Romney lauded General Motors and its Fisher Body division, adding this was a lot more fun than the political jam session going on in San Francisco — and to which he had to return shortly.

When Mr. Gathman wound up his talk, he and Gov. Romney stepped off the stage to an electric detonator plunger. Over the public address system Mr. Hainline gave a count-down — 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 — then the Gathman-Romney team let her rip.

"Wham!" went a cache of dynamite 150 yards from the crowd and did they love it. On came three earth movers and the excitement swelled. As it turned out, when the show was officially over, nobody seemed at all anxious to leave. There was a festive air and the guests were certainly enjoying it.

Who gets the credit for this wonderful affair?

Well, as in any such giant effort, a raft of people played many parts. Topping the list would have to be the civic committee led by banker "Pat" Meadows. Starting on the job almost two months ago, this group flawlessly fielded hundreds of details.

Mayor Harold Easton played a key role as the city's official representative. The Herald must bow modestly for keeping the area informed of the event.

Business folks jumped in as they decorated windows with signs screaming "Tecumseh Welcomes GM Fisher Body." Don Johnson got the band together and the VFW had its color guard on hand. Tecumseh Police Chief Murell Clark and Lenawee County Sheriff Bob Stites are to be congratulated for the way they directed their men in assisting guests park and guiding the flow of traffic.

Four Tecumseh boosters hosted a delightful banquet at the Country Club for General Motors' executives with merchants and professional people as guests. To show the community's warm feeling for all of Lenawee County, an Adrian man, Judge Rex Martin, was chosen to be toastmaster and he did a grand job.

Even the weatherman was in there pitching. Thursday dawned cool and overcast. By noon the sky was still slate gray. But suddenly, along about mid-afternoon, out popped a brilliant sun and from that point on it was balmy.

In handing out bouquets, we mustn't forget the fellows of Fisher Body, who handled everything at the site, including refreshments, speakers' platform — even staging a practice dynamite blast about noon so that picture angles could be lined up for later in the day.

Folks in Tecumseh and at General Motors will not soon forget the groundbreaking for the Tecumseh plant.

Theresa Pickens Weds Dick Wells on Saturday

White gladioli and carnations filled altar vases at the First Methodist Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Theresa M. Pickens and Dick H. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bruckner, aunt and uncle of the bride, of Benton Harbor, were hosts for the reception at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Will Work in Literature at Convention

Kenneth Ball of the Tecumseh congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has received an assignment to work in the Literature department at the forthcoming district convention of Jehovah's Winesses to be held July 23-26 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Mr. Ball has been associated with Jehovah's Witnesses for the past 25 years and serves in Tecumseh as Magazine-Territory Servant and Bible Study Conductor.

Mr. Ball says that he and his family have been looking forward to this convention since it was announced in the early part of April.

"Each year we attend one of the conventions arranged by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, New York, international headquarters for Jehovah's Witnesses," Mr. Ball said.

"Many will be held in other countries also," he said. "Our family always serves in some capacity at a convention because all work is done by the Witnesses themselves on a voluntary basis.

"Our main reason for attending is to receive instruction on the application of Bible principles in every day lives to improve our ability to preach the news of God's Kingdom to others," he added.

"One of the highlights of the Detroit convention," Mr. Ball said, "will be the presence of Mr. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, who will give the main lecture at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 26, entitled "Peace Among Men of Good-Will" or Armageddon, Which?"

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

I CAN SHAPE THE FUTURE

When I watch the stone mason at his trade . . . then I'm sure I can shape a stone. If . . . I had the right tools! If . . . I could apply just the right driving force!

But my stone always splinters, shatters.

It should be easier to shape the future. Tomorrow seems so formless, so pliable.

Yet there are so many tools. Which to use? So many kinds of force, of power. Which will shape, not destroy, my hopes?

I am realizing fast that the vital tools must be spiritual. My Church is training me to understand, to use them.

And centuries of Christian heritage convince me that the driving force ought to be spiritual. A Power that flows from God . . . is grasped by faith . . . and in the reverent hands of dedicated men will shape — rather than shatter — tomorrow.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

JEAN HALL reflects on your Decorating Problems

DEAR MRS. HALL:

How do I choose a color scheme for my home? MRS. KMB.

DEAR MRS. KMB:

It is impossible to give clear-cut advice on this subject. Actually every color is pleasing and becoming to somebody.

To paint the walls, choose a color you like and combine it with colors that harmonize.

Carry your favorite color through the whole painting scheme making it dominate in one room and subdued in another, but keep continuity.

A very strong color will have to be offset by a paler or more neutral color in a large area.

If your favorite color is a brilliant, heavy one, you should think of it in terms of accent. An upholstered chair or sofa pillows would be an answer.

When choosing your paint it is wise to first shop for your drapery fabric and then use the sample to obtain your paint so that they will harmonize.

Kustom Kraft will loan all samples to you for your convenience.

Call for an appointment and we will bring them into your home for a consultation, or come in and browse around to see what is available.

With over 5,000 samples of drapery, upholstery and slipcover fabric, we feel sure we can meet your demands.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

Sixty-five senior citizens attended the monthly get-together at the Community Center last Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m. The surprise activities planned by the committee were enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by the Tecumseh playground directors.

Following the activities, over 50 senior citizens boarded the two buses provided them by the Fisher Body groundbreaking committee. (A special thanks to those who made the buses available. It was greatly appreciated by all).

The next seniors' session will be picnic-type on Thursday, Aug. 6. It is planned for the lawn behind the Community Center, and rumor has it that the Tecumseh Teen Club has a special surprise planned to help the seniors have a good time.

Over 275 swimmers have started their lessons in the second session. Registration is still open for the third session, which will start in two weeks.

Rain Keeps Golf Scores Clean - Low

Last week everyone was praying for rain and Wednesday night we got it.

Only thing wrong was that the Tecmseh-Clinton-Macon golf league was praying for it for Thursday night, Wednesday being their night to play.

Actually, the rain was warm with no wind and the scores didn't seem to be affected by it.

In fact, several members came in with the lowest scores and cleanest toenails they'd had this year.

There were no "holes-in-one" last week but Chuck Allen scored the second eagle of the year.

Recreation Is Market for Farmer

The American farmer is the most successful farmer in the world. One reason is that he is always ready to capture new markets for his products.

The door to another new market has now been opened to him — perhaps the most lucrative of all.

City people who don't have room to play, hike, swim, or camp are looking for outdoor fun and are willing to pay for it.

Land owners or operators who want to know more about this coming business boom, should ask the local representative of the Soil Conservation Service, or the local office of other agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, for a copy of AIB 277, "Rural Recreation Enterprises for Profit".

Just off the press, this publication lists and describes the many ways to start in the recreation business and take advantage of the increasing demand for fun in the sun.

The local SCS office, 103 Federal Bldg., Adrian, has copies, W. H. Barclay, Work Unit Conservationist said.

The publication points out the opportunities for income from vacation farms and ranches, picnic and sports areas, fishing waters, camping, shooting preserves, and cottage and recreation sites and the like.

It discusses legal angles and financing, what to charge, how to advertise, and how to deal with customers.

And it tells of the assistance available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and other public agencies.

Hay Ride, Hot Dogs and Games

CLINTON — A hay ride with 25 guests was held Saturday evening by Nancy and Linda Marsh, daughters of Mrs. Charlie Noragon, and Christene and Gayle Johnson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson.

► A home run by Ronald Randolph in the fifth inning made the difference in a pitchers' duel when Police edged Kiwanis, 1-0.

Randolph and Robin Hatch combined to pitch a two-hitter, striking out 13 between them. Rich Schuyler was the losing pitcher. He fanned six and gave up only two hits.

Kenny Pieh had a triple for Kiwanis, but was stranded on third base.

The leading hitter of this game was Billy Damon, who went 2-for-3.

An outstanding fielding play was made by Mike Tilton of Credit Union to stop a rally by Union. With runners on first and second, he made a running catch in right field and doubled the runner at first base.

► Scoring five runs on seven hits in the fifth inning, Union came from behind to defeat Kiwanis, 6-3.

Kiwanis scored all its runs on a home run with two mates aboard by Ken Pieh.

Jim Smith Finishes 3rd in Gliding Championship

Jim Smith returned to Tecumseh Saturday after an unsuccessful attempt to capture the national scoring title, which he won in 1961.

The Tecumseh architect finished third in the 31st annual United States Soaring Championships last week at McCook, Neb.

The winner was Richard Johnson of Dallas, Texas, who did not capture a daily contest, but always scored high.

After the first day of the contest, Mr. Smith held the lead with Mr. Johnson not far behind in third place. Two days later Mr. Johnson moved into second place.

The two stayed in first and second places until the seventh day of the competition when Mr. Johnson took over first place with a 52 mile flight in poor soaring conditions. He kept the lead for the rest of the way.

JIM FELL BACK to third place on the last day. He was passed by Wally Scott of Odessa, Texas, who finished only 42 points ahead of Mr. Smith.

Mr. Johnson's highest score was 981 out of a possible 1,000. His consistency was shown by his scores which were 944, 858, 966, 873, 977, 981, 844, and 881.

Mr. Johnson had 7,801 points, Mr. Scott, 7,679, and Mr. Smith, 7,637.

Historic Grave Markers

By CLARA WALDRON

Tecumseh's Brookside cemetery is dotted with official military grave markers but there is one that has gone unnoticed.

Under the tall pine trees, at the back, is a white headstone whose weathered lettering reads, "Col W. W."

On a gray granite shaft nearby is a more complete inscription, "Col Henry Hewitt; Nov. 8, 1851; aged 90; Formerly of Venice, N.Y."

Perhaps in the records of that New York town and certainly in those of the War Department at Washington there are more details of the military life of Tecumseh's one veteran of the Revolutionary War, but those who once knew them here are gone.

All that is currently known of him is that he came to Tecumseh, as an elderly man, to spend his last days with his two sons, Charles and Henry L.

He must, however, have been a very young colonel, only 22 at the very close of the war. That would seem to indicate ability.

If we may judge from the activities of his sons, ability was characteristic of the Hewitts. There was scarcely a worthwhile project of Tecumseh's life during the 1830s and '40's in which they did not take part.

Evidently they were merchants; but the "Tecumseh Literary Institute," then the town's high school, names Charles as one of its trustees, while Henry L. was a charter member of the "Tecumseh Lyceum," the first culture club and library of the community.

Both were part owners of the town's first newspaper and their names appear in many transactions, including a mill and a foundry.

The Hewitt home, whether Charles or Henry's we do not know, was red brick and sandstone, with a dignified colonial doorway and stood, well back from the street, on the south side of E. Chicago Blvd. near the present location of Proctor's Shoe store.

When the street was built up in later years it was hemmed in between store buildings, a charming green recess with flagstone walk and wrought iron fence. Then, in 1929, it was torn down and with it, vanished the last trace of a once distinguished Tecumseh family.

Not quite the last trace, however, for if the town had forgotten the Hewitts, their descendants had not forgotten the town and the Tecumseh Library had been the recipient of a collection of valuable reference books, the gift of a Mr. Tefft Hewitt of Pittsburgh. Even today one may encounter a volume with a "Tefft Hewitt" name plate, for these were books of lasting value.

ANOTHER hero of the American Revolution, who is buried in this community, has a more impressive memorial erected to his services. The Rev. Jeheil Wisner was perhaps more fortunate in having permanently located descendants.

Like Col. Hewitt, he came to Michigan to be with his family, that of Abraham and Sarah Wisner and the more than 200 acres of land they purchased in Franklin township, in 1832, is still owned by the family.

There, in a little private cemetery on Wisner Highway, the Rev. Jeheil was buried in 1839, aged 77 years; and there the "Association of Wisners" in 1924 placed a beautifully shaped boulder which fittingly came from the Wisner farm.

He came from Niagara County, N.Y. and all his war service was in that state. Like most other patriots of the time he enlisted for several short tours of duty, sometimes for only a few days, sometimes for several weeks.

That he was talented is attested by a story that has come down through the family, regarding an experience he had while still in New York state.

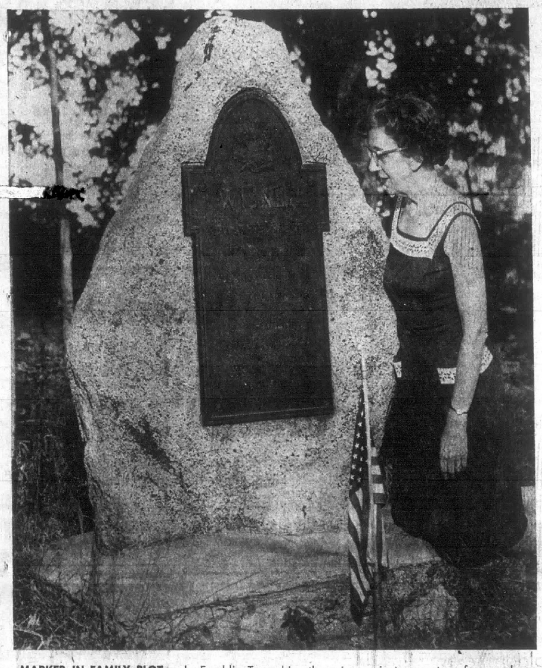
Followed by wolves, he took refuge in a tree for the night, and fearing he might go to sleep and fall to his death he took as a text the "Sermon on the Mount" and preached a sermon that lasted until morning.

His eloquence was sufficient to keep at least the preacher awake.

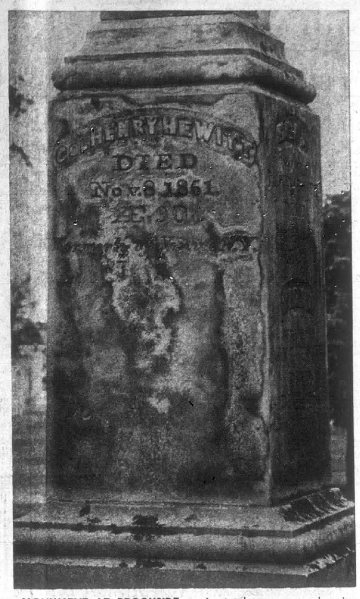
With his family he traveled to Michigan with an ox team, stopping first for a short time in Clinton where both he and his son were very active in building the first Baptist church of that village.

He is said to have also preached the first sermon in Franklin township.

Although no other members of the family may be buried there, the plot will be a permanent one and with its dignified memorial, it is a source of pride to Mrs. Clayton Greenwald and the other descendants of the Rev. Jeheil.



MARKER IN FAMILY PLOT — In Franklin Township, there is a private cemetery for members of the Wisner family on the farm settled by them more than 132 years ago. One of the clan's descendants, Mrs. Clayton Greenwald, studies the marker over the grave of the Rev. Jehiel Wisner, who served in the American Army during the Revolutionary War. The monument is impressive and at its top shows the Wisner family coat of arms, followed with a large "Wisner." The rest of the text reads: "Rev. Jehiel Wisner, 1762-1839, American Soldier 1779-1781 and his wife, Susanna Chandler. Adam C. Wisner, 1799-1867, and his wife, Sara Wisner. Came from Niagara County, New York, by ox team across Canada to Michigan in 1832 and settled on this farm. Erected 1924 by Association of the Wisners."



MONUMENT AT BROOKSIDE — A stately grave marker in Brookside Cemetery shows the spot where Revolutionary soldier, Col. Henry Hewitt's body rests. He died in 1861 and as the stone notes, was "formerly of Venice, N. Y."

Veep Possibility To Ride Showboat

LOWELL — The Lowell Showboat was in the happy but just a little uncomfortable position of contemplating a visit from a possible vice-presidential nominee.

This situation arose when Congressman Gerald R. Ford of Grand Rapids, accepted an invitation from the Showboat for himself and his wife to be guests of honor on the final night of the Showboat's July 20-25 run.

Congressman Ford said he would be happy to ride the Showboat when it comes around the bend in the Flat River for the final night's performance.

Meanwhile Sen. Barry Goldwater, the favorite to win the Republican nomination for president in the GOP convention, views Ford as one of the two top candidates for the vice presidential nomination.

Among Showboat workers questions kept popping up like, "Do you suppose they'll have a destroyer full of Secret Service men escorting the Showboat?" . . . and . . . "Wonder how many ringers the Secret Service will put in the Showboat chorus?" . . . or . . . "Do you think LIFE will cover the Showboat if Jerry makes it?"

Tecumseh football fans will have a chance to see the Detroit Lions in action on Aug. 1 — and also contribute to a worthy cause.

The annual intra-squad game, pitting the offensive and defensive units against each other, will be held this year at the University of Detroit stadium, just one week before the Lions open the exhibition season against the Washington Redskins.

Proceeds from the tilt will be set aside in a trust fund for the college education of the four children of the late Ray "Scooter" McLean.

The ducats are being sold on a first come, first serve basis — no reserve seats — and fans arriving early undoubtedly will take the best seats.

Extension Group Tours Capitol Building

Eleven members of the Raisin Center Extension Study Group were in Lansing July 8 to tour the capitol building. While there they met Senator Elmer Porter.

After lunch they toured the Boys' Training School where they were impressed with the educational and rehabilitation facilities.

They learned that though not too many boys complete their high school education, they still attend a trade school for printers or mechanics.

Mrs. Leonard Harsh made arrangements for the day.

Ned Rosacrans in Naval Air at Lakehurst

LAKEHURST, N. J. — Ned B. Rosacrans, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned M. Rosacrans, 216 N. Oneida St., is based at the Naval Air Test Facility here.

Rosacrans assists in the maintenance of aircraft and other aeronautical equipment.

The Facility is a research and development activity responsible for the test and evaluation of aircraft catapult and arresting gear equipment.

Seven Scouts and Three Leaders from Tecumseh Attend Scout Jamboree

By PAUL STONER

Fifty thousand Boy Scouts and Explorers from all over the United States will form 1,200 troops of the Sixth National Boy Scout Jamboree in Valley Forge, Pa., Friday, July 17.

In the 2,000-acre state park where General Washington and his army suffered the long, hard winter of 1777, the boys and their leaders will be demonstrating scout skills.

They will compete among themselves in the different phases of scouting.

Not only scouts from the U. S., but boys from all over the world are taking part, including scouts from Canada, Great Britain, and other countries of the United Kingdom, Mexico, Philippines and Japan.

Representing the Wolverine Council, composed of the Le-Nap-e District of Lenawee County and Custer District of Monroe County will be 40 boys of Troop 64, with seven from Tecumseh.

☆

LOCAL scouts participating are Brad Brees, Reed Skinner, Tom Witt, Glenn Stoner and Lynn George from Troop 73, David Laidlaw from Troop 4 and Paul Stoner from Post 87.

Wednesday they checked into the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York and proceeded by subway to the World's Fair, where they spent the rest of the day.

Thursday they will take a morning tour of New York and leave by bus in the afternoon for the Jamboree, which will last from July 17-23.

The next day they will break camp, tour Philadelphia, then return to Washington, where they will leave for Monroe by train, and arrive at approximately 6:30 a.m. July 26.

COLORFUL SPORT — Most every Sunday folks can watch multi-colored parachutes drift earthward around the Meyers airport as members of the Chuting Angels Sports Parachute Club perform. They were outstanding on the Fourth of July. Lou Schroeder, who is shown on ground, was the fellow who dropped onto the Pony League field and qualified to pull the winning ticket for the Trip-for-Two to the World's Fair.

'Streetcar' Rolls Smoothly

By ROBERTA HUNT

Gerald Blanchard's ability and success as a director at the Clark Lake Playhouse is evident throughout his current production "A Streetcar Named Desire."

The play centers around the deterioration of a human being. A once wealthy southern belle school teacher, Blanche DuBois, comes to New Orleans to visit her younger sister and husband, actually attempting to escape her past as a prostitute.

Upon her arrival, Miss DuBois is appalled to find her sister living in a two-room apartment in the French quarter and worst of all married to a "common Palock."

As the play progresses and tension increases within the Kowalski household, the inevitable past comes to light and Blanche escapes in her world of fantasy, finally having to be committed to an institution.

The emotional atmosphere completely captivated the audience as they too struggled to help Blanche return to reality only to see her sink deeper into her world of dreams.

Walt Gable's realistic portrayal as Stanley, the outspoken burly Polack brother-in-law, was magnificent. His nonchalance and brassiness were most effective and was the highlight of humor.

☆

IN SUPPORTING roles, Mary Lou Blanchard did an excellent job in her performance as Stella Kowalski the contented dominated housewife and sister.

Dr. Robert Murray of Tecumseh did a splendid job in his part as Mitch, a bachelor poker friend of Stanley's who becomes fascinated by Blanche's refinement and unusual ways.

Ruth McCarty and Phil Stephany as Steve and Eunice Hubble, neighbor of the Kowalskis, brought life in city dwellings to the stage.

Final performances are Thursday, Friday and Saturday with curtain at 8:30 p.m.

Bomb Blasts Youth

He told Clinton State Police the device did not fire when he expected it to and that he put his hand inside to locate the trouble — it went off.

Stephen was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital for treatment.

LOWER FEED COSTS. In a high energy ration, such as a full feed of corn, new urea supplements help cut feed costs. One is Purdue 64. The 1,000-pound formula consists of 360 pounds dehydrated alfalfa meal, 280 pounds molasses, 221 pounds urea, 104 pounds bone meal and 35 pounds iodized salt, plus vitamin A, zinc and cobalt. Even though additional grain is required to furnish energy lost by feeding urea, one may save 3c per day per steer.

BATCH-IN-BIN DRYING. If your harvest volume will be too large for economical drying with an in-storage system, a conversion to a batch-in-bin system may be in order. Since grain is batch dried in one bin and moved to auxiliary bins, you'll need a larger burner to step up heater capacity, suggest to move grain after drying, and distributors at $410 and for a 27-footer, $800.

DAIRY BREEDING DESERVES MORE ATTENTION. Minnesota scientists say genetics account for only about 10% of the difference between dairy herd milk production averages. This does not mean breeding is less important, but means farmers have been doing a better job of management. With a sound breeding program, you should improve herd milk production by at least 1% yearly. Remember 10% is only an average, breeding in your herd may make up a higher portion of production than this.

CARBURETOR ADJUSTMENT. Engineers estimate that 10% of all petroleum fuel burned on the farm is wasted by faulty carburetor adjustment. You can remedy this easily by following your operator's manual.

Kissing Hollow

(Editor's Note: Many in the city have heard of Kissing Hollow but not why it is so called. The spot is located on the Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., just north of River Acres Dr., and south of Aebersold Dr. An interesting account of The Legend of Kissing Hollow was found among the effects of Dess Holdridge, grandmother of Lawrence Holdridge, 201 S. Democratic St. Here it is shared with Herald readers.)

About one mile and a half from the center of the village of Tecumseh on the road from Tecumseh to Clinton the traveler crosses a little ravine through which, in pioneer days there was a rippling stream that flowed into the beautiful River Raisin.

There is a legend of how this came to be Kissing Hollow.

Now a legend is truth and fiction blended, and so nicely are they blended that one cannot tell where truth ends and fiction begins nor where fiction ends and truth begins.

In short a legend is a historical novel.

The legend was written by a Frenchman who with his two brothers were drafted into the French army under Napoleon Bonaparte. The brother deserted, crossed the Atlantic, and come to Tecumseh with the French and Indian voyageurs a little more than one hundred years ago.

THE LEGEND was found by an old fisherman while he was digging for angleworms in the sand at the site of the old French and Indian trading post at the high banks of the Raisin just across the little ravine that is a few rods east of where the old Standish saw mill stood east of Brownville.

The legend was deciphered with great difficulty and then only by the aid of a Pho-neu-di-scope, so delicately construcied that by its aid one can quite distinctly hear what another person thinks although no words are spoken.

Thus though one speaks German or French by use of this delicate instrument one speaking English will hear the thought that is in the other man's mind although he does not understand the other man's mind.

☆

THE DECIPHERED legend reads, "On September 25, 1802 the Indian Chief Tecumseh married the beautiful daughter of the great Indian Chief Redjacket. It was on a September afternoon when "The world is full of the wine of beauty".

When the woodland was changing its dress of glossy green to the gayly tinted leaves of autumn.

When the wood nymphs were loosening the leaves from the parent streams and on them riding gayly down.

When the pure air makes the youthful blood rush through the veins like rivers,

SUCH WAS the September afternoon when Tecumseh, the Indian chief, with fifty young men and fifty maidens left the Indian village on the right bank of the Raisin and took the Trail that led from Tecumseh to Clinton and thence to the great northwest.

Tecumseh himself gayly dressed, and with his gayly dressed and frolicsome attendants started out to meet Redjacket and his daughter attended with a like number of gayly dressed young men and maidens coming on the trail from the northwest.

It so happened that the two companies met one on either side of the ravine.

Across the ravine and over the stream two monster oaks had fallen, old monarchs of the forest, and from either way and lay close together side by side.

On these fallen trees the trail ran across the stream. It was at that hour of the afternoon when the shadow of the elm tree on the north side of the stream falls directly on the stream. Redjacket with his daughter's left hand in his right came walking one on each log.

TECUMSEH approached and the three met under the shadow of the elm tree directly over the center of the stream and then Redjacket gave to Tecumseh his beautiful daughter and Tecumseh taking her right hand in his gently lifted their hands above her head and kissed her on the lips then they turned on the trail, followed by Redjacket.

So it was with each Indian warrior and Indian maiden from either side by twos approached and met over the stream and under the shadow of the elm and each warrior exchanged his mate, and kissed the maiden that he met upon the cheek, then followed Tecumseh on the trail.

And says the Frenchman, who witnessed the event, there never can or will be a more joyous and happy crowd.

☆

THEY FOLLOWED the Trail back to the village and to the dancing ground on the east high bank of the Raisin about 30 rods west of the Standish sawmill and there they ate the feast and danced the marriage dance.

Ever since then til now the ravine has been called Kissing Hollow.

And it is now and has been ever since that day, the privilege if not the duty of every gentleman to kiss the lady that may be with him, as they cross the bridge in Kissing Hollow.

But what is most singular of all is the air of Kissing Hollow is most strangely infected.

It is said that every gentleman with a lady as soon as they enter and approach the bridge of the Hollow, is seized with an irresistible impulse. And the pleasure no where else is so delightfully felicitous.

THUS it came that the ravine is called Kissing Hollow.

Now, writes the Frenchman, I did not believe the truth of the legend until one day I was riding through Kissing Hollow when I was seized with that same irresistible impulse. And not knowing but it was some aberation of my mind I set myself to investigate. I first inquired of all the doctors in town, eleven in all including one lady. All of whom had many times rode through Kissing Hollow. Without exception they all said the experience is delicious. There is nothing like — from castor oil to red pepper.

I then inquired of all the ministers, six including two ladies. They too had all ridden through the Hollow. They all with one accord said, "The pleasure is unexpressably felicitous and if we could only preach that paradise had one half the felicity all that are in Tecumseh would go to Heaven."

I then asked fifty good substantial farmers all of whom had ridden through the Hollow, and they all said, "The pleasure is unspeakably delicious. There is nothing like it from cranberry sauce to noodles soup."

☆

LAST OF ALL I inquired of a hundred ladies, all of whom admitted that they had ridden through the Hollow. But the ladies were extremely modest. However, they said, "The air seemed to be strangely and yet deliciously infected and that gentlemen seemed to be seized with an uncontrollable impulse. The pleasures of which, they say, are indescribably felicitous.

Now with all these testimonies the truth of the legend is firmly established. And so long as "the young men for the maidens go and the rivers to the ocean flow" the ravine shall and will be called Kissing Hollow.

'Fling' Termed Smash Success

The Old Fashioned Fling moonlight party given by the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce Friday night was termed a "smashing success" by several thousand people converging downtown.

Chet Merritt, local retailer, said he felt it was the best turnout since the first moonlight sale several years ago.

Many people went downtown for a single item, but returned home with several packages, sign of good sales.

The fun started at 7 p.m. and along with bargain prices, a free street dance featured the "Insidentals", local band made up of Gary Abner, Jim Roberts, Mike Pate and Albert Reed.

Old Fashioned costume contest winners were Andrea Phillips, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah H. Phillips, 212 W. Cummins and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Badalucco of Clinton.

The Badalucco's each received $10 for best man and woman and Andrea was given $5 for best child.

Tecumseh Jaycees dunk tank reported an intake of $60, which after expenses is earmarked for the Boy Scout Cabin enlargement fund.

She added that store selections and prices were wonderful, "I think I'll come back to do some Christmas shopping. I worked in a gift shop once, but never have seen such unusual items."

Divide $500 Purse

Veryl Schill, owner, said, "We plan to keep the stock car races interesting. This helps to keep young people off the highway and out of trouble. Everyone has some speed in them and when they are allowed to use it on the clay banks, they aren't endangering their own or others' lives."

Friday, July 17, back-up races will be in the limelight. Drivers will compete in backing their cars around the track, certainly creating a lot of fun for spectators.

Mr. Schill told about an elimination race going on each Friday. Competitors, including one gal, are down to six cars at present. The last three in the race will divide a $300 purse.

Every three or four weeks, a Powder Puff race for lady drivers is held, thus giving the gals an opportunity to use their skill at the wheel.

All makes of autos are seen on the three-eighths mile high clay bank track but mostly Fords, Chevrolets and Plymouths are used.

Rules do not allow V-8 overheads, the engine must be built by the same company as the vehicle, but most drivers get a lot of money tied up in their entries. Contestants usually build up their own cars.

The speedway was started by four men interested in a place for kids to drive cars fast if they wanted and yet safely.

Mr. Schill said, "We started small but wanted to get proper authorization from the Manchester Township Board and the county insisted on modern facilities, thus our operation grew rapidly."

It took three years and $8500 just to get the clay hauled in and the track ready. Now it costs between $1000 and $1500 each year to reclay it.

"Now in the third season we have 50 to 60 cars running each week. July 3 there were 72 cars qualifying for entry for the $1100 purse. This is the most we have had. After taking out taxes, the gate receipts are divided among the drivers, according to where they place in the race," continued the owner-manager.

Schill has gradually bought out his partners in the growing business. On race nights, 35 employees are kept busy parking cars, as pit stewards, working in the concession stands and there is one flag-man and Bob Aten of Tecumseh, the announcer.

Both drivers and spectators are insured by Lloyds of London, though thus far there have been no serious accidents on the speedway. Schill said, "Anyone that is shaken up is always taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital for a check-up. We don't want to see anyone get hurt."

Each driver uses a shoulder harness and safety belt and all cars new to the track are inspected before they are allowed to run.

Schill and his wife, Louise, have a special interest in the races since they have a son, Harold, who drives his own car.

He was one of the reasons the venture was first begun. His dad said that it does help to bring young drivers' speed down on the road, because they must have a license to qualify for racing. They can't lose theirs and still expect to drive on Friday nights.

Louise manages the two concession stands, one in the pits and one for the spectators. She is assisted by a daughter, Sheile, 10.

Another son, Wesley, 14, sells programs on the grounds.

Sunday evening is always the rain date in case races aren't completed on Friday preceding.

The time trials at Manchester Speedway begin at 7 p.m. with the races following at 8:30.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

MORE SQUIRRELY TALES

It was a hot sticky afternoon — the heat had slowed us up and it was interesting to note that even our four young fox squirrels were affected. They were not running and tearing around with their usual zip.

At this writing, the sense of family togetherness, about which we spoke last week, is beginning to wear thin. As the youngsters get older, they are becoming more selfish — no more are we treated to the cute picture of two squirrels side by side, eating in the corn tree. Chasing away has replaced sharing.

Today, however, the chasing is not being done with much enthusiasm. Oh, if one comes to the corn tree or the fence and interrupts his brother's lunch, he will be run off, but it will be a half-hearted thing on both sides.

Ordinarily, these affairs are rather exciting — the squirrels dash about, either in circles or zig-zag patterns, at lightning speeds and how they chatter and scream at each other. Just now, one of the little squirrels started up the feeder post. He was obviously intending to discourage one already here and eating, but, after just peeking over the feeder's edge and receiving a dirty look, he gave up and crawled back down.

THIS CHARACTER on the feeder is so tired and sleepy that Ida and I are expecting him to doze off for a fast forty winks any minute now. He is supposedly lunching on corn, but he can't be very hungry. Each kernel is pulled off with a slow motion twist of his head and then it is chewed and chewed and chewed. Young squirrels are never the fast eaters that adults are, however, this is ridiculous — this is slowness to the point of absent-mindedness.

Occasionally, he gathers himself together and makes a stab at sitting up but soon the typical teenage slouch sets in again. Finally even this is too much effort and he drapes himself over the ear of corn. Hind legs on the feeder tray, body laying across the corn and our poor, tired little squirrel is literally eating with his elbows resting on the table. Even his eyes look sleepy; they are about half closed. Oh, no — he just unfolded himself from the ear of corn and is stretched out, laying absolutely flat right next to it. Solid comfort!

THIS MORNING we had a visitor who might be the vanguard of a new baby squirrel watching time. He was a tiny little fellow with a gloriously-long tail but to say his body was half grown would be an exaggeration.

Scampering along the fence, he surprised us by suddenly jumping to the ground; it was no ordinary jump, however, but a soaring leap, with all four legs stretched out, which brought him well into the yard. With great bravado he started for the corn tree — something was on the ground, though, and he stopped dead in his tracks. Sniffing the air gave no clues, so he decided upon direct investigation.

This was a riot to watch. With his oversized back feet beating out an Indian war dance, he sidestepped around and toward the mysterious object. It did move, so he ventured closer; reaching out with his right front paw he made jabbing motions at it. Shadow boxing!

At last, courage mustered for the supreme effort, he reached out and gingerly touched the enemy. His body was tense, ready for the counter attack, but nothing happened.

Several more frontal assaults and a rather sheepish looking baby squirrel discovered that an ear of corn was to be eaten and not fought.

So it is that we must write finish to this session of Squirrely Tales.

Resorters Enjoy Paper

It's hard enough to sell papers, but it's surprising to find that it's almost as hard to give them away.

Lee Lemerand, one of the delivery boys on The Herald's free summer lake route walked up to a man sitting in park at Vineyard Lake and asked him if he would like a paper.

The gentleman asked, "Is it 10 cents?"

Lee replied, "No, it's free."

In return, "Oh, it's only three cents! I'll take one."

An this was the problem. People are discovering that the paper is being given to them gratis. One thousand copies are distributed each week and the folks are looking forward to them.

☆

MRS. ARTHUR TAYLOR of Wamplers Lake said, "I read it from cover to cover. They do a wonderful job on a weekly paper."

She added, "If every small town could have a paper like The Herald there would be much more community interest among its citizens."

Another Wamplers Lake woman said, "I enjoy reading the paper. It has so many things about Wamplers Lake."

"This is a nice service," was also a comment.

Two children at Wolf Lake walked away from the delivery car happy, each with a paper. One had cried when the driver gave a single copy to other child. Can't have that.

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Giles and three sons moved from Kenton, O. to the home they purchased at 601 Blanchard St. June 6.

Natives of Marion, O. the family only lived in Kenton about nine months when Mr. Giles was made personnel director of Peerless Gear Corp. in Clinton.

He has been employed with the Tecumseh Products for 23 years.

The Giles with their boys, Kevin 14½, Kim 13 and Scott, 9, love to grill out-of-doors, swim, hunt and fish.

Sunday they made breakfast and lunch at Hayes State Park. Mr. Giles and his wife, Donna like to dance and her favorite pastime is bridge.

Besides swimming, the boys love to ice and roller skate.

The family dog, a pug, is known as Jo Jo.

Mrs. Giles was a member of the Child Conservation League in Marion, probably similar to Tecumseh's Child Study Club.

The family always belonged to the United Brethren Church in Marion.

CAN YOU FIND THE BISHOP? Among the players on this 1910 Tecumseh baseball team was a fellow who later became a bishop in the Methodist Church. Can you spot the Rev. Marshall Reed, who recently retired to his farm near Onsted? The old photo was brought in by Mrs. Lynn Harris, 502 W. Kilbuck St.

News from the Tecumseh Library

LORD OF THE FLIES by William Golding. This is the story of a group of boys evacuated from an atomic holocaust and marooned on a desert island where they try to establish something they call civilization. E. M. Forster says in his introduction that "it is certainly not a comforting book, but it may help a few grownups to be less complacent and more compassionate."

CONVENTION by Fletcher Knebel. The author of SEVEN DAYS IN MAY, has written a timely novel concerned with the tense emotional atmosphere of our hectic conventions and the plotting and maneuvering as the hours speed toward the final vote.

SCENT OF WATER by Elizabeth Goudge. This much-liked author has again based her story in rural England. She tells of the quest of a mature, attractive woman for personal fulfillment that have been denied her.

GUIDEBOOK TO CAMPGROUNDS by Rand McNally. An up-to-date listing of more than 8,000 campgrounds in the U. S. and Canada. Gives information on facilities and a camper's check list.

QUICK AND EASY MATH by Isaac Asimov is a genial and lucid explanation of the short cuts available, with the expenditure of just a fiftieth as much effort, that can save you many hours of tedious pencil work involved in everyday arithmetical computations.

DRIED FLOWERS FOR DECORATION by V. Stevenson. Not long ago dried flower arrangements were apt to be "dusty birds' nests". Today they can be fresh, interesting and stylish in grace and color. The author gives detailed descriptions of preservation methods, easily-grown materials, and their cultivation.

A NEW TREASURY OF NAMES FOR THE BABY by Dorothy Burton. Provides positive guidance in a lively text for the age-old problem, "What shall we name the baby?"

HOW TO CHOOSE AND USE POWER TOOLS by R. De Cristovo. For the home workshop enthusiast, this will be a valuable reference work. All the vital and necessary information about power tools is gathered into this concise, yet well-illustrated manual.

A MUSEUM OF EARLY AMERICAN TOOLS by Eric Sloane is a beautifully-sketched collection of drawings of wooden and hand-made things that our forefathers made with such patience and skill, and used with such excellent results in bringing us a better civilization.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The trade center which depends entirely on agriculture has practically vanished.

Even in the more rural areas, industry helps to supplement community economy. Problems which did not exist in the old country town arise when a farm community becomes a part-time manufacturing community.

Problems are largely a matter of communication. Larger industries have long recognized the need to establish lines of communication between the company and local citizens, employees, and community leaders.

In smaller communities, industry officials are finding that the community newspaper may do the whole job better than any combination of media. Certainly the local newspaper is less expensive than the variety of publications sometimes used to reach all levels of the local citizenry.

The local paper is carefully read by company employees, community leaders, and the general public. Communications from industry concerning labor problems, policies, plans, and current activities are carried in both news and advertising sections.

Any newspaper is glad to carry bonafide general news and feature stories about local industries. In most small communities more such news would be used if it were made available by industry.

Similarly, advertising which is concerned with the promotion of company interests can, and does, result in numerous benefits in maintaining better community and employee relations.

Handley-Spreeman Nuptials

Jane E. Spreeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Spreeman, 6501 S. Ridge Hwy., Britton and Richard A. Handley, son of Edward Handley, Sr., rural Britton and Mrs. Sydney Horwitz of Hollywood, Fla. were married June 27.

The Rev. Allison Mitchinson performed the ceremony at the Ridgeway Methodist Church.

Tall floor baskets of pink and white gladioli and Majestic daisies stood at either side of the altar. Cathedral candelabra, palm foliage and satin bows marked the chancel entrance.

Mrs. Everett Netcher accompanied Mrs. Amos Wilson as she sang two selections. Mrs. Wilson played the prelude and wedding march on the organ.

Duaine Horton served as best man and the guests were seated by Ed Handley, Jr., and Gary Spreeman, brothers of the bride and groom.

A reception was held at the Products Workers Union Hall for 500 guests where a background of palms was used to outline the bride's table.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and the groom is a graduate of Britton-Macon High School.

He is employed at the Tecumseh Products Co. and is also engaged in farming.

Following a honeymoon to Niagara Falls, northern Michigan and Canada, the couple will make their home at Brady Apartment Three for the present.

The groom's father, Edward Handley, was host for the rehearsal dinner at Don's Beef Buffet.

You'll love a

BIG, NEW, WORK-SAVING, MONEY-SAVING REFRIGERATOR-FREEZER that never needs defrosting

Today's modern refrigerator-freezers end all defrosting in both refrigerator and freezer sections. This means no frost ever . . . on food packages, ice cube trays or walls . . . no defrosting drudgery ever . . . no scraping, no chipping, no prying, no messy pans of water to empty (or spill).

In addition, the new refrigerator-freezers will:
- Store enough fresh and frozen foods to last for weeks.
- Save extra trips to the market.
- Keep leftovers fresh and tasty until needed.
- Save money because the large freezer compartment allows you to buy meats, vegetables and baked goods when prices are low.

Gov. George Romney and Fisher Body General Manager Robert Gathman teamed to set off dynamite charge.

More Than 2,000 Watch

Blast Breaks Ground

With more than 2,000 on hand, a dynamite blast signaled the start of construction on Tecumseh's new Fisher Body upholstery trim plant July 9. Fisher Body's Robert Gathman and Gov. George Romney manned the switch which set off a 22-stick charge that rattled every ear drum. From behind a rise, 400 yards away, three enormous Euclid earth movers roared into view, cutting huge chunks of soil as they rolled along beside throng of spectators.

Earlier Gov. Romney spoke, lauding the new Fisher Body layout as a "valued industrial citizen." Mr. Gathman told guests the plant would be ready in about one year. Payroll and local purchases will touch $9 million. Employees will total 1,000 with half of them women. Finished products will include seat upholstery, door trim pads, headlinings and sun visors. Annual raw material requirements will call for 200 rail carloads and 2,750 truckloads.

Tecumseh High School band provided music prior to the program. Refreshments were served from big tent in background.

Kids Flocked

When Gov. George Romney arrived for the affair, he was mobbed by youngsters who wanted to shake his hand. In turn, the governor introduced them to Robert Gathman, Fisher Body general manager (second from left), noting, "He's the fellow responsible for this plant." Security was tight, as evidenced by the presence of Tecumseh Police Chief Murrel Clark (left) and Lenawee County Sheriff Bob Stites (left of the governor), as well as state police. Others in scene are Bob Moore (behind sheriff), Tecumseh Councilman John Hamilton (next to Mr. Moore) and Gil Bursley of Ann Arbor.

Earth Movers Made Big Hit

Making a big hit with the crowd were the three huge Euclid earth movers, which roared over the site, slicing off tons of turf. The roar of the engines was deafening. When they completed two complete circuits and pulled up to a haul, youthful spectators were soon swarming all over the giants. Prior to the ceremony, Gov. Romney and Robert Gathman posed for pictures aboard a Euclid, which was making its first public appearance.

Start on GM Plant Boom for Tecumseh

BY ROBERT A. HOVING

Citizen Patriot Regional News Editor

Tecumseh — General Motors Corp. sent off its new $8,000,000 Fisher Body Division plant with a bang here Thursday.

The boom of 22 sticks of dynamite punctuated ground-breaking ceremonies for a new industry that will provide 1,000 jobs to put zing in the economy of this expanding community 40 miles southeast of Jackson.

With 2,000 persons watching, the dynamite was touched off by Robert H. Gathman, General Motors vice president and general manager of the Fisher Body Division, with an assist from Gov. George W. Romney.

Romney flew back to Michigan from San Francisco, where he was trying to hammer some of his views into the Republican platform to be presented at the GOP National Convention.

Romney, in his Tecumseh speech, hailed General Motors and its Fisher Body Division as "industrial statesmen, who have made a great contribution to the building of this state."

'MUST BE GOOD'

Romney remarked that GM's $2 billion expansion program, of which the new plant is a part, may yield as many as 50,000 jobs. "At $40,000 a job created" Romney said, "the investment like confidence."

would build a $92,000,000 plant at Woodhaven to add to his contention that the Michigan economy is burgeoning under his administration.

Romney was scheduled to make a series of appearances today at the annual Traverse City Cherry Festival.

At Tecumseh, he said: "General Motors is the world's champion as far as industrial statesmen that have made a great contribution to building this state and this nation."

Noting that General Motors is in the midst of a $2 billion dollar expansion program that will create 50,000 new jobs, Romney said: "For the first time since World War II the bulk of automotive expansion is taking place inside Michigan. There is twice as much industrial expansion going on in Michigan, or under way, as in any peacetime year."

He said Michigan is in the of "the most productive

"Twenty-five years ago," he said, "there was a very limited selection of body styles, colors, interior fabrics and other options available to the car-buying public.

"For the 1964 model run, Fisher Body is producing 137 body styles for General Motors cars and is fabricating more than 800 different interior trim combinations. Next year these numbers will be even greater."

The Tecumseh plant will contain almost 300,000 square feet of floor space. The 1,000 men and women who will work there will receive bolts of cloth and coated fabrics and convert them into seat upholstery, door trim pads, headlinings, sun visors and other soft trim items.

Annual expenditures for payroll and local purchases is expected to reach $9,000,000. The factory will be completed in about a year.

Gathman, who also spoke at a dinner in the Tecumseh Country Club, said that on the basis of Fisher Body's past experience in operations similar to that scheduled for Tecumseh, [illegible] 200 carloads and of incoming required an[illegible] take about a year to [illegible] ant's finished ner Body and assembly plants untry.

Jobs in 10 industries, hailed the new GM operation as the forerunner of accelerated future growth.

"A lot of companies out looking for new sites are likely to figure that if this town is good enough for General Motors it is good enough for them," J. W. (Pat) Meadows, president of the United Savings Bank of Tecumseh, commented.

Thirty sticks of dynamite were set off on the 200 acres of alfalfa and wheat farm land to break ground for the automotive interior trim plant which, when completed in a year, will mean 1,000 new jobs and $9 million annually in payrolls and local purchases.

Principals in the ceremonies were Gov. Romney, in a brief recess from the Republican National Convention at San Francisco; Robert H. Gathman, a General Motors vice president and Fisher Body general manager, and Mayor Harold Easton, a service station operator.

Romney expressed confidence that the new plant will become "a valued industrial citizen" of Michigan.

GATHMAN SAID that approximately 50 per cent of the employes will be women because of their skill in sewing fabrics and that the balance will be press operators, maintenance workers, material handlers and a variety of white-collar persons.

Clifford Rice, Lenawee County manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, said that during 1963 unemployment in Tecumseh was less than one per cent of the total work force employed.

The upholstery facility was a totally unexpected windfall to this community, but almost all of the other new plants have been the result of the work of local civic leaders including several companies that were lured from neighboring Adrian, 11 miles to the south.

Fisher Body, GM Greeted By 3,000 At Tecumseh

The Fisher Body Division of General Motors officially moved into the Tecumseh area Thursday for the better part of four hours, to give its newest industrial employer a hearty welcome.

From the 3,000 people on hand to watch a blast of dynamite break ground for the 200,000 square foot automotive trim plant at Occidental Highway and Gady Road, to the 250 persons at a reception and dinner later, the greetings were warm and sincere.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Well, Barry picked up all the marbles out at the Cow Palace, leaving a lot of people, me included, wondering.

Probably the smartest thing we can do is wait and listen, before charging off in any given direction.

Even so, that remark he made, "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," has a fellow groping for the definition of "liberty".

What does it mean to the Mississipian whose skin is white?

The governor has always come through strong in his appearances and especially in person.

In his frequent shots on television last week, with major questions on the line, he greatly enhanced his image to all of the United States, speaking firmly and with knowledge of the subjects.

One lady in Tecumseh, who has always gone down the line with Democratic candidates, reports she will vote for Mr. Romney this fall.

While watching the GOP convention on TV, she was so impressed with our governor that she is going to do her bit to help keep him in Lansing the next four years.

This impression could well be a common one. It will aid the governor in his bid for re-election and also go a long way to put him in line for a presidential bid come 1968.

Mr. Romney worked not particularly for a candidate, but for two items he felt should be added to the platform — a plank saying the GOP administration, if elected, would implement the civil rights law and one blackballing groups, which as a matter of course, advocate extremist measures (there's that word again) to reach desired ends.

Both Romney amendments were voted down, but he gained great stature in championing them.

Country Club Announces Big Expansion

A major expansion program at the Tecumseh Country Club is under way with the first phase of the program calling for completion of an 18-hole golf course.

Construction of six holes, in an undeveloped 48-acre site just east of the club, started Monday.

New greens and tees have already been roughed out by bulldozers. Sand and gravel for base of the green proper and fringe areas.

Each green will be large, varying in size from 5,000 to 6,000 square feet. The six new holes will consist of two par five's, two par four's, and two par three's.

The area is now planted in soybeans, some of which will be destroyed in construction of greens and tees. After the beans are harvested, the club plans to seed the fairways, roughs and tees and to plant stolons on the greens.

If plans — including a water system for the new section — progress satisfactorily, the club will have a complete 18-hole course ready for play next summer.

This will include completion of a new fairway to the present green, located directly behind the club house. Some work on the fairway was done last year.

Other construction, also listed in the woods along the year, included a new green, to-present No. Five fairway.

The club has operated a nine-hole course since Decoration Day in 1949.

☆

SECOND STAGE of the expansion program calls for additional club house facilities. No construction date has been set.

Reasons for expansion are local industrial growth, anticipated new memberships and heavy play of the present golf course.

Present membership is about 315, approximately 50 above average. Since most of the recent memberships are golfers, play on the course has more than doubled.

Committe members supervising the course expansion are Frank Rice, chairman, Robert H. Moore, Bill Hanna, C. O. Butler, Frank Purcell, Fred Randall, and Bill Furry. Al Merz is president of the club.

Brick Dean, Dundee, is construction contractor. Some of the work, such as planting the stolons, will be done by club employees.

Tap Water Runs Rusty Downtown

Many consumers of city water in the downtown and older sections of town faced the dilemma of rusty water Monday and Tuesday.

Exact cause has not yet been determined.

The city water department has been flushing mains through hydrants since Monday, and is expected to continue until the water clears.

The city received numerous complaints, but none was received from newer and outlying sections of the community.

Although many hydrants are dis[illegible]ure in the mains has been maintained.

The city's new No. 8 well has been put into use and is pumping 600 gallons per minute. Its capacity is 1,000 gallons per minute.

Water consumption has been heavy due to the current heat wave. Last weekend, over 2,300,000 gallons were used daily in the city.

SELDER EXCAVATING CREW PUSHES SANITARY SEWER PROJECT TO NORTH EVANS ST.

Sewer Project Under Way

Tecumseh's big Evans Creek Sewer Project is under way with construction of the new sanitary sewer complete from N. Maumee to N. Evans St.

The project will eventually extend west to the lift station at Sunset Dr., just off W. Chicago Blvd., and will enable contractors to develop the west and northwest section of Tecumseh in housing in the future.

Selders Excavating is the project's contractor.

Within the next few days, a 36-inch casing will be driven beneath N. Evans St. Inside the casing, the 16-inch sanitary sewer will be housed.

Once across N. Evans, the city plans to generally follow [illegible] Creek.

Some easements have not been obtained — Robert D. Moore, Dr. Carlton Cook, Orville Laidlaw, James McDowell, Carl Hale and Robert Fuller.

City officials are meeting with the residents this week.

Mr. Moore has requested a relocation of Evans Creek and a sewer connection, costing about $1,000. Council hedged on the proposal Monday night and discussed alternatives.

Cal Zorn, city manager, said that the project could continue on schedule and the Moore property skipped at this time while City Attorney James Beardsley renews negotiations.

Estimated cost of the entire project is $160,000. Engineering plans were completed last year when the city was hopeful of Federal Aid.

Any Federal Aid was discounted when red tape delayed correspondence, sometimes for several months.

200 Participate in Horse Show at Local Arena

Nearly 500 people were present for the show when Clyde Miles of Dundee won the high point trophy.

Those from the Tecumseh area who were awarded trophies were Jane Naugle, Sharon Crane, Sharon Ann Mitzner and Pat Walker.

Ribbon awards were presented to Carol Moore, Gary Gove, Sharon Crane, Jane Naugle, Jim Mobley, Diane Tilton, Pat Randolph, Sharon Ann Mitzner and Pat Walker.

Proceeds of between $100 and $150 will be used for judging material and other necessities by the club.

Herrick, Easton in Film Feature at Rotary Meet

A film presentation, featuring R. W. Herrick and Harold Easton, Tecumseh Mayor, about the economic recovery of Lenawee County was shown to Rotarians and guests Tuesday night.

Mr. Herrick, chairman of the board at Tecumseh Products, told viewers about the tremendous progress being made, and remarked, "We're going to make Lenawee County the best county in the state of Michigan in which to live."

He cited new industry, expansion of industry, growth of churches, schools, and Adrian College, and was enthusiastic about progress and prosperity in this area.

Gene Baril, newscaster for radio station WABJ, narrated portions of the film, taken by Fred Rex of the Adrian Camera Shop. Both attended the Rotary meeting with Mr. Baril explaining how a TV program was made and its purposes.

WABJ sponsored the project, televised recently by a Jackson station. The film or video tape is available for showing to other groups in the community.

3 Appraisals Are Tabled

Council tabled action on three appraisals of property needed for straightening the curve on Rogers Hwy., inside the city limits.

About 2.23 acres of property owned by James Beardsley is needed to eliminate the curve.

Appraisals were:

William Powell — $3,692.50.

Arthur Eaton — $3,500.

Glenn Kohler — $1,860.

Cal Zorn, city manager, said the present work schedule would not permit the city to do any work this year on the highway and suggested Council action at a later meeting.

50 Acres Purchased for Homes

Marsh Coulter, local businessman, has purchased 50 acres of farmland from Ray Winzeler — just west of Occidental Rd., between Chicago Blvd., and Russell Rd., for a new housing subdivision.

Construction of new homes in the area may start yet this year, but not likely until next spring.

The area will be platted for about 165 homes, with selling prices in the neighborhood of $15,000. Banas & Wrobel, Maybee contractors, will be the builders.

Mr. Coulter says he will petition Council for annexation for the use of city sewer and water. The petition will be the second from a township property owner to seek annexation this year.

Harvey Carpenter's property of about 16 acres, was officially annexed to the city Monday night by Council. He plans a new motel next to his restaurant.

Zoning Change to Commercial Is Requested

A public hearing for Aug. 17 was scheduled Monday night by Council for the purpose of rezoning property owned by Arthur and Martha Brady at the west corner of Occidental and Russell Rds.

Mr. Brady, who attended the meeting, is seeking a change in zoning from Residential A to Commercial.

Eagles Lose $50 in Theft

Another robbery at the Eagles Lodge early Tuesday morning resulted in a loss of at least $50, according to lodge officers.

Tuesday's robbery was the second within a month for the Eagles, who lost over $100 in June.

Custodian and club treasurer Earl Harrison discovered the theft this week when he opened up Tuesday morning.

A large jar of money — for the the lodge's annual picnic — was taken off the bar, and the coin box was ripped off a pool table.

Change in the cash register was not bothered.

Follow Candidates Like Ball Players

The voting and non-voting public was discussed by Professor Kenneth E. Hoffman Monday night at the seminar on political parties.

Prof. Hoffman stated a prime reason for not voting is that people feel their vote doesn't count.

He added that in some Michigan elections the average vote difference has been one-half vote per precinct. In the past presidential election the average difference per precinct throughout the United States was one vote.

Sickness, resident requirements, unregistered, poll taxes, intimidation and intelligence tests were other reasons for lack of voting.

Of the voters, he brought out that men vote more than women, whites more than negroes, property taxpayers more than non-owners, conservatives more than liberals, older people more than young, higher income more than lower income and white collar workers more than blue collar workers.

All point to, he added, the fact that people must become concerned in order to take time to study candidates and type of government they are going to have.

"If people knew candidates as well as baseball players, the country would be safe for the next thousand years," Dr. Hoffman said. "In order to become intelligent voters, people should learn to listen to things they might not like in order to find out wha's going on."

This year, with issues involved, he predicted that people have a definite choice of party.

The conservative Republicans

KENNETH E. HOFFMAN

have been trying to make their party the conservative one and the Democratic party liberal rather than have divisions in each.

He went on to say that this could have interesting backlashes — strongly conservative Democrats may go Republican and highly liberal Republicans may go Democratic.

An example of campaigns' and issues' effect on party membership is civil rights in the south.

Gov. Wallace helped create a white backlash to the civil rights question in northern primaries. Where he ran, the votes he received were considered to be not necessarily for the man, but for his protest to the civil rights legislation.

The class participated in an active discussion following Professor Hoffman's introductory talk.

Wednesday night the group delved into the role of the parties.

The seminar will run four more nights:

Monday, July 27 — Demands of office.

Tuesday, July 29—Emergence of candidates.

Monday, Aug. 3 — Campaigns.

Wednesday, Aug. 5 — Issues.

Because each session is of prime interest, Harry Teets, chairman of the Jaycee sponsored project, has announced that the last four meetings may be attended for a fee of 75c per night. Starting time is 8 p.m. at the Community Center glass room.

Anders is going home. After one year in the United States as a member of the Robert King family, Anders Edin is scheduled to return to Stenungsund, Sweden, Aug. 9.

When asked for a summation of his visit here, Anders simply remarked that he takes life as it comes, but in talking with him we find that he has formed definite opinions about this country and its people.

He said, "It's much less different than I expected, people live the same way as in Sweden but life is a little faster. People seem to work faster or maybe they work more nervously."

"The United States has bigger homes, more cars, it's the richest country in the world," said the boy who graduated with the Tecumseh High School class of 1964.

Anders was emphatic when he spoke about US friendliness. He said, "Everybody that comes to this country says that the people are so friendly and hospitable, I don't think there is anything like it. It's a genuine interest in people of other countries. In Europe, one is likely to see strangers every day. Perhaps this is one reason for the difference."

☆

HE CONTINUED speaking about friendliness in connection with beginning school last fall. He remarked that everyone knew him at first sight and immediately spoke and he had a great time remembering names.

He said, "I still know a lot of people by their faces but I don't know their names. In Sweden we have a reputation for being reserved. Here it's easier to become acquainted."

In comparing education, Anders believes 12 years in Swedish school would compare to high school plus junior college here. However he was not bored with his year here since the subjects he studied were completely new to him.

He included American history, literature and government in his curriculum and remarked that college prep took up 75 percent of his study time.

He said, "Mr. Renfro is a most ambitious teacher and one of the most intelligent people that I have ever met."

The Kings, being the KINGS, decided, even though Mrs. King was still on crutches from a serious ankle injury, they would extend an invitation to Mats host family as well.

Anders said, "Mrs. Roop from Pa. is the same kind of good organizer as Mrs. King and we all helped, so even with 14 under one roof, we had a good time."

Anders is uncertain as to the field in which to continue his education, perhaps law, engineering or medicine. The diplomatic service might afford him an opportunity to travel.

This he would like because he plans to return here, not only as soon as he can, but many times.

☆

AGAIN REITERATING that the US is the richest, biggest western country and has tremendous influence, Anders stated that he thought that Sweden was the most Americanized country in Europe.

He said people there live largely in apartment houses, built close to the ground without basements.

Swimming, sailing, fishing, travel and soccer are popular summer sports with skiing, skating and ice hockey taking over in winter.

Though the Swedish youth wants to return to the States for visits, he does not seem interested in making his home here.

He said, "My education in Sweden will be much more suited to Sweden than the United States and besides Sweden is my home."

"I'm told that my personality has changed somewhat since I have been here. I haven't been a lively child. I have more friends here than ever before. Perhaps I've been an introvert and now am more aggressive. At home I didn't have too many close friends.

At the Kings' with five kids in the home, there is always something going on. Life is not dull."

Speaking of food, Anders said that we eat much more meat here than do the Swedes. They raise cattle for dairy only and their cheese is much stronger than most here.

"AND POTATOES," said Anders, "We eat lots of potatoes." He mentioned his brother, Mats, saying, "Imagine a guy 6 ft. 5 in. tall, 160 pounds and he eats lots of potatoes. He isn't apt to be enthusiastic about anything, but he is about Pa."

Anders is concerned that he may have slight difficulty in returning to speaking the language of his homeland. He said, "Now I'm used to thinking in English and people at home frown on one of their own with an American accent. This is one reason we are sent home by boat. This gives us some time to adjust again."

With about 500 other young people on the program, and their host families, Anders will meet in Northville July 25 for a potluck dinner and reunion.

After remaining overnight with an assigned family there, he will board the bus for New York, thence South Hampton, England; Le Havre, France and Rotterdam, Holland and finally home in Sweden.

READY TO GO — Anders Edin at the Robert King residence where he has made his home the past year as an exchange student with the Youth For Understanding program. Anders leaves Saturday for his home in Stenungsund, Sweden.

Only 25 Students in Tecumseh High Band 10 Years Ago

(Editor's Note: A series of articles has been written about the Tecumseh High School Band, who under the direction of Don Johnson has enlarged like wildfire in the past few years. The band is experieneing growing pains.)

Ten years ago, Don Johnson came to Tecumseh to become director of the instrumental program from grades five through the Tecumseh Senior High.

Soon after he started, three of those (the best ones at that) left band to take jobs in town under a job-coop program.

He quickly got over that shock only to find more surprises in store. A total of 10 or 12 junior high musicians met with him later in the day.

Recruitment of students in the fifth grade in the old central building gave him a grand total of 15 youngsters. They held class in a small room above the gym.

In the following year the "Tonette" program was put in the fifth grade and today, after careful testing and screening, he and Miles Cowdrey now have from 80 to 100 beginners each year.

The program generated such interest that in his seventh and eighth grade bands today he has 125 musicians.

The senior high band became so large three years ago that a second high school band was formed, principally of ninth and tenth grade students.

Today there are 65 members in that group under the direction of Mr. Cowdrey. The senior band under Mr. Johnson has an enrollment of nearly 100.

No longer is the problem: "How can I fill the empty places in band?"

Now it is, "How can we take all of them?"

This increased enrollment has brought two major problems with it, which will be discussed next week.

TO THE EDITORS:

The answer to the spelling of "BIBEL" in your classified section is really quite simple. German for "the Bible" is "die Bibel". What could be more natural than for an Austrian company to have a German name?

VOICE of THE HERALD

Our GM Is Special

Ground-breakings are so common in this fast-growing area of Michigan that they are hardly worth a picture any more.

The community of Tecumseh, 25 miles southwest of Ann Arbor in Lenawee County, recognized that fact this week by staging something special to signal the start of construction of a new Fisher Body plant which will employ 1,000 persons.

The town practically closed down for the event. Gov. Romney was present, in a recess from his responsibilities at the Republican convention in San Francisco. Instead of having some official turn over a shovelful of dirt, sponsors of the program, set off a charge of dynamite in a nearby field and three giant earth-movers, manufactured by a division of General Motors, ripped up a big section of ground in the shape of a new road.

The all-out cooperation of the community and surrounding area in the celebration is probably typical of any small city's welcome for a giant new industry. Annual expenditures for payroll and local purchases by the new GM plant in Tecumseh are expected to reach $9,000,000. But Tecumseh's greeting appeared to be something extra in enthusiasm. A former Ann Arbor resident, J. Wayne "Pat" Meadows, now president of the Tecumseh United Savings Bank, headed the arrangements committee.

One of the most significant statements of the day was made by Gov. Romney, when he called attention to the fact that the trend toward expansion of Michigan-based industries into other states appears less evident than a few years ago. This state not only appears to be holding its own but gaining in the always rough competition for plants that provide jobs and taxes. All of Michigan can take pride in that development.

Watch Your Step!

We roll into summer and again have a massive influx of door-to-door salesmen, some legitimate, many not. The Police Department has arrested eight magazine and encyclopedia pushers during the month of July.

Residents are protected by city ordinance, whereby any salesman is required to obtain a solicitor's license from the City Clerk.

Be On Your Guard

When a pitchman comes to your door, get his name and company, then insist upon seeing his license. If he is legitimate he will be eager to show it to you.

If he balks or makes excuses, call the City Clerk or Police immediately to get verification. If you don't you are cheating only yourself.

MORAL — Buy goods in Tecumseh from salesmen you know and can trust. You'll get true value for your money.

Never buy anything over the telephone until you see the item. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush — and those bushes are pretty full of shady deals.

Mrs. Geraldine Sherman of Tipton was the chairman for the event honoring the couple.

Identification of o... Lenawee County Title team in 1910 included:

Back row, left to right — Lynn Harris, Earl Hankam, George Exelby, all deceased, Faunt Leonardson, Wamplers Lake, Marshall Reed, now Bishop of the Methodist Church of Michigan and retired to Onsted with his wife and B. Earl Smith, coach and teacher.

Front Row — Dale Hodges, Detroit, Glenn Kempf, North Adrian Hwy., Everett Shurtz, deceased, Vern Rodgers, Detroit and Frank Lusty, now in Canada.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

JULY BABIES

As far as young birds go, our Independence Day month picked up right where June left off. At least, during the first three weeks of July, we have been "loaded" with screaming, poorly-feathered-out babies. The feeder, the yard and the trees are full of them.

Just after we had written 'finish' to the last article about this year's bumper crop of baby birds, a very exciting thing happened — it was a bit frustrating, too, in that it was only about five minutes late to make the first article.

A terribly rough and ragged little nut-hatch lit on the feeding tray. It was a first; never before had we entertained such an obviously young up-side-down bird.

She was 'out on her own' but could have used some help from an elder. The full sunflower head and freshly put out scratch feed looked very appetizing but just how does one eat from a feeder?

We could almost hear her wonder and after several awkward attempts the drab little character gave up and flew away.

☆

THE SECOND trip to the feeder was not much better than the first, but, by the third try, she had somehow found out about feeding station eating.

The scratch feed was apparently very tasty — with her long sword-like bill she did a respectable job of scooping up dinner.

Appearance-wise though, there had not been much improvement.

Adult nuthatches are usually quite smooth, even the females are pretty with their medium light gray helmets, their blue-gray backs and their dirty white fronts.

Junior Miss, however, was a rag-tangled-bunch of ill-groomed rough looking feathers, whose color was a messy running together of washed-out grays, blues, tans and white. She was funny!

We had looked forward to watching this youngster grow up but hot weather intervened. When the temperature goes up, we go out — out into the yard or out onto the porch.

These trips, the thoughts of which buoys us up during the long cold winter, take us out of feeder-watching range.

One day, however, when we were at the back of the east yard, the last chapter to the nuthatch story was added.

We heard he familiar honk, honk, honking of the up-side-down birds and a peculiar scratching on the rough bark of the walnut tree.

There, noisily scurrying and scampering around the bigger limbs, was the whole nuthatch family. Five of them, Mamma, Pappa and three grubby looking youngsters.

☆

OTHER SHAGGY youngsters, who afforded many laughs on the days when rain and cold kept us inside, were the little tufted tit-mice. I should hardly say tufted because so young were our visitors that they barely had feathers long enough to form tufts or top-knots.

There were three of them — they came to the feeder unattended. They were usually in bad moods, too, and delighted in running off the other diners.

Of course, nut-hatches and scrappy tit-mice are not the only youngsters we have — blue jays, robins and sparrows proudly bring their offspring by for inspection; Papa Cardinal is wearing himself out trying to keep Junior filled up; and one poor baby flicker was so uncoordinated that it took him a whole day to learn how to light on the bottom rail of the fence without falling off.

The mourning doves are not putting on much of a display, but, oh, the noisy screaming and squalling grackles.

They line up beneath my window and at the crack of dawn start sounding off. This kind of youngster activity we could do very nicely without.

So it is that this month has truly been as busy as last, there has been much good looking, thanks to July's Babies.

TEEN TALK

By DEBBY EARLING

Twelve teens and five adults from St. Johns, interested in promoting a teen club in their own community, were met by the Teen Club Legislature recently as they arrived at the Community Center.

The visitors were invited to spend the afternoon with the Legislature discussing Teen Club activity in the community.

A cookout was planned for the earlier part of the evening. After a sightseeing tour around Tecumseh the visiting teens and chaperons had the opportunity to see a Tecumseh Teen Club fling in action at the "Barefoot Bum Ball" held behind the fire barn.

At the Teen Club Legislature meeting held July 15, Secretary Janis Reed suggested that the Teen Club present a one-year membership card to all teen newcomers to the community.

This suggestion was heartily approved by all the Legislature and advisors and will be put into action as soon as a detailed plan is developed.

The Legislature welcomed a new representative to the Teen Club, Frank Sandhoff from the Jaycees.

They are looking forward to a year of enjoyable cooperation and achievement with both "new" and "old" representatives from the community service clubs.

The Teen Club offered the services of eight to 10 girls to "sit" in the Kiddy Korral in two-hour shifts from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the annual Sidewalk Sale.

They also offered 10 boys and three girls to help out at the Pancake Supper that evening.

'Liberty Is Essential' to American Heritage

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety," from Benjamin Franklin, was one of the concluding statements in the American Heritage program July 18.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 73 under the direction of William Frownfelder presented an impressive history of America's quest for freedom in conjunction with the national program.

A campfire at the National Boy Scout Jamboree attended by 10 from Tecumseh burned simultaneously with fires of troops throughout the country Saturday evening.

Dick Hale, from a tree, lighted the fire as his co-narrator, David Frownfelder, read "Our American Heritage had its beginning in 1607 when as if a star from heaven fell on this continent at Jamestown."

John Schoonover
Bruce Smith
Tom Adams
Charles Albaugh
Ralph Miller
Paul Cubberly
Jim and Bob Dixon
Bernard Riordan
Peter Speerstra
Randy Disbrow
Richard Roost
David Meyers
Jim Gates
Bob Merz

Richard Wegner led the singing of several patriotic songs interspersing the program.

SWIMMING

This hot weather has forced many of us to go swimming. Over the past weekend at the pit, some 400 plus have enjoyed coolness of the water and the evening breeze from the air.

Many who prefer pool swimming, have enjoyed the Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool for their cooling-off agent.

Oh! By the way, the third session for swimming will start August 3, and there is still room for a few more swimmers.

TEEN CLUB

Roger Kowalski, director of parks and recreation in St. Johns, planned the visit. About a dozen students observed and learned more of Tecumseh's well-known teen club and its activities.

All-Star Girls Beat Britton by 14 Points

Exploding for 14 runs in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Tecumseh girls' all-star softball team went on to beat the Britton all-stars, 32-18.

Highlighting Tecumseh's outburst was a home run by Linda Baxter, who hit a line drive that was too hard for the left fielder to handle and rounded the bases before the ball could be relayed back into the infield. Tecumseh batted around twice in this inning, sending 13 girls to the plate.

Solid hitting was contributed to the Tecumseh cause by Judy Ostrum, Linda Baxter, Carol Riordan, Lisa Pence, and Linda Oberlin.

Top hitters for Britton were Cindy Griffin, Barbara Mastie, and Denise Ivan. Pitching for the Tories were Tammy Tucker, Denise Ivan, and JoAnn Henning.

Britton took a 5-3 lead after the first inning and held it until Carol Riordan tied it up with a long fly to left field. Linda Seagert let it bounce off her glove and two runs came in. Carol scored when there was a bad throw to the infield. Tecumseh then went on to score nine more runs.

Britton came back in the top of the fifth by scoring eight runs on five hits to close the gap to 19-18.

Pitching and fielding by Tecumseh kept Britton scoreless for the rest of the game while the local team added 13 more runs to their total.

In the first inning Ensore, Onsted's leadoff man, walked. He was forced at second by the next batter.

Then Johns walked, pushing the runner to second base. Mark slammed the door by striking out the next two batters to end the inning.

Mark struck out the opposition in both the second and sixth inning. He fanned 13 of the 22 men he faced.

Tecumseh scored four times in the first, twice in the second, four more times in the fourth, and once in the fifth.

Seven hits were rapped by Tecumseh's Cub Leaguers.

Butch Quinn was the only batter to have two hits.

Other hits were collected by Ken Pieh, Frank Flores, Lamar Rufner, Mark Wegner, and Mark Vaillancourt.

He carded seven pars and two birds for a two under par 34.

He impressed every one but his opponents, Vern Manwaring and Bob French, who scored well enough to take half of the points.

Clark Lake in 11th Season

The Clark Lake Players are in the 11th season of play production. Last year they moved to the present location at Eagle Point, on the south side and across the lake from the Clark Lake Lodge.

A new approach is being used this year, the board of directors have employed a two director system, replacing the previous plan of a single director and a technical director.

☆

GERALD L. BLANCHARD and Michael Bloom are now alternating shows, enabling them to have more rehearsals and probably improving the quality of the productions.

Another reason for the change is to return to the community theatre program. Members of the theatre organization assist the directors in construction of sets, gathering furniture and other properties connected with the production.

Organizers are continually trying to create a theatre that pleases both the audience and the participants and uphold the responsibility of communicating in an artistic way.

Director Blanchard has said that in a good civic theatre, members are truly creative and not just imitators.

"Ardent copying of Broadway fare is inconsistent with appropriate goals," said Mr. Blanchard, "because after all, Broadway is not Clark Lake."

A play must be dramatized according to the values of those who view it.

Another mark of a good theatre, according to the director, is that members do not "play down" to the audience.

Members are serious amateurs, not dabblers, if some have had professional training, they must be dedicated artists, not artistic dilletantes.

Even amateurs can and should have professional attitudes and employ professional techniques, otherwise their work will be futile, inartistic and barren of cultural value.

The recent production of "A Street Car Named Desire" proved that the Clark Lake people have been able to achieve the high goals placed for them by Director Blanchard.

A change of pace from the usual fare, it has been several years since the group has attempted to present a drama of such magnitude.

Longer rehearsal time was created for the successful presentation, which was well received by near capacity audiences.

The 1964 season was opened with the hilarious comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn" followed by "A Shot in the Dark."

☆

THE REMAINDER of the season will include:

► "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With" on July 23, 24, 25, 30, 31 and Aug. 1.

BANDING TOGETHER WITH A PURPOSE ARE THE AOWAKIYAS AS THEY MARCH IN JULY 4 PARADE

They March for Fun

Aowakiyas, an Indian name meaning "banding together for a purpose," is the name of a drill team organized in the fall of 1960.

Twenty-six girls and six boys are taking part in this program. The girls march and the boys are either drummers or carry banners.

At present the officers are:

Secretary — Mrs. David Faling.

THIS SUMMER Aowakiyas has purchased two new drums. More drums are needed and they would like donations for this purpose.

New classes begin every September. To be able to march, a child must be at least six years old, although anyone may take lessons.

NEWCOMERS

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Mr. and Mrs. James Vanzo have purchased a home at 402 W. Chicago Blvd., coming here with their children, Mark 7, and Michelle 4.

Many Tecumsehites will remember the Vanzos, due to their enthusiastic support of the Tecumseh Players.

Jim had a role in the production of "The Ten Little Indians" and his wife, Judy, played in that play and several others, helping this past season behind the scenes of "Pajama Game".

The couple returned from a year spent in Alaska last summer. Jim taught American history and General Science in the Ketchikan High School and Judy was employed by the Alaska Crippled Children's Association.

The couple are split as to their feelings for the 49th State. Jim loved it and his wife just couldn't stand the rain. They have nearly 200 inches per year. One time while they were there it rained for 90 consecutive days.

Before going to Alaska, Jim was employed by the Onsted School system and Judy in Milton Porter's office in Adrian on special education.

Last year they lived in Fairfield with Jim teaching in the Madison High School. He will return there as football coach this fall.

Besides their interest in little theatre, the Vanzos have other hobbies. Jim likes to collect cartridges for guns and he makes and reloads his own ammunition. Judy likes antiques especially clocks and glass.

This summer while she cares for the kiddies, Jim is working on his master's degree in literature at Eastern Michigan University.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mabrey with their son, Daryl 5, and daughter, Gayle 3, moved to their home at 115 Burt St., purchased from the Russell Coopers about the middle of June.

The whole family are enthusiastic fishermen and have already tried their luck in the River Raisin.

Mr. Mabrey is a foreman at Peerless Gear Corp., Clinton. He was previously employed at the Dunkirk plant.

They have been busy since moving, cleaning the rear of their lot for some landscaping.

The Mabreys were members of the Methodist Church in Bill Center, O. They have had so much weekend company since their move that they haven't had an opportunity to attend here as yet.

Mrs. Mabrey said Wednesday, "I love it here, the people are so friendly."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Albrecht of Jackson have purchased Tony and Mary's which they have renamed Bob and Ruth's Bar and Grill.

This will be a completely new experience for the couple, since he operated a barber shop in Jackson and she was employed by Consumers Power for the past 14 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht, with their son, Bruce, have moved to 717 S. Occidental Hwy.

So far the Albrecht family likes Tecumseh "real well" They are pleased with the recreation program here.

Folks Like To Sing as Ben Story Plays

By JUDY FIELDER

Folk singer Ben Story visited Tecumseh recently. The popular Kentucky musician was here as a result of meeting Michigan Jaycees at the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce convention held in Dallas, Tex. recently.

Ben said, "This is the first time I've been to Michigan. Met so many nice folks in Dallas I just had to come.

He added that he wished he had more than a few days to enjoy the state.

Ben, 29, who has been singing professionally for a year, had a week's vacation after his Dallas engagement. He left his wife in Fort Wayne, Ind. to visit relatives, then proceeded north with a friend, Ray Jacks, also a folk song lover, to Benton Harbor, then across the state to Tecumseh.

☆

THE LANKY strummer has one album on Lemco Label called "Ben Story Sings Hootenanny Favorites" which received a four-star rating in Billboard magazine.

Upon return to his hometown of Lexington, he will cut another album, plus a single record with two student favorites, "Wonder Where I'm Bound" and "Laurel Hill", his original composition.

The talented artist has written 12 songs.

Ben was an insurance investigator before turning professional musician. He became interested in folk music in 1956 while attending the University of Kentucky.

An ex-marine, he and his wife Norma, who is a true southern belle, have two sons, Steve, 6 and Eddie, 3.

Golf is his hobby now that singing is his business.

His favorite audience is students, although his popularity in Dallas, where he played for JC parties all over the city, proved to him that everyone is interested in folk music.

☆

HIS GUITAR talks — whether played in soft southern strum or heavy beat jazz — accompanying his versatile voice. When he's singing, the audience is drawn to croon along.

He has played in concert with the Kingston Trio, among others and performed all over Lexington.

Hitting the road in April, he opened at the Embers Supper Club in Ft. Wayne, Ind., remained in that city playing at coffee houses, night clubs and folk houses until the Jaycees of West Virginia, Kentucky and nearby states brought him to Dallas.

Then he'll be in concert in Fort Wayne with two upcoming folk stars, Jo Mapes and Danny Cox.

☆

THE ENTIRE Fielder household enjoyed him — his soft voice had us all entranced. Especially the children, who sat on the floor and never moved a muscle while he was singing.

Soon neighbors tiptoed in and Ben was playing to a full house of enthusiastic listeners.

As the traveling singer drove away, our oldest daughter looked up and said to her daddy, "When is Ben coming back? I sure like to hear him sing."

Well, honey, we do, too.

Charles Gorton, Jr., returned to his home on Britton Rd. Tuesday after a week's hospitalization. He was transferred from an Ann Arbor Hospital to Herrick Memorial Hospital Friday.

SPLENDOUR IN LEARNING by J. J. D'Arkos. The author presents a new method of teaching that helps stimulate thinking on every level and thus works to tap the vast potentialities of each individual student. An extremely interesting book with concrete and specific examples.

THE LIFE AND DEATH OF LENIN by Robert Payne. Forty years ago there died a man who rose from obscurity to shake the very foundations of the nations. This book is a definitive account of Lenin and his era; a searching portrait of an intensely human tyrant.

Governor Wallace 'Speaks His Piece'

(Editor's note — This is the second in a series of articles by Herald staff member Judy Fielder on the Junior Chamber of Commerce national convention in Dallas, which she and her husband attended.)

By JUDY FIELDER

Keynote speaker was the controversial Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Prior to his speech the Connecticut deligation boycoted Wallace's address on the grounds that it did not fit the mood of the convention.

In a formal statement they added that, "Gov. Wallace is a known racial segrecationist and his views are contrary to the U. S. Constitution and our democratic way of life and the Jaycee Creed."

Following the governor's address, U.S. Jaycee President Richard Headlee countered with the statement, "Wallace's address was most stimulating and well received. However, his appearance at our national convention does not imply endorsement of his views or the U. S. Jaycee's sympathy for or against civil rights legislation."

Earlier, Gov. Wallace told reporters at a news conference that he would conduct a full-fledged campaign for the presidency this fall.

☆

DEPARTING from his text, in which he attacked the federal government and the U. S. Supreme Court, he noted several times that he is not a segregationist in the popular definition.

"I have never made a statement that reflected on any man, his color or creed," he said.

"I have never spoken in any state and advocated what type of schools they should have. All I have said is that states should know better what is best for their school and how they should be run rather than the social engineers in Washington, D. C.

In the 18-page address, Gov. Wallace hammered mostly at the "force-cult" in the nation's capital and their "judicial oligarchy" which he said was designed to take away the right of the people.

"I don't deny the existence of problems, social, economic and political, but let the people seek solutions through our democratic processes and institutions.

"WE ARE being turned into government-fearing people instead of God-fearing people and this is bad," he said.

"I become incensed when the U. S. Supreme Court strikes down one of the precious guarantees in the Constitution of the Bill of Rights.

"Of what avail is freedom of religion where God is banned from public life?

He called the outlawing and banning God from our public institutions only the beginning and predicted that the court will rule unconstitutional state laws, which set Sunday aside as a day of rest because it is generally recognized that a majority of the people utilize the day for religious observance.

"I am sick, tired, disturbed and fed up with a government which tramples its people and kowtows to its enemies — with a governmental atmosphere which makes it unfashionable to wave the American flag while its sons sacrifice their lives in a forgotten war where victory has no place," he said referring to Viet Nam.

"I LOOK with revulsion on men who use their government to destroy individual freedom and to encourage the misguided of its citizens to engage in street warfare against the common good," he said of the Negroes' civil rights demonstrations.

He neither raved nor acted like a fanatic, which I had come to expect after being exposed to pictures of him standing on school house steps holding off the National Guard.

It's interesting to recall that the only reason I can remember his actions was to maintain segregation.

One point he made during his speech was about the federal court ordering children taken from their Alabama hometowns with adequate schools to institutions 15 miles away in order to integrate them and then he questioned the economic feasibility and social fairness to the children.

☆

ALTHOUGH the Michigan group never stood during his speech and did not agree with some of his points, they rose with the rest of the delegates to applaud Wallace at the end.

A large bloc of Jaycees gave him roaring approval and mobbed him after the talk to sing "Dixie" and shake his hand.

It was a sight this writer will never forget. To hear Gov. Wallace speak was enlightening.

I feel the day that every person in the United States is not allowed to voice his opinion and others be courteous enough to listen to him will never happen under this free society.

People who feel against this are violating our basic moral rights plus the bill of rights in the constitution.

The Democrat governor withdrew Sunday from the campaign, but will carry many southern votes when he backs a candidate. Whichever one, in his words, "proves to be more conservative and zealous in supporting the principles of local government, private enterprise and states rights."

A man to be reckoned with by both parties is the Alabaman, with pollsters predicting that Barry Goldwater will draw votes from southerners who want programs more acceptable, especially on the civil rights issue.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

CASEVILLE — Come to think of it, why isn't vacation a good time to have your tooth pulled?

That's the way my Thursday of last week began, following three days of an aching jaw which felt as if Cassius X had been using it for a punching bag.

The old molar went out the hard way, first the top cracking off. The Bay City dentist hung right in there until he got out the roots and the abscess.

His two drug prescriptions — to hold back pain and allay any future infection — had different directions, but in my haste to get the treatment going, I read them as the same.

Instead of it being for every three hours as I went, one was to have been taken three times a day. Munch, munch, munch. Friday dawned and the world looked groggy. Now I knew for sure Casius had been belting me. My hangover lasted until the next morning.

But last week wasn't entirely lost. "The Education of a Golfer," by Sam Snead, was a rollicking story, which also contained some fine bits of knowledge for any guy or gal who swings a club.

Example: "A hard education in golf is a great thing. Whenever I've been able to pull myself out of a slump, it's only been because I didn't forget that breaks even out, over the long pull, and that the bane of gold — and life in general — is to remember your mistakes and not your right moves.

"In clubhouses, you'll see men sitting about complaining and going over their bad shots. They should think back to their good shots, then try to repeat them.

"This is the only way to build that feeling of confidence. You can build it — or tear yourself down. The choice is up to the individual.

"If you know yourself to be a whiner, you'll never play up to your full ability. It takes guts to be an optimist in golf. He who thinks like a winner will win."

In his fifties, Sam has been playing the tournament trail since 1936. Walter Hagen was just ending his golf career when Sam started, then came the era of Gene Sarazan, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan, finally Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus — Sam Snead still rolls along.

Sam was a hill boy. His first golf club was one he made from a tree limb. He sunk old tomato cans in a pasture for a course.

Later he caddied and worked as an instructor at a course near his Virginia home, as he developed his swing. Sam never had a lesson, working out the game on his own. To drive 300 yards from the tee was usual, sometimes he would hit the green on holes of 345 yards.

It's a fascinating autobiography that covers betting, needling ringers and hundreds of tournaments in which Sam played. My copy is a paperback, picked up at Carl Lamb's Rexall just before coming here.

Another important item for the credit side of the vacation ledger was the re-discovery of old fashioned peanut butter.

That's the kind where the oil rises to the top of the jar and the contents must be stirred thoroughly before eating.

We picked up some at a Caseville store and it has highlighted most of my noon lunches. The modern stuff doesn't even come close to old fashioned in taste and texture.

Swimming in Lake Huron has been excellent, although bathers have to walk out quite a ways, past a couple of sand bars, before getting into chest-deep water. But it's clear and cool with beautiful sand all the way.

Dropping levels in the lake are a problem and the other evening the Bay City Times reported, by next year, Lake Huron would sink another foot, which will be a real tragedy to folks who own cottages all along the area.

One of the first things we spied upon entering Caseville was a banner over the main street announcing that "Music Man" will be presented this weekend as part of the annual Caseville Summer Cultural Enrichment Program.

Last year, "The King And I" was staged to packed houses and folks we've talked to around here say to be sure and catch the current offering — which we intend to do.

As a matter of fact, stage-struck daughter, Carol, wants us to attend nightly rehearsals (we have been down for three). She hopes to learn as much as she can about the show so as to be ready for try-outs next winter for the Tecumseh Players' "Music Man".

Citizen, Firemen Join in Saving Resident's Life

Quick thinking by a local citizen and an emergency run by the Tecumseh Fire Department saved the life of Henry Van Duzer Friday morning.

Donald Stine, serviceman for Wolf's Tires & Appliances, was working at the Van Duzer residence at 206 N. Wyandotte when Mr. Van Duzer suffered a heart attack.

Stine immediately gave mouth-to-mouth respiration and was working over the victim when the fire department's emergency vehicle arrived with a resuscitator.

He was then rushed to Herrick Hospital by the Corkery ambulance and placed in an oxygen tent. Mrs. Van Duzer reported Friday afternoon that he was resting comfortably.

Right Leg Is Injured by Combine

A plugged combine that slipped into gear while being cleaned resulted in a serious leg injury for Wesley Whelan Saturday.

Mr. Whelan was running the combine on the farm of his uncle, Donald Whelan, on Tipton Hwy., when the accident occured about 3 p.m.

When he was shoved into the combine, he received a cut deep into the muscle in his right leg above the knee.

His uncle, who was working in the same field, cut him out of the machine and rushed him to Herrick Memorial Hospital, where Mr. Whelan received treatment and blood transfusion.

Tecumseh's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1964, Mr. Whelan was reported Wednesday to be in good condition at the hospital.

PAINT BRUSH IN HAND, DON BAKER SKIPPERS THE 'SKOOKUM'

OK, OK Is 'Skookum'

By JIM WILBAR

Don Baker, 315 N. Union St., has a rare philosophy, "If you can't buy it — make it yourself."

At one time, Don was the proud owner of a 42-foot yacht. He also had the gas consumption bill for such a monster.

He sold his prize with thoughts of purchasing a smaller craft, but could find nothing with the features to which he had become accustomed. Full head room and a hard top were lacking in smaller models.

His first vessel was a rowboat constructed in eighth grade shop. At one time Don and Melvin Sanderson of Dearborn each built a 21-foot boat and sailed side by side on the Great Lakes.

He worked for a year at the design of his 26-foot beauty before Wilfred Waldron approached him with the perfect name, an old Indian word used around Puget Sound.

"Skookum," meaning "OK, OK, everything OK" was spied 20 years ago by Wilfred while he was reading an adventure story.

He planned to build a boat by that name himself, but never did, so he offered to donate lumber for the oak frames of Baker's boat if Don would name it "Skookum".

For the past year and a half Don has been toiling at the construction of "Skookum". The only outside labor on the boat has been milling of rough lumber by Tecumseh Sash and Door.

Don has fiberglassed the entire body except the mahogany and constructed 10-foot beams where normal size for such a boat would be eight or less.

When it's done the craft will have a complete galley, including refrigerator, stove, cabinet space and a fresh water system.

It will sleep five people with two V-bunks forward and a dinette that converts to a double bed.

Next spring, the "Skookum" will travel with Don and his wife, Sally Ann, to Bolles Harbor in Monroe, where they'll dock it and see how "OK, OK, everything is."

Tecumseh Bank Planning New Branch Office

A new branch office of the United Savings Bank of Tecumseh is under consideration for the northeast corner of Occidental and Sutton Rds., about three miles south of Tecumseh.

Pat Meadows, president of the bank, says an option has been taken on the property, and approval has been received from the State Banking Department of Michigan.

If the local bank board proceeds with its plans, the new branch office will be established within the next year.

Approval from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation also is required for the branch, and application is now being made.

Plans for the new office will consist of both drive-in and walk-in facilities, with banking services comparable to those offered at the main office in downtown Tecumseh.

The lot measures 342 feet on Sutton Rd., and 358 feet on Occidental.

Size of the building, cost and architecture have not been determined. Local officials expect to inspect other related banking operations, including methods of handling vehicular traffic to and from the building.

Mr. Meadows reports there are still numerable points to be worked out before a final decision is reached.

Purpose of the branch is to serve the present community there — including Birdsall — and others expected to settle in the area after completion of the GM Fisher Body and Stauffer Chemical plants.

Both plants are now under construction with production scheduled to start next spring. Each is located well within a mile and a half of the proposed branch bank.

The new Lenawee Institute school for the handicapped, also under construction, is just a half-mile east on Sutton Rd.

The additional banking facility would also relieve the present strain at the main office, which often has been inadequate in handling the business increase of the past two or three years.

There are many homes in the vicinity, some within easy walking distance of the Sutton-Occidental intersection.

June Stone To Resign from Board

Mrs. June Stone will resign from the Tecumseh School Board on Aug. 3 to accept a teaching position in the local schools at Sutton.

The first lady to serve on the board for many years has decided to quit her position at the United Savings Bank for an elementary post, probably the second grade.

A state ruling prohibits her from serving on the board — to which she was elected in 1962 — while employed in the system as a teacher. Her term expires next year.

Mrs. Stone holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State University and a Master's degree from Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y.

Restaurateur Kerby Sells Hamburg Shop

Nearly twenty-five years in the restaurant business has ended with Yale Kerby selling Kerby's Hamburger Shop to Mrs. Fern Cutler of Adrian.

Mrs. Cutler officially took over the restaurant Monday.

Mr. Kerby, recently licensed real estate agent, will now join his wife Eltha in Kerby Real Estate. Mrs. Kerby has been in the real estate business for a number of years.

He came here from Somerset City in Hillsdale County in February 1940, and opened a hamburger shop in the building now occupied by Pickard Floral Shop.

Eight years later, he moved the restaurant to its present location.

Mr. Kerby formerly owned two service stations in Detroit before moving to Hillsdale County to be sub-distributor for the Hi-Speed Company.

He plans to assist Mrs. Cutler for the next couple of weeks.

No changes in operation are planned and the present name will be retained.

The new owner is the mother-in-law of Leland Kerby, attorney at Morenci, and son of the Yale Kerbys.

She has experience in business: 12 years in a grocery at Canandaigua, a year in an Adrian restaurant, and six months in an ice cream dairy bar.

SILVER YEARS — After a quarter century on main street, Yale Kerby turns Hamburg Shop over to Mrs. Fern Cutler.

Pancake Supper, Race, Big Sales On Tap Aug. 7

The title of Michigan's fastest running pancake flipper will be awarded to some lively lady between 18 and 88 Friday, Aug. 7.

Contestants may sign up at The Herald office for the race, which will start at 7:30 p.m. after the free Aunt Jemima pancake supper.

The supper will begin at 4:30 p.m. at the fire barn and continue until the race.

Merchants, who foot the bill for the hot-cake meal and race will move masses of marked-down merchandise onto the sidewalks that day.

Their big sidewalk sale will start at 9 a.m. and run until 9 p.m., with a variety of entertainment for all ages throughout the day.

Leon Williamson Receives Honor from Exchange

A lifelong Tecumseh resident has received honorary membership in the National Exchange Club in recognition of his cooperative service to the welfare and progress of the community, state and nation.

Leon P. Williamson, 79, of 412 W. Chicago Blvd., has served two years as president of the local Exchange Club. He was also district governor for two years.

Mr. Williamson is one of 40 members to sign the charter which brought Tecumseh's Club into existence in 1946.

He and his wife, Helen, operate Mastercraft Products.

Haeussler Recovering from Injury

Wes Haeussler, 609 Brook St., is recovering from injuries suffered July 15 in an accident while repairing a bulldozer on S. Maumee St.

He was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital by Clarence Beach after his right thumb was severely cut.

Although Mr. Haeussler has lost the first joint, an attempt is being made to save the rest.

Tecumseh's street superintendent has a four-week wait before learning whether the bone is knitting and grafting can take place.

Corkery Funeral Home Sold

Two weeks of negotiations ended Wednesday with the sale of Corkery Funeral Home to Lester D. Proctor, Clinton Mortician.

The new owner will take over operations here immediately and plans to employ a licensed mortician within the next two weeks to help him here and at his mortuary in Clinton.

Mr. Proctor has been in the funeral profession since 1939 and has operated the Proctor Funeral Home in Clinton since March 17, 1951.

He is a veteran of the Air Force Medical Corps with three years overseas, and a graduate of Manchester High School and Wayne University of Mortuary Science.

Both the Tecumseh and Clinton mortuaries will be called Proctor Funeral Home.

Mr. Corkery's plans are indefinite, but he's likely to enter the restaurant business if his request for an SDM license transfer is approved Aug. 4 by the Tecumseh Township Board.

He announced two weeks ago plans to build a large restaurant, just east of Billington Corners, two miles west of Tecumseh.

During the past 10 years, he owned the Corkery Funeral Home and conducted an estimated 650 services.

He purchased the home originally from Ellsworth Collins in November, 1954.

For two years, Mr. Corkery operated under the Collins Funeral Home name, later changing it to Collins-Corkery, and for the past five years, it has been known as the Corkery Funeral Home, owned by Thomas and Katherine Corkery.

The sale included the home at the corner of S. Union and W. Pottawatamie, ambulance, automobile and all other equipment related to the business.

Mrs. Robert Cunningham of Muncie, Ind., was matron of honor and Ann Cameron, sister of the groom, and Mrs. E. A. Ford of Louisville, Ky., were the bridesmaids.

The lovely bride, on the arm of her father, approached the altar in a floor-length gown of white silk organza and peau d'ange lace.

The fitted bodice was styled with a shell neckline and short sleeves with appliques of lace on the bodice and front panels of the skirt which extended into a chapel train.

Her double tiered veil of silk illusion was secured to a cluster of lace petals caught to an organza bow.

The bride's attendants wore cocktail-length sheath dresses with overskirts of French blue embossed taffeta.

They wore matching accessories and carried crescent-shaped bouquets of pink carnations.

Dr. John C. Cameron was his brother's best man and the guests were seated by William Etter, brother of the bride, Glenn Etter, cousin of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor where a four-tiered cake encircled by greens and pink blossoms was served.

Mrs. Jerald Gray registered the guests and punch and the cake were served by Mrs. Steven Karsteter, Mrs. Randy Pollard and Mrs. Arthur Cohen.

The bride is a graduate of Miami University, Oxford, O., and is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority, Kappa Delta Pi education honorary sorority and Tri Kappa.

Her husband is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and received a BS degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan.

Following a two-week trip to Florida and Nassau, the couple will make their home at La-Grange, Ill., where the bride teaches the third grade and the groom is employed at Western Electric Co.

The rehearsal dinner, given by the groom's parents, was held at the Dearborn Country Club in Indiana July 10.

Book of Poetry 'Places' Written by THS Graduate

(Editor's note: The poetry printed below is taken from the book entitled "Places" by Roger L. Waring, native of Tecumseh, who passed away several years ago. Mr. Waring was a 1908 graduate of Tecumseh High School. He was a member of a popular quartette of that time including Fred C. Dickinson, the late Seymour Boyd and Wade Forest. A contractor and an architect, Mr. Waring built many of the penal institutions in Ohio. He made his home in Cleveland, but kept up his associations in Tecumseh, coming here each summer. At the reading of his will it was found that he left the old Waring home, now the Glenn Vandenbergh residence, to the Presbyterian Church. The poem, "July" is shared with Herald readers by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Waldron, who have an autographed copy of his book.)

JULY

When the molten ball of a summer sun
Crawls up thru a blue hot sky,
And burns the lawn, till the grass is gone
And the ground lies bare and dry.

When silence roars in your ears like noise,
When the ghost of a breeze moves the tops of the trees
And you hear the branches stir.

When dust curls up thru lifeless leaves,
When heat shimmers up from the hill,
Man, beast, and all, but barely crawl,
E'en flies in the air stand still.

When the blistering ball of a copper sun
Seems to melt the very sky,
And you pray in vain for a drop of rain
That's a day in the month of July.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Commendable Foresight

Officers and directors of United Savings Bank of Tecumseh should be commended for their foresight and consideration of a new branch office at Occidental and Sutton Rds.

This is progressive action, an ingredient which Tecumseh has had in the past and one which the community will need when the effects of industrial growth in the area are upon us.

A new branch will not only relieve the main office of doing maximum business — especially on Fridays and Saturdays — but more important, it will give our neighbors to the south their own banking facilities.

It also gives the Occidental-Sutton area recognition as a community, and one which is very apt to grow rapidly during the next couple of years.

Will others follow and plan expansion for providing finer facilities and services for a growing Tecumseh and area?

Better Use of Facilities

A big step in the right direction toward better use of our educational facilities has been made by County School Superintendent, Milton Porter.

Through his efforts, Lenawee County has been chosen by a University of Michigan team to make an unofficial survey to determine school needs. The survey is a training venture and in turn will assist our area.

For a long time Mr. Porter has felt that we need to give more attention to vocational and technical education.

We are in complete agreement with Mr. Porter and commend him for his efforts along this line.

Youngsters who do not go on to college have very little applicable job training. They are a big problem.

It could be possible to use our existing buildings in the evening as well as during the day. Special courses, along with adult education, would better prepare our youth for the world of work.

In Mr. Porter's words, "The goal of education should be to make good citizens and productive workers."

Experience is the best teacher, you say? Let's teach some experience.

We urge everyone to give complete cooperation to the survey team. Their success, and in turn, ours, depends on it.

Tim Baker Gives His Impression of Jamboree Trip

By TIM BAKER

The most interesting things I thought we saw on our Boy Scout Jamboree trip were the city of Washington, D. C. and its buildings.

Most inspiring was the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery.

Upon leaving Washington, we went to the World's Fair in New York. At the fair the most wonderful sight was the General Motors Building, seeing some of the future cars and going on guided tour ride of the future.

While at Valley Forge, it was terrific to see all the tents and twice as many boys.

The best part was when President Johnson arrived and over 50,000 boys and leaders stood to pay tribute to him.

Most of us got acquainted with foreign scouts and did a little trading.

Many of us worked on our adventure award.

The special award is for a boy who meets the following requirements; completion of the obstacle course, hike one of two trails, get names and addresses of 20 boys from different states, whittle a neckerchief slide and do one of two field events.

Brakes Fail in Right Turn at 4 Corners

CLINTON — The four corners at Clinton was the scene of an accident on July 25 when the brakes of a car driven by Stephan W. Zielinski, 206 Knapp, Brooklyn failed.

Schmittow stopped eastbound for the red light on US-12 at M-50. Mr. Zielinski was approaching the intersection heading south on M-50. He tried to stop, before turning right on US-12.

The brakes failed and he continued to make the turn. The car skidded sidewise and struck the Schmittow car in the left fender.

Toledoan Receives Summons

CLINTON — A summons was issued to Sam Olis Ward, 17, of Toledo, O., for an improper left turn and failure to yield the right of way Saturday at 2:45 p.m.

He collided with a car driven by Lloyd Bernard Pearson, 62, of Addison.

Mr. Pearson was entering the intersection of M-50 and US-12 when he saw the car driven by Mr. Ward approach from the opposite direction and slow down as if to turn.

Mr. Pearson said he thought the other vehicle would wait until he had cleared the intersection before it would turn.

Ward was unable to explain his action.

Mr. Pearson was pulling a horse trailer containing a horse and colt who did not appear injured.

Low-Flying Masonite Strikes Car

CLINTON — A sheet of masonite fell out of a trailer pulled by a blue and white 1957 Chevrolet and damaged the windshield, hood and top of a car driven by Gloria Mae Karle, 37, Wisner Hwy., Tipton Saturday at 1:50 p.m.

She stated that just as she met the Chevrolet, a 4x8, an eighth inch-thick sheet of masonite fell off the trailer.

Mrs. Karle's car struck the board as it flew through the air scratching the hood and top, breaking the windshield.

Due to heavy traffic she was unable to get the license of the Chevrolet.

The driver of this car may not have been aware of the accident. Police were unable to locate the car.

FOURTH HEAT WINNERS AT MANCHESTER SPEEDWAY — Mike Withrow, left, drove car 111 July 17, winning the fourth heat at the Manchester Speedway. Only the third time on the track, Mike was so excited that he sheared a pin on the rear axle as he picked up the checkered flag for the victory lap. Buck Smith, owner of the car, was pleased with the success, too.

Born Aug. 7, 1889, at Central Lake, Mich., he was the son of William and Rachael Emans.

He married Mildred Emmons in Aug., 1931. She preceded him in death in March, 1963.

He is survived by four sons, Edward of Tecumseh, James of Sacramento, Calif.; Neldin of Standish and George Dodge of Petoskey; three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Burley of Boyne City, Mrs. Maude Bidwell of Coldwater and Mrs. Eliza Coors of Petoskey; two stepsons, William Ford of Morenci and Walter Ford, 511 Brown St., and 27 grandchildren.

The Rev. Blair Bashore officiated and burial was in the Brookside Cemetery.

● HERMAN P. PFEIFFLE

Services will be held Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at the Everiss Funeral Home, Adrian, for Herman P. Pfeiffle, 72, of Blood Rd., who died Tuesday morning at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

He had been ill about a month.

Mr. Pfeiffle, a retired New York Central Railway employee, was born Aug. 26, 1891, in Manchester.

He was the son of Henry and Mary Pfeiffle. He married Grace Brady April 2, 1914, at Federman, Mich.

He was a NYC station agent at Petersburg from 1916-1932, when he moved to Adrian.

The family home was on Bent Oak Ave., and there he continued his hobby of raising asters under cloth on a wholesale basis.

He retired about eight years ago and moved to Tecumseh.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. A. A. Musch, 4372 Blood Rd.; one son, Jack Pfeiffle of Adrian and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in the Lenawee Hills Memorial Park where a Masonic committal service will be held.

● ROBERT FLETCHER

Services were held Tuesday in Onsted for Robert Fletcher of Wolf Lake Park who died Saturday at Thorn Hospital, Hudson.

An employee of the Tecumseh Products Co., Mr. Fletcher had been in failing health for about a year, but his death was unexpected.

The Rev. Frank Thompson of Onsted officiated and burial was in Toledo Memorial Park.

Registrations Lagging for Primary Election

Registrations for the primary election on Sept. 1 are lagging and falling far below peak registration figures of the past.

These facts were pulled out of the registration books for the city of Tecumseh by Mrs. Naomi Sallows, clerk.

Early this week, only 28 had registered for the primary election, and the total registered voters in the city numbered only 2,960.

Unless there's a big rush to register between now and Aug. 3 — last day to register for the primary — Tecumseh's registration total could be 400, or more, less than the peak registration of 3,383 in 1961.

While the city is getting bigger and bigger, the registration of voters is just the opposite:

- ► 1961 — 3,383
- ► 1962 — 3,313
- ► 1963 — 3,271
- ► 1964 — 2,960

Mrs. Sallows sent out 600 notices to local residents earlier this year that their registration elegibility had lapsed.

Those who have never registered and those who have not voted in the past two years must register now in order to be eligible to vote in the primary election on Sept. 1.

Oct. 5 is the deadline to register for the general election on Nov. 3.

Scooter Rider Suffers Fracture

CLINTON — Gary Lynn Buehren, 17, of 9480 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., Tecumseh, was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital with a fracture of the lower right leg and foot Thursday after an accident.

Mr. Buehren and a companion were headed west of Wellwood Rd., on their motor scooters.

Both figured the driver would wait until they passed, however, Mrs. Mulcany pulled across in front of them.

Mrs. Mulcany stated to Clinton State Police she did not see either scooter before she started to turn.

Mrs. Mulcany was issued a summons for improper left turn.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

In sympathy with Mrs. Noel Francoeur's letter in Tuesday's, July 21, Adrian Telegram, she is concerned with the same conditions we have to put up with at our home (107 W. Brown St., Tecumseh, Mich.) Besides motorcycles at 2 a.m., there's a continuous tire-squealing, horn honking, drag racing and in plain words, "hot-rodding" until 4 a. m. This happens on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at our street intersection of Brown and Evans Streets. This has been going on for about eight weeks.

We have called the police several times and they, in turn, have "promised to do something" about it.

All we taxpayers of Tecumseh pay taxes for better and wider streets. For what? For the benefit of the "crazy drivers" who want to entertain themselves, day and night, at our discomfort.

They are provided with a well-lighted, open most of the night, gas station with bright lights on all night.

As yet, there has been no change in the "ear-splitting concert." They have and use Union St., Brown St., Evans St., with the A & P parking lot to race up and down at their pleasure.

If these "crazy drivers'" licenses were suspended for 30 to 60 days, I doubt they'd be putting on the show they do now. It was most interesting to note in the Police Blotter of last week's Tecumseh Herald, more tickets were issued for speeding, with one for excessive noise, when there could easily have been a dozen or more.

The Rev. G. P. Dobberfuhl of Adrian says: "In the middle of our Sunday worship, the quiet Sunday air was shattered with the noise of cars shifting gears and accelerating down the street with noisy mufflers. We are free to worship as we please. But this freedom is surely limited and when a driver carelessly or thoughtlessly steps on the rights of others, he is misusing that freedom."

All we can be sure of in this noise-wracked world is that some day we'll have eternal peace and quiet, without the noise of "hot-rodding" citizens.

Mrs. Vera M. Driscoll.

TO THE EDITORS:

I recently read your account of the Tecumseh Boy Scouts' camping trip during which they trapped a raccoon in their camp. I wish you had gone into a little more detail!

I had my Cadette Girl Scouts camping in Pokagon State Park during the last week of June, and a coon got into our supply tent three nights in a row! He took covers off of everything, including Tupperware. He was particularly fond of the frosting on one box of cupcakes. He ate the frosting and left the cake. He had cake and cookie crumbs from one end of the tent to the other. He tore up a roll of paper towels and a package of napkins.

We finally gave up and put everything that wasn't sealed in cans in the car and locked it.

The park naturalist told us that they had trapped about 60 raccoons because they were beginning to bother the campers. They estimated that there were approximately 150 still in the park. If we had known how to trap one there would only have been 149 left.

Mrs. D. H. Merriman
nee Donna Adams

Police Reports

Five minor traffic accidents were investigated by the Tecumseh police during the past week.

John K. Diven, 18, Deerfield, and Harry M. Farley, 58, Britton, were involved in an accident on Maumee when Diven followed too close. No charge was made.

James R. Franks, 16, Adrian, was cited for failing to yield the right of way at S. Oneida and E. Pottawatamie where he collided with an auto driven by Anna E. Reese, 16, Britton.

Two cars bumped Tuesday in the downtown area when Mary L. Kelly, 41, Clinton, started to pull out of her parking space and hit Ruth Brighton, 41, of 210 W. Kilbuck, who was just starting to park.

Accidents checked the week before included:

Jerry Hawkins, 23, of 315 S. Maumee and Fr. Thomas J. Collins, 55, N. Union St., with Fr. Collins cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Dolores A. Morley, 26, of 6953 Green Hwy., and Carrol D. Carpenter, 40, of 507 Parkway, with Mrs. Morley charged with failure to have car under control.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

SENIOR CITIZENS

Senior citizens are reminded of the Aug. 6 picnic get-to-gether at the Community Center from 3 to 6 p.m. If weather permits, tables will be on the lawn behind the center.

The Teen Club has asked to help and are planning the entire afternoon's activities, plus furnishing the dessert. How does homemade ice cream sound? That's what it is, so plan to be here that day.

Parks and Recreation Department will furnish the main meat, and ask all senior citizens attending to bring their own place setting and a small dish to pass.

Make plans now for this get-together and bring along a friend or two.

SWIMMING POOL

Second session of swimming lessons will close Friday. That evening, starting at 7, demonstrations will be given of all age group lessons.

Activities will highlight various swimming skills taught during the past four weeks.

Third session will start Monday, Aug. 3 and continue thru Friday, Aug. 28. Registration for this session is still open for all ages.

TEEN CLUB

Last Wednesday, the Tecumseh Teen Club played host to a group from St. Johns, who were here to learn more about our Teen Club, with hopes of starting one of their own this fall.

Visiting from St. Johns were Al Werbish, John Vitek, Lee Hill, Tom Maier, Debbie Strouse, Brenda Purvis, Sherry Kentfield and Jan Miller. Their advisors, who were impressed with the city in general were Commissioner and Mrs. Raymond Kentfield Jr., Director of Recreation and Mrs. Roger Kowalski, Mrs. William Morriss and Leroy Hansen.

Besides local Teen Club members, who did an outstanding job of planning the day's activities, including a swim at the pit and teen dance that evening, a special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, who opened their door with all the hospitality and helpfulness a visitor to our city could ask for.

PLAYGROUNDS

Patterson

Due to the hot weather, we played quiet games such as Shopping, I Spy, Let's Pretend, and took short walks.

Mark Murphy will represent Patterson in the playground checker tournament this week. Others who participated in the tournament were Mark Hall, David Lay, and Mike Schneirla.

Tecumseh Acres

Last Tuesday the children took parts in the fairy tales Sleeping Beauty and Little Red Riding Hood, acting the plays out.

Special event of the week was a checker contest with contestants divided into two age groups; one to nine and 10 to 12. Winners were Patty Racey and Pam Mullins.

Shady Lane

Although the weather was uncomfortably warm this week, the children enjoyed playing kickball, dodgeball, checkers, Sorry, and many other games.

Mary and Jerry Lake, David Ryan, Martin Harper, Susanne, Steve and John Drake assembled model army tanks. Susanne also put together a turtle purse. Steve Schafer purchased a wooden airplane.

Martin Harper was our checker champion in the nine and under age group. Steve Hallenbeck, last year's champion, is winner in the 10-12 age group. They will compete in the playground checker tournament this week.

Herrick Park

Children have been active playing games, ball, cards, drawing and coloring pictures, and working with construction paper.

In leather crafts Kim Goldmann has been making a belt, Kendra Goldmann a baseball coin purse, Rita Pace a drawstring purse, Jan Wilson a comb case, Larry Bird an Indian coin purse and Karen Bird a turtle coin purse.

Next week, Friday August 7, the playground will close the 1964 summer program with a picnic.

The Parks and Recreation department will furnish hot dogs, potato chips, and pop for each child that attends the playgrounds next Friday at noon.

Playground supervisors will organize each picnic and will supervise it. All children are asked to attend throughout the week so supervisors will know approximately how many plan to attend the picnic Friday.

JUNIOR GIRLS ALL-STAR

JUNIOR GIRLS SOFTBALL

The Jolly Red Giants staged a major upset Wednesday, slipping by the previously undefeated Champion Grubbies, 31-28. The Giants staked winning pitcher Jan Jelton to a 30-9 lead and held on to win.

Leading the Giants were Sharon Bennett with seven for seven, Jackie Rodgers with six for seven including two home runs, and Mary Jo Rosacrans with five for five.

The leading hitters for the losers were Kathy Baugh and Jean Brazee with six hits for six times at bat. Home runs were hit by Kathy Baugh and Sue Smith.

The Killers defeated the Horse Flies 16-11 in a close game that went into an extra inning. Horse Flies were in the lead at the fifth inning until the Killers scored to tie the game at seven to seven.

Mary Spur hit a home run with two girls on base for the Killers to put them ahead in the sixth inning. Cathy King was the leading hitter for the winners with four hits for four times at bat.

Linda Baxter was the winning pitcher while Vivian Revesz suffered the loss. Brenda Watson and Mary Tooman were the leading hitters for the losers with each getting three hits for three times at bat.

Fields of Play

By CARL SCHIERHORN

Cub Minors

► Ron Randall pitched a no-hitter for the Giants, but his teammates gave him shoddy support, committing five errors, and they barely eked out a 9-5 win over the Cubs.

The Giants themselves collected five hits off Freddie Sisty, the Cub pitcher. Tom Smith had two hits in three trips and Ricky Bacon had 2-for-4.

The Cubs scored three times in the first to twice by the Giants. They extended their lead to 4-2 with another run in the second inning.

The Giants closed the gap with one run in the third and took the lead when they scored a pair of runs in the fourth. The game was tied again when the Cubs scored a run in the top of the sixth.

The Giants broke the tie with a run in the bottom of that inning. Ken Baker was hit by a pitched ball, and Ricky Bacon sent him home with a double.

► Bob Miller pitched a two-hitter and John Revesz and Jack McCarley each had a pair of hits as the Braves pounded the Cubs, 9-2.

The Braves scored a run in the first, added six in the third, and tallied twice in the sixth inning. The Cubs scored single runs in the third and fifth innings.

A fine fielding play was made by Jon Smith. The center fielder grabbed a short fly just behind second base.

► Products Workers scored six runs in the last two innings to break open a tight 4-3 game and beat Britton, 10-4.

For Products John Kennedy and Steve Ring combined to pitch a two-hitter. Britton's starting pitcher was Ron Finnley.

Steve Ring and Tom Gallant led Products at bat. Ring had a double and two singles in five trips. Tom Walked twice and hit a long triple.

With bases loaded and two out in the last half of the seventh inning, John Kennedy fired to first, picking off the surprised Britton runner and ending the game.

► Despite three hits by Greg Wise, the Indians could only score three runs and fell to the Eagles, 7-3.

Jeff Schwartz started for the Eagles and was the winning pitcher. He struck out five. Starter for the losers was Cecil Stanley.

At bat the Eagles were led by John Boldon and Jim Mobely, who hit triples, and Jim Upell, who had a double.

Cub Majors

Butch Quinn was on the mound for the Union team and allowed Police only four hits while striking out nine. He aided his own cause by hitting a home run and two singles in four times at bat.

The starter and loser for Police was Ronald Randolph. He sent 10 Union batters down on strikes.

ALL-STAR KILLERS — Catcher Donna Osburn waves the ball good-bye as Tracy Mengerink raps it back to pitcher Linda Oberlin. Umpire Carol Hand keeps close eye on the action. The scene is typical, in many instances, of the finest summer recreation program Tecumseh has ever conducted. Hundreds and hundreds of youngsters — all ages, both girls and boys — are participating regularly on recreation fields spotted about town. Lots of fun now — but school is just a month away and most of the youngsters will soon swap balls and bats for books and pencils. In the meantime, the athletic fields will be kept busy until the school bell ends the summer vacation.

Cub All-Stars To Clash with Blissfield Aug. 1

The Tecumseh Cub League all-stars will meet an all-star team from Blissfield, Saturday, Aug. 1, at Nelson Field No. 1. Game time will be 1:30 p.m.

The playing field will be conditioned and umpires will be supplied. An attempt will be made to have a public address system for the game.

Veteran Charlie Manley Retires After 21 Years

By CARL SCHIERHORN

He joined the department February 2, 1943, and for six years was a member of the fire crew.

In 1949 he became the driver of one of the trucks and remained in this position for the next 15 years until his retirement.

He spent his first two years as a driver on 24-hour alert, seven days a week. Then another driver was hired, and he worked on a 24-hours-on-24-hours-off shift.

In his fifteen years of driving, Mr. Manley had an excellent safety record, being involved in only one accident, that a minor one, which took place when his truck skidded on ice, denting a fender.

He served under Chief Cecil Alderdyce for 14½ years. The chief commended him as "one of my best men".

In his 21 years in this department, Mr. Manley saw many changes take place. The floor space at the fire station was nearly tripled and three new vehicles, two trucks and an emergency wagon, were acquired.

He has three grown children, Charles M. Manley of 611 Murray Dr., Robert Manley of Toledo, and Mrs. Willis Kilburn, and has eight grandchildren.

Recalling fires that he had fought, Mr. Manley stated that probably the worst and the most spectacular fire was the Baldwin Hardware fire in late January of 1951. It was a bitterly cold night and the firemen battled the blaze from 2 a.m. until 8 a.m. the next morning. Additional help had to be called in from Adrian and other surrounding communities.

One of the major changes that Mr. Manley has noticed in Tecumseh in his years here is the change in government from village to city. Fifteen years ago the head of the community, Floyd Elliott, was a member of the fire department. Now Tecumseh hires a full-time city manager.

His future plans include a trip to Alaska with a friend, Oliver Blum. They plan to take a pick-up truck and spend about three months for the journey. They had originally planned to go this year but complications forced them to put it off until the summer of 1965.

At his retirement his fellow workers, instead of giving him a dinner, presented him with a purse of money to be put toward the cost of his Alaskan tour.

MAJORETTES AT CAMP — Seven Tecumseh High School majorettes combined hard work with a summer vacation recently when they attended the Smith-Walbridge Midwest Majorette Camp at Syracuse, Ind. It had a scoop neckline lavishly embraced with alencon lace. Sequins extended on both sides of the full skirt accented in the back with a full removable chapel train caught to the waist with two pert organza bows.

Her elbowlength veil of imported illusion in two-petal tiers was attached to a crown of alencon lace and Barelli crystals.

Jodie Jedele of Clinton, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl dressed as a miniature bride.

She carried a miniature bouquet similar to the bride's.

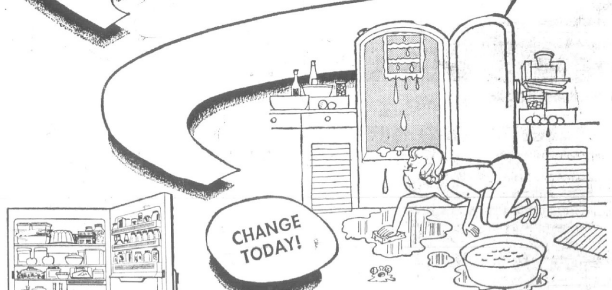
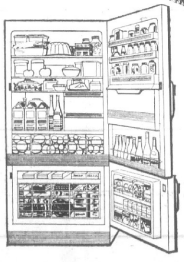
Are "YOU" still getting along with a too-small, out-dated refrigerator that needs messy defrosting?





BIG, NEW, WORK-SAVING, MONEY-SAVING

REFRIGERATOR-FREEZERS

End All Defrosting

It's like having a supermarket in your kitchen!

Today's modern refrigerator-freezers end all defrosting in both refrigerator and freezer sections. This means no frost ever . . . on food packages, ice cube trays or walls . . . no defrosting drudgery ever . . . no scraping, no chipping, no prying, no messy pans of water to empty (or spill).

In addition, the new refrigerator-freezers will:
• Store enough fresh and frozen foods to last for weeks.
• Save extra trips to the market.
• Keep leftovers fresh and tasty until needed.
• Save money because the large freezer compartment allows you to buy meats, vegetables and baked goods when prices are low.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

INCREDIBLE GOINGS-ON

There have been things happening here at the west end of Logan Street, the likes of which none of us remember. The bird business is booming — but isn't everything in Tecumseh?

Last week's family of upside-down nuthatches, who were so noisy as they played on the rough bark of the walnut tree and the trio of young tufted titmice, whose feathers were so ragged that the little birds looked wet all of the time, were only the beginning.

One exciting phase of activity has taken place on the feeder and, the way film is rolling through the camera makes me wish we had a bit of stock in the Eastman Kodak Company. I shall not say we have pictures of all the business because until those precious little boxes are back from the processor, why ask for trouble. But if everything was set right and working properly, we should have some good pictures of several "firsts".

How many times when we have marvelled at the beautiful colors and markings of a bluejay and then caught our breath at the brilliance of a male cardinal, has our next thought been, "My, wouldn't it be something to see those two together!" Well, that is exactly what has been happening and happening fairly often. The bluejays are young and apparently have not yet learned much about bullying, and Papa Cardinal is in such a high state of excitement over family responsibilities that he is bold and brave.

The first such visit had us shaking our heads in disbelief. Handsome Mr. Cardinal was busy nibbling sunflower seeds when in swooped a young bluejay. We expected the red bird to rocket away or the bluejay to start a driving-away dance, but nothing happened. Each stayed on his own side of the feeder and we were aghast. It was an enchanting sight and the only sound heard above our oohs and aahs was the click, click, click of the camera.

Not all of the subsequent feeder-sharings have been so peaceful and friendly. The cardinal, strangely enough, usually comes out the victor — by crouching low, raising his top-knot high and opening his mouth wide, he hisses the bluejays right off the feeding platform. Oh, there has been so much red and blue business that we can still hardly believe our good fortune. One bluejay will either be tolerated or driven off; two bluejays usually produce the thrilling sight of the three birds eating together; three or four though, are almost too much and Papa Cardinal makes a dignified exit.

Perhaps one reason for the red boy's new-found courage is his family. He is still being attentive to his wife; to our great pleasure they often lunch together. I just hope we have captured on film a few of those tender moments when he gallantly feeds her an especially tasty tidbit. There are also the 'kids' to be taken care of and it might be that, with so much to do, Papa C. simply cannot leave such easy food to young bluejays who don't know enough to drive him away.

These young cardinals, there are two of them by the way, are little characters. Like all baby birds, they are so rough and ragged — their feathers have a great deal of growing up and smoothing out to do. They resemble their mother, soft brownish gray with red accents, but instead of having the brilliant red bill, theirs is a non-shiny black. Most often over-worked Papa feeds his always-hungry youngsters on the ground but occasionally one follows him up to the feeder. Again fingers are crossed that pictures of this operation turn out o.k.

So it is that the cardinals have been entertaining with what can only be described as incredible goings-on.

Big Room to Practice and Store Equipment Needed by Musicians

The article last week on Tecumseh School Bands told of a 36-piece senior group that greeted Don Johnson 10 years ago and has grown to a current 100-piece senior band, plus 65-piece cadet band.

Elementary and Junior High groups have experienced the same growth, bringing total to 425 aspiring musicians.

This has created two major problems.

First is a suitable place to practice and store equipment.

The original band room in the high school was built in 1950 to seat 35.

Since the cafeteria is the only room that will accommodate a larger group, it has become through necessity, the music room although it has poor acoustics.

Band Director Don Johnson says that under these conditions musicians and directors cannot hear the music properly, which is essential.

Many people have asked why the present building program does not include a music room.

Critical academic needs had to be taken into account immediately.

Mr. Johnson commented that a music room is a necessity for the progress of musicians and for the director's peace of mind.

"If any citizens," Mr. Johnson added, "individual or organization, know a method of gaining proper facilities, let school officials know."

"It would be a fine addition to the school plant and would aid over 50 musicians, vocal and instrumental," he said.

At present, the school board is trying to rectify the acoustical problems of the cafeteria, but, according to report of acoustical engineer, it is nearly impossible to turn it into a music room.

The second problem is instruments.

Incoming Freshmen Visit WMU

More than 3,500 freshmen who will be entering Western Michigan University received a taste of campus life this summer.

The freshmen came to the campus to learn something of their future programs of study, to meet with the counselors and to see a bit of the campus.

David Lemerand was among those who were on the WMU campus last week.

A 1964 graduate of Tecumseh High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lemerand, 413 W. Pottawatamie St.

As each team lot a point, the Rev. Paul Brantingham, pastor or John Kelly, assistant Sunday school superintendent, lost two inches of his necktie.

Case Dismissed in Circuit Court

A circuit court case, brought by Richard and Mary Fowle of Tecumseh, Aultman and Esther Sisty of Dundee, against Theola Evans of Tecumseh, was dismissed July 20.

The complaint alleged the originating and spreading of vicious rumors.

New Officer?

Possibility of a juvenile officer to be added to the Tecumseh Police Department drew a step closer Monday night when Council discussed a plan resulting from a meeting of local officials.

Salary of such an officer would be paid jointly by the city and the School Board, which prompted action last spring.

Although no action was taken, councilmen voiced opinions in favor and indicated they would cooperate with school officials, if the city's portion of the salary was available.

City Manager Cal Zorn said the present budget did not allow for a new police officer in salary — city's share probably between $3,000 and $4,000 — but funds likely could be obtained.

Murell Clark, police chief, said a specially-trained and experienced officer in juvenile work should be considered.

School and city officials along with Juvenile Court Judge Maurice Spears met recently and proposed a juvenile officer.

TO THE EDITORS:

How disappointing to teenage boys to be told by city officials, all of them but one, they would certainly attend the American Heritage program July 18 at the Scout Cabin and then — not one showed up.

The half-hour program was packed with impressive patriotic historical narratives in conjunction with a national Boy Scout Jamboree.

Certainly a most worthwhile project and their attitude as each boy played his part, made the rather small audience realize that the youngsters were impressed with the words and actions of the founding fathers of our country.

Would that the Tecumseh city fathers had set a better example for our youth, at least by telling the boy who personally invited them that they could not attend.

Interested Grandmother.

TO THE EDITORS:

I've enjoyed receiving The Herald each week, especially for news of former schoolmates, their graduations, weddings, enlistments, discharges, etcetera.

It sounds as if Tecumseh is having a real economic boom with Stauffer and Fisher Body building south of town.

Please note my change of address so that I will get the paper Mondays again instead of later in the week.

Golfers Like Macon Course

Macon Golf Club is in its fourth season since 55 acres of the Harold Gibson farm was transformed into greens and fairways, and then enhanced with shrubs and trees for the players' pleasure.

Located on the corner of Pennington and Macon Rds., northeast of Tecumseh, the nine holes present a pleasant course for those who love to swing and putt.

It was in 1959 that Harold Gibson and Walter 'Doc' Morden decided that they would build a golf course of their own, since they were tired of driving so far to play.

Friends of many years, after finding an adequate water supply, the men did as much of the work as time and their own initiative would allow.

They hired big equipment operators to form the greens, then they worked every spare minute in the evenings and weekends to get the course in operation.

Mr. Morden is employed at the Tecumseh Products Co., and his partner is a salesman for Ford Farm Equipment.

The original barn was converted into a club house with large picture windows. The original flooring was kept and some of the original paneling was used as wainscoting.

A luncheon counter stands ready to serve sandwiches, pop and beer for thirsty, hungry golfers and their friends.

Other parts of the barn are used to store patrons' golf clubs, carts and machinery used in maintaining the grounds.

The airy atmosphere of the barn makes it a most pleasant place to be any hot afternoon after nine or 18 holes on the course.

Bill Berkley is the greenskeeper and also gives lessons.

Often he is assisted by two young men.

Mrs. Gibson, in charge of the strictly seasonal operation weekdays, is assisted in the morning by Mrs. Charles Howell.

League play is held five nights a week, Monday through Friday.

There have been two holes-in-one on the course, one by Pat Hollar last season and one made by Bill Cross of Livonia this year.

Plans for the future include moving some of the greens and lengthening some of the holes, besides putting in some more sand traps.

There is a strong possibility that another nine holes will be added to the course.

The thriving business is carried on with a minimum of effort, or so it [illegible], and just a stone's throw away from the Gibson home where four lively children romp and play.

They are William 12, John 4, Gail 2 and the baby Annalee, only 2½ months.

The visitor is immediately impressed with the quiet, spacious appearance of the grounds and that indefinable atmosphere retained in the barny clubhouse, which makes it so pleasing.

The Mordens have three children, two married. Mrs. Lee Phibbs and Graham Morden, living in Tecumseh.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

It often takes a person to put a small town on the map. That was the case last winter with Terry McDermott and Essexville.

Terry won a gold medal for speed skating in the Winter Olympics, in fact was the only United States athlete to turn the trick.

A barber by trade, Terry put the spotlight on his home town and a lot of folks found out for the first time that Essexville was a community on Saginaw Bay, next door to Bay City.

Another Essexville resident, not nearly as famous as Terry, is doing her share to help bring honor and attention to the tiny town.

Patricia Ankney is a history and vocal teacher at Essexville. During June and July she serves on the staff of the Caseville Summer Enrichment Program.

Probably the only one of its kind in the nation, this six-week set-up offers a wide variety of academic subjects, classical dancing, athletics and drama — from elementary through college levels.

This year's "The Music Man" was a smash success, four performances before capacity audiences of more than 500 each night — at $1.50 for adults and $1 for school-age kids.

The cast numbered 70 and the orchestra had 36 pieces, all under the talented eye of Miss Pat, a human dynamo like you have never seen before.

She had adult assistants, but there is no question who furnishes the amazing drive and spark which infected everyone connected with the show.

Imagine a lineup of young people doing this demanding musical, average age 13. The feminine lead, Marian the librarian, was handled by a 15-year-old, who sang like a doll and looked like one, too.

Following one performance, Miss Pat told us about the Summer Enrichment Program.

Seems Caseville has a lot of school taxpayers who own property, which they use only during vacations. They pay their share of school taxes, but never got anything for their dollars.

Four years ago, Supt. Kenneth R. Wahl came up with an idea—offer resorters a variety of activities in the school during the summer.

This year, more than 300 were enrolled. Only credit given was on the college level, which attracted about 60 people, with Hillsdale College tied into the deal.

For elementary through high school, classes in algebra, creative writing and the like are taught by qualified instructors, but just for the enjoyment and knowledge they offer.

Children of property owners pay $40 fee for the six weeks, plus $5 if the youngsters use the bus service. Non-property owners are charged $60 registration per child.

Youngsters usually take three classes, or if they're cast in the annual musical, two classes plus the show.

How they love it and how they work.

School doors open about 6 a.m. and the place is a beehive until nearly midnight.

Youngsters come from Albion, Allegan, Bad Axe, Birmingham, Caro, Cass City, Detroit, Jackson, Essexville, Grosse Pointe, Lapeer, Pigeon, Port Austin, Rochester, Saginaw, Sebewaing, Ubly and Port Huron as well as Caseville. There are even some out-of-staters who take part in Cultural Enrichment.

The mother of a 14-year-old lad, who appeared in "The Music Man," said he was really heartsick when the six-week period closed last Friday. This apparently is a common recation among the kids.

WCTU Hostess

Mrs. Wilfred Waldron will be the hostess for the WCTU meeting Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 2 p.m.

School Budget Tops Million

For the first time in many years, the Tecumseh schools will start a session in the black. They will also begin the 1964-65 term with another record-breaking budget — $1,266,633.27. Anticipated income for the fiscal year is $1,276,917.67, which will leave the schools a reserve of about $10,000.

According to the auditor's report just released, the schools are out of debt — including the $160,000 deficit which plagued operations for several years — and had a reserve of $32,300 as of June 30.

The new budget is up approximately $150,000.

The big increase is largely due to teachers' salaries being hiked, restoring several educational services and programs, and maintenance, of which a new roof on the junior high building is the major cost.

☆

MORE INCOME will be realized from increased state aid and greater evaluation of property in the district.

The schools also will be able to utilize more of the four mills passed in February for operation, since the debt has been erased.

A public hearing on the budget will be held Aug. 17 in the school's new offices at the old public library on W. Chicago Blvd.

The board is expected to review and adopt it at this session.

Council Receives Three Petitions for Curb, Gutter

Three petitions for curb and gutter, one including requests also for sewer and water, were presented to Council Monday night.

Residents on Orchard Lane are asking for sewer, water and curb and gutter. Their petition was accepted and a public hearing was scheduled for Sept. 8.

Other two petitions from Burt St. and 100 block of S. Democrat St., were also accepted and referred to the city manager for scheduling.

Some curb and gutter work already petitioned for may not be installed for another two or three years.

Activity Booms at Plant Sites

Work on both the Stauffer Chemical and Fisher Body plants speeds along.

At the GM location, structural steel work began Wednesday morning. Many of the 634 giant pilings already have been driven — up to 60 feet beneath the earth. Much of the footing work is also done.

FOOTINGS AT STAUFFER are being poured this week on the 16-000-square-foot one story research and development laboratory, which is expected to be done by Nov. 15, according to Bruce Rhodes, project engineer.

This will be the first building in the $20 million Stauffer complex, to be followed by a three-story general administration layout.

A boiler house will also be going up at Stauffer, along with installation of a packaged sewage treatment plant, which will be capable of handling 15,000 gallons of wastes daily.

Besides construction people on the Stauffer site, the offices provide quarters for three engineers and four draftsmen, who labor over design plans for the complex.

Clusters of steel pilings — from six to 13 together — are being smashed into the earth about every 50 feet. Thirty-five are to be driven into place during a 10-hour shift. The big air hammer clobbers the pilings with a five-ton pressure.

☆

STEEL EXPERTS MOVED into the area Wednesday, aided by a 120-foot high crane, which is swinging the huge beams into position.

All of the 634 pilings are slated to be in by Sept. 7.

MIGHTY BIG NAILS — Construction worker operates a huge five-ton hammer which drives clusters of steel pilings into the ground at GM Fisher Body plant site. Work is going on at a breakneck pace; in the background a 120-foot crane places the building's steel framing. The 290,000-square-foot structure will house the fabricating trim plant for production of sets of upholstery for passenger cars with approximately 1,000 employees.

John Calhoun Decides That 94 Is a Good Age To Retire

By DOROTHY GRIGG

John Calhoun — now 94 — has decided to retire.

This is the first year that the native Raisin Township farmer has not assisted his son, Leslie, with the planting and harvesting.

Instead of driving truck and tractor, Mr. Calhoun decided this spring that it was a good year to rest and watch progress of his daughter-in-law, Gloria, as she studied and received her degree from Siena Heights College.

☆

Due to the press of farm work, only Gloria and her daughter were able to make the trip. They left Tuesday and will arrive home Aug. 18, just in time to celebrate Grandfather John's birthday anniversary.

Born in Holloway on Sutton Rd., he has spent his entire life farming. He was supervisor of Raisin Township for 30 years.

In perfect health — in fact he has never been hospitalized — Mr. Calhoun never misses a Sunday service at the Holloway Presbyterian Church.

☆

MR. CALHOUN attributes his long, healthy life to one banana each day.

He doesn't care for vegetables, but since he was a small child he has eaten the yellow tropical fruit first thing every morning.

Seek Annex for Coulter Subdivision

Another annexation to Tecumseh was requested Monday night when Marsh Coulter presented a petition to Council for accepting approximately 50 acres adjacent to Occidental, between Russell and W. Chicago Blvd.

Mr. Coulter is planning a subdivision of about 165 homes for the area.

Council accepted the petition and forwarded it to Tecumseh Township for approval.

City Purchases Off-Street Lot for Development

The Roger Linger building and property located in the alley behind Garno's Barber Shop, was purchased last week by the city for $4,500.

The small 35x65-foot lot is necessary for development of off-street parking in the southwest business block.

Fast Flipper Will Cop $25

Fourth annual running of the Tecumseh Pancake Race is expected to attract about 4,000 spectators Friday evening at 7:30.

The event is held annually in conjunction with the merchants' free pancake supper and is patterned after the famed Olney hot-cake dash.

Open to women 18 and over, the race will be run over a two-block course along Evans St., starting at Logan St., and finishing at Pottawatamie St.

RULES FOR the race:

► Each contestant will be furnished a griddle and one pancake.

► Four flip points, each eight feet high, will be located on the track. Contestant must toss her pancake over each one, successfully catching it on griddle. As many tries as needed may be taken.

► Contestants may wear any type of attire or footwear they choose.

► Contestants may run barefoot if they like.

►If several heats are run, the winner will be judged on time, as kept by Coach Fagan with an official track stop watch.

Women wishing to enter the race may sign up now at The Herald office, or at the weekly's sidewalk sale booth Friday.

Noisy Cars Bring Many Complaints

Dragging, squealing tires and noisy mufflers on city streets have resulted in many complaints to city officials.

Councilmen questioned Police Chief Murell Clark Monday night about the problem and possible remedies.

Clark told the city fathers that he simply did not have enough officers to properly patrol the streets. He pointed out that the city has only two men on duty at night, one at the desk and one patrolling.

Lack of officers often causes some complaints or calls from residents to be neglected for two or three hours.

City officials also questioned the small fines assessed against speeders and violators and said some are paying their fines on a weekly basis.

Council decided to confer with Justice of Peace Ernest Oliver and seek his help in curbing the speeding and dragging, mostly by young drivers.

AND THEY'RE OFF — A prime example of the racing craze with some of the younger generation starts with this pavement notation on a stretch of roadway along North Union. Future fireballs have appropriated it as their personal torque-way, a place to see how the rod winds out the quarter mile. This neighborhood is one of those most plagued by the current noisy car problem.

Teenagers Cause Four Accidents

Little damage was involved in four accidents caused by teenagers, 17 and under, which were investigated by the Tecumseh police during the past week.

Beverly Ann Miller, 17, of 207 W. Russell, was cited for improp-backing on N. Maumee St. Tuesday when she hit a parked car belonging to Louise Reum, 9589 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd.

Greg L. Schultz, 17, of 411 W. Brown, lost control of his car on N. Occidental Tuesday and sideswiped a mail box. He was charged with failure to have his car under control.

James O. Wallace, IV, 17, of 9236 Carson Hwy., was cited Monday for failure to yield the right of way when he hit a car driven by Gordon G. Grieman, 49, of 9103 N. Union.

A parked car belonging to Royal Welch, 39, 704 River Acres Dr., was damaged Monday when a truck driven by John P. Hayden, 16, 516 W. Logan, backed into it. Hayden was charged with improper backing.

Others attending from Milan were Mrs. Jerry Knieper, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meads, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Meads, Clarence, Diane and Joyce and Mrs. Stella Robinson and Billy and Shirley.

Where Was Check for Past 18 Years?

Where in the world has that check been all these years? A $4 check, made out to Mrs. Murray Day on Feb. 18, 1946, found its way to the owner this past week.

Marilyn Beland urged by her mom, Mrs. Charles Beland, was picking up the litter on their W. Chicago Blvd. lawn when she happened to glance at a lone piece of paper.

Closer scrutiny showed that the paper was a check, written on a bank in St. Petersburg, Fla., and never cashed.

Taking it to the library, where Mrs. Day was at work, Marilyn amazed the assistant librarian, who is a neighbor now of the Belands, but was not at the time the check was written.

In 1946, the Days lived on the Green Acre farm, located on the present Shady Lane, just east of where Murray Dr. intersects Shady Lane.

Marilyn was astounded when she realized that the check was written the year that she was born, by Mrs. Day's mother, Mrs. Alice Fishlock, who was spending the winter in Florida.

Just where could it have been these 18 years?

Violent Storm Raises Havoc

By JUDY FIELDER

A violent electrical storm early Monday morning wreaked havoc at Tecumseh Products Co. when three transformers were put out of commission by lightning.

Electricity traveled into the building through the lines, causing damage to several machines and their control panels.

The company secured three 500 KVA transformers from Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. for use while repairs take place.

A complete estimate of damages has not been made.

A large segment of the first shift was sent home, but the plant was back in operation in time for the other two shifts to continue.

Consumers Power Co. said fuses were burned out at the substation servicing the Products, along with some others in the area.

☆

JAGGED STREAKS were seen shooting from clouds to ground throughout the storm. One housewife, Mrs. Lonal Bishop, 704 Ternes St., who had risen to do her ironing early, changed her mind when she witnessed sparks flying around her kitchen stove.

Although the stove was not damaged, she skipped the clothes pressing and went back to bed.

General Telephone Co. was kept busy repairing several terminals that were pulverized when lightning struck cables.

At least 200 homes in the southwest section of Tecumseh, were without phone service for several hours.

One after-effect of the storm is still being worked on — squirrels eating the salty lead sheathing that protects the phone cables.

☆

Ken Conway, General Telephone manager, relates the story of one man in town who loves squirrels and puts nuts and corn out for them.

The animals take their goodies, hop onto the cables and have a snack of lead along with the food.

Hence, every time it rains, his phone goes out of order.

In an attempt to solve the problem, the company put more salt licks on poles around town and also greased the sheathing so the squirrels could not hang onto the lead.

Preceded by seven attendants, Kathleen Sue Hodges approached the altar of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church July 25 to become the bride of Clyde Locker.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodges, 125 Park St. and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Locker, 218 E. Kilbuck St.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins before the altar enhanced with white gladioli, Majestic daisies and chrysanthemums.

Large gold baskets of the same kind of blossoms flanked the chancel and white satin bows and blossoms marked the white carpeted center aisle.

Virginia Ann Hodges was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Nancy Hodges, Julie and Mary Mudgett, Melissa and Anne Sage.

Meg Mudgett was the flower girl.

Raymond Miller served as best man and the guests were seated by Charles Locker, brother of the groom, Joseph Amrhon, Harold Underwood, Eugene Verrier and William Burkhardt.

The bride wore an original gown designed for her by "Miss Lillian" of New York.

It was fashioned of imported silk organza over taffeta and Alencon lace with scalloped scoop neckline, three quarter sleeves and princess waistline.

Her elbow length veil of French silk illusion was attached to a crown of rhinestones and taffeta self rose.

Her attendants were gowned in floor length pink cloud dresses of imported needlepoint fabric designed to feature the white lantern Schiffli embroidered sleeves.

They wore large pink bows for headpieces and carried white lace fans with arrangements of Rubrum lilies and pink or red garnette rosebuds.

The reception at the Tecumseh Country Club was highlighted by the serving of a tiered cake topped with a white cross centered in a dainty arrangement of pink rosebuds and ivy.

The cake centering a table flounced in shades of pink was flanked by three branched lighted silver candelabra with pink and white flowers at the bases.

Pink and white blooms were used to enhance the club rooms throughout.

The couple have planned a one-week trip to Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Oliphant were among nearly 400 to attend the Dawn Valley School reunion near Dresden, Canada Saturday.

The event was held at the school, which was built in 1888 at a cost of $800. Special feature of the afternoon was a collection of relics from past years, which included an original desk and wooden benches, besides records of the school.

A horse and buggy was in readiness for rides for the young fry. Former students arrived from as far as Vancouver, British Columbia, the latter being an 88-year-old gentleman that came from there.

Duncan attended the school, graduating from the fourth reader there when he was 13 years old. He remarked that it was the first time that he had been homesick since he left.

A nephew of Duncan's, now on the school board, was among others to undertake the monumental task of setting up the reunion. Sounds like a good idea for other schools, now consolidated.

213 Technical Employees Have Arrived at Stauffer

Vice-president of Stauffer Chemical Co., Amos Anderson said Wednesday that 213 technical employees for the new plant have checked in.

About two-thirds of them are working at new facilities in the Weston plant. The other third are located at the former Oro Mfg. in Adrian, which Stauffer has purchased for temporary development function while the plant south of Tecumseh is being built.

Although Mr. Anderson did not have the exact figure, he said that many of the new employees have settled in Tecumseh, six that he knew personally.

The new Stauffer project will open with 500 employees, but an extensive growth program is planned.

Most of the new help now is technical, recruited from all over the world. Local people currently in plant employment are construction, maintainance, technical and clerical.

Process plant operators will be hired locally in coming months to start job training so they will be ready to work upon completion.

Deadline for construction is May, which, Mr. Anderson added, will depend greatly upon the severity of winter weather.

To date, the foundation for the main research laboratory is finished, with construction on two more buildings and the technical center scheduled to start shortly.

In four to five weeks, the plant building will begin.

One farm building near the old Sutton Homestead has been torn down. The house is undergoing restoration for offices.

Township Board Denies Transfer of SDM License

Tecumseh Township Board, presented with a petition of 40 signatures objecting to a proposed restaurant, rejected the issuance of an SDM license to Thomas Corkery Tuesday night.

Mr. Corkery had asked the board to transfer the beer license from Chauncey Harrison, who operated a tavern at Billington Corners about 15 years ago.

The new restaurant would have been built just east of Billington Corners, about two miles west of Tecumseh.

The board was told by Mr. Corkery that he would make another request, probably at the September meeting.

In other action, the board approved a transfer for Marsh Coulter of approximately 50 acres from the township to Tecumseh for annexation.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

SENIOR CITIZENS

Thursday will be the big day for all area senior citizens who plan to attend the monthly get-together from 3 to 6 at the Community Center. This month's meeting calls for an outdoor picnic, (weather permitting) behind the Community Center on the lawn.

The Tecumseh Teen Club has planned the activities and will be on hand to help. They have planned a treat for the group attending, with home made ice cream.

The senior citizens are asked to furnish their own place setting and rolls, and bring along a small dish to pass.

Parks and Recreation Department will furnish the main meat and beverage.

SWIMMING POOL

The third session for swimming lessons started Monday with 145 registered This will be the final session for the summer and any one still interested in signing up, may do so until next Monday.

The month of July saw over 4,900 bathers enjoy the Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool, and another 2,700 bathers at the Pit.

PLAYGROUNDS

Patterson

This week the children studied Indians. They set up an Indian village in Patterson Park. (purely imaginary). The story of Michigan Indians was presented, concentrating on our own Chief Tecumseh. Thursday, the Indian braves went on a buffalo hunt and when they returned to camp there was much rejoicing and feasting.

Wednesday, the checker tournament was completed. Mark Murphy from Patterson defeated Marty Martin of Shady Lane for the championship.

Herrick Park

Our regular playground director, Gail Elliott has left on a two-week vacation. Nancy Kennel has taken her place, and kept the interest going.

Wednesday, Steve Hallenbeck from Shady Lane played our checker champion, Gary Harper, and defeated him for the checker championship.

The children read aloud and learned facts about the Vision of Tecumseh, Tippecanoe, General William, Henry Harrison, and the customs of the Shawnee tribe.

Shady Lane

The checker champion of all the playgrounds is Steve Hallenback from the nine and over age group, and Mary Murphy from the under nine age group.

Connie and Cathy Retan, Susanne Drake, Jimmy Storms, Rebecca Storms, and Steve Schaffer assembled model cars. Connie also assembled an airplane. Rebecca Storms also put together a comb case and an Indian purse.

Discussions on Chief Tecumseh were held during the week and Friday a buffalo hunt was held. Too hot for good hunting, so more discussion followed.

Tecumseh Acres

The event of last week was an Indian theme. Wednesday, we made paper Indians and headdresses, complete with feathers. From studying The Golden Book of Indians, we learned much about the lives and habits of the American Indian.

Barbara Radant made a model car, Kathy Laslo made a belt, and Richard Packard made a model and a baseball purse. Pat Racey made a turtle purse and a pot holder

The four playgrounds will end their summer program this Friday by celebrating with a picnic. The department of Parks and Recreation will furnish hot dogs, pop, and potato chips.

Tecumseh slipped by Monroe last Thursday evening 11-8 to win their eleventh straight game against no defeats. With three remaining games, Tecumseh will try to capture their third league championship in five years. The remaining games are at Hudson, Clinton and Sand Creek. The league picnic is Friday at Island Park in Adrian.

MOM'S SOFTBALL

TOUCH FOOTBALL

It is hoped by yours truly that a league for young footballers can be started this fall. Some of the administrative procedures are being worked out at this time and I hope to report more concerning this fall activity in the near future.

My thinking right now is that this would be a natural followup to the Little League which does so well during the summer. By staying within the same age requirements, we could keep a lot of future athletes active during the fall months, as well as during the summer. Sound good to anyone?

TENNIS

The department hopes to make arrangements for an All-City Tournament for our many tennis players, Dr. Robert Murray has volunteered to help plan this tennis tourney. We probably should wait until cooler weather, right Bob?

SPECTATOR RECREATION

Sky Diving is definitely a spectator's sport, in my mind at least. But, how I enjoy watching these diver's aim for their targets each weekend. And I am not alone as a spectator. It is for the many of us who enjoy watching the Chuting Angels, that I announce the following:

This Saturday and Sunday, from 4 to 7 p.m., there will be three Chuting Angels aiming for water in the Pit.

Three of the top divers of the club are taking extra tests of skill—being able to hit the water target is one thing, but to rescue one's self after the plunge is something to see.

Weather permitting each weekend, these tests will continue through the summer.

Congressman Meader Honored

Congressman George Meader, (R-Mich.) was honored by national, state and local leaders and hundreds of constituents at Delhi Park near Ann Arbor Saturday.

Dr. Walter Judd and Gov. George Romney headed the list of speakers. Dr. Judd, Republican keynoter in 1960 endorsed Meader for re-election saying "it would be irresponsible to replace Meader's known ability, courage and knowledge of federal affairs with an unknown substitute." He named Congressman Meader, "one of the 20 most influential Congressmen in the U.S. House of Representatives."

One hundred twenty-one testimonial messages were received from national leaders including presidential candidate Senator Barry Goldwater.

Gov. Romney cited congressman Meader's "impressive list of credentials," based on personal acquaintance dating back to World War II when he was counsel of the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Post Office of Future Feature at World's Fair

Visitors to the New York World's Fair from Tecumseh have an unusual opportunity to see a post office of the future, Jack G. Metcalf says.

A carefully-chosen group of 80 employees from New York area post offices man the facility, which handles all the Fair's mail and some from the Flushing, N. Y., area.

Postcards to friends and relatives back home are a big item. About 30,000 are mailed from the Fair each day. One-third of these are addressed to persons overseas.

Foreign visitors have no trouble understanding U. S. postal operations. The facility has staff members who speak 20 languages.

Postmaster Metcalf notes that residents of Tecumseh who attend the Fair and wish to try out their foreign language ability can either talk with the multilingual window clerks or listen to a tape recorded presentation in the post office lobby which features individual earphones for those who speak Japanese, French, German, Italian and Spanish.

Council Foresees Delay in Project over Easements

The Evans Creek Interceptor Sewer to the west section of Tecumseh may be delayed unless easements from property owners are secured.

Councilmen learned Monday night that many of the property owners have agreed orally to the easements, and Attorney James Beardsley feels the city will have little difficulty in obtaining signed agreements from most of them.

It was pointed out that some of the property owners are requesting sewer tie-ins, or replacement of trees, or repairing lawns to original condition.

Councilmen voiced objections, infering the demands were too high and out of reason. They requested the city attorney to continue his negotiations.

Selders Excavating, contractor, has installed the sewer to N. Evans St., and is nearing the Moore property.

If the Moore easement is not secured, it was suggested that Selders either stop work at N. Evans or continue installations on properties in the west end where owners have signed easements.

No action was taken by Council except to urge city officials to obtain the necessary easements.

Schedule Hearing for Assessment in City Limits

A resolution was passed and public hearing scheduled Sept. 8 for a special assessment district for property owners on W. Chicago Blvd., west of Occidental.

The assessment will affect only property owners inside the city limits.

The district was set up to help pay costs of sewer and water lines to the recently annexed Harvey Carpenter property.

Batting Hat Blasts Ball to Pitcher

Gus Bishop will apparantly suffer no permanent injury.

But he certainly had a terrific headache this past weekend.

In the final Pony League baseball game Friday, between the VFW and the Eagle teams, Gus was hit on the back of his head by a fast ball.

Fortunately he was wearing a batting helmet, but the ball hit so square that it flew back to the pitcher, who caught it.

Gus was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital for x-rays and later to an eye specialist in Adrian.

Gus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop, 113 Maple St.

Goodbyes Not Permanent Says Governor Romney

Mr. and Mrs. Robert King and Bruce, Kathy Jo and Jeff with Anders Edin attended the Youth For Understanding reunion at Northville, July 24.

They heard the address of Gov. George Romney given by his administrative assistant, Albert A. Applegate, who have also been host parents this year.

The concluding paragraph read in part, "Today is not an end, but a continuation. There will be no permanent goodbyes. When you go your separate ways, you will part, not as the strangers that you were a year ago, but as the families you are today."

CLINTON — Carolyn Marie Johnson became the bride of Kenneth Eugene Thompson Saturday evening in the Clinton Methodist Church.

The bride's bouquet was a cluster of Eucharist lilies with cascades of bachelor buttons.

Mrs. James Gouldsberry of Sand Lake was the matron of honor.

Barbara Herman of Clinton was the bridesmaid.

Camp Starts Overhaul

By JIM WILBAR

For more than thirty years Camp O' The Hills at Wamplers Lake has served area Girl Scouts as a place of summer instruction and fun.

In many ways, however, conditions have been cramped, unsanitary and outdated.

Initiation of a complete overhaul got under way July 24 as ground was broken for a caretaker's quarters, the first of many such projects planned in the near future.

Greetings were given and introductions made by Mrs. George Winters, chairman of the Camping Commission.

R. G. Patrick of Jackson, the building's designer, gave the dedication in which he told of the many improvements to come for the charming camp.

The campers' dedication was given by Mrs. Wayne Balliet, director of the camp.

A salute was given to Mr. Patrick by the Scouts and he was presented a miniature shovel which the girls had fashioned.

The first shovel of earth was turned by Mrs. A. D. Stine, representing all past camp commissioners. Mrs. Lee Lincoln turned the second shovel for present Scout adults. Mrs. Maude Herman, executive director, was third to dig in.

The Rev. Laszlo Gero of Tecumseh's Gloria Dei Lutheran Church delivered an appropriate message and led the group in prayer.

OVERHAUL BEGINS — R. G. Patrick, building designer, with Mrs. A. D. Stine, look on as Jill Metz helps to break ground for the new installation on Wamplers Lake.

The engagement and approaching marriage of Ellen Spreeman to Robert DeJonghe is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Spreeman of rural Britton. The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeJonghe of Ridgeway. The wedding will be an event of Sept. 12.

Bonnie Buchheimer and Dean McCarley Speak Wedding Vows in Baptist Church

The Rev. Blair Bashore performed the double ring ceremony before the immediate families and close friends of the couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Emily Pocklington, 311 N. Maiden Lane and Fred Buchheimer of Holloway.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denton McCarley, 615 W. Cummins St.

The bride chose a sheath dress of white pique with blue accents and wore a white orchid corsage on her shoulder.

☆

MISS GIBSON wore a turquoise sheath with pink roses pinned to her shoulder.

The couple are residing at Glenn Arden Apartments on N. Union St.

'Spirit' Is Church Topic

Using "Spirit" as a name for God, the Christian Science Bible Lesson on Sunday will explore how the qualities of Spirit bring harmony into human affairs.

Bible readings will include this description: "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law" (Gal. 5).

20 Guests Fete Doris Oliphant

Mrs. Kenneth Ringman and Mrs. Herbert Dillon were the co-hostesses, greeting about 20 guests.

Yellow, white and blue flowers and white wedding bells centered the tables, where dessert was served preceding the opening of the gifts.

Miss Oliphant was also honored at two other miscellaneous showers recently.

Her future sister-in-law, Mrs. Bill Goad of DeWitt, entertained the family and wives of friends and classmates of the groom.

A shower by members of the groom's church and the pastor's wife was given July 28 honoring the marriage of Miss Oliphant to Marvin Goad of Holt.

Girl Scouts Give Cradle Shower for Mrs. Robison

The group played games and Mrs. Robison received many gifts. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

After the shower the girls and their mothers gave a gift of appreciation to their leader, Mrs. Clyde Grady.

Josilyn Snook Attends Freshman Session at WMU

More than 3,500 freshmen who will be entering Western Michigan University for the first time next fall are getting a two-day advance taste of campus life this summer.

Under the direction of Dr. Donald Davis, director of the Counseling Bureau, the freshmen are coming to the campus to learn something of their future programs of study, to meet with the counselors and to see a bit of the campus.

When they return to the campus in mid-September they will be completely registered and have their fees all paid. They will only need to attend the orientation meeting for new students on Sunday, Sept. 13, and attend their first classes on Tuesday, Sept. 15.

Band Program Needs $6,000 for Instruments

Third In A Series

It has been told in the first two parts of this series how the high school band, as a result of a tonette program in the fifth grade, has grown from 36 members to a staggering 165 in grades 9 through 12.

Last week's article spoke of the concern over proper music facilities as a result of this.

There's another problem — school-owned instruments.

When students start in the fifth grade they obtain their own instruments, but in Junior High School some of them are encouraged to switch to such instruments as oboe, bassoon, French horn, alto clarinet, bass clarinet, baritone sax, bass horn, and baritone.

☆

THESE ARE expensive and one can hardly expect parents to purchase them, yet to play concert music all of these instruments are needed — and a few more.

They cost from $475 for an oboe to $795 for a bass horn.

With the help of the Tecumseh Band Boosters, the band has been able to have uniforms and several of the instruments mentioned.

Response by the public has been good. The school board has been maintaining costs of such things as music racks, instrument storage racks, repair of instruments and the very large items of music.

☆

EVEN WITH ALL of this fine help, the band still falls financially short, all as a result of the growth in number of band students.

This has now become a pressing problem because many of these instruments have from two to four persons playing them in the four-band groups.

Each musician has his own mouthpiece, of course, but the problem is created when each wishes to practice at home and when more than one of these bands play on the same programs.

With one instrument being used by more than one person it means the "wear and tear" is greater and repair and replacement time is at hand quicker.

☆

THE BANDS have at present an acute need of $6,000 for instruments.

At this writing, some service clubs have indicated a willingness to cooperate on single projects to help to some degree.

The community has bands which take part in civic activities. These youngsters hope their adult friends, in some way, may find a solution to their serious problems.

NY World's Fair, Scout Jamboree Kept Boys Busy

(Editor's note — Paul Stoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Journey Stoner, 739 N. Union St., was among area Scouts who took part in the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.)

By PAUL STONER

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Jamboree Troop No. 64 was called together at the Front St. Station in Monroe and at 6 p.m. July 13 and special traveling neckerchiefs issued.

At about 7, the train left and we were immediately served chicken dinners. Later we had a meeting on the train and all rules were explained.

After a hearty breakfast of scrambled eggs aboard train, we arrived in Washington, D. C., on Tuesday morning.

We then boarded a D.C. Transit Bus and proceeded on our tour of Washington. Unable to go through the White House because of the heavy Tuesday crowds, we went to the Capitol Building and later ate lunch at Bassin's Cafe.

After lunch, we again boarded our air-conditioned bus and went to Mount Vernon, where we viewed the estate and Washington's tomb. At Arlington National Cemetery, we saw the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the grave of our late President, John Kennedy.

After dinner we took an evening tour of the city. We saw the Hall of Archives, where all of our important documents, such as the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, are kept, followed by the Lincoln Memorial and the Library of Congress.

When we left the Library of Congress we had a little time to spare so we went across the street and heard a concert given by the Air Force Band on the steps of the Capitol.

Smithsonian Institute's New Museum of Technology was our next stop. To top the day off we ran to the top of the Washington Monument and back down.

☆

WEDNESDAY morning we arrived in here on a D. C. Transit bus. We checked into the Henry Hudson Hotel and then went to the World's Fair.

We remained together as a group while we went through the only exhibit that the council paid for, the General Motors Pavilion.

We were then set loose to go our merry ways about the Fair. We met at 5:30 in front of the soon-to-be-completed Science Pavilion.

We returned to the hotel by El and subway, ate dinner and retired to our rooms for a well-deserved good night's sleep.

WE ARRIVED at Valley Forge July 16, drew supplies and went to the section health lodge for a check-up.

The next morning at 9, an aerial bomb went off, and 1,300 flags were raised simultaneously, signaling the opening of the [illegible] National Boy Scout Jamboree.

In the evening, 52,000 Scouts watched a program, about two of General Washington's men who had wandered into the future and viewed the Scouts at the Jamboree.

The next day we went to the shotgun and rifle range, later eight members of our troop demonstrated their skills in first-aid at the Skill-o-rama.

A Freedom Campfire, commemorating American Heritage Day, was held in the evening.

☆

SUNDAY MORNING, we worshipped at the church service of our choice.

In the afternoon, since it was Friendship Day, we made friends with other scouts and later, at our troop campfire, we learned about Scouts from other lands.

Monday morning we had a group picture of our troop taken, then ran the obstacle course and in the afternoon half of the troop hiked the blue trail and the other half hiked the red trail.

In the evening we went to the arena once again, this time for the regional campfire. Here we saw "Big Jim" Whittaker, the first American to climb Mt. Everest, Astronaut Edward H. White, Ben and Hoss Cartwright of the TV show "Bonanza," and Anita Bryant.

Wednesday the troop went to the archery range in the morning and later in the day we went angling.

Thursday was the last day of the Jamboree. That night at the arena, we reviewed the story of Scouting through the years.

The biggest event of the entire Jamboree was seeing President Johnson. After he had given his speech the Scouts at the Jamboree presented him with an official Jamboree jacket and the Silver Buffalo, the highest award in Scouting.

Whipped This Time

The Braves trailed their Mothers in the second inning, 3-0.

Then they came up with four runs in the fourth inning to take a lead they never lost. The Mothers couldn't overcome this and were defeated, 8-4.

Square Dance Is Saturday

Deuce Williams of Flat Rock will be the caller for the Shawnee Squares dance Saturday, Aug. 8, at [illegible]munity Center.

Paul Burns Attends V-A Conference

Paul F. Burns and Paul Marks, teachers of vocational agriculture at Tecumseh and Britton-Macon, participated in the program of the 45th annual Conference for Teachers of Vo Ag at Michigan State University, July 27-31.

Attending the five-day meeting were more than 200 teachers and school administrators from all parts of the state.

The teachers were challenged to broaden and improve educational programs for employment of agricultural occupations.

They were brought up to date on the implications of the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

They were also urged to take a greater responsibility in the broad field of agricultural education, to promote the agricultural education profession and the effective use of our present-day technical knowledge and to inspire the development of dynamic local programs of vocational agricultural education.

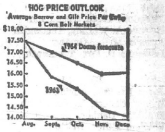
PRESSURE TREATED FENCE POSTS. Buying fence posts pressure treated with either creosote or penta is worth a little extra cost for the longer life. Using the table, University of Missouri figures show that for a mile of fence with posts spaced 12 feet apart the annual cost for untreated posts is $43.12 greater than for untreated ones. Over a 30-year period, the estimated life for treated posts, this difference in annual costs would amount to $1,200.

DRYING CORN WITH "DRYERATION". This new process developed by Purdue University works in three steps. First, corn is dried to 16% to 18%, then it's moved to a cooling bin equipped for aeration. Here air flow cools and dries the corn to 14% to 15½%. Finally corn is moved into a storage bin. Advantage for cash grain producers is that corn has higher milling quality, and is less likely to mold. It also increases drying capacity of continuous flow and batch dryers.

HOG PRICES WILL CONTINUE FAVORABLE. Current hog prices are expected to extend into August. Quotes may drop off by late August, though, pulling the monthly average a little below July. However, the drop won't be as sharp as last year's. Hogs are expected to average around $17 in September, with the top going over $18 early in the month. Fall price picture appears rather optimistic.



DRY UP DAIRY COWS six to eight weeks before calving. Best way is to stop milking abruptly. This way the cow quickly converts her milk to a fluid that combats infection. Cows need a full rest to produce near their potential during the following lactation.

Congressman George Meader Blasts Foes

"The American farmer and American people were given one of the 'rawest deals' in recent history by the Democratic administration," Congressman George Meader told Saline Township Republicans last week.

"Under gag rule, in a session lasting until the wee hours of the morning, a nefarious coalition of northern and southern Democrats rammed through the House of Representatives two bad bills, the cotton-wheat bill and the food stamp bill."

"In unprecedented arm-twisting, vote-trading and low appeals to sectional interests—the south got a cotton textile subsidy; northern metropolitan Democrats got their long-sought food stamp plan; and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman got his stranglehold on the wheat farmers — who in a referendum a year ago overwhelmingly repudiated essentially the same subsidy — rigid control — wheat program."

Two Live for 26 Years in Room 509

COLDWATER — Two rock-ribbed Republican ladies, so upset over losing the presidential election to That Man in 1932, immediately made Room 509 of a New York hotel their hermitage. They are discovered 26 years later in "The Girls in 509," a riotous comedy that opened Tuesday at the Tibbit Opera House in Coldwater.

The production will be staged each evening through Sunday at 8:30 p.m., by the American Theatre Festival. The professional company presents summer stock through Sept. 6 in the air-conditioned theatre.

24 Years With 4-H

Mrs. Robert Ries will complete 24 years as a leader in 4-H work with this year's Lenawee County Fair.

A homemaker and home economics teacher in the Tecumseh school system, Mrs. Ries and her husband make their home at 9246 Tonneberger Drive.

A diligent leader, Mrs. Ries has said that a youngster's learning self sufficiency and independent thinking is far more important than a perfect exhibit.

ONE OF FOUR in the state to be awarded the 4-H alumni award, Mrs. Ries modestly stated, "Clubs I have worked with are clubs that have been recognized for achievement but I don't claim any credit for that nor can any credit go to me for the many awards that have gone to young people I have worked with. I really was nothing more than a tool or instrument through which they worked."

Mother of three daughters and just recently the grandmother of a little girl, Mrs. Ries has been extremely active in many other groups besides 4-H.

☆

A MEMBER of the Presbyterian Church, she is an active deason, has served as church secretary for one year, Sunday school teacher for seven years as well as director of the church nursery, circle president three years and Women's Association president for one year.

She has also been active in Girl Scout leadership, a member of MEA and NEA for nine years and active on many Child Study and PTA committees.

Extremely interested in 4-H, Mrs. Ries commented, "4-H work during my junior and senior years in high school definitely led me to choose Home Economics as my vocation and Michigan State University as my school of higher education."

Devil's Lake Golf Course Ranks Among Toughest

Whether your golf consists of playing nine holes on one of the county's toughest public nines or playing 18 holes of miniature golf, Ed and Milt Waldman have the layout for you.

They own the Devil's Lake Golf course, one of the area's finest, located on US-223 at the north end of the lake, and three miniature courses, one in Toledo, one on US-12 at the entrance of Hayes State Park, and one right next to the Devil's Lake Course.

The Devil's Lake nine measures 3,100 yards in distance and has a par of 36. Out-of-bounds are found on every hole on this course, except No. 7 — a 165-yard par three.

☆

THE LONGEST HOLE on a public course in Lenawee County, a 535-yard par five, is found there. A tee shot on this hole is hit into a large hill. There is an out-of-bounds on the right.

Now in their 19th season, the owners operate the course themselves. Ed is the golf pro, assisted by Jim Massey.

Electric cars are available for rental and clubs, balls, and other golf equipment may be bought in the pro shop.

The Wee Tee Miniature Golf Course in Toledo is in the Wee Tee Amusement Park, also owned by the Waldman Co.

Each miniature course covers approximately an acre of land and playing time at each is about an hour.

Ed Waldman said that the Amusement Park in Toledo is only a half hour drive from Tecumseh on US-223.

It has a large Kiddieland with 12 rides as well as a complete collection of adult rides.

Included in these are Dodgem Bumper cars, a new Giant Ferris Wheel, Flying Cages, a Tilt-a-Whirl and the Haunted Castle Dark Ride.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The local retailer can be a major force in the increase in the wealth and welfare of his community,

In fact, to be successful in modern business, the retailer necessarily becomes a primary factor in community progress. A suburban retail association lists some of the merchant's contributions as follows:

1. Sales efficiency. To stay in business the merchant must continuously seek more effective methods of distribution. This leads to cheaper prices for everyone.

2. Increased motivation. Retail advertising is the most important factor in the immediate purchase of new products which reduce labor and make living more pleasant and healthful.

3. Creation of a trade center. A community is unified by its trading center. Take away the progressive stores and the citizens focus their interests and spend their money at more distant centers.

4. Promotion of stronger institutions. The merchant knows that good schools, stable government, and recreational and cultural facilities affect his own business, because happy, informed and active people are his best customers.

Retail advertising which is the best mirror of the nature of a trading center, then, does more than sell goods from day to day.

Traveling Since He Was 7

By DOROTHY GRIGG

World traveler E. L. "Speck" Simmons and his wife, Grace, have just returned from Toronto, Canada, where they attended another Rotary International Convention.

Unusual? No!

The Rotary International Conventions have been high on the list of functions attended by the Simmonses.

The first one they attended was in Mexico City in 1952. Five years later, they were in Luzerne, France, for the convention there. They've also attended several in the United States.

Their travels have been many and far.

In 1961 they were invited with the Pan-American Commission on a diplomatic tour to promote tourism and small business between the U. S. and the countries they visited — Portugal, Spain, Italy, France, Belgium and England.

The group was wined and dined by the heads of states, or attaches or ambassadors from the United States until Speck says "the red carpet tour was one to never forget".

In Madrid they were entertained by the mayor and in other cities, the Chambers of Commerce did the honors.

Speck and Grace were invited on a Pan-Am. goodwill tour to South America. They've been to Puerto Rico, Haiti and the Virgin Islands twice, and two years ago they went from Florida to Nassau.

Last summer, the Percy Cadmuses joined the Simmonses on a 2,500-mile tour around Lake Superior on the new highway. This short trip led Speck to remark, "We took the short cut home".

The tours and travels often come so fast that sometimes they've barely arrived home before they're off on another.

The Simmonses, whose farm home is at 9233 Wisner Hwy., have traveled in every state in the union except Hawaii and Alaska, and all except two provinces in Canada — plus numerous trips to other parts of the world.

It all started many years ago Speck says, "They put sand in my shoes when I was seven years old and made my first trip to California".

At the age of 14, he was having a problem with rheumatism and the doctor suggested that his parents take him to Florida.

This was in 1920, and it took 11 days to drive there over the clay and sandy roads. The family tented there during the winter, and Speck's health was better by spring.

Since, Speck has spent almost every winter in the South.

In 1921, he happened to be in Tampa when the Tin Can tourist were started. Though not members of the association, it has provided them with much interest over the years.

Born a mile east and a mile north of Tipton, Speck farmed from 1925 to 1946, when he became a "Buick dealer" in Milan.

Speck and Grace are living now on the farm in Franklin Township taken from the government by his grandfather. It will soon be eligible to become a Centennial farm, having been in the family nearly 100 years.

Ted Schmidt manages the 320-acre farm for Speck, and has a dairy herd of 40 head.

SPECK SIMMONS RELAXES AT WAMPLERS LAKE HOME

From 1959 to 1961, he was the Ford dealer in Tecumseh, succeeding C. O. Butler.

He and Grace have two daughters, Mrs. Robert Karle and Mrs. Joseph Gregory, who live across from each other on Wisner.

The Gregorys have two little girls — Lisa and Becky Jo — and the Karles have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, Jim.

Speck and Grace are now spending much of their time at their cottage on Wamplers Lake. It's peaceful and quiet now, but here are their winter plans:

Elk hunting in October with their son-in-law, Bob Karle, and Russell and Bill Raymond of Adrian; Florida for a month, and then the rest of the winter at Phoenix, Ariz., where they spent last year.

One wonders how Speck keeps track of his travels. It's unique. He writes himself a letter — the most recent one contained about 25,000 words!

Lots of Football Talent

More football talent — most of it over-the-hill variety — will be in Tecumseh next Tuesday than has been in our area for a long time.

On Aug. 11, the Lenawee County Michigan State University Alumni Association will hold its annual stag day at the Tecumseh Country Club in hopes of raising some funds for the association.

Top attractions will include Duffy Daugherty, Biggie Munn and assistant coaches from MSU, Coach George Wilson and two or three members of the Detroit Lions, and Dunc Lectka, former Tecumseh high coach of a few years back.

Golf will be featured during the day with a steak cookout late in the afternoon at the club's shelter house.

Duffy's planning to review the 1963 season — including movies of the highlights — and then size up MSU's talent and prospects for the approaching grid season.

Charlie Butler is temporary chairman of the county association and in charge of stag day affairs. Others on the program and committees are:

Don Moffatt — treasurer.

Gibs Barber — assistant treasurer.

Orville Laidlaw — reservations.

Robert Reis, Faye Whelan — tickets.

Gordon Comfort, David Holden — young alumni attendance.

Don Cobb, Hugh Andrews — guests.

Jim Robideau, Tom Corkery — golf.

Jack and Bill Brown, Paul Burns, William Mueller, Bob Stone — Cookout.

Dr. Carlos Knisley — introductions.

Tom Riordan — publicity.

Grain Substitutions in 1965

To insure the greatest amount of flexibility in farm operations, substitutions between wheat and feed grains are authorized under the 1965 programs.

According to Leland Bush, Chairman of the Lenawee County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, this is a reminder for wheat growers who also grow grain.

The law provides for such substitution of corn or wheat program, but it could not be put into effect for the '64 crop because of the short time involved after the new law was passed by Congress.

Chairman Bush said that the substitution applies on farm only if the farm has a feed grain base or oat-rye base, and a wheat allotment. The substitution provisions can be used by farmers who take part in both programs and make at least the minimum diversion for both wheat and feed grains.

As with this year's program, marketing certificates will be issued to wheat farmers taking part. But the number of certificates alloted to a farm, will not be increased because of the wheat substitution. Certificates will be provided for the smaller of (1) the normal production of the wheat acreage allotment, multiplied by the domestic and export allocation percentages, and (2) the wheat acreage planted for harvest multiplied by the normal yield.

The total wheat production of farmers who carry out wheat program provisions, will be eligible for price-support loans, even though the wheat acreage is in excess of the allotment, because of the substitution provisions.

The County ASC Chairman indicated that more details will be available at the time the wheat program sign-up takes place later in the summer.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE EXCITEMENT CONTINUES

It does, it truly does. This summer's bird watching is fantastic. Lately the shrill peeping of the two baby cardinals as they nag their poor over-worked father for "just one more bite" is being overshadowed by loud raucous rattlings.

The call of a kingfisher is unmistakeable. We are always thrilled when one of these large blue and white birds flash into view — this time, however, there has been a bonus of good kingfisher watching.

The birds are very obliging in that they usually announce their presence. They use a vocal calling-card. Greeting us as they fly up or down the creek — their flight pattern, by the way, is a very distinctive one, five or six strong wingbeats alternating with a long graceful glide — but, what I started to say is that this greeting is like the gruff but friendly, "Hi" from a rugged sportsman.

In describing the kingfisher's voice certain words are always used, words like loud, harsh, raucous and rattle. Wholly inadequate, but even the "Audubon Bird Guide" does no better.

They do though, end their discussion of the birds' talking by saying, "It carries remarkably well and has a vigorous, wild quality." Indeed it does!

☆

SINCE THE BIRDS holler at us as they go by, we are used to a moving sound. Imagine our surprise when we suddenly realized the kingfisher's rattle, to which we had been thrilling, was standing still. It was coming from one place.

And yes, it really did seem a little louder and more harsh than usual. A quick look out the window and up the creek explained everything. A kingfisher was sitting on the top of Doctor's bridge.

We hardly had time to wonder why he was sounding off instead of quietly "fishing" when up to the bridge top zoomed another kingfisher.

Instantly the calling became shriller, the blue and white wings started to flutter and, as that huge bill opened shockingly wide, into the "cavernous opening" was stuffed a shiny little fish.

Junior KF was receiving lunch. Wow, as if this weren't treat enough, from up around Gertie's bend came another youngster. As soon as she was on the bridge, she too started hoarsely screaming.

☆

THIS THEN was the beginning of our kingfisher adventure. It has been a noisy, fun-packed time. It is not an all day, every day thing, but there has been much to see and hear.

One day for example, the 'kids' were patiently waiting and watching for dinner to arrive — sitting close together, feathers all fluffed up and they were surprisingly quiet.

A blue jay spotted the twosome and went into a regular rage. Such actions — he dived at, lunged for, jabbed toward and hopped over. The little kingfishers were completely unperturbed. They ignored the distraught jay which, of course, made him that much madder.

Another time a large flicker joined the bridge sitters but this was a peaceful thing. He briefly passed the time of day then flew into Doctor's yard for a crawly ant luncheon.

☆

WE WONDER where the KF family had its nest. These birds usually pick a bank, tunnel gradually upward four or five feet and then made an enlarged chamber, five inches in diameter, where the white eggs are laid.

There was once such a nest at the base of Laidlaw's beautiful old elm tree, but the entrance was too near the creek's edge. During a spell of high water, the kingfishers were flooded out.

So it is that with baby kingfishers around the summer's good looking just goes on and on, the excitement continues.

Police Praised as AAA Awards Tecumseh Plaque

For its effort in promoting pedestrian safety, the city of Tecumseh was honored Tuesday with a Pedestrian Safety Citation from the American Automobile Association.

Tecumseh competed with 668 other cities across the country in the under 10,000 class to gain the award, which resulted from the city's entry in the 1964 AAA National Pedestrian Protection program.

Walter Fowler, Automobile Club of Michigan's Tecumseh area division manager, presented a plaque symbolizing the award.

In announcing the award, Mr. Fowler cited local police and other interested safety officials for "carrying out an obviously effective safety program," and commended Tecumseh citizens for their careful driving and walking practices.

This is the third year Tecumseh has won a special award from AAA.

They Were Among Junior Salesmen Signing Up 306 New Subscribers

This year's Herald subscription campaign was another rousing success, thanks to the sales abilities of 49 youngsters. Thirteen of them earned shiny new bikes for turning in 15 new subscribers and two received transistor radios for signing up 10 each. In total, the youngsters collected 306 new subscriptions. For those not earning major prizes, there was a $1 contribution on each sale. The job done by them has helped push Herald circulation to a modern record high.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

"These long, curvey putts are real easy for me," grinned Duffy Daugherty as he lined up a 10-footer that rested along a sharp slope on the treacherous No. 7 green at Tecumseh Country Club.

It would have to be stroked high above the target, then bend like a half moon and glide downward, adding about two feet to the journey. There couldn't be one turn too many or the ball might fly past the hole.

As Duffy bent over the shot he added, "It's those short, straight ones I can't get."

With this, he tapped the white pill like Arnie Palmer. It made the Great Circle Route, then "Ping!" right into the cup.

Duff straightened up, smiled broadly over another conquest on the local rinks, which he was playing for the first time.

When the final scores went in, Duffy, who is known throughout the athletic world for his talents as a football coach, psychologist and humorist, had carded a 79, seven strokes over par.

Duffy was in town for the Lenawee County Alumni of Michigan State University banquet, which attracted 150, despite the rains, and thanks to the hard work of Chuck Butler, retired Ford dealer, who now devotes nearly full time to honing his golf game to a fine edge.

When Charlie got the laugh-filled session going, after a repast of T-bone steaks, he introduced an old football sidekick, Lyman Frimodig, who was a 10-letter man at then Michigan Agricultural College and recently retired as MSU's ticket manager.

Charlie and Frim helped the Aggies defeat the University of Michigan on the gridiron back in the early Twenties, one of the few times the East Lansing school could claim that honor prior to the Modern Era.

Seemed the following year, MAC was about to do it again — and would have — if Charlie's attempted boot had cut the uprights.

"It was straight," Charlie chuckled, "but hit the goalpost."

In the featured speaker's slot, Duffy was his usual charming self, talking about the coming season. Although his squad graduated a dozen of the first 22 players, his Irish sense of humor keeps going.

The Spartan mentor said there was no reason why pre-season polls should give State such low ratings. "After all, we haven't lost any games yet," Duffy allowed.

The key to MSU's future may rest in the hands of a junior quarterback, Steve Juday, who was just starting to gain confidence last year when injured and had to sit out the final three games.

He touched upon the new substitution rule, which will allow an almost complete return to platooning. "When the clock is stopped, you can substitute freely. Of course, you can't put in more than 11 men."

Duffy said his lads always look forward to the Michigan battle, which will be sold out for the 16th straight autumn.

"If Michigan doesn't beat us this year, they shouldn't in the next four or five seasons," Duffy predicted with tongue in cheek.

New Bike Wrecked, Boy Unhurt

CLINTON — David Waters, 12, and Brian Winchester, 5, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Waters, 111 Locust St., escaped with minor cuts and bruises when the bicycle on which they were riding collided with a farm tractor Friday on US-12.

State Police stated that the bicycle came from behind a row of parked cars and collided with the front of the farm tractor and wagon driven by Roger Hast, 17, of Clinton.

Brian was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital for treatment and was released.

He said, "I sure hope it can be fixed."

Work on Sewer Is Halted as Easements Are Sought

Construction of the Evans Creek Sanitary Sewer will be halted probably at the end of this week — until easements from property owners are obtained.

Cal Zorn, city manager, says work will progress to a manhole, about 150 feet west of N. Evans St., near the VFW.

Mr. Zorn is planning personal visits to property owners during the next week in an effort to secure the easements. Many have agreed verbally to signing.

The new sewer will eventually open up the entire northwest section of Tecumseh for development.

Free Press, News Offer Fact Sheet on Current Strike

What's the Detroit daily newspaper strike all about?

Members of the Publishers Association, representing The Free Press and The News, have issued a fact sheet, giving background of the stoppage, which began July 13.

Q. How can these two striking unions, representing 450 employes, close down newspapers which employ 4,100 people?

A. Newspaper publishing requires a great variety of skills. In Detroit, many of these skills are organized into 14 different unions. So far, most of these other unions have refused to cross the picket lines set up by the striking Pressmen's Union and the Paper Handlers' and Plate Handlers' Union. Thus it is presently impossible to print and distribute even a small version of The Detroit Free Press or The Detroit News.

Q. Why have there been so many newspaper strikes?

A. A newspaper is a highly perishable product: yesterday's newspaper is useless. Newspaper unions have been able for years to extract exceptional contract terms and special working conditions by playing upon the papers' desires to publish very day. Some newspaper unions have come to believe that, because of a newspaper's perishable nature, they can obtain concessions that could not be obtained from a manufacturer able to stockpile his products. Furthermore, the newspaper industry's many separate unions compet with each other. Each seeks to obtain a better settlement than the other. This, at best, produces difficult labor negotiations.

Q. Are these striking unions the same two that interrupted publication of the papers last spring?

A. Yes. They staged a series of damaging work stoppages at both newspapers.

Q. How long does a pressman work? How much is he paid?

A. Under the contract ended by their strike, day-shift pressmen work a 5-day 37½-hour week with a base pay of $141.70. Because of overtime and penalty pay clauses in the contract, these pressmen have average annual incomes of more than $11,000.

Q. Is penalty pay the same as overtime?

No, it is different. It often occurs prior to the time that a man has completed his 37- or 35-hour work week. In this sense it is time-within-time. For example, it is not uncommon for a man to work five shifts in a week and to have two or more of these shifts paid for at overtime rates of pay.

Our newspapers pay penalties and overtime every day, even in emergencies. Take, for instance, the day President Kennedy was assassinated. Pressmen at the Free Press were asked to come in one hour early at overtime rates to help get the news to the public as fast as possible. The union refused until each man had been guaranted another full day's pay — $28 — for that single hour.

Q. How long does a paper handler and plate handler work and how much is he paid?

A. A paper handler and plate handler works a 5-day 37½-hour week, with a base daytime pay

Sandy Theobold Takes Cake, Flips into First Place for $25

By JUDY FIELDER

Sandy Theobold, 23, of 518 E. Maple St., Adrian, is Tecumseh's 1964 Pancake Race Champion.

Miss Theobold [illegible] ed at Lenawee Abstract Co., is a sister of the 1962 winner, Mrs. Richard Gardner.

She clocked a time of 1:8 to win the $25 grand prize plus a box of Aunt Jemima Pancake Mix and bottle af Staley Syrup.

Second place was taken by Sandy Moses with 1:8.9. Sandy is a mystery racer, with no address — could she be a resorter in the Irish Hills?

Sandy and the other contestants, [illegible] Wonderly, Mrs. Don Twite, Mrs. Jim Colson, Cheryl Maynard and Donna Rudd each received mix and syrup for participating.

A new feature this year was the men's race, with first prize taken by Walt Wonderly, who dashed the course in 58 seconds.

Jaycee clown Frank Sandhoff placed second, ahead of Dean Moore and Richard Blue.

The gal's race, held in conjunction with the merchants' sidewalk sales and free Aunt Jemima pancake supper, was the fourth annual Michigan Championship.

☆

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, a pet parade was held. Vicki Pace won first place for biggest pet with "Pierre DuPray", her French poodle.

"Hobo", a brown rabbit belonging to Lonnie and Priscilla Creger was the best all-around pet.

The smallest and most unusual pet prizes went to two ants, one belonging to Guy Manwaring named "Herman", who was on display in a clear plastic box mounted on Guy's wagon.

"Henry", the ant, was carried by Melissa Babcock, who was riding in an antique baby carriage pushed by her sister, Kathy.

Honorable mention was given to Linda and Rita Pace's pet dog "Ladybug" and Pam Poley's two turtles.

NEARLY 2,800 people devoured Aunt Jemima pancakes smothered in butter and Staley syrup at the Fire Hall. Parking spaces were filled two blocks from the downtown area with an estimated 4,000 people viewing the race.

Tension built up as Tom Riordan [illegible] car Fagan and Vic Lawson refereeing. Two heats were run and Miss Theobold clocked her winning time in the first.

After a steady day of crowds and sales on the street, Tecumseh merchants picked up the remainder of their wares, put them back in their stores and went home to collapse.

It was a busy day for everyone.

TERRIFIC BUYS — Dorothy Osborne of Osborne's Department Store was busy at her sidewalk sale display Friday. Shoppers like the young ladies she's chatting with, filled the downtown area all day and found outstanding bargains.

Half-Day Sessions Possible

By JIM LINCOLN

Construction of a huge addition at Tecumseh High School and work underway at the Lenawee Institute for handicapped youngsters on Sutton Rd., will probably result in some classroom juggling at the beginning of the 1964-65 school year.

Although the high school job is nearly done, it may not be completed for the opening of classes on Sept. 8.

If it isn't, half-day sessions are planned for a few days for high school students.

More than likely, it will be October or November before the handicapped youngsters enter their new school.

☆

OFFICIALS, planning on using the old Sutton School, will instead use a basement room at the new Public Library.

They presently are remodeling for another classroom in the basement of the old library, now the Board of Education administrative building, and will send one class to the high school.

Three elementary grades — one, two and three — will move into the old Sutton School, when the handicapped there transfer to Lenawee Institute.

With the exception of kindergarten, all Tecumseh classes will start Sept. 8th, day after Labor Day. Kindergartners will start on Wednesday, Sept. 9.

New Pastor Is at Missionary Baptist Church

Rev. S. Janeway

The Rev. Seale Janeway, pastor of the Southside Baptist Church of Middleshore, Ky., accepted the position of pastor for Tecumseh Missionary Baptist August 1.

He resigned from Southside church after seven years. Southside was organized in 1807 with 29 members. The Rev. Janeway was the first pastor.

Since that time it has grown to 260 members.

He is a native of Eweng, Va., a graduate of Clear Creek Baptist School and Lincoln Memorial University.

He and his wife have one daughter, Linda, 17. They are living at 20 Cairns St., the

New Autos Cost $10,000, Writes Chorale Member

By GREGG KING

Well, this has been some fun! July 1, John, Chuck and I, along with their brothers and sisters, went to Sugarloaf Mountain in Brazil.

Wee sang and laughed all day long up on this splendid viewing spot. It's unbelievable. We could see miles in all directions at a marvelous height. The most beautiful view that I have ever seen.

That same night Payson Harrington's host family had a party, a real ball.

July 2, a rainy day, I bought raw amethyst and topaz, .50 grams for $8, which is a steal. Our concert was held at the Brazilian Press Association building.

July 6, we left for San Jose for overnight and a concert. The girls stayed at homes while the boys stayed in dorms at a U. of M. experimental village.

Our concert was a world-wide broadcasted program, quite an experience. The ride to San Jose took five hours by bus, but a breakdown forced us to put 78 people in a bus with a capacity of 32.

☆

I WISH MORE people could travel to South America because the impression we get in the States is all wrong. This country is beautiful and surprisingly civilized.

From books I thought the interior of Uruguay was nothing like I experienced. The towns were all about the size of Adrian and bigger and here they are all considered small cow towns.

South Americans live mostly in apartment houses and where I am staying, the building is the largest in Montivedo.

It has 23 stories with 170 good-sized apartments overlooking the world's largest river. I thought it was the ocean, but it is the River Platt.

☆

CARS DOWN HERE are expensive, that is why they have old ones. A new Ford or Chevy cost $10,000, where an old car costs $700 or $800.

The most common are 1929 and 1933 Fords because they are built for wear and tear of back country.

Food here is good and how they love sweets. For lunch we started with a whole grapefruit, then soup followed by steak and rice, then fruit and finally a molded jam pudding (all jam.)

Congratulations and apologies! First the apologies: I'm sorry we weren't able to participate in your Fisher Body groundbreaking. I'd bought a Goss Comet from Ink White at St. Johns . . . we were having just about the amount of trouble learning to operate it which you might expect . . . and it was only with some round-the-clock pressroom sessions that we were able to get the paper out at all.

This all happened during the time we'd expected to be visiting you at Tecumseh. I wanted to be there, but simply couldn't make it.

Now the congratulations: Your promotion of the event was terrific. I enjoy the paper every week . . . but that week I enjoyed it even more so.

Next time you have a groundbreaking, I can guarantee you one thing: We WON'T be breaking in another press! I've had enough of that for one lifetime, and for the after-life to boot.

Best regards,

TO THE EDITORS:

I'm sending this picture to the newspaper which they may like to publish in the future.

It belonged to my late grandfather, William S. Staulter, who lived in the Tecumseh area for most of his life.

Thank you for your time and trouble.

Newspaper Strike Facts

of $121.65 and night pay of $126.90. Their terminated contract also included many premium and penalty provisions that brought their average yearly income to more than $8,300.

Q. How does the average yearly income of the members of the two unions compare with other Detroit workers?

A. This is how they compare with the 1963 annual average for all hourly-rated employes of the auto companies:

Pressmen	$11,000
Paper Handlers and Plate Handlers	$ 8,300
General Motors	$ 7,495
Ford	$ 7,197
Chrysler	$ 6,905

Q. What improvements had the newspapers offered the striking unions?

A. Both unions had been offered contract settlements as good as, or better than, those accepted by all the other unions.

The following major contract proposals had been made to the Pressmen's Union:

► A 21-month contract to expire at the same time that a number of other contracts expire (December 1, 1965).

► A wage increase of $4.55 a week the first year and an additional increase of $3.75 a week the second year.

► An additional employer contribution towards pensions of $1 a week, making a total of $4.75 a week for pensions.

The offer to the Paper Handlers' and Plate Handlers' Union was comparable to those made to more skilled crafts. The basic points of this proposal were:

► A 24-month contract with a $4.55 a week increase the first year, and ► Either $4.90 a week the second year or $2.50 a week and a 4-week vacation to employes with five years' service.

► An additional employer contribution towards pensions of $1 a week, making a total of $4.75 a week for pensions.

Q. What else are the unions demanding?

A. The pressmen have insisted on these additional demands:

► Time-and-a-half pay for a regular shift within the 35-hour week on Saturdays at the Free Press.

► Additional manning for an 8-unit press.

In effect, the pressmen at the Free Press are demanding for anyone who works Saturday a 28-hour 4-day week plus a guarantee of time-and-a-half for seven hours on Saturday.

Although engineering studies showed that the presses could be operated with fewer men, the newspapers reluctantly agreed at the bargaining table to a union demand for 15 men. After the issue appeared to be settled, the pressmen demanded 16 men.

The paper handlers and plate handlers are now demanding, among other things:

► A contract provision the practical effect of which would be to give the union veto power over the publishers' right to make desirable and necessary changes in equipment and procedures. The language now in the contract was settled by impartial arbitration.

Q. Union leaders have claimed the newspapers are willing to let the strike last 12 weeks because of strike insurance. What are the facts?

A. The strike leaders are saying this. We are not. There is no justification for a strike of this duration. We have only limited suspension insurance that does not cover our losses and damages. As a matter of fact, in the first week alone this strike cost more in expenses and lost revenue than the papers could possibly recover from insurance.

"Biggie" [illegible] State's athletic director and the guy who brought Spartan football [illegible] of full flower before moving upstairs, told the alums that the grid squad is scheduled through the 1972 season, except for one game in '71.

Big Ten schools must play seven conference foes in their 10-game cards each year, beginning in 1965, meaning quite a chore for Duffy and his fellow coaches.

There were a bunch of prizes passed out for golfing skills. One went to "Beaver Bill" Beardsley, MSU ticket boss, who has as his assistant Dune Lectka, former Tecumseh grid mentor.

Bill had the longest drive on the No. 2 hole, but Duffy leaped to his feet when the announcement was made, "We want to protest that. We found out Bill was hitting from the ladies' tee."

Awards Chairman Jim Robideau, sales manager for Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co., mused, "Maybe that's why he asked for his prize right after coming in and then headed back for East Lansing."

Jack Hanna won four seats to the MSU-Michigan game and there's a twist to this because Jack is Tecumseh's greatest Wolverine booster and how did he get in the place anyway?

But the most unusual prize of the night showed some thought and brings to mind that bromide about "giving the shirt off your back."

"Biggie" did his golfing in a chic, green MSU coach's pullover, emblazoned with the school name. Tim Neill (Illinois '09, another outlander) so admired the garb — and pestered "Biggie" so much about it — that Mr. Munn ended up "awarding" it to the cigar-chomping, ex-pro gridder.

Probably for the poorest-told story of the night.

☆

Dirk is an architecture major at the University of Brackschweig, where the brothers' [illegible] is located.

The Hansens will be accompanied by Bob Bonner when they push off for New York Aug. 29. They plan to see the sights in Gotham, also tour Washington.

The brothers expect to shove off, via freighter, for Germany about Sept. 10, with Niels slated to get into uniform during October.

Ever hear of putting cucumber peelings in your lemonade? This old fashioned flavoring trick is passed on to Herald readers by the Home Economics Department of the United Fresh Fruits and Vegetable Association in New York.

According to them, parings from one medium-sized cucumber, or a cup of sliced cucumber added to three quarts of lemonade, will make the most refreshing cooler you have ever had.

The association also gave us a recipe for lemonade for a crowd made with three cups of juice and six other lemons. Wonder if this would do it. I'm a crowd all by myself when it comes to this old fashioned refresher.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thomas, 4655 Clinton-Macon Rd., Clinton. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Tucker of Macon.

Farm Bureau Prexy Says

Wheat Program Takes $17 Million

The government's new wheat program is a vast failure that is extracting more than $17 million of income from Michigan wheat growers' pockets this year, according to Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Wightman charged that $10 to $12 million will go to fill government coffers at Michigan farmers' expense, and that Agricultural Secretary Orville Freeman is deliberately "manipulating" wheat markets to force more farmers into his control programs.

To back his statements, Mr. Wightman cited figures showing that last year Michigan farmers received between $1.90 and $2 for most of their crop.

This year, under the new wheat program adopted by Congress over farm protests, wheat is selling at prices ranging from $1.16 to $1.30.

Under the new law, millers must pay 70c per bushel to the Department of Agriculture for each bushel they turn into flour. Exporters must pay 25c for each bushel they sell overseas.

☆

BACKERS OF THE law thought this money would be returned to farmers who cooperated in the program. Since only a third of Michigan's 1964 crop of wheat was signed into the program, the government will receive a windfall of over $10 million from Michigan, Mr. Wightman said.

He charged that the Secretary of Agriculture deliberately depressed market prices through recent sales of large amounts of government-owned wheat.

"It is no accident that the government sold 7.5 million bushels of its surplus wheat during the first week of July, just as the new crop was coming to market," Mr. Wightman said.

"Wheat farmers are suffering now from the same callous indifference as shown by Congress when in a close vote it adopted the same wheat control program that growers rejected in national referendum.

"The Secretary of Agriculture has deliberately dumped this wheat to knock down market prices and force more farmers into his control scheme next year," the Farm Bureau president concluded.

Extension Service Provides Information for Housewives

In providing the homemaker with knowledge that will improve the quality of living in the home, the community and the world, the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University feels that consumer education is an important part of every homemaker's life.

How and what the homemaker buys affects the family's comfort, convenience, satisfaction and finances.

☆

THE 1963-64 PROGRAM of Cooperative Extension in Lenawee County provided a series of four consumer education programs:

► The Consumer — consideration of market practices, ... to shopping, effects of technological advances on products used in the home.

► Consumer Protection — a look at laws and agencies that protect consumers and the consumer's responsibility in the market.

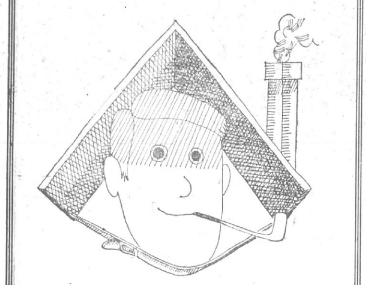
► Guard against food misinformation — alerting families to dangers and costs of food misinformation — alerting families to dangers and costs of food misinformation.

► Meats — a demonstration of cuts, selection, storage and preparation.

☆

SELECTION of meat and knowing cuts of meat is meaningful to the grower who butchers his own meat for table use, the buyer who purchases in quantity, and the day-to-day shopper.

A large part of the homemakers' food dollar is spent on meat and it is important that the homemaker have the knowledge to make the right selection for her family in the most economical way.



(Keeping a roof over your head)

Wind can blow your roof off ... fire can burn it off ... a Home-Gard homeowners policy will replace the loss. But there are other ways to lose the roof over your head ... someone injured on your property can get a large liability judgment against you. In that case you may lose the roof and the rest of the house. Here again, a Michigan Mutual Liability Home-Gard will protect against liability losses as well as other hazards.

Why not inquire about its low—low rates?

Sod Stops Erosion

Raymond Marrow, of Tipton, and James Darish of Tecumseh are among Lenawee Soil and Water Conservation District Cooperators who are completing sod waterways this year, according to Woodrow H. Barclay, SCS work unit conservationist.

"There are 86,907 acres of sloping cropland in Lenawee County where erosion is a problem. Ced or sod waterways are the least costly method for carrying excess water downhill on this land without causing erosion," said Mr. Barclay.

A house has its eavespouts, a street has its curb and guttering, but sloping fields need sod to handle the extra water when there is runoff. Deep water runs fast, but shallow water runs slower.

☆

THIS PRINCIPLE is used in the design of each waterway. Each is built to carry water so that it flows wide and shallow. This enables sod to carry the surplus water without erosion.

"Only grasses which live for years should be selected because these sod areas should be permanent. They need to be fertilized and managed to provide a strong vigorous growing cover," said Mr. Barclay.

"To secure a good thick stand of grass, the seedbed should be well prepared, firm and be ready for seeding before the early fall rains come. Mulching with hay or straw, and diverting possible runoff out of the channel until the sod is established helps to get a better stand. Most of the sod waterways will be used for grass seed or hay producion, they will serve a useful conservation purpose and also provide farm income," said Mr. Barclay.

Township May Rezone Part of M-50

If approved, M-50 in the township, would be commercial 1,000 feet north and south of the highway.

The highway, from Tecumseh to Matthews Hwy., already is zoned commercial for 500 feet to the north and south.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

SENIOR CITIZENS

Last Thursday turned out to be a perfect day for the monthly get-together for the senior citizens who attended the picnic at the Community Center.

Weather was beautiful, food delicious and the outdoor games were fun for all. Everyone had a good time.

The Tecumseh Teen Club did an outstanding job taking charge of the games and serving lemonade and homemade ice cream, which they provided. It's a good feeling to know that our teens, too, are interested in our senior citizens and their program. Their help was appreciated by everyone at the picnic, with over 70 seniors in attendance.

The next scheduled get-together is planned for Thursday, September 3, at the Community Center from 2 to 4 p.m. So mark your calendar, and plan to attend. You won't be sorry you did.

	W	L
The Teachers	7	3
Wally's Wonders	6	4
Britton Stars	5	4
Henkel's All-Stars	5	4
The Misfits	0	8

The regular season ended with four teams tied for first place. The tie came when Britton was upset by Henkel's in the final game of the season.

In playoffs last Thursday the Teachers beat Henkel's by a score of 6 to 4.

In the second game Wally's beat Britton 6 to 1. In the bout between the winners the Teachers showed endurance as they came out on top with a 7 to 4 victory.

Lonal Bishop was the winning pitcher and Preston Caswell was the loser. Jim Hoffman hit a home run for the Teachers.

PLAYGROUNDS

The playgrounds came to a close last Friday, with a picnic at each of them. Parks and Recreation Dept. furnished hot dogs, potato chips, and pop for 120 children to close the successful summer program.

During the nine-week period 2,371 children took part in the leisure-time activities.

Herrick Park

Last week was the final week for this season. Since the first few days were damp and chilly, games were played mostly under the shelter. Old maid, crazy eights, Uncle Wigley, and checkers were main events.

Mike House laced a book marker, a whip, and a whistle chain. A draw purse was made by Karen Bird and a baseball purse by Rita Pace. Car kits were put together by Gary Harper and Mike House.

The week came to a close Friday with a hot dog roast. Each child roasted a hot dog and marshmallows, so the playground closed with mustard and creamy marshmallow faces.

Shady Lane

The last week of the playground was successful even though we had a couple of dreary days. Martin Harper had fun assembling a turtle purse. Robin and Elizabeth Grady started baseball, turtle, Indian and drawstring purses, which they will finish while on their vacation to northern Michigan.

The children appreciated the big picnic to end the playground season, and the help of Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Hallenbeck and Mrs. Ryan during the picnic was very much appreciated.

Tecumseh Acres

All week long the children looked forward to the hot dog roast Friday. They spent their time swinging, playing games and coloring.

We discussed bringing side dishes, to go with our hot dogs, but agreed finally on bringing cookies. Pat Racey baked some oatmeal cookies for the picnic. Thirty-one children attended Friday and enjoyed their picnic.

Nearly all of our handicraft supplies were gone at the end of the week. Janice Racey made three pot holders. Richard Packard, Bonnie Brighton, and Gary Wonderly completed model cars, and Kathy and Jeff King both made coin purses. Beth Grady made a belt and two comb cases, and Pat Racey finished a turtle purse. Several children went home with lacing to work on before school starts.

Patterson

This week we traveled to the World's Fair and Washington, D.C. via souvenirs from the senior trip this spring.

We had two visitors, David and Kamala Marsh from Aspen, Colo. They are grandchildren of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. B. Marsh.

MOM'S SOFTBALL

The Moms ended their summer softball program with a game against the Senior Girls softball team. The Senior girls batted wrong-handed, could not play their original positions and won the game 3 to 1.

Championship Race Tightens in Final Weeks

By CHUCK ALLEN

Only seven and one half points separate the first five teams with Hollar and Berkley still in the lead.

Their team has led the league consistently since back in May and at times by a margin of twelve points.

Bill Berkley's average of 38 and Pat Hollar's 42 serves a real challenge for anyone trying to overtake them but the four teams directly behind are giving it an old college try.

Teenagers are taking their summer jobs seriously. They realize that by meeting the demands of teamwork and cooperation on the job they can make the "working teen" a great success.

Few employers expressed negative opinions about hiring teens. One employer, however, who has hired them in the past and who presently employs one, said, "There are too many teenagers who work just for the money. Although they work well, they're too inconsistent about working hours."

The area of job opportunities open to teenagers is obviously limitd by individueals willing to accpt responsibility.

Most popular jobs seem to be offered at the drug stores. Teens are working at Lamb's and Hodges. Uncle Bill's employs stock boys when they're needed.

Six teenagers work at the soda fountain in Wright Drugs. "This is a job made to order for teenagers," said Mr. Wright.

"Soda-sippers" may be greeted by teens at Meadowridge Dairy. Dairy employees presently number five.

Don Smith, owner and chief chef of Don's Beef Buffet, expressed the general wishes of most of the employers who hire teen-agers. "We hope that the young people here will gain poise and initiative through their working experience."

About a year ago Rusty O'Neil started to work at Don's as a busboy and has gradually been promoted to "Junior Chef".

Rusty helps cook and serve the roast beef, rolls the dough for pies and bakes them.

"I don't know if I'll be a chef or not," said Rusty thoughtfully, "but this would be a good way for me to work my way through college."

This is the main theme for teenage bank accounts. Everyone is saving money for college, school clothes or housekeeping.

Three teens work at the D&C. Linda Easton's sunny smile greets people three days a week. Teens working at the Strand Theatre are "hep" on the best movies.

Teenage life-guards protect the public as it enjoys the city's recreational facilities at the swimming pool and the "pit". Each life guard has used a special Red Cross training program and is qualified to assume the responsibility of water safety.

At the hospital, teenagers help prepare trays and wash dishes. Three enthusiastic young people are gaining a first-hand education in Herrick Nursing Home. This may carry them into nursing careers.

What would the public do without the valuable services of forever-needed babysitters, fellows who mow lawns or checkout girls and carry-out boys who greet shoppers in the groceries? All these jobs are important because each gives the teenager responsibility and a sense of achievement.

The interviewed teens agree that they enjoy working as well as claiming the fruit of their endeavors. They expressed the desire to work against "just sitting around" all summer. They feel that experience gained will be valuable no matter what the future holds.

NEW STATE SENATE ALIGNMENT FOR LENAWEE COUNTY LOOKS LIKE THIS

Primary Election Is at Odd Time Due to Reapportionment

Voters in Michigan will ballot at an odd time in this year's primary election — Tuesday, Sept. 1. The switch from spring came as the result of confusion over reapportionment for the Legislature. General election will be Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Considerable confusion resulted in new apportionment of House and Senate. Lenawee County is now part of two Senatorial Districts, 18 and 19. There are portions of Lenawee in four House districts.

Here is a complete rundown candidates for Congress, state legislature, and county offices:

THROUGH MY WINDOW

COAXING THE HUMMERS

I have said it often before and it is still true — we are being discriminated against! I maintain that it is grossly unfair, when there are some 750 known species and sub-species of hummingbirds, for us, who live east of the Mississippi River, to only have one.

Surely the ratio is way out of proportion and although the hummer we do have, the ruby-throat, is a perfect gem, it would be nice to have others.

As a family, the hummingbirds are an interesting clan. To say that they come in assorted shapes and sizes is not mere idle chatter. The largest of the group, the giant of the Andes Mountains, is a whopping big eight-and-a-half inches long, whereas at the other end of the scale is the diminiature fairy or Helena's hummingbird of Cuba.

Measuring an incredible tiny two-and-a-half inches this is, according to today's knowledge, the smallest bird in the world. An all American family, hummingbirds are found only in this hemisphere and although primarily devoted to the life in Central and South America, there are some 19 species who are either year-round residents or who spend at least part of the time in this country. But remember, of this 19 only one visits us.

☆

BUT MARDA, don't belabor the point — one hummingbird is better than none and the little ruby-throat is a real treasure.

About three-and-a-half inches long and weighing almost as much as a copper penny, these hummers are quite common and highly desirable summer garden guests.

Both male and female are a metallic bronze-green which shines and glistens in the sun; much white and green shows on their under parts. When the light is right the male's throat shows a brilliant red, otherwise it appears almost black — the thrill of catching this in direct sunlight and seeing his ruby-throat is unforgettable.

The female lacks this distinguishing cravat but the outer tips of her tail are white, as she flies away it is as if a gaily bedecked lady's slip were showing.

☆

THE HUMMINGBIRD has long been one of our favorite birds and in the attempt to entice them close to our window, several clumps of bergamot have been strategically placed. They work like a charm — the hummers love the coarse, red flowers and spend hours each day probing into the blossoms.

By the way, they are searching for more than just sweet nectar; tiny bugs form an important part of their diet.

Theoretically the ruby-throats are easily attracted to feeders; you have the kind, glass tubes into which sweetened water is placed.

☆

TO BE SUCCESSFUL, these feeders should be put out early in the season, I understand. The birds are habit feeders and, when the flower season is in high gear there is so much natural food available, they are little disposed to investigate anything new. At least this is our alibi as to why my late put-out feeder is not well patronized.

By the way, there has been quite a controversy over what to use in a h-b feeder. According to the current issue of Audubon Magazine, a mixture of boiled water and honey is better for the birds than the more commonly used sugar and water. They stress boiled water because this tends to retard fermentation.

Sugar causes liver disorders and honey can be intoxicating — what do they say about paying your money and taking your choice?

So it is that for good summer fun, join us in trying to coax the hummers.

LOCAL BUSINESS

A furniture store in Ambler, Penn., frequently runs advertising which is designed to promote all local retail firms — even competitors.

Such advertising is done in the belief that general activity in a trade center is good for all retailers as well as a community as a whole.

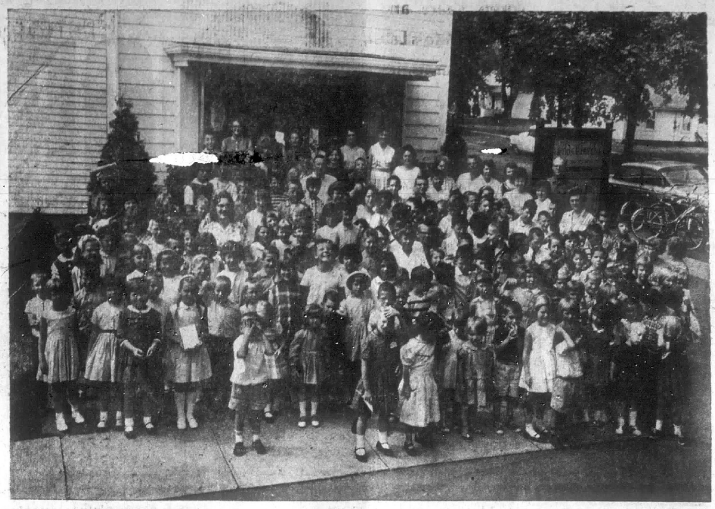
It has been proven that the large store which advertises heavily automatically helps to support nearby specialty shops and services. Thus, the best location for a small gift shop may be in the shadow of a large department store.

Studies made of retail trade decline in cities where strikes closed newspapers indicate that specialty shops which did little or no advertising suffered almost as much as the nearby big advertisers.

It was evident that the downtown traffic created by regular newspaper advertisers helped to keep the entire trade center alive.

The most dangerous competition for the local merchant is not his next door neighbor. The biggest threat is the competitior in a distant trade center.

Or, in many cases, when advertising is not used, trade for all local retailers is lost because customers are not stimulated to buy anywhere.



VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL — Friends Church Vacation Bible School has been in session during the past several weeks. Attendance has ranged from 125 opening day to a high of 202. When this picture was taken 187 children were present. At that time Dick Lamphere, a member of the Rural Bible Mission, gave an entertaining demonstration using a flannelgraph. Main theme of the session was '12 Brothers and God." This compared the life of Joseph, one of the 12 brothers, with the life of Christ.

DOLLAR and SENSE FARMING.

HIGH-MOISTURE EAR CORN can be stored safely in conventional concrete silos with storage losses of 5% or less. This is the result of Michigan research findings. To accomplish this corn needs to be stored at moisture contents of 22% to 30%. Corn needs to be ground in a burr or roller mill and stored in a tightly sealed silo. High-moisture ear corn can easily be handled with silo unloaders, augers and self-unloading wagons.

AN ON-FARM FEED PROCESSING SYSTEM can be installed on most farms for an annual fixed cost of not more than $360, says R. J. Mutti of the University of Illinois. Variable costs to cover power, repairs and labor usually won't run more than 3¢ per ton on the small automatic units. If 100 tons or more are processed, the cost should be reasonable.

LONGER HOGS ARE LEANER. A USDA study indicates that a carcass length of 31 inches is most desirable for lean meat production. They evaluated 473 carcasses of Duroc and Yorkshire breeds. As carcass length increased, they found a consistently lower backfat thickness, larger loin-eye-muscle area and more pounds of lean cuts. Relationship held up to a carcass length of 31 inches.

DAIRYMEN, KEEP FIXED COSTS LOW. For top dairy farm managers in Ohio it took only 28% of their gross income to pay their fixed costs. Without skillful management and precise adjustments, overhead can absorb 45% or more of the gross income.

Grocery Opened Doors in 1924 on Dirt Road

Forty years ago, a dirt trail wound around the south shore of Wamplers Lake. A farm house owned by Charles Lapham and William Gentner stood alone at the center.

Today, the remodeled home is a combination grocery store, soda fountain and bar, serving the 250 cottages which now surround it. Herb Gentner and Russ Lapham were on the short end of two father and son teams when the project began, but now are sole owners and operators.

Since the project began, Herb and Russ have transformed the area into a pleasant resort. They developed the subdivisions and five additions were joined to the original land. A channel now provides resorters with a link to Wamplers Lake.

In 1933, a bar was added to their facilities, giving them one of the oldest licenses in the county. A baseball diamond has also been added for the kids.

Russ was the supervisor of Cambridge Township from 1949 to 1961, a position which proved valuable in obtaining improvements for the resort area. As word got around about the project, people began moving in.

A majority of the resorters came from Detroit and its suburbs. There are now 50 year-round residents and Herb and Russ stay open to serve them. Students are bused to Onsted Schools.

Brady Request Turned Down by Councilmen

It is Residential "A" and Mr. Brady had asked to have it changed to Commercial.

He planned to erect three places of business — a tavern, beauty and barber shop and heating and appliance store.

In addition, Robert Meadows, owner of the Country Market, at the corner of Occidental and Russell, told Council he was going to expand on a 50-foot section he had recently acquired from Mr. Brady.

☆

OBJECTIONS to the change in zoning were made by several persons attending a public hearing, held as part of the Council meeting.

Marshall Coulter, who is planning a 50-acre housing development — and got his final OK later in the same evening — told Council the Brady proposal would be injurious to his subdivision. He said he was spending about $150,000 on the program, which runs along Occidental Hwy.

The Coulter property is located just to the south of Brady's 35-acre plot, which presently is used primarily for a gravel pit.

Mrs. Russell Starkey said she opposed building a "beer parlor" in the area. Mr. Brady reminded Council that Mrs. Starkey was a resident of Tecumseh Township and not the city.

☆

EXPRESSIONS by Councilmen all opposed a change in this zoning classification.

"I'm not in favor," said Bob Bonner. "If we vary from the Master Plan we should have a good reason. In this case I don't think we have."

John Hamilton added, "There's a breaking point on all of this and we must draw a line and so this is it."

Ray Puffer, Jr. added that he also was against the plan.

Mayor Harold Easton asked Mr. Meadows if he knew that his Country Market was "nonconforming" to the Master Plan. When it was built, the land was part of Tecumseh Township and thus is allowed to continue in operation "as is," even though the sector is zoned residential.

Mr. Meadows replied that he understood.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

When a city has a Master Plan — which zones the community into living, business and industrial areas — what happens when someone wishes a change?

Tecumseh has a comprehensive plan, administered by the Planning Commission, with a board of appeals for folks who wish a different lineup of zoning.

But the key body is Council, which has complete authority and the final word.

The philosophy of altering a Master Plan got an airing at Monday's regular Council meeting, precipiated by the request from Arthur Brady to have a portion of his 35 acres along Russell Rd. changed from residential to commercial.

► Is it in the best interest of the public welfare?

► Does it conform to the comprehensive or Master Plan?

► Is there an unnecessary hardship?

Mr. Rice subscribes to a monthly report on city planning, which outlines courses of action taken all over the United States in cases where changes to Master Plans are proposed.

He read summations of five appeals and most showed that chopping up Master Plans was denied. The various rulings were primarily based on the three points he advanced.

Mr. Brady pointed out to Council that other changes in zoning have been made to the city's Master Plan such as allowing development of an apartment project along N. Evans St. in an area for single residences.

However, Council expressed the opinion that, when possible, new business should be concentrated in areas already zoned commercial.

The series discussion ended with a note of humor when Mr. Rice, who receives no pay for his Planning Commission service, told the gathering.

"This (the monthly report) cost me $32.50 out of my Planning Commission salary."

Car Supply Outlet Will Open Soon

It's being located at the corner of Chicago Blvd. and Ottawa St., in the former Mobile station operated by the late Earl Updyke.

The property is owned by Don Purkey and has been leased to Mr. Mason who hopes to open by Sept. 1.

He has owned a similar business in Adrian for the past 11 years and started a Morenci branch in 1962.

☆

THE BUILDING is being painted inside and out and a new ceiling installed. Dick Jacobs of Adrian will serve as manager with an assistant yet to be hired.

Mr. Jacobs will shortly be moving to Tecumseh.

In addition to a $30,000 inventory of parts, there will be a complete automotive machine shop.

Planners Meet To Talk Shop

Tecumseh and Raisin Township supervisors will huddle with Tecumseh officials to review zoning of an area encompassing one mile outside the city limits.

City Manager Cal Zorn told Councilmen Monday that the specific time had not been set as yet.

Both townships and the city all have Master Plans,

City Is Facing Water Crisis

A critical water problem faces Tecumseh.

Never before have the community's demands been so great — yet, pumping capacity has fallen below previous years.

The city's water picture looks bleak and apparently the only solution lies in new sources of supply.

Cal Zorn, city manager, explained the growing dilemma. In the past two years, wells Nos. 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6 have silted in and stopped producing. To help offset this, wells No. 8, 9, 10 and 11 were drilled, but this is only a four-for-five exchange.

Sale of water has jumped enormously in the past year, more than $12,000 over what had been anticipated.

Pumping capacity is rated at four million gallons per 24 hours, explained Mr. Zorn, adding that on several occasions this summer the figure hit 3.8 million. Of this amount, about two million gallons are needed by industry.

During one stretch in July, every pump worked continuously for 144 straight hours. Normally, the pumps are idle during night hours.

Mr. Zorn told Council he had been discussing the problem with consulting engineers to see what possible solutions could be worked out. Any answer will cost money — up to as much as $4,500 — depending on what the city decides to do.

A complete study of the water situation, running resistivity tests and sinking test holes along the River Raisin to locate possible new sites for additional city wells and projecting city needs through 1974 would run $4,500.

Councilman Bob Bonner wondered if sinking wells in likely locations would be the answer. This could be a $700 gamble per well, but it could provide a quick answer to the city's growing needs.

Now, Agreement Wording Will Be Changed Slightly

Now the easements are going to be slightly re-written.

Work was begun last month on this major sanitary sewer line, which is going to cost $160,000 and run about one mile along the creek bed.

Easements — permission from property owners along the route have become a major stumbling block and threaten to halt the project entirely.

Council kicked the problem around once again Monday evening and the outcome was agreement to have city attorney Jim Beardsley, currently on vacation, re-word a portion of the agreement.

Mayor Harold Easton noted that as it presently reads, the easement gives no assurance to home owners that in event of any damage the city would be responsible, even though the contractor, Selders Excavating, is required to carry insurance to cover any mishaps.

☆

HARRY DUNCAN, 607 W. Logan St., told Council he would refuse to sign the present easement until the wording was altered and also until he knows exactly where the sewer line would slice through his property.

City Manager Cal Zorn explained that the line would be staked out this week to show Mr. Duncan and Orville Laidlaw, 1 Evans Creek Dr., who owns the adjoining land, the exact path.

Aden Mead, 128 W. Brown St., told Mr. Zorn he would not sign if the change proposed by R. D. Moore, 512 N. Pearl St., property owner to the south of Mr. Mead, was adopted.

☆

MR. ZORN informed Council that Jim McDowell, Evans Creek Dr., wants the city to tie into his septic tank with the sewer and said that his next-door neighbor, Carl Hale, would also probably want the same. Mr. Zorn estimated that the two leads would cost about $558.

Mr. McDowell told the city manager that the Board of Education would probably sign for the land containing Patterson School.

Two land owners, Bill Bruce, 405 N. Union St., and Dr. Carlton Cook, 140 Brown St., have already signed easements, Mayor Harold Easton said that they would receive the same protection, in event of any damage, as those who sign in the future.

Police Receive Bouquet

Furniture store owner Dike Helms related an incident which took place last week when two visitors to Tecumseh got lost.

They had come here to attend a state Jaycee board meeting at the home of Rick Creswell, 1002 W. Pottawatamie St.

The pair stopped a policeman and asked for directions. Instead of giving the anticipated "go west three blocks, then turn north, etc.," the patrolman personally escorted the two visitors to the Creswell home.

Mr. Helms said he wanted to commend the chief and his force because they "operate so efficiently and so cordially."

'Salute to Lenore' Being Staged Here

A "Salute to Lenore" is on tap for Tecumseh.

Lenore is Mrs. George Romney and she'll be the honored guest at a tea Thursday, Aug. 27, at Tecumseh Country Club.

Staged by Lenawee County Republican ladies, the 3 p.m. party is open to all with about 500 guests expected.

Mrs. Donald Cobb, 402 Outer Ct., will head up the committee marking arrangements.

Mrs. Romney, a dedicated booster of her husband in his bid for re-election as governor, is noted for her charm and speaking talents.

Besides campaigning, she has found time to teach Sunday School at the Bloomfield Hills Latter Day Saints Church and work on a variety of civic committees.

100 Elms Will Face Chain Saws

City Manager Cal Zorn states that 25 will have to be handled by a contractor and the cost is estimated at $700. These are trees near utility lines.

Another 20 in the central area will be cut down by city crews.

In the southeast sector, along Rogers Hwy. and Blood Rd., another 50 are slated for the chain saw.

Payroll Hits $9,588

Payroll for city employees for the first two weeks of August amounted to $9,588.43.

Sewage Disposal Addition Likely, If Fisher Body Ties In

Now operating close to its 700-000-gallons-per-day capacity, the facility may soon have a new customer — the Tecumseh Fisher Body plant.

"Even without General Motors, we'd probably have to consider an enlargement program in three or four years," stated City Manager Cal Zorn at Monday's gathering of Council.

The request from Fisher Body came unexpectedly Monday afternoon in a telephone call from a General Motors official.

Up until then, it was generally assumed that a sewage treatment layout would be built by Raisin Township.

A meeting has been slated for Monday between Fisher Body and Argonaut Division engineers and Tecumseh officials to investigate all possibilities. Argonaut is GM's real estate division. Wallace Benzie of the Michigan Department of Health will also attend.

When Fisher Body initially announced the new trim fabricating plant, to be located along Occidental Hwy., two miles south of town, Tecumseh's representatives offered a plan which would link the new industry to the city's disposal plant.

Under such an arrangement, expenses would be shared by the city, Raisin Township and Fisher Body.

Cost of an addition to the Tecumseh disposal plant was not discussed Monday.

It's Marlboro Country, Lad

Tecumseh's proposed 44-unit apartment dwellings along N. Evans St. has a name — Marlboro Ct.

It is to be owned by R&S Investment Co. of Jackson and consists of two buildings.

Sample Too Much for Elderly Burglar

A sample of 106 fifths of liquor, stolen from Jerry's Market, was too much for a 74-year-old Pontiac man early Saturday morning.

State police have charged Walter Perkins with breaking and entering in the night time and arraigning him at the county jail for investigation.

Clinton troopers said Mr. Perkins was arrested at 5 a.m. after his car struck a parked automobile near the four corners in Clinton after running a red light. Nearly $200 worth of full liquor bottles were broken during the collision.

Police spotted Mr. Perkins' car weaving on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. heading north at 4:45 a.m. They attempted to stop him, but he speeded up, ran the red light in Clinton and struck a parked car owned by Richard McIntyre of Mio.

In the Perkins car, Troopers said, were $458 worth of liquor and nearly $200 worth of cigarettes in cartons, plus 120 assorted packs of cigarettes and 47 candy bars.

Mr. Perkins suffered injuries and officers decided to take him to Herrick Memorial Hospital for treatment.

They found the market, owned by Jerry Coffey, had been entered through a broken front window and a large amount of liquor and cigarettes were missing.

Jeff Steiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Steiner, 720 Ternes Rd., happily displays a half gallon of Sealtest's mysterious new checkerboard offering, sliced in two. How this delicious treat of alternate vanilla and chocolate flavors is manufactured remains a tighly-held secret. Sealtest has seven machines in as many states to make checkerboard — and they're kept in a locked vault while idle. Only a few company executives and top technicans know how the machine works. If you can figure out the riddle, please let us know. In the meantime, try this tasty treat.

Council Asked To Adopt Code

Members of the City Planning Commission have recommended to Council that the State Housing Code, Public Act 167, be adopted to establish minimum requirements for all new home construction and remodeling within the city.

The code, mandatory only in cities over 50,000, goes into more specific details than the city's present requirements.

Council will study the possibilities.

17 Million-to-One!

With 17,000,000 tickets, coming from seven states, in one barrel, the drawing began. In went the hand of an R. L. Polk Co. official. Out came the first winner — Barbara L. Gates of Tecumseh! The odds for Miss Gates' chance were an amazing 17,000,000-to-one.

The prize was a $735 deluxe Riviera model Nimrod camping trailer. Barbara was one of 40 winners in the big Fleet-Wing promotion, staged by bulk jobbers and service stations. A complete list of winners is now posted at both Beach Bros. and Don's Super Service.

And if you want your car to feel as excited and delighted as Barbara when she got her good news, try a tank of Fleet-Wing gasoline. You'll notice the difference.

For the home owners, a reminder that cold weather isn't far off, might be in order. If you heat with oil, how about going Fleet-Wing and trying our fuel oil budget plan? It's designed to let you spread your heating costs into equal easy-to-meet budget installments, no interest, no service charges. You're guaranteed clean, safe, automatic heat with "Fleet-Heat" triple-filtered oil.

Coin Shortage Can Be Eased by Piggy Banks

The coin shortage is becoming critical in some areas of the country. Until the U. S. Treasury increases coin production, the lack will persist.

The American Bankers Association urges people to put back into circulations the billions of coins now [illegible] in home savings caches.

Local banks ask that retail merchants refrain from keeping an unnecessary amount of coins and allow them to circulate freely.

Doris Oliphant Weds Marvin Goad

The altar of the First Presbyterian Church was enhanced with pyramid arrangements of white gladioli and daisies Saturday for the wedding of Doris Elaine Oliphant and Marvin Lee Goad.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Oliphant of 412 N. Maiden Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Goad of Holt, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The marriage service was read at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. Julian Gresham, assisted by the Rev. James Lambert, pastor of the Evangelical Methodist Church in Lansing.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her Maude Bell creation of silk organza over taffeta, styled with rounded neckline and long sleeves. Alencon lace was appliqued on the fitted bodice to give an empire effect. The same lace edged the full length skirt and a lace-trimmed obi sash fell softly over the chapel train.

Her illusion veil was secured by a cap of organza petals and pearls. She carried a white lace-covered Bible, a gift from her grandparents, which was topped with a crescent arrangement of orchids and stephanotis interspersed with strands of ivy.

☆

KENDRA RINGMAN of Arlington, Va., was maid of honor with bridesmaids, Letty Ringman, Mrs. Douglas Richey of Mason and Mrs. Wayne Denison. They were dressed in floor-length gowns of aqua brocade taffeta, featuring elbow-length sleeves. A pleated panel was attached to the low back neckline.

Each wore a matching pillbox hat with veils and carried a modern basket arrangement of snow-drift pompons and shaded pink elegance carnations.

Susie Denison of Lansing was the flower girl. She carried a small wicker basket of carnations and pompons.

Wayne Denison of Lansing and Jerry Clark of Lansing seated guests as Mrs. H. W. Dillon presented nuptial selections of organ music. She also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwartz, vocalists.

Best man was the groom's brother, Bill Goad, of Detroit. Groomsmen were Douglas Richey of Mason, James Chappel of Lansing and Bus Corsin of Alanson. Ringbearer was Jimmy Richey of Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ringman and John Damon greeted guests at the reception in the Fellowship Center immediately following the ceremony. Shades of pink and white were used throughout the room. Assisting at the reception were Judy Beal, Jane Dillon, Jane Horvath, Mary Colgrove, Barbara Goad, Carol Hawkins, Maria Waybridge, Linda Knowles and Janet Crunk.

A BUFFET supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Hosts were Mrs. Sam Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Price and Mr. and Mrs. Dillon.

After a two-week trip through Canada, the newlyweds will make their home at 1113 Eaton Court, Lansing, where the bride will teach a business course at Eastern High School. She attended the University of Colorado and was graduated from Michigan State University in March. She is a member of Phi Gamma Nu Professional Sorority and Phi Beta Lambda.

The bridegroom was graduated from Michigan State University in December, 1962, and is employed in Jackson by Union School District as elementary science coordinator.

Week's Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. David Karle of Cincinnati, O., spent a week's vacation with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karle. Kathy Karle returned to her home with them after spending three weeks with her grandparents.

Tracksters Place Fifth Four Times

Tecumseh athletes placed fifth four times at the first Annual Michigan Track and Field Federation Summer Championships, Saturday, Aug. 15, at Houseman Field in Grand Rapids.

In the Junior Division Kirk Lucas placed fifth in the pole vault with a leap of 11 feet and fifth in the broad jump at 19 feet, 1¼ inches.

Hospital Loss Tops $6,740 During June

Patient load was down, the obstetries ward not too busy, a raise to nurses in effect and new employee retirement plan in operation.

In addition, the room rate was not raised, pointed out Mayor Harold Easton to Council Monday. He also is a member of the Hospital Board.

The Herrick Nursing Home, on the other hand, showed a $585 profit for the six.

The hospital board paid bills of $78,511 for June and boardmen OKed the purchase of a gas-fired incinerator for $383.40, also a $815 generator for the Nursing Home from Industrial Electric Co. of Adrian and $900 for the generator house to Krieghoff-Lenawee.

In 1950 the congregation voted to join the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches (GARBC). This was also the year the name was changed to Bethel Baptist church.

Special services will be held in the gymnasium of the high school Sunday, Aug. 30.

10 a.m. The Rev. Jack Sorenson, speaker. Pastor 1956-1962.

11 a.m. Worship service, the Rev. Duane McNeil, present pastor.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THIS AND THAT

Today perhaps we can just do a bit of skipping around and pick up a few loose ends. Because I never get through the pile of material on my reading table, postscripts to several past articles seem to be in order.

For example, in the June 3 issue of "The North Woods Call" there was an excellent article about cowbirds victimizing the Kirtland warblers.

These are the attractive little birds, who unfortunately were not made our official state bird by the last session of the Legislature.

These warblers require such a specialized nesting area that in the whole country, only one spot — and it is in our state — is suitable.

There has been an attempt to enlarge this nesting area, but only when the new jackpine growth has reached the proper stage will we know how successful our efforts have been.

Because the Kirtlands are so concentrated, they are easy prey for the cowbird and her family-abandoning way of life.

It is felt that each time the poor warbler leaves her nest in search of food there is great danger of cowbird violation. In fact, it is possible that by stealing the warbler's eggs and substituting their own, some nests contain nothing but cowbird eggs.

Even if a rightful occupant does manage to hatch out, it stands practically no chance of surviving. The intruders, being bigger and stronger, monopolize the mother's time and food offerings.

A study is being made to see exactly how disastrous this cowbird action really is. It will be interesting to know the outcome and what, if anything, can be done by way of control.

☆

AND STILL on the gloomy side, I hope attention was paid to the many recent reports of wholesale fish poisonings in various rivers, lakes and streams.

Not too far from home, there was the Kalamazoo caper where 18,000 planting-size muskellunge were killed by pesticide spray which apparently drifted into the hatchery's tanks from a nearby farm. Rachel Carson's warnings in her book, "Silent Spring", are not so far-fetched after all, are they?

But there is good news, too — in the last "Audubon Magazine," there was mentioned a new biological control spray. (It is used against gypsy moths and the claim is that, because it must be eaten, it is not harmful to bees and other beneficial insects. The product is distributed by a Stauffer Chemical Co.

☆

FINALLY, WE come to the marvelous hummingbirds and one facet of their lives upon which we did not touch in last week's column. These tiny feathered helicopters have an interesting family-raising cycle.

Their minute nests, intricate lichen-covered cups, barely 1½ inches in diameter, are securely fastened so as to straddle a small branch. I should think that to find such a home-site would be next to impossible.

In these carefully-camouflaged nests, two perfectly white, pea-sized eggs are laid. So tiny is a newly-hatched ruby throat that it would not even begin to fill half of the bowl of a teaspoon.

At this stage the long slender bill is nothing but a flat, broadened-out beak bearing little resemblance to the highly specialized tool into which it will soon develop.

We do not even hope to see the wondrous sight of Mrs. H. B. feeding her youngsters — this would be too much to ask. We have, however, thrilled to the sight of our visiting hummers resting on some of the little limbs directly above their beloved bergamot clump.

So tiny are they that unless we see one fly to a perching spot he would never in all the world of looking be seen.

So it is that we bring to an end today's session of this and that.

Employment in Lenawee Tops 16,414

Semi-annual count of individuals on 281 payrolls in Lenawee County employing eight or more workers, totalled 16,414 on July 15.

Of these 4,141 were females.

Manufacturing, with 93 establishments, accounts for 10,416 individuals this mid-July, which is 586 more than the number employed one year ago in Lenawee industries.

Temporary summer shutdowns caused a rise in the dollar value of benefit payments made by the Adrian Office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Lutheran Pastor, Lay Representative Attend Meeting

ANN ARBOR — The Michigan District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod will hold its 81st Convention on the campus of Concordia Lutheran Junior College, Aug. 16 to 20.

Attending will be the Rev. Thomas Drobena, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church and Melvin Schafer, a lay delegate from this church.

Attempts to Pass, Sideswipes Car

Passing a car waiting to make a left turn resulted in a citation for Faye Whelan, 55, of 501 Outer Dr., Aug. 11.

Bonnie Jean Smith, 25, of 712 Occidental, was waiting for oncoming traffic to clear at Ruhl's Service Station on W. Chicago, when the Whelan truck sideswiped the left side of her car.

Mr. Whelan was charged with failure to have his vehicle under control.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The total effect of advertising cannot be measured.

It is easy to keep a record on sales of a particular item which has been featured in one newspaper advertisement. But side effects may be more significant.

The retailer knows that almost every customer drawn to a store by an advertisement is likely to purchase goods which have not been advertised.

Also, each advertisement helps to establish the name of a store in the minds of consumers who may not be interested in buying immediately.

Retailers learn that newspaper readers often clip advertisements and refer to them weeks or months after the date of publication.

A department store, which runs a special sale on toys in September, finds that many mothers wait until December to order toys advertised.

A California grocery chain recently experimented with advertising in media other than newspapers. The drop in all sales was so drastic, a store official reported that he "didn't have the guts to continue."

The store's position in the market could not be regained immediately. Only the accumulative effect of repeated newspaper advertising restored sales to former levels.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HAY

Junket to Coast May Take Year

By OLIVE KOONS

CLINTON — George Hay, a veteran of 18 years with the Tecumseh Products Co., retired Aug. 1.

He worked in many departments throughout the years, but most recently was with Service.

Upon his retirement, his fellow workers presented him with a cash gift to put toward the cost of a trip he and his wife are making to the west coast.

The Products presented him with an Indian head pin containing two rubies, indicating nearly two decades of service.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay plan to travel extensively, eventually making their home in Seattle, Wash.

☆

THEY LIVED in Tecumseh until 1960, when they sold their home and purchased one in Clinton.

The Hays disposed of their Clinton place in May and purchased a trailer and camper.

He put a small stove and built cabinets and made room for two to sleep in the camper, so that they could park the trailer and visit many places while using the camper for living quarters.

The Hays, who have four married children and 20 grandchildren, started their journey Friday, first going north to spend several days visiting friends and relatives before heading west.

Mr. Hay said, "We aren't in any hurry to get to Washington; it may take us a year, because we want to see many places on the way."

Phone Call Gives News

Years of vacation and weekend travel fun became a reality today for Barbara L. Gates, 9716 Clinton Rd., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gates.

The good news arrived by telephone when a voice announced "You have won first prize in the Fleet-Wing 'Campstakes' contest."

The voice was that of Clarence Beach of Beach Bros., local Fleet-Wing distributor and sponsor of the "Campstakes" contest.

Mr. Beach quickly added, "Your prize is a family size deluxe Riviera model Nimrod camping trailer, complete with mattresses, and other accessories. It will be delivered to you at your convenience".

When the happy "Campstakes" winner recovered from the surprise she said," "Oh! my, this can't be true and the whole family loves camping so much."

☆

LATER, MR. BEACH confided, "Although the advertising of our service stations promised only 20 free trailers, the local winner was one of 40 lucky winners in the Fleet-Wing 'Campstakes' contest. Every winner received the same award and the same model trailer".

The complete list of 40 winners of Nimrod camping trailers is now listed at Fleet-Wing stations. Any person who registered at a Fleet-Wing station, anywhere, should check the list.

The $735 prize to Miss Gates included sales tax and license fee, all purchased by Beach Bros.

She Helps Venezuelans

Mary Seager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Seager, has began 18 months of service with Accion, a privately-sponsored "civic action" organization in Latin America.

Miss Seager has joined 100 other members of Accion in Venezuela.

She graduated last spring from Radcliffe College.

☆

OFTEN DESCRIBED as "the private Peace Corps," Accion is actually an urban community development organization working in the slums and working class areas of major Latin American cities.

With United States headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., Accion has grown from a small, student-run, American organization into one of the largest private development programs in Latin America.

The core of Accion's work is the belief that underprivileged citizens, working together, can solve many of their problems themselves.

Thus the North American members of the organigation do not "do things for the people" but rather, help to organize people to "do things for themselves."

☆

AS PART of this plan, Latin Americans have been encouraged to enter the program as volunteers currently, a [illegible] there are Latin Americans.

In addition, most of the funds for the project come from donations from individuals and private groups in the host country.

Most of Accion's North American participants are in the 25-35 age range, although persons as young as 20 and as old as 55 are now working.

All North Americans work in teams of two or three with citizens of the host country. They organize various types of self-help projects, such as sanitation facilities, schools, roads and community centers. Materials and skills for the programs derive from the local area.

☆

Accion is currently recruiting a second group of 25 participants who will depart for Venezuela in September of this year.

Applications and further information on the program may be obtained by writing:

Pick Tecumseh for Excellence in Safety Check

The National Safety Check Council has named Tecumseh to receive the state award of excellence for its outstanding vehicle check program.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club, the local safety check was among 83 cities, counties and youth groups in the nation to receive national awards.

Entries were judged by a national Board of Judges on overall quality of program, community participation and percentage of vehicles checked, rejected and rechecked.

Statistical findings on the condition of vehicles checked across the nation are being processed. Last year, more than a half-million cars and trucks were found to be in unsafe driving condition.

Tecumseh was the only Michigan city in the 10,000 and under population division to receive the award.

Key Is 'Learn by Doing'

The Cooperative Extension Service is observing its 50th anniversary this year. It has changed substantially in its first half-century; what it is doing today and plans to do tomorrow is far removed from its beginnings.

Prior to the birth of the Extension Service, there were no simple, easy methods of education available to farmers.

In 1902 the work and vision of a dynamic leader, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp of the U.S.D.A. exerted a powerful influence toward the organization of Extension on the present cooperative basis and contributed a method of teaching still basic in its operations.

MANY TIMES during his life, Dr. Knapp searched himself to answer the question: "How can the people be reached so as to take hold and adopt better methods of farming?"

At age 70, after a lifetime of farming and teaching, he found the right psychological key—in the demonstration technique — "learn by doing." As his most famous saying goes:

What a man hears he may doubt;
What he sees, he may possibly doubt;
But what he does himself, he cannot doubt.

From this embryo start has grown a massive, voluntary, out-of-school system of learning for adults and youth, rural and urban — for all who wish.

The Cooperative Extension Service officially began in May, 1914 with the passage of the Smith-Lever Act. This provided for the cooperative administration, staffing and support of federal, state and county governments.

This three-way partnership is why "Cooperative" is part of Extension's name. Being unique in the world, Prof. Daniel Elazar has called it "the American partnership."

☆

IT TOOK a while for county agents to be accepted. Fifty years ago many farmers were skeptical of "book learning".

Besides using farm demonstrations, agents discovered other ways to convince farmers that research was worthwhile.

From the beginning, agriculture has been the backbone of the Cooperative Service Program; trained men have brought improved farming methods to the farm.

In 1914, Paulina Raven was employed as the first home economics extension worker in Michigan.

Later extension work centered around child welfare, textiles and clothing, food preparation, nutrition — with emphasis on the value of protein — home management and home furnishings. Now more than 40,000 Michigan women are active in local organized extension study groups.

SOMEONE EARLY had the idea of approaching parents through their children. This approach initiated the birth of the 4-H clubs. Boys' corn clubs and girls' canning clubs developed into 4-H clubs.

While 4-H work has probably been most closely identified with projects and developments of skills, future programs seek to provide many opportunities for individual growth of boys and girls.

The green 4-H clover continues to be a trademark for more than 75,000 4-H club members in Michigan. They are a part of more than a million Michigan youth who have worn the 4-H emblem.

The marketing program of the Cooperative Extension Service is a relative newcomer to the Michigan scene, having got an expanded start some 18 years ago.

Passage of the Agricultural Marketing Act by Congress in 1946 enabled the Extension Service to move into the field of marketing on a truly educational basis.

Marketing work had been done informally for many years and was mainly concerned with helping farmers solve grading, quality and packaging problems.

☆

COMMUNITY Resource Development came into being as a program area of the Cooperative Extension Service in response to requests to the University for assistance on problems which were not being dealt with by the other program areas and which usually extend beyond the individual and family and thus require joint efforts of all members of a community, county or region.

The first county agent from the Extension Service came to Lenawee County in 1915 in the person of C. L. Coffeen.

He served until 1920 when Ralph J. Carr replaced him, but Mr. Coffeen returned again in 1922 and served four more years.

A. B. VanSchoik was the agent in the county from 1926 to 1934 when C. P. Milham took over for two years.

Louis G. Hall, who still lives in the county, took over in 1936 and served until his retirement in 1960. John W. Comstock, the present director, took over that year.

☆

DR. N. P. "PAT" RALSTON directs the current Michigan Cooperative Extension Service. Seventy-nine extension offices serve all 83 Michigan counties through approximately 300 professional field agents.

In addition, there are nearly 100 subject matter specialists located on the East Lansing Campus.

As the Cooperative Extension Service moves into the second half-century, a three-fold purpose provides the guideline.

That goal is to:

► Help Michigan people earn more money and use it wisely

► To develop individual talents and capacities and create more satisfying communities in which to live.

Pointing the direction to achieve this purpose is the motto, "Better Living Through Learning."

Dallas Was A Community Filled With Rumors

By JUDY FIELDER

The question in the minds of many people today, is "How much about President Kennedy's assassination don't we know? Were Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack [illegible] way connected?"

While in Dallas, we had the opportunity to talk to many natives about the murder and to hear their opinions on it.

The people of Dallas, more so than the rest of the nation, suffered greatly and were stricken by the tragedy. For days after the death of the president they left their homes and went for walks or rides to escape the tragedy-filled papers, radio, and television.

Several conventions to the city were cancelled and other repercussions took place against the people.

☆

PRIOR TO THE president's arrival, a storm of political controversy was raging. Headlines in the Nov. 21 Dallas Morning News read, "Kennedy To Walk Tightrope in Texas", "JFK Visit Ires San Antonio Liberals" and "Democrats Irked by JFK Invitations."

Friday, Nov. 22, the day of the President's assassination, one headline blurted, "Nixon Predicts JFK May Drop Johnson."

A front page article read "Storm of political controversy swirls around Kennedy on visit. Love Field braces for thousands." It went on to tell the exact time and route of arrival at Love Field with map of presidential motorcade, which planned to move slowly.

Saturday, Nov. 23, "The irony of the fatal presidential trip to Texas is that Gov. John Connally tried to call it off.

"The Governor, wounded by Mr. Kennedy' assassin, was against t[illegible] two reasons:

"One — it would not be wise politically, would expand rather than heal wounds within the Texas Democratic party.

"Two — there was the possibity of some unpleasant incident.

"Publicly, Gov. Connally displayed enthusiasm about the two-day trip. Actually he went to Washingto to try to call it off. He told members of his staff in Austin that he would do just that.

"Connally came back to Austin and announced that the trip would be made."

☆

AFTER THE DEATH of the president, three witnesses said police officer J. D. Tippit pulled his car over to the curb and there was a conversation between the murderer and him. The officer stepped out of his car, started toward Oswald, who pulled his pistol and fired.

One Dallas resident said that Patrolman Tippit worked part time as a bouncer for Jack R[illegible] in his bar, the Carousel. But this comment never could be tracked down.

Jack Ruby was inside the Dallas Morning News, placing an advertisement for his night club, at the time of the assassination.

From the Morning News building it is possible to see the corner of the building from which the president was shot. In that corner is the window second from top, where the assassin lurked.

Many questions [illegible] Jack Ruby [illegible] the president, undoubtedly. But if he loved him in a[illegible]mal sense, why wasn't he standing on the street cheering along with the rest of the people?

Did Ruby S ell Jeeps to Cuba?

It was also rumored that Ruby came to Dallas shortly after John Kennedy, then a senator, broke into public limelight with racket investigations in Chicago, Ruby's hometown.

Opinion by an informed source is, although Ruby may not have been insane at the time he murdered Oswald, he is now.

☆

ONE TEXAN, who maintains offices in both Forth Worth and Dallas, said he felt the president should never have traveled by car through the city, then on to the trade mart, adding that the mart had a heliport on top.

He said the president could have traveled from the airport to the mart by 'copter eliminating two hours of exposure over which the tightest security had little control.

This Texan said the Dallas police force had only one-third of its men on the presidential visit while Fort Worth had all of its men on call.

More hearsay floating around the city:

► While Oswald was in Mexico, Ruby never showed up for appointment with people interested in putting money into his night club. His whereabouts during this time is unknown.

► A man, his wife and pet monkey who had worked for Ruby a few years ago, were found asphyxiated in their trailer. Accidental death ruling followed.

► One couple working at the Carousel, a few weeks before assassination, said that Oswald was in the audience.

► Ruby had tried to sell Jeeps to Cuba.

► Marina Oswald? Any answers to unsolvable questions?

☆

IT'S A confusing situation. How many, if any, of these circumstances are true? What is the real answer?

Were Oswald and Ruby acquainted? If so, who can prove it?

Oswald is dead, Ruby presumably insane. Was Patrolman Tippit involved in any way or just a victim of circumstance? How can any answer be achieved with two dead men and one unaccountable for his actions?

Let's hope the Warren Committee report provides the answers.

Ruby was an extremely emotional individual — Oswald an extremely impressionable one.

The death of the president put the nation into a standstill — think what it did to the people of Dallas.

Devoted to Shakespeare

By PAT KURETH

The Irish Hills Playhouse, now in its third season, presents one of the most ambitious seasons of Shakespeare available in the world today.

This vital young theatre celebrates the 400th anniversary of the great poet-dramatist with five of Shakespeare's plays in repertory: Richard III, The Taming of the Shrew, Twelfth Night, Macbeth and The Comedy of Errors.

Larry Burns, producer-director, and his wife, Dorothy Cobb Burns, co-producer and designer, seek to bring their high ideals of theatre to a reality in the plays they present. The Burns' selected over the past three years a range of plays from Elizabethan, Restoration and Contemporary Periods indicating a necessity for highly skilled and flexible artists.

Burns has selected his professional acting company from all parts of the United States.

For this anniversary season the producers selected a company from over 600 actor applicants. Auditions were held in several Midwestern and Eastern centers including New York City.

Burns helps to assure further growth in good theatre by promoting talented young actors and actresses from various schools and universities throughout the country.

For the past two seasons he has engaged Dr. Robert Cagle of Bradley University as resident-director with the company.

Mrs. Burns has assembled a wardrobe now exceeding 600 costumes. These include original designs and authentic period costumes.

"A costume designed for one play is not discarded, but with a few alterations is easily adapted to suit the style or the period of another role," says Mrs. Burns.

"We bought many full-circle skirts while in England last year," she continued. "We do this — and this" — she deftly demonstrated, "and we have Elizabethan capes of two different styles. Imagination and creativity are continually drawn upon in costuming."

The Irish Hills Playhouse is drawing an ever-increasing circle of followers. It is listed by President Johnson's 400th Anniversary Shakespeare Committee as one of the places to see Shakespeare's work performed this summer.

The Playhouse is located on US-12, just west of the entrance to Hayes State Park

Half Days Ruled Out

Tecumseh High School students will not be put on half-day sessions this fall, Supt. James McDowell said Tuesday.

Work on the new high school addition has progressed and enough classrooms will be available by Sept. 8 to allow students to attend full days.

A problem in the elementary grades was also solved with Sutton School, in recent years used for special education, being available Sept. 8 for sections of first, second and third grades.

Starting date for special education classes has been set back to Sept. 14 when the new Lenawee Institute will be ready.

However, Supt. McDowell still has to find a third grade teacher for Sutton. Interested persons may contact him at the school office, 304 W. Chicago Blvd.

A complete rundown on opening of schools will appear in next week's Herald.

RETIRES — Carol Kapnick, Tecumseh's playground supervisor for five years, is retiring. See story in Recreation Activities column Page two, Section 2.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

One of the nice things about sitting in the editor's chair at The Herald is being able to call on folks for help with special projects.

Among the most generous with time and talent is Clara Waldron, Tecumseh's unofficial historian.

And if we'd ever quit bother-Clara, maybe she could finish her volume on the community.

But she's always so gracious about pitching in, we keep right on asking.

Our latest request pertained to a yarn about the Sutton House which readers will find elsewhere on this page. As always, Clara did a thorough and fascinating yarn about this.

Clara, Edith Haviland and I toured the structure Tuesday morning, Tom Short of Britton, foreman of the five-man crew from Abbott Construction Co. handling the renovation job, told us about the project.

It's a giant undertaking and when completed will see the transformation of a 110-year-old home into a showplace, which will serve as offices for Stauffer Chemical Co.

Here's hoping the company will have an open house when the work is done to allow area residents a chance to see how beautifully the structure is suited for its new role.

Exploring all through the place, I was especially amazed at the size of the attic — nearly big enough to hold the average three-bedroom place seen around town.

The house is surrounded by giant trees, but it will be touch and go how many can be saved. Some are elms and probably fated for the chain saw.

Miss Haviland, the gal who sprung the idea to Stauffer to save the famed house, is to be congratulated for her efforts.

So is Amos Anderson, who'll head up the Raisin Township complex for Stauffer and carried the ball on the restoration idea.

Ditto "volunteer" Miss Waldron for getting up such an absorbing story about Sutton House.

Councilmen To Consider GM Request

A special gathering of City Council will be held Thursday evening to discuss the possibility of Tecumseh providing sewer service for the new Fisher Body plant.

General Motors officials made a formal request to tie into the local system Monday in a gathering with city officials.

City Manager Cal Zorn has asked the Ann Arbor consulting engineer firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley to come up with cost estimates, which are to be presented at the special session.

The firm designed the city's sewage system, which went into operation in 1952.

If the Fisher Body proposal is accepted, an addition to the present treatment plants would probably be a necessity.

Profits Go for Sutton Furniture

Seventh Annual Rotary Club Golf Outing was held last week at the Tecumseh Country Club.

One-hundred-twenty Rotarians were present for the dinner. After eating they were entertained by a Jackson barbershop quartet, the 4 Tune Tellers.

He also spoke on the evolution of Tecumseh Products from its beginning in the early 1930's to the present.

Profits earned from the event were turned over to the joint Lenawee County Rotary Clubs Fund for equipment to furnish classrooms at the new Sutton School.

Wet Pavement Is Too Slippery

A Volkswagon driven by Masaru Fujiya, 36, Ann Arbor received front end damage when it struck the rear of a car waiting for the stop light to change at the corner of Chicago Blvd. and Maumee St. Saturday at 11:15 a.m.

Mr. Fujiya, traveling east, was unable to stop on wet pavement and hit a car driven by Josephine Siler, 64, of Toledo, O.

Next door to Sutton Place used to be a stop for what now is a spur of the New York Central Railroad, then a busy passenger carrier. Standing in front of it is Mrs. Elsie Sanford Ayling, now a resident of Adrian, who formerly lived on Sutton Rd.

Phone Calls with No Toll Are Sought

General Telephone Company has filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission requesting extended area service between Tecumseh, Adrian, Britton and Clinton exchanges.

If the application is approved, customers of all four exchanges will be able to dial each other directly without toll charges.

Extended service will require new and additional facilities, including installing new circuits between Tecumseh and other exchanges and modifying present local dial equipment.

Authority has been requested to raise rates according to the number of telephones within the local calling area.

Tecumseh's exchange will be increased by approximately 13,450 telephones in the Adrian, Clinton and Britton exchanges.

Increase for residential two-party lines under the proposed rate change would be 55c per month. A four-party line would be upped 45c per month.

Public hearing will be held Sept. 1 at 10 a.m. in the Lewis Cass Building, Lansing. Interested parties may attend.

Party To Be Held for Eldon Miller

Friends of Elton LeRoy Miller are invited to attend a Going-Away party Saturday, Aug. 29, at 8:30 p.m. at Frontier City near Onsted.

Eldon will leave to join the Seabees Sept. 14.

Stauffer Chemical Will Use Old Sutton Place for Offices

By CLARA WALDRON

Must Big Business, of necessity, be devoid of sentiment?

A lot of people around Tecumseh and Raisin Township do not think so, thanks to action of Stauffer Chemical Co., which is going all out to preserve, restore and beautify a cherished landmark, the old Sutton House.

The original layout of the chemical plant made no provision for the building and called for its destruction as a matter of course.

It was in the way. That would have been the end of the matter —and of Sutton House—had it not been for a concern and determination of Miss Edith Haviland and the vision of Amos Anderson, a Stauffer vice-president, who heads up the local division.

A relative of "Aunt Laura" Haviland of Civil War fame, Miss Haviland has been a lifelong resident of the neighborhood. Since her retirement from the Adrian schools, she has devoted much of her time to the recording and preservation of the background of the region and especially of the group of Quakers, who make up its early settlement.

☆

THUS TO HER, as to many others, the possible loss of the house so symbolic of that background would be a major tragedy. So, taking courage, and pen in hand, she wrote Mr. Anderson, bringing to his attention the historical interest of the building and its significance to the countryside, and asking his reconsideration.

His reply was a courteously regretful negative. Because of its position, the house must be razed. That seemed to be that. However, because of the letter, his interest had been aroused. He visited Sutton house — and it spoke for itself.

Its structural soundness, despite its more than 100 years the mellow charm of its dignified proportions and architectural details, plus the intriguing tradition of Underground Railway activities, all had their appeal.

☆

THE RESULT was a decision to keep the building and incorporate it in the overall plant and here the vision came into play.

Not only was the house to be saved, it was to be restored as nearly as possible to its original condition and, while currently useful, be a graceful reminder of an earlier age.

That work has gone forward apace. Bricks have been sandblasted to their pristine freshness, woodwork repaired, modern window panes replaced, plans

First Reunion Held at Free Soil School

TIPTON — From 100 to 125 pupils, teachers and family members attended the first reunion of the Free Soil School Aug. 23.

The school, located three miles south of Tipton on Tipton Hwy., consolidated with Adrian Public Schools last spring.

Present were six former teachers: Mrs. Gwendolyn Miller Quigley of Tecumseh and Miss Leethel Fortney of Morenci, who succeeded each other twice in the ten year period from 1933 to 1943; Mrs. Howard Evans of Tipton, the last teacher at Free Soil; Mrs. Rosella Vollmer of Tipton, who taught the longest (17 years), also a former pupil; Mrs. Stella Smith, the oldest contract teacher, who taught from 1900 to 1901 and Mrs. Grace Knight Ruesink, who taught one week 70 years ago and substituted three days in 1940.

☆

ASA RANDOLPH, 82, was the oldest pupil present. She attended the school in 1890.

Mrs. Bertha Nash Trowbridge traveled the farthest distance with a 200-mile trip from Evart.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Nina Randolph) DeForest of Adrian, who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, were the oldest couple, both pupils at Free Soil.

Tom Ruesink attended from 1946 to 1955. During that time he had only one teacher, Mrs. Vollmer, and no classmates.

Many students went to colleges and universities and they, along with others, are pursuing successful careers as businessmen, farmers, homemakers and eachers.

☆

THE PARTY was held from 1:30 to 6 p.m. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Willard Emery and Mrs. Esther Emery Gagnon.

John Abraham, present owner, had the school cleaned and financed turning the lights on.

He also wrote on the blackboards a list of teachers, the years they taught and their star "dunces". Guests reminisced by scaning old records and comparing pictures of themselves and schoolmates.

TORNADO HITS RIDGEWAY — Linda Korth is getting a first hand look at the damagee left by the tornado, which touched down at the Bill Brown property along M-50 in Ridgeway. Numerous trees were uprooted as well as the damage done to this shed. Traffic was temporarily halted when the roof of a small barn was lifted from its foundation and deposited in the highway. George Ruhl's garden is gaining fame. Ham Moore commented on the plot in front of George's Cities Service station on W. Chicago Blvd. Ham, who was dropping his wife's news at The Herald office said, "Isn't the landscaping beautiful there?"

If Tecumsehites have missed this pretty spot, they should make it a must on their next jaunt. George is setting a high example for other businessmen in the city.

The Scout Cabin Fund is $1,551.05 this week due to the donation from the Jayeces with their Moonlight Sale Dunk Tank profits.

How much rain did we get last week? Winthrop Winfield, 703 W. Pottawatamie St., reports that his gauge showed 4½ inches in 96 hours.

A city road crew is preparing N. Union St., above Brown St., for paving, delighting a lot of folks in the north end.

When Ruth Rentschler gets out a letter to The Herald you can be sure there is some poignant fact for public thought. There's a note this week, which makes a lot of sense.

If some kind soul would like to lend Mrs. Ralph Sager a hand, she'd be grateful. She has had an FM radio for a year now, but needs someone with a knowledge of wiring to string up an antenna. Seems her electrician hubby had been too busy to tackle the chore.

Letter to Company Helped Save House

made for the reinstalling of the wrought iron grill windows in the cornice and the strengthening of the fluted columns of the entrance porch.

Sandstone steps and window sills require no repair and will be retained. Most of this "face lifting" is confined to the outside of the house. Only the upper and lower halls, the high ceilings front parlor and the room above it will be restored to their original position. Other rooms are being converted to office use so that Sutton House will justify its modern existence.

☆

WHILE NOT the oldest home in this region, Sutton House was built in 1838 by Asa and Sarah Satterthwaite Sutton, who came from Croton Valley, New York.

They came here to join relatives in that closely-knit group, known as the Raisin Valley Friends Meeting. For years, its doors were hospitably open to all comers, Quaker or "World's People", black or white.

There is no doubt that, like all Quaker homes, Sutton House served as a station on the Underground before the Civil War, but so secretly was this work carried on, there is no evidence of where the run-a-way slaves were hidden, although a windowless basement room, entered only by a trap door seems the most likely spot.

The location of the house was, no doubt, influenced by the cross roads and the nearness of the railroad, which played an important part in the life of the family for years.

Known as Sutton's crossing, it was a flag stop on the road which was called variously, "The Palmyra Jacksonburgh", the "Michigan Southern", the "Michigan Central" and then the "New York Central" railroad.

☆

IT WAS complete with waiting room and official sign, both of which still exist. For much of that time the house also served as a postoffice for the area.

An outer door on the east side led into a small room that had been part of the dining room and here Townsend Sutton—"Towny" to all and sundry—represented the government and handled the mail for his neighbors, thus making the house more than ever a center of the community.

Another reason for its site was a powerfully-flowing spring nearby, which made it possible for the house to have running water, an unheard of luxury for those days.

By the use of a "ram", water was forced to a tank in the enormous attic, providing a continuous flow to kitchen, bathroom and milk house. At one time the bath tub used was a hollowed and polished wooden log.

☆

ARCHITECTURALLY, the house is elequent of the New England background of its builders with its evenly-spaced windows, pillared porch and sidelighted front door, which opened into a spacious hall, leading through to the rear kitchen.

This was flanked by lofty sitting room, dining room and parlor bed-rooms, whose simple but massive woodwork was accented by panels beneath the windows.

Surprisingly, there were no fireplaces, although the kitchen had a brick oven. Probably heat was supplied by Franklin stoves. However the restoration calls for a fireplace in the front room with a mantle taken from another house of the period.

☆

BESIDES THE usual woodsheds, pantries, store rooms (one of which was known as the "meal [illegible]"), the house had a unique feature — an attached, walk-in ice house where blocks of ice, buried in sawdust, preserved meat during the summer.

A granddaughter of the builders, Miss Mary Sutton of Newberg, Oregon, is authority for the existence of a still more unusual feature, the "tramp room".

Among the many bedrooms on the second floor (those in the rear were reached by a backstairs) was one reserved for any Knight of the Road who asked for lodging. None was ever turned away and some remained for a long period as the family made a sometimes successful attempt at rehabilitation.

Altogether the house is typical of an era of spacious bountiful hospitality, a way of life that is gone with the Indian but which, thanks to Mr. Anderson, will not be forgotten.

Dinner was served at Webers Restaurant, Ann Arbor before the couple left by plane for a honeymoon in San Francisco, Cal.

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Who is the mystery man — that gentleman who has given generously each time that the Bloodmobile comes to Tecumseh?

Last time he was donating the precious red liquid in Clinton, he was gently joshed by Mrs. Merton Boss for giving there rather than in Tecumseh.

His rejoinder was simply, "Well, I'm afraid I will be too old by the time the blood is taken there."

By careful scrutiny of the schedule, it was determined that Mr. X would have "five days grace." Now who is Mr. X that we are so proud of for his consistence in donating?

Perhaps we will find out Sept. 1 when the Bloodmobile stops at the Community Center.

The few minutes taken to give is so small in comparison with the need.

For example: Guy Boss, 708 N. Evans, entered the University Hospital again Friday, hemorrhaging in the right hip. Nerves to that leg have ceased functioning.

In his room on the fourth level of the Clinical Research Unit, it takes three pints of blood each day to keep him going until the cessation of the hemorrhage.

It's Delightful Fare for Young and Old

By VIRGINIA MURRAY

The Clark Lake Players have a solid hit "Once Upon a Mattress," a gay musical, based on the fable of the princess who proved herself a real princess by not being able to sleep because of a pea under her mattresses.

This is fine family fare, done up like a bricht Christmas package, to please everyone from grandma to the smallest child.

His Queen, the popuiar Roxie Spaeth, plays her role with great energy, and the skill and polish of a true professional.

☆

THEATRE-GOERS will sympathize with the pretty court ladies and their handsome gentlemen, caught in a dilema; none can marry until young Prince Dauntless, played delightfully by Mike Wood, finds a bride.

Mama Queen with the help of her Grand Wizard, James Trotter, make sure that all royal ladies sueing for the hand of the prince are dispatched with the speed of light.

But hark, swimming across the moat come the princess of all princesses to put an end to all the shilly-shallying. Dripping across the stage and into the heart of the audience comes Susan Pollick, whose interpretation of the unpolished princess is unforgetable, like a pure ray of sunshine on a dark day. This young lady has a wonderful sense of comedy and timing.

☆

A GREAT DEAL of the play's charm lies in the costuming, much of which was done under the supervision of a former Tecumsehite, Mrs. Herman Koble.

Every costume is new, fresh and beautifully designed. From the tops of their plumed hats to the tips of their period-perfect shoes, each pretty gal is every inch a lady, in graceful long court dresses, and the men so colorful in their damask, brocade and velvet doublets, that one might sigh for a return to this romantic mode of dress.

Behind all this detailed perfection, is the true hand of a master of Theatre, J. Nichoel Bloom, from Lansing

A young man of 23 he sings, acts, directs with great gusto and joie de vie, designs costumes and did part of the choreography.

His success as a director stems from the fact that it doesn't take long for his casts to realize that he knows what he's doing and is just as nice as he is talented.

Two members of the Tecumseh Players are associated with the production, Syd Turner, a handsome and endearing Sir Luce, and Chris Wilhelm of Adrian, a patient and enduring assistant director.

Stan Thayer
FOR CONGRESS REPUBLICAN

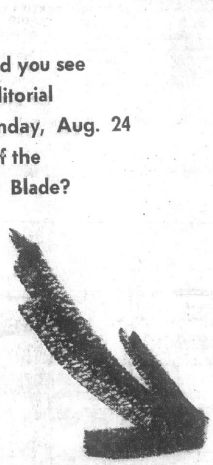
Governor Romney Says

"... Stan Thayer has come to be a symbol . . . Michigan would be far better off today if all legislators would show the courage of conviction that has motivated Stan Thayer . . ." Gov. Geo. Romney

And did you see this Editorial in Monday, Aug. 24 issue of the Toledo Blade?



Thayer For Congress

THE BLADE endorses in primary elections only on rare occasions—when a vital issue or a particularly attractive candidate warrants special attention. We believe both factors apply in southeastern Michigan's Republican congressional contest.

Rep. George Meader, veteran congressman from Michigan's Second District, has strong primary opposition for a change. It comes from the personable senate majority leader in Michigan's state legislature, Stanley Thayer.

As former party chairman in Mr. Meader's own Washtenaw County and an active community leader in their city of common residence, Ann Arbor, Mr. Thayer's bid may seem somewhat localized to Republicans elsewhere in the Second District — Monroe and Lenawee counties, for example.

But this contest is not a home town uproar. It is the challenge of a vigorous legislative leader who successfully guided into enactment the largest appropriation for higher education in Michigan history. Mr. Thayer also is responsible for major improvements in this year's legislative program for mental hospitals. He helped to block efforts to scuttle the state's new civil rights program. And he has been a key factor in Governor Romney's successful efforts to revitalize Michigan's once-faltering government without resort to heavy new tax burdens.

This productive record stands in sharp contrast to Mr. Meader's drab, standpat performance of recent years. Once a leader of progressive Republicanism in Michigan, he has so changed during his 14 years in Congress that opposition to anything new has become almost routine.

The Blade has no hesitancy in suggesting to Republican readers in southeastern Michigan that Senator Thayer has earned their support at the polls Sept. 1.

Britton Needs 5 Teachers Before School Year Starts

BRITTON — Britton-Macon Area School still lacks five teachers.

In the high school a math teacher and a home economics teacher are needed. Two elementary and one special education teachers are also lacking.

The School Board requests that parents of school children pay book rentals and other fees before the start of the school year. Fees may be paid at the school during the week of August 31 through September 4. Hours are 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Rates will be the same as last year.

The seven room addition to the elementary school will be ready for use on the opening day of school, September 8.

The school will also have a new science laboratory which will be able to accommodate about 24 students at a time.

A new library, in the old kindergarten room, will be ready shortly after school begins.

Car Rolls, Lady Hurt in Accident

Mrs. Margaret Mae Dresselhouse, 44, of Britton was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital with fractured ribs, cuts and bruises after her car rolled over Monday at 4:12 p.m.

Clarence Goins, 58, of Monroe told Blissfield State Police and Britton Police Chief Frank Becker that he passed two cars and a truck, didn't see Mrs. Dresselhouse's turn signal and didn't think she was turning.

Mrs. Dresselhouse stated that she had her turn signal on and was making a left turn to a private drive when Mr. Goins hit her.

Mr. Goins was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital because he complained of chest pains and was released.

Mrs. Dresselhouse was pinned in her car and troopers had to help her out the window.

'A Child's Faith' Is Drive-In Film

The movie will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:15 Sunday.

A Small Matter?

The proper arrangement of the floral offerings received at the funeral home might seem to be a minor detail; flowers, though, are very important to the family, which is why we take such painstaking care of all flowers received.

Cameron's Will Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

TIPTON — The fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cameron will be celebrated with an open house at their island home at Evans Lake Sunday afternoon, August 30.

The former Jessie Holdaway of Indianapolis, Ind., and Lawrence Cameron of Milroy, Ind., were married Feb. 14, 1924, by the Rev. Frank Hovis of St. Paul Methodist Church.

Attended by the groom's niece, Mrs. Beatrice Rubush, and the bride's brother, Eugene Holdaway, the couple was married in the Indianapolis home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holdaway.

The Camerons lived in Indianapolis until 1934, when they moved to Wayne. They were members of the Wayne Methodist Episcopal Church and were active in community affairs during their 11 years of residence in Wayne.

After moving to the Irish Hills area in 1945, they attended the Iron Creek Church and since 1954 have been active members of the Tipton Community Church.

They are the parents of four daughters, Mrs. Glen Jones of Tipton, Mrs. Wayne Beckley of Fenton, Mrs. Arnold Wilson of Clinton and Mrs. Larry Drewyor of Pontiac. They have 11 grandchildren.

The daughters and families and Mrs. Cameron's mother, Mrs. Mary Holdaway, will hold the open house from 2 until 5 p.m. Sunday in delayed celebration of the anniversary. The couple requests that gifts be omitted.

A NEW ROAD

"Let's find a new road!" That's a game we play often when we take a family ride.

These little journeys of discovery have led us to some beautiful, serene sections of our community that we never would have seen if we'd stayed on the busy highway.

At times, life itself can seem like a crowded, noisy highway. The years rush by . . . we promise ourselves that some day we'll take the time to look around us and try to understand where we are and why . . . but worldly interests tend to fill every minute to the brim. We wonder why the pleasures that we work so hard to obtain fail to bring us happiness . . . and we sense that life has a deeper meaning, if we could find it.

The Church can guide you and your family to a new, wonderful road. Discover the warm fellowship, the renewed courage, the refreshing peace of mind that grow from membership in your neighborhood church.

30 Go to State Show

Thirty members of Tecumseh area 4-H clubs will be agong the nearly 3,000 entries in the 49th Annual State 4-H Show.

DON'T SCRATCH THAT ITCH! IN JUST 15 MINUTES, If the itch needs scratching, your 48c back at any drug store. You feel quick-drying ITCH-ME-NOT take hold. Itching quiets down. Antiseptic action kills germs to help speed healing. Fine day or night for eczema, insect bites, ringworm, foot itch, other surface rashes. NOW at Lamb's Drug Store.

Dubbed the "Olympics" of Michigan's 4-H year, it will be held at Michigan State University, Aug. 31 through Sept. 3.

Taking part will be:

Others are Brenda Tubbs, Mike Steele, Bill Osburn, Joyce Billau (alternate), Karen Schultz, Diane Schultz (alt.), Tom Houseman, Don Dew, Dave Houseman, Cynthia Dew (alt.), Mike Busa.

Russell Mawby, director of Michigan's 4-H clubs stated, "The State Show climaxes our entire year. New clubs start organizing in October and immediately go to work on projects ranging from archery to vegetable judging.

☆

THE EVENT brings many rewards beyond prize ribbons and premiums. Young people get inspiration and ideas and meet many new friends. Also, this trip to the MSU campus influences many youngsters to seek higher education.

Thousands of parents will be on hand to share the experience. Wednesday has been set aside as parents' day to recognize the crucial role "mom and dad" play in 4-H. State Show is filled with countless examples of family cooperation.

The state's 14,000 adult 4-H club leaders will have their day on Tuesday. Leaders with 20, 25, 30, and 35 years of service will receive "Clover Awards" at an early evening banquet. All leaders will be honored at a special evening program in the MSU auditorium.

☆

MR. MAWBY NOTES several new procedures and trends in the show this year. "No market livestock classes in beef, sheep or swine will be shown or sold in the show, he reports. "This is because the number of county market livestock shows and sales has increased significantly in recent years."

Educational sessions of interest to adults as well as the 4-H'ers are growing. Tours to research buildings and crops and soils research plots south of the campus are planned to keep Michigan folks informed on scientific explorations in agriculture.

More than ever before, contestants will visit with judges about the strengths and weaknesses of exhibits. This improves the educational value of contests, Mr. Mawby says.

WE DESERVE FULL-TIME REPRESENTATION IN WASHINGTON

During the first five months of this year our present congressman missed 49 per cent of the roll call votes because he was not in attendance.

In contrast, Stan Thayer, as Majority Leader of our State Senate, has been an "overtime" lawmaker in addition to running up a near-perfect attendance record at the Capitol in Lansing.

As Governor Romney's chief suporter in the Senate, Stan Thayer has helped develop the outstanding record of bringing Michigan from $83 million in the "red" two years ago to a $48.8 million surplus today.

We need leadership of this type in Washington!

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

Some good friends took me on a "Cook's" tour of Tecumseh recently. We studied the approaches to our city through the eyes of strangers who might be looking for a new location.

As a result, we were unhappy to see so many tall weeds around and some were right down town. It is always a question of where the responsibility lays.

Is it the State Highway's, the railroad's, the city's, the business people's, the school's, the church's or the property owner's.

Our conclusion was that we could have a beautiful city, if all would be more concerned.

When traveling across or up and down our nation, one's first impression of a city, town, village or hamlet is a lasting one and the same would be true of Tecumseh.

We admired the landscaping around the hospital grounds and the beautiful flowers in front of a filling station. We visited the newly acquired Pit Area and were pleased with what we saw.

We noticed the absence of the hanging baskets downtown. What happened to them? We do believe that they could be more attractive than they were, however.

The beautiful hanging baskets of real plants and flowers in Victoria, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, will always stand out in my memory as a thing of beauty.

There seems to be a profusion of flowers in window boxes on balconies of buildings in Europe that could be duplicated here to an advantage.

We just wanted you to know what we are thinking about when we drive around our city in view of its potential growth. My friends brought the matter to my attention and then took me on the tour.

Guess I'll go pull some weeds and wash some of my windows. We never know who is passing.

Sincerely,
Ruth V. Rentschler (Mrs. T.)
311 West Shawnee Street

P.S. Many of us feel as Mrs. Glenn Driscoll and Mrs. Noel Francouer do about the racing on the streets and highways. It is terrible on N. Union St., especially in the night. We fear for the lives of the occupants.

TO THE EDITORS:

In May of this year, we had reason to be grateful to at least 12 people that we will never be able to thank in person.

Our young son, Scott, had open heart surgery at the University Hospital.

We needed 12 pints of whole blood for the heart lung machine. It was there for us without cost because someone cared enough to take a little time and give of themselves so that someone else might have a chance at a normal life.

The Lenawee County Bloodmobile will be in Tecumseh Tuesday, Sept. 1, at the Community Center from noon until 6 p.m.

I urge everyone who is able to set aside a few minutes of their time to make this priceless gift.

Sincerely,
Mrs. A. G. Barber

Mr. and Mrs. Schlegel and family will greet guests from 2 to 6 p.m. and ask that gifts be omitted.

Team Work Helps Avert Real Trouble

Glenn Schmidt, 208 W. Cummins St., suffered an acute attack of appendicitis just after reporting for work at Peerless Gear in Clinton.

As D. E. Giles, personnel director, and Clet Stewart helped the pain-racked Glenn into a car, the Tecumseh police were called.

A request was made to meet the auto on N. Evans St. for the race against time through the city to Herrick Memorial Hospial.

☆

SGT. ROBERT ARWOOD was on tap when the trio from Clinton reached town and escorted them to the emergency entrance, then assisted in getting Glenn inside.

"It went like clockwork," Mr. Giles said later.

Glenn's pesky appendix was removed and the incident only a memory — thanks to the fast action of his fellow workers and the police.

DOLLAR and SENSE FARMING.

WATCH OUT FOR SILO GAS. It kills farmers every year and causes sickness for countless others. It appears that corn silage put in very wet and that from heavily fertilized fields is more likely to produce the deadly NO_2 gas. The hazard is concentrated in the second through fifth days after the silo is filled. Use the blower for at least five minutes before going in the silo during [illegible] period. Watch for stet[illegible]or, and vapor. If present stay away from the silo for at least a week.

KEEPING FEED COSTS DOWN is the first step in efficient and economical poultry production. Here are some points that will insure minimum feed costs. Buy feed and not service. Your labor is cheaper than the dealer's service. Buy feed in bulk and pay cash if possible. Select feed that is right for the purpose and not one that contains unnecessary and expensive fortification for proper health.

GOOD FERTILIZER PRACTICES for small grain must be used if profits are to be realized. All the phosphate and potash, but only one-third to one-half of the nitrogen, should be applied at the time of seeding. Development of a healthy, vigorous plant in the fall is desirable, but too much lush growth can reduce winter hardiness. The remainder of the nitrogen should be applied in late winter or early spring.

CLAIM YOUR GAS TAX REFUND before September 30. You can get 4c refund per gallon of gasoline used in farm tractors and other farm machinery during the last year. State tax refund will be a little more than this varying with the amount of state gasoline tax.

ARE YOU 'THE RIGHT MAN' WE ARE SEEKING IN YOUR COMMUNITY?

If you are this man, you can substantially increase your income by working full or part time as our representative in your own community—introducing to your fellow-citizens an outstanding plan for retirement income. ☐ To people who are thinking of and/or planning for retirement, this type of insurance is of extreme interest—for it supplements Social Security payments and assures greater financial independence after retirement. Because its benefits are so readily apparent, this program practically sells itself—as evidenced by the fact that in the last year, retirement-minded citizens across the nation bought policies of this kind valued in billions. ☐ The man we are seeking to represent our fast-growing, Michigan-based company must be of good character and reputation in the community, sincerely interested in serving his fellow-citizens and willing to work hard. If you think you are our "right man," please reply to the address below, enclosing a brief biography covering your educational background and business or professional experience and also a small photograph of yourself which cannot be returned.

Expect Tremendous Turnout for Opening of Football Practice

By JIM LINCOLN

A tremendous turnout — expected to exceed 140 — will greet Coach Tom Fagan and his assistants for the opening of football practice Monday.

This week, the coaches and 36 potential varsity players are undergoing conditioning drills at Camp Sequoia. The camp started Monday and will end Friday.

Although rather light on returning lettermen, prospects for a good season here are bright, providing the squad stays healthy as the ranks will be thin.

☆

DOUG GOLDSBERRY and Jim Greene, injured last year, are not being counted on, and Jim Lawson has dropped football. All three undoubtedly would have been on the starting eleven.

If Coach Fagan is counting on several others who played some varsity ball — but not enough to letter — and some Jayvees to bolster the team. Three or four could be starters, either on the offensive or defensive teams.

The Indians will be slightly bigger than a year ago, but considerably faster. Collins, Derby and Lucas should give Tecumseh its fastest backfield in years, perhaps second only to Willow Run among the opponents this fall.

Don Baird could be one of the outstanding linemen in this area after a fine '63 performance.

Coaches and fans will get their first glimpse of the Indians late next week when a tri-scrimmage will be held here against Dundee and a Detroit Class A school. The Detroit school does not wish to be identified until the day of the scrimmage.

The Vikings are no longer on the Tecumseh schedule, having dropped out of the Huron League. Dundee copped the league championship last year with a fine senior squad, but hopes for another such year are dim.

While the coaches are relying almost solely on juniors and seniors, a squad of about 40 sophomores are expected to make up a good Jayvee team under Charlie Gross.

COACH TOM FAGAN

Newcomers to Schedule are Jackson St. Johns and Dearborn Riverside

Two newcomers to the Tecumseh Indians' football schedule would prove to be tough ones.

The Indians play Jackson St. John's Saturday night, Sept. 26, at Jackson. St. John's had an outstanding club last year.

Tecumseh meets Riverside of Dearborn Nov. 6, and the Detroit suburban school ran away with its league title in '64.

Coach Tom Fagan's team will play five home games, the finale here against Adrian. A mix-up in schedulinig by the Maples has resulted in the county seat team playing here two consecutive years.

Two schools dropped from the schedule are Ypsilanti-Lincoln and Dundee. Both have joined a league with smaller schools.

Police Will Have Special Patrols during Weekend

With a high traffic volume expected in Michigan over Labor Day weekend, the summer's last major holiday, the State Police will operate special patrols from noon Friday, September 4, to midnight Monday, September 7, in an effort to hold down accidentist, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs reports.

During the 78-hour holiday in 1953, six multiple death accidents killed 18 persons,more than half the weekend's toll of 35 which was the highest for a Labor Day period since 1949, when 38 died.

"High holiday tolls are not inevitable," Childs said. "Michigan records show there were only 12 deaths for the Labor Day period in 1958 and 13 the year before. Drivers can assure themselves a safer holiday trip by driving courteously and reasonably at all times. Bring the family back alive."

The State Police will be assisted by 114 members of the Michigan National Guard Friday, Saturday and Monday, serving as second men on two-man patrols or on point controls.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Covell and son, Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lemerand and son, Lee, have returned from a trip through the Western States, visiting the Black Hills, Mt. Rushmore, the Bad Lands and Yellowstone National Park. They spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Covell and family of Ogden, Utah.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

This is the week for saying farewell to the many young people who helped make the summer programs a great success. With some colleges and universities starting next week, we say goodbye to many who are returning to the books.

We are especially sorry to say goodbye to Carol Kapnick, who has been Playground Supervisor for the past five years. She will not be back in Tecumseh next summer and will be missed by our younger set.

Carol, who is starting her third year teaching at Greenville High School this fall, will return to graduate school at Central Michigan University to work on her Master of Arts degree. Her undergraduate work was done at Adrian College.

Carol, besides being very helpful and active in handling the Playground Supervisor's position and being in charge of all girls and women activities, has been instrumental in the organization of the Southeastern Girls Softball League, which started in 1960. The league started with only three teams, and has had as many as ten.

Carol has served as the league president for the five years of its existence, besides playing and managing the Tecumseh Team to three championships, showing an over-all record of 49 games won and only five games lost.

We will miss Carol next summer, but wish her the best in her advance schooling ambitions.

City Employees' Picnic

August 12 the City Employees met at the Community Center for their picnic outing. It had been planned for the "Pit", but cold, wet weather forced them inside at the center.

Over 80 men, women and children, representing some 25 families of city employees, enjoyed picnic-type atmosphere, including games and prizes for all in attendance.

Mayor Harold Easton and City Manager Cal Zorn both thanked all city employees for their fine cooperation with city projects and business.

Touch Football

There seems to be a little interest now that the weather has cooled off, so I still hope to start a league this fall.

Several people have mentioned their views on this program, and they all seem to be in favor of it.

Touch football would be aimed at the fifth and sixth graders, and should help them with basic fundamentals of the football game.

Tennis Tournament

It is hoped to have a tournament for junior and senior players, both men and women, at our local courts early in September.

Entry details are as follows:

Deadline date — Saturday, Aug. 29.

Place to enter — City Hall.

Cost to enter — $1 plus three tournament-approved tennis balls.

Age divisions — 16 years and under, Junior Division; 17 years and over, Senior Division.

A minimum of eight players must sign up in each class in order to schedule the class tournament. If less than eight sign up for any one class a combined tourney may be formed.

Also planned, if interest is shown, is schedule for doubles as well as singles for all players.

Senior Citizens

The next scheduled monthly get-together is planned for the Community Center from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 3. Besides cards, and other table games, a short meeting will be held to plan future projects and fall and winter activity programs.

Refreshments will be served.

Plan now to attend and bring along a friend or two. Let them see too, just how much fun we are having. It is hoped that some of the past committee members might be on hand a few minutes early to help out where they can.

Adult Winter Recreation

It is hoped that arrangements can be made so that our adults could have evening activities indoors this winter.

Several women from our Moms softball summer program have shown interest in a similar-type program for the winter months. Much interest has been shown in a volleyball class, that would meet once a week.

The men too, could enjoy a evening a week of volleyball or basketball.

Swimming Pool

Third session of swimming lessons will close Friday. That evening, starting at 7, demonstrations will be given of all age group lessons.

Activites will highlight various swimming skills taught during the past four weeks.

This concludes the swimming lessons for the summer, which saw over 600 participate in the lessons.

The pool and pit will remain open for swimming, at least thru Labor Day. And then if the weather still permits, a fall swimming schedule will be announced.

Pre-School Band Practice Scheduled with Sept. 18 Show

Don Johnson is alerting all Senior High School marching band members to the fact that there are only eight school days before the first football game half-time show Sept. 18.

Due to this, Mr. Johnson has scheduled a pre-school practice Thursday, Sept. 3, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria band room.

Uniforms will be issued to those who need them Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Juniors and seniors will receive theirs at 1:30 p.m. and freshmen and sophomores at 2:30 p.m.

Mr. Johnson urges students who need a change in size to bring their uniform with them.

A "Service" Drug Store That Really Serves . . .

There are drug stores that carry only a certain "line", or brand of drugs. Their purpose is to "sell" what they have — even if it may not fit your needs.

But the Wright Pharmacy is a 'service' drug store, fully stocked to serve you. We supply the drugs you need, of any and all makes that are reliable. This kind of a store is of real value to the community.

Strange as it may seem, we put dehumidified air in our telephone cables and keep the pressure constant with a pump. If a cable sheathing is pierced or fractured, air seeps out, the pressure drops, and we know about it in time to make repairs before damaging moisture can creep in and possibly put your phone out of commission. ■ This may sound like going to extremes. Actually, it's another example of how Gen Tel people and equipment work continuously to keep your phone in perfect working order.

GERTIE'S DUCKS

Last spring we ended our discussion of Gertie's ducks, mallards and big whites, with the expectation that, if everything went right, there would be a Blessed Event to announce.

Mrs. Duck had her nest in back to Doctor's wood pile — how convenient to be so close to an OB during her confinement.

But alas, from the beginning all of the poor thing's efforts were doomed, her eggs were not fertile and after many many weeks of trying, she had to be evicted.

Disappointment reigned here at the west end of Logan St., we had all looked forward to the fun of having little gold ducklings on the creek and, of course, we were all so sorry for Mrs. Big White. She had worked so hard and been so faithful.

All that could be seen of her nest was a large mound of white feathers, her own feathers. They made a perfect covering for the eggs. White eggs tucked into a pile of white feathers are hard to see, and also this was perfect insulation.

Actually, once the full clutch of eggs was laid, it seemed that the duck left her nest hardly at all. I wonder if the eggs really needed a feather blanket?

BY THE TIME it was decided that there would be no baby ducks and the eviction notice served, the would-be mother was just a shadow of her former self.

A hastily-gobbled down bill full of corn once in a white and an infrequent quick sip of water had left her looking pale and wane. Her feathers drooped, her once red bill and legs were a washed-out anemic looking pink.

But our hopes for some ducky creek watching were not to be thwarted — there were good good things in store, exciting, thrilling things. June 12 was more than just a Happy Birthday for Marda, it was also the day upon which proud Mr. and Mrs. Mallard introduced their new family.

Surprise — although we suspected, nobody had seen the Mallard's nest and so there was no way of knowing for sure just what was going on.

As the family paraded by they made a regular picture book procession. The female in the lead was closely followed by her eight youngsters. Bringing up the rear of this single file train was the handsome male.

A close look and we had another surprise. Five of the kids were tiny fluffs of dark brown feathers, but three were gloriously suited in bright yellow.

Oh, my — in past years we have found that youngsters belonging to the big whites were this same bright gold. Enough said.

Many things combined to keep us from observing, as closely as we would have liked, the growing up of the mallard family. The creek has been shockingly low during our dry summer. Never since arriving at Gertie's last winter, have the two adults lost their wild, skittish and secretive ways. But, to make a long story short and because space is running out, we must get on with the growing up process.

Usually both parents shepherded the youngsters and the occasional glimpse we had showed an amazingly fast growth rate.

☆

LIFE ON THE creek is hazardous though and one by one the little ducks disappeared until now there are just two left.

We think one a pure bred mallard and the other a pretty hybrid. Full grown now it is quite a sight, I understand, when all four go waddle-running, single file, up to Gertie's for a late afternoon snack of corn.

Papa Mallard, by the way, long ago lost his spring courting clothes, his handsome green head, pure white collar and rich russet vest. He is still good looking, but until the next moult, we shall not call him dashing.

So it is that with apologies for not going into more detail, I have at least brought you up to date on the latest about Gertie's ducks.

Laidlaw Boys Place Second in Club Regatta

Two Tecumseh brothers won second place in the Sixth Annual Vixen Regatta at the Maumee River Yacht Club in Toledo, O.

David [illegible], the skipper, and Bob 11, as crew, were among others under age 18 who sailed 12 ten-foot fibreglas sailboats in four races in strong winds.

The boys' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Laidlaw, were proud of their sons efforts, especially since first and third place winners were both 17 years old.

Shawnee Squares Dance Saturday

Peter Peters of Maumee, O. will be the caller for the Shawnee Squares western style dancing Saturday evening, Aug. 29, at the Community Center.

Members are inviting any interested western style dancers to attend.

Glenn LeFevre will hold a workshop in the Community Center Sunday, Aug. 30, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Thomas L. Velandra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Velandra, 213 W. Logan St., has completed basic training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordinance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival. Upon completing the program he will be assigned to a service school for technical training or to a ship and station for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Equipment for Shops Requested

A request amounting to $12,000 for equipment for shops in the new addition at the high school was discussed Monday night by the School Board, but no action was taken.

Neville Hart, high school principal, sought electronic, motor, metal, woodworking and mechanical drawing equipment.

Members felt the huge, new addition will probably be far enough along by Sept. 8 for the opening of school to avoid half-day sessions.

Community Invited by Little Garden Club to Take Part in Show

The Little Garden Club of Tecumseh extends a special invitation to every member of the community to attend an exhibit at its Annual Flower Show Sept. 12 from 2 to 7 p.m. in the Community Center.

The theme "Our Heritage" has been selected for this year's show by the flower show committee: Mrs. Judson Miles, Mrs. Charles Gross, Mrs. Wilbur Andrews, Mrs. Curtis Isom and Mrs. Donald Smith.

The committee has set aside two divisions for non-member entrants. The junior division, open to everyone 18 or under, is titled "Great Seal of the United States."

This calls for an arrangement in a metal container to be displayed in a small niche (16" wide by 15" high by 14" deep).

This is to be a rythmic arrangement using one or more colors of the flag to be displayed in a large niche (25" wide by 28" high by 14" deep.)

Space may be reserved for exhibits by calling Mrs. Howard Furry, 423-7268. Horticulture exhibits by non-members will also be welcomed.

An item of interest at the show is a wishing well fountain, which will be on display. All money collected in the fountain will be donated toward the construction of a fountain in City Park next to City Hall.

Architect's plans for this park will be on display.

Tickets for the show are 50c and may be purchased from any member or at the door.

Mrs. Stanley Cook conducted the evening's program, entitled, "Planting For Spring Color." Members learned how, when and where to plant varieties of iris and day lilies.

Mrs. Carlton Cook demonstrated the qualities and characteristics of foliages to be used in flower arrangements.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Cook.

Law Bans Drag Racing

The State Police have called attention to two new Michigan laws effective Friday, Aug. 28, which specifically prohibit pedestrian traffic, including hitchhiking, on all limited access highways and drag racing by motor vehicles on any highway.

The one involving pedestrians also bans bicycles and other nonmotorized traffic on the limited access highways. This is an extension or amendment of a previous law which affected freeways only in these respects. The freeways are the controlled access highways.

The pedestrian ban is designed to increase safety factors for travelers on the high speed roads. It is pointed out that the stopping of vehicles to pick up or let hitchhikers off creates a hazard for other traffic.

Hitchhiking on freeways, a practice followed by some college students and other persons going to and from their homes particularly on weekends and vacation periods, has added to the enforcement problem of police patrols in having to remove the pedestrians from these roads. Pedestrian trespassers can now be also arrested on the limited access roads as well as the freeways.

The drag racing ban strengthens law enforcement's hand in dealing with drivers who have staged impromptu or planned racing contests on the streets and highways. These contests have endangered participants and, in some cases, resulted in death or injury to them as well as having caused accidents for other highway users.

Tax Fighter Goes After Court Post

BY PATRICK JARVIS
EASTERN MICHIGAN NEWS BUREAU

FLINT — A judge who has been called a "one-man army" against city income taxes is seeking election to the new Michigan Court of Appeals.

Judge Donald R. Freeman, a member of Flint's Municipal Court, successfully led the fight against an income tax that would have put an additional burden on the paychecks of city residents and those who live in the suburbs.

FREEMAN

It was Judge Freeman's contention that such a tax was illegal, and his group not only defeated it in an election, but also carried a fight to the Michigan Supreme Court after the Flint City Commission had passed it over the voters' "veto."

Judge Freeman's fight not only was successful, but the voters were given a sudden windfall — the refund of more than two million dollars after the court victory.

Judge Freeman's entire career has been marked by his fighting for the rights of the average consumer and voter.

He has been a constant foe of consumer frauds and juvenile delinquency, and has been honored for his work in both fields.

Voters who would like to see this kind of a judge on the new Appeals Court bench are urged to cast their ballots for Judge Donald R. Freeman, who seeks election in the primary Sept. 1.

These voters can find his name on the non-partisan ballot and can help promote this man — a judge who is known as a fighter for the people.

THE GEORGE MEADER COLORING BOOK

Thursday, July 2, 1964

Mr. MEADER. Mr. Speaker, with regret, I must cast my vote against the resolution to accept the Senate amendments and enact the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The Senate amendments, in some respects, did improve the bill passed by the House on February 10, 1964, which I opposed. Those amendments, however, do not go far enough and do not cure the excessive power or the oppressive sanctions the House wrote into the bill.

Voted for Civil Rights Act of 1957, the first major legislation in this field in nearly 100 years, and favored the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1960, except the voting referee provision, a device for the assumption of State power through the appointment of referees by a Federal court.

My regret stems from my belief that the Congress can and should take action within its constitutional powers to carry out our longstanding national policy that all citizens be treated alike. Congress should pass a fair, workable, effective civil rights law; but not one which extends the long arm of the Federal Government into every nook and cranny of our country; nor one which strips 190 million Americans of their sacred rights and protections written into our Constitution.

The Senate version of the bill did provide that the vast power vested in Federal officials with respect to public accommodations and equal employment should not be employed until remedies under State law were exhausted. The Senate version also provided for a jury trial of criminal contempt proceedings in Federal injunction suits except those relating to voting.

The Senate version, however, did not limit the authority of the Federal Government to what I regard as its proper sphere of activity, actually increasing the power of the Attorney General and did not remove the objectionable, oppressive sanctions of the injunction process for enforcement of the act.

It should be emphasized that the jury trial provided by the Morton amendment relates only to criminal contempt after a judgment has been entered by the Federal judge, and does not provide a civil rights defendant with a jury trial on the merits of the case.

A thief, a narcotics peddler, an assassin, is entitled to: first, presumption of innocence; second, proof of guilt by admissible evidence beyond reasonable doubt; third, freedom to refuse to testify against himself; fourth, jury trial; fifth, judgment expires when penalty has been paid.

Not so the defendant in a civil rights case if H.R. 7152 becomes law.

Worse yet, his offense—discrimination—is not defined in H.R. 7152, nor is it a term of art in legal terminology defined by court decisions.

A civil rights defendant, first, enjoys no presumption of innocence; second, proof, according to much less stringent rules of evidence, need be only by a preponderance of the evidence; third, he can be compelled to testify against himself under pain of being jailed for contempt of court; fourth, he is not entitled to a jury trial; fifth, the injunction against him hangs over his head for the rest of his life.

It was to protect individual citizens from abusive tyranny by the government and to avoid the evils and oppression practiced by the British monarchy, that our constitutional founders insisted upon the first 10 amendments as protections to all citizens.

Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Judiciary Committee and the subcommittee which held hearings on this measure, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 has absorbed the greatest part of my time and my efforts in this Congress. I sought in the subcommittee, and in the full Judiciary Committee, and on the floor of the House, to write a fair, workable bill. Some of the suggestions I made and amendments I offered were adopted, notably the housepreemption provision which preserves the validity of present and future State laws and municipal ordinances in the field of civil rights. Other amendments I offered were rejected, notably one to strengthen the voting provisions of the bill by reducing representation in the House of Representatives for those States denying or abridging the right to vote on grounds [illegible] quired [illegible] section 2 of the XIV Amendment.

At the end of the legislative process, however, this bill contains such excessive Federal power and such harsh sanctions for enforcement that I could not in good conscience return to my constituents and say I helped fasten a yoke of tyranny on the American people.

These are beautiful words, color them red, white and blue — like an American Flag. Or gold . . (each one is worth its weight in . . .) Add them all together, they spell "freedom." (F-R-E-E-D-O-M) Generations of Americans have paid for our freedom with their lives. The very least we can do is take advantage of the privilege of living in a free country. Vote in the primary election on Sept. 1. Now, use all the crayons in your crayoning box. Make this page look like a rainbow, and imagine it stretching from one end of this great country to the other. In the center, write FREEDOM! That means freedom for you, and freedom for me. Doesn't that look good?

Generations of Americans to come will be grateful to the few men who had the courage to fight for the rights of All Americans, brave men who were willing to put their political necks on a chopping block to protect the freedoms of your grandchildren! There are those who believe that to prove you love your fellow men, you must march in Freedom Parades, saying "Yes, yes, yes!" to all things. A "yes" man is a popular man. It takes a strong, brave man to say "No!" when the cause is a popular one. It takes a lot of "no's" to ourselves and to others to make strong characters; and, it takes lots of strong characters to build a strong nation. Keep it strong, the land of the free, and the home of the brave.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Top Priority Problem

One of the most disturbing points brought out by City Manager Cal Zorn in the recent discussion with Council over the city's water supply was the dip in the water table.

Mr. Zorn said it dropped an almost unheard of four to five feet since January. Under ordinary conditions, this usually runs about 18 inches.

Four new wells have been drilled, but five older ones have silted so badly they had to be taken out of production. The city's pumping capacity is about four million gallons ever 24 hours — and demand nearly touched that on several occasions this summer.

Council has given the water problem top priority.

Under consideration is a complete study of the situation with emphasis on future well sites and a possible rundown of needs into 1974.

This seems the logical approach and the way we should go as soon as practical. Around Tecumseh, large supplies of excellent water have always more or less been taken for granted.

Now, we're facing a situation which needs solving. We agree with Council that this should be top priority.

Help Name the Finalists

Tuesday is primary election day.

Vote.

It's going to take a few more minutes than usual because the list of candidates is long. (See full rundown on front page.)

For a newspaper to endorse candidates is a risky business, particularly because full information is next to impossible to obtain, but here we go on just a few.

Gov. George Romney has done a tremendous job as chief executive of Michigan. His primary opponent, George Higgins, shouldn't be too difficult to beat, but that doesn't mean Romney supporters should pass up the primaries. Gov Romney deserves full support every time his name goes onto the ballot.

Mrs. Elly Peterson faces a real uphill battle in capturing the Republican nomination as candidate for the United States Senate, but we'd sure like to see her make the grade. Here's one person who we're positive would do a job for Michigan in Washington.

Rollo "Bill" Conlin is among Michigan's most able legislatures and should be the GOP pick.

Terrence John Wagner, Tecumseh's lone entry on this year's ballot, goes for the Lenawee County register of deeds job. It would be nice to see him make the grade.

In one of the hottest battles on the card, Stan Thayer of Ann Arbor squares off with Congressman George Meader, also of Ann Arbor. This is probably the most serious challenge Mr. Meader has faced. Mr. Thayer's record as the Michigan Senate majority leader has been outstanding, he has had liberal boosts from Gov. Romney, we'd like to see Stan Thayer get the nod.

Instruments Needed Badly

A series of three articles this summer on the Tecumseh Schools' band program brought out some pertinent data.

Added together, they tell a fascinating story. In 1953, there were 36 high school students actively participating in music.

That number has mushroomed to 165 and two bands, varsity and junior varsity. In addition, there are 125 seventh and eighth graders taking band.

This is, of course, a wonderful tribute to the dedication and hard work put in by Don Johnson and Miles Cowdrey, who run the program.

With the growth has come several major problems, the prime ones being a need for more school-owned instruments and a bona fide band room, where rehearsals can be held.

Naturally, academic facilities come first in building programs and it's probably going to be some time before that band room materializes.

Tecumseh's Band Boosters have always done yeoman work in assisting the program and this year is spending $1,000 for two fibre glass basses and a baritone saxophone. They're to be congratulated for their efforts over the years.

However, even with these new instruments, there still is a need for about $5,000 more. We'd like to see the school budget nicked — somehow, some way — for a part or all of this amount.

Lenawee Homemakers Study Color in the Home

Color can excite emotions, mark the sense of time or distance, change blood pressure and even cause headaches.

The homemaker, in selection of colors in the home, must know that color can have a direct effect on the happiness of home life, indicate personality and effect moods.

The essential considerations are to choose colors comfortable to live with; and that will create the feeling of warmth and happiness the family wants.

Choose colors that appeal to the family and that are adapted to the frame of the home and the frame of the family living pattern.

Homemakers were taught to guard against a hit or miss decorating scheme, too many colors or texture in one room, too much outside advice, and fads.

They were encouraged to make a plan, decide on a mood, be consistent, and select colors that suit the family.

Much can be done with color, a room can be made to look smaller or larger, brighter or dimmer or lower and color can hide architectural defects.

Membership Reaches 59

In a steady growth pattern, the Tecumseh Chamber of Commerce has added two new businesses to its membership, increasing its total from 57 to 59.

The drive to encourage new participants is being held to promote an alive and acting Chamber, according to Jack Osburn, committee member.

Plans for the coming year to promote the community through the chamber include:

► Purchasing off-street parking signs.

► Educational program on community jobs with the schools. A class will be conducted with workers from all walks of life giving a broad job outlook.

► Building a lighted display shelter near City Hall, which will house maps of the area with points of interest earmarked.

The Chamber is looking for community-wide programs which will benefit the city as a whole.

Dues are $25 a year and remittances may be sent or given to Dr. Carlos Knisely, James Robideau, Clarence Beach or Mr. Osburn.

Good Food, Hospitality at Allie's

Good food and warm hospitality are the trademarks that have made Allie's Resort at Wamplers Lake the most popular spot in the Irish Hills.

For nearly 20 years, Allie Luckhardt has welcomed thousands of visitors from all over the world with an enthusiastic handshake and a first-name greeting.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Earl Taylor has operated the kitchen at the resort since Allie purchased it in 1944 from the original owner and builder George Niesle.

☆

MRS. TAYLOR, 67, HAS REMAINED in the background to make the tavern famous for its hamburgers, Tuesday night smorgasbord and Friday night fish fries.

For years, folks have driven from Detroit, Jackson and other areas straight to Allie's to enjoy the cool lake breezes and scrumptuous hamburgers.

The resort is unique — it's a spot where parents, teenagers and youngsters all converge to have a good time.

Years ago, big bands were featured at the dance pavilion every three weeks during the summer. Both teens and adults flocked in, with 'standing room only' available.

Lakers up and down the shore sat on their porches and enjoyed Louie Armstrong's hot trumpet, Gene Krupa's drums, the melodious strains of Ray Anthony and other top brand music.

When the big bands dropped in popularity, so did attendance at the pavilion. Allie then renovated the inside of his tavern, enlarging the bar by adding a room and dance area.

He built a separation between the tavern and ice cream parlor, maintaining a soda fountain for youngsters.

This year, Joe Van, CKLW disc jockey, has been featured at the pavilion and all roads leading to it again have been jammed with teenagers heading for 'The Lake'.

Allie and his wife Helen are the parents of two daughters, Suzette, 16 and Sohnie, 12.

ALLIE LUCKHART GREETS ONE OF HIS GUESTS

LAST WINTER ALLIE TENDED BAR at Bill Cone's restaurant in Jackson, where he received a certificate qualifying him as a doctor of mixology — an acknowledgement given only to the most congenial people.

Allie's Resort — a place where the young and the not-so-young go every summer to enjoy topnotch food and have a good time.

A week doesn't pass without many old-timers returning to the resort to renew acquaintances and memories.

Times change, music changes, people change, but Allie's hospitality remains the same — warm, friendly and comfortable.

BANTAM BEN TRIES — With a great part of the Carling World Tournament gallery pulling for him, Ben Hogan, made a valiant effort. Here he tries for a birdie on No. 9 the final day, but just missed. See details in the Long & Short column.

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

"Wait it out, Ben," someone in the crowd shouted.

"Let the wind blow it in," another added.

From a view behind No. 16 green at Oakland Hills Country Club, the ball appeared to be held out of the hole by a blade or two of grass.

A mob of golf fans wanted the white pill to fall, just as they wanted its owner to win the tournament.

But Ben Hogan, the gallant old champion, was to be denied on both counts.

He stepped sharply across the lush bent grass, set himself, gently tapped the ball into No. 16. As he strolled towards the next tee, the sentimental fans shouted a roar of good cheer for Bantam Ben.

As the affair turned out, Ben was just off the pace, finishing fourth behind Bob Nichols, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player. That's pretty fast company for a guy pushing his middle fifties.

All over the course, wherever Ben was playing, it was easy to see him as the sentimental choice to take this first Carling World Golf Championship.

Even the blase sports reporting fraternity was agog over Ben's chances. Midway in Sunday's action, Don Wattrick of WXYZ-TV, rushed out of the press tent with a bread grin to announce to a stranger he met, "Hogan went three under on his first nine!"

Fate, being the odd gal she is, has entwined Ben and last weekend's big winner, Bobby Nichols, in an odd way.

Both were victims of tragic automobile accidents. Both narrowly escaped death.

The mishap to Ben came in the mid-Forties and almost ended his career, but he pulled through, using the same determination to live as he employed to drive himself to great heights on the golf course.

Bobby was a teen-ager when he almost died as the result of a car wreck. He already was an outstanding amateur golfer and it looked as if his links life was ended before it hardly had started.

Ben Hogan was Bob's idol and the great man sent him a note of encouragement. Surely, it must have helped Bob as he fought to survive the smashup.

How did Bob feel as he flashed ahead of the field — a few strokes better than Ben, the fellow whose act of kindness a few years ago had meant so much to him?

No one will probably ever know.

Arnie just about has to be one of the world's greatest.

Coming in on the final hole, he drove just to the edge of the rough on the far left side. Going to the pin was nearly an impossible shot. It was tucked in directly behind two huge sand traps.

To get in close, Arnie had to drop his shot on a postage stamp. If he was short, Arnie would be in the sand, long and it would run off the green.

His iron carried high, plunked onto the green, skip, whamp against the pin. The ball fell back about six feet. The crowd was electrified.

Two strokes off the pace when he started the hole, Mr. Palmer putted in for a birdie three and then waited to see what Bobby Nichols would do. As it turned out, Bob needed a par and he got it, giving him a one-stroke edge over Arnie.

The sponsors, folks at Carling's Brewing Co., are to be congratulated for the golf and the way they thoughtfully stocked the press tent with their products.

Information on Hookup Is Sought

City Council voted in a special session Thursday to hire McNamee, Porter and Seeley, a consulting engineering firm from Ann Arbor, to gather information on a sewage hookup between Fisher Body and the city's waste water treatment plant.

The engineers will determine:

McNamee, Porter and Seeley will present various figures Tuesday morning at 10 when officials of General Motors and the city will discuss the project.

BUSY BOOTH — For a moment, it looked as though a caucus had been called in a Tecumseh voting booth to help decide on primary election candidates Tuesday. Turned out that Mrs. Wallace MacGeorge wanted to give daughters, Sharon and Sandy, an opportunity to see how a voting machine works. Mrs. MacGeorge was one of the 963 Tecumseh residents to vote.

Muskets, Cannons Roar on Weekend at Frontier City

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Frontier City will be the site for a colorful musket and cannon shoot this weekend.

About 250 marksmen have registered for the competition with from 10 to 15 cannons of Civil War vintage slated to be on hand.

The contestants will be garbed in blue and gray uniforms or buckskins of that era and their ladies will wear the colorful antebellum styles.

Ivan Hunt, owner of Frontier City, expects about 600 people to camp out on the grounds for the two-day event.

They will be coming from an area extending from the state of Wisconsin, as far south as Fairfax, Va.

Mike Yeck of Dundee, from the Fourth Michigan Infantry, will supervised the activities. His group and the Seventh Michigan Artillery members from Onsted and Jackson, are assisting Mr. Hunt as hosts.

Allan Bilby, of Jackson, a nephew of Dow Bilby of Tecumseh, is a member of the latter group.

Sunday morning at 10 a.m., a parade will proceed from the camp grounds to the fort for the flag raising.

Fife and drum and bugle corps will participate in the colorful ceremony.

☆

MR. HUNT imparts this information:

Civil War soldiers were issued trousers and coats, but each company had a choice of shirts. The Fourth Michigan Infantry, of which General Custer was a member, were mustered out in blue and white checked shirts. These will be seen at the City.

"The costumes worn by the contestants and their ladies are authentic with buttons where buttons are supposed to be," said Mr. Hunt.

Prizes will be given for each event and for the marksman who wins the most events.

Mr. Hunt said that he especially enjoys the contest in which a 2" x 4" piece of lumber is set up and the rifles and cannons are shot at it until they cut it off. Lumber, 2" x 6", is used for the cannon shoot in this event.

This contest, along with many of the others, depend on accuracy, but there is one which depends on fast loading to determine who can shoot the most in a given length of time.

Much fun has been planned for the two days and just in case rain should make the competition impossible, it will be held on Labor Day, Sept. 7.

Adjustments in Salaries Are Made by Board

Adjustments in salaries were authorized by the School Board Monday night for principals with advanced degrees and for high school and junior high school teachers who have extra classes.

A maximum of $500 was approved for the principals.

Teachers will now receive between $950 and $1,000 for classes and $500 for supervising a study hall.

Won't Sign Easement

Tecumseh School Board tabled any action Monday night on a request from the city for a sewer easement through school property behind the Patterson elementary building.

The officials voiced dissatisfaction with the condition of school property left after the sewer cut across an area just north of the high school.

The Evans St. interceptor sewer is being held up by other property owners who have yet to sign easements.

Meader Tops Stanley Thayer in Primary Go

In Tuesday's primary election, Congressman George Meader turned aside challenger Stan Thayer and Elly Peterson won the Republican nomination for United States Senator. On the county scene, Merrick Dibble of Tipton upset Leonard Wagner as register of deeds, ending a 34-year career for the Adrian man. Mr. Dibble will now face Democrat Joseph Dressel in the November runoff.

TWO MEMBERS OF LOOMIS' BATTERY PLACE ROUND BALL INTO MUZZLE LOADER AT 1963 FRONTIER CITY SHOOT

Behind Page One

"What are you doing here?" asked fellow officers of sleepy Clinton state policeman, who, to protect the innocent, will remain anonymous? Monday he arrived at 9:15 p.m., hours early for midnight duty and claimed "Enthusiasm." Finally admitted that all his home clocks were mysteriously two hours fast.

"All I get to do is mow it!" says George Ruhl, referring to the beautiful landscaping at his Cities Service Station which was lauded in this column last week. George's father, Harold Ruhl can be credited with the idea, arrangements and type of flowers used. Mr. Ruhl loves gardening and flowers. His ability is evident.

Let is be understood, when The Herald voices approval of one political candidate over another, nothing personal is meant.

A recent Long & Short noted that old fashioned peanut butter was discovered in a Caseville store during vacation. This prompted Mrs. Mel Wegner to report that so does her market.

Certainly, we're delighted that Elly Peterson took the honors in her GOP primary run. Next on the agenda, United States Senator Philip Hart. Nov. 3 is the date.

Most unusual insurance claim of the week was made by Mr. X to Vern Manwaring, regarding a bent overhead garage door. "How did it happen?" inquired Vern. Seems the victim's wife had attached the leash of the family dog to the car bumper with the pet standing inside the garage and the door almost completely closed. Into auto jumped hubby, started to back out, felt an odd sensation and stopped. Pet was uninjured when his collar snapped, but the sudden jerk bent the door.

Folks along Ternes Rd. are happy football season has started. Now the big Tecumseh linemen will be busy on the athletic field, instead of running around the block from Assistant Coach Fig Newton's home.

Selling used cars this summer, Jon Aho, did so well, he somehow found himself without wheels one day recently, miles from home. A guy can just be too good of a salesman, we guess.

Boop-Decker, Inc., manufacturer of quicky plastic breakfast sets, is moving operations into Oxford from Birmingham. A card of congratulations was sent by The Herald to Oxford Leader Editor Jim Sherman, with a rib, ending "but where are the samples?" A few days passed and in came a box with Bopp-Decker's finest. There was momentary embarassment, but then a rush to view the goodies Wonder if anyone in Tecumseh would like to carry this line? It's real sharp.

Technically, the name sewage disposal plant is obsolete, states Ken Zornow. It should be called a "water treatment plant." Ken should know. He's the man responsible for Tecumseh's.

Councilman John Hamilton donated his 34th pint of blood to the Red Cross program during Tuesday's visit of the mobile unit here. That's four gallons and two legs on the fifth!

Mail will be dispatched both Sunday and Monday, states Postmaster Jack Metcalf. Letters going into business district mail boxes and those in front of the post office before 4 p.m. will all go out. Specials coming in will be delivered Sunday and Monday.

"Use it as a victory picture," smiled Mrs. Robert Murray on election day, hours before the polls were closed. She referred to a shot taken last week of Congressman George Meader that didn't get in then because of space limitations.

We supported Mr. Meader's opponent, but in the spirit of good sportsmanship, we go along with Gin, who incidentally was the one to write and design the "George Meader Coloring Book" ad in the last Herald.

BIRDS PRODUCE OWN FOOD SUPPLY — Mrs. William Spreeman, 303 N. Pearl St. was a little surprised this spring after spotting a plant growing beside her house that much resembled a sunflower. Curiosity caused Mrs. Spreeman to let it grow. With the coming of summer, Mrs. Spreeman found that she had a 12½-foot sunflower specimen with an estimated 12 blossoms. Who was the mysterious planter of the seed? All signs seem to indicate one of the many birds who frequent the neighborhood.

Linda Staulter Marries Ellie Pipkins

White gladioli and chrysanthemums filled the gold altar vases of the Methodist Church Aug. 29 for the wedding of Linda Lee Staulter and Ellie Hugh Pipkins.

The Rev. Donald Porteous performed the ceremony before lighted candelabra fronted with the same white blossoms and satin bows.

Palms also adorned the chancel while white satin bows marked the family pews.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Staulter, 211 Cairns St., and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Pipkins of Adrian.

Mrs. Herbert Morden provided nuptial music.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with long sleeves and square neckline. Alencon lace motifs were appliqued to the bodice and extended down the front of the floor length skirt.

A lace-trimmed obi sash fell over the chapel train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a cap of lace and organza roses. She wore pearls at her throat, a gift of the groom.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid outlined with eucylptus foliage.

☆

PATTIE MORDEN was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were sister of the bride, Bonnie Staulter and Mrs. Charles King.

Janet Peterson and Eddie Peterson, cousins of the groom, were the flower girl and the ring bearer.

Attendants of the bride were attired in street-length gowns of light blue nylon chiffon skirts with matching lace tops with long sleeves and rounded necklines.

Their head veils matched their dresses.

About 450 guests were seated by Don Sweet and Larry Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cook were hosts for the reception at the Odd Fellow Hall, where Mrs. Richard Graham registered the guests.

☆

THE FOUR-TIERED cake centered a blue satin covered table flounced with net.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and the groom of Adrian High School. They will make their home at 108 Shawnee St.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the home of the groom's parents.

4 Traffic Accidents Are Minor

Four traffic accidents the past week resulted in minor damage to cars involved.

Last Thursday, Thomas Corkery, 34, of 313 W. Pottawatamie, hit the stop sign at W. Front St. when his foot slipped off the brake pedal. He was cited for not having his vehicle under control.

Lonnie A. Steele, 18, Milan, was charged with failure to stop within an assured clear distance Thursday, when he bumped into the rear of a car driven by Lowell B. Hasted, 72, Saline.

Administrators Fail To Receive School Tenure

Tenure for all administrators, including principals, counselors and librarians, was rejected by the School Board Monday night.

A new state law required the board to take action if the administrators were to have tenure.

Whether the board's action is ruled legal — all seven members were supposed to be present and cast a unanimous vote — has not been determined.

Kathryn Brown, Melvin Boltz Wed

Kathryn Anne Brown and Melvin Lee Boltz were united in marriage Aug. 29 in a candlelight ceremony at the Plymouth Congregational Church of Lansing.

Baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar.

The bride is the daughter of A. Raymond Brown and the late Mrs. Brown of Lansing.

MRS. JAMES H. CRUTHIS, a sister of the bride, of Phoenix, Ariz., was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Sandra Meintcke and Mrs. Inge Brown of Lansing and Mrs. Lynn Brown.

The bride's attendants were attired identically in aqua sheath dresses with circular head dresses of pink carnations.

They carried cascade arrangements of pink glamelias and white sweetheart roses.

Kathy Creswell, niece of the groom, was the flower girl in a floor-length frock of white taffeta with bouffant skirt accented with lace and aqua ribbons.

She also wore a circular headpiece of pink carnations.

William Beardsley of Saginaw was the best man and the guests were seated by Jerry Barron, Gordon Schultz, Robert Wagner, Richard Creswell and Dr. Archie Conkey.

A five-tiered bride's cake and a heart-shaped groom's cake made and decorated by an aunt of the bride were served.

Use Care in Driving Labor Day

Six "heavy traffic" driving tips from the Standard Oil division of American Oil Company will get you through Labor Day traffic safely and with a lot less wear and tear on your nerves and disposition.

Russell D. Eberly, safety manager for American Oil, issued these driving tips to company drivers, adding that they would be equally useful to the driver of the family car:

1. Be sure your vehicle is in good mechanical condition.

2. Watch your interval—keep it one car length for every 10 miles of speed.

3. Your side and rear-view mirrors are valuable safety tools. Use them!

4. Indicate a turn 100 feet or more before making it.

5. That goes for a change of lane, too.

6. The plain, common, ordinary, garden-variety of courtesy is one of the best traffic expediters there is.

Art Show Being Staged at Library

An art show, featuring the work of three local artists, is being held at the Tecumseh Public Library through Saturday.

Mrs. Patricia Kureth, Mrs. Rita Blake and Mrs. Martha Ion are showing their most recently completed sculptures, paintings, pottery, stitchery, drawings and prints.

Mrs. Ion's large garden sculpture, entitled "The Third Casket," is found on the main floor of the building. Also on the main floor is a wood, leather and stoneware sculpture by Mrs. Kureth.

The remainder of the show is displayed in the hallway and the large room in the basement of the library.

☆

THE SCULPTURED stoneware candlesticks by Mrs. Kureth, displayed on a long table with prints of 13th century Russian icons and pre-Romanesque Spanish frescoes, gives the hallway a cloistered look.

The luminous oil painting at the end of the hall, "Water Weeds" byM rs. Ion, emphasizes the impression of suspended light and simplicity of line and color suggested by the other objects.

Mrs. Blake, who teaches art and English at the Tecumseh Junior High School, used as subjects for some of her work the mythological figures of Dadalus and Icarus.

The myth is depicted in a sun-dominated oil painting and a sculpture of the drooping figures with wax-melting wings.

One of Mrs. Blake's students was heard to say after viewing the ambitious exhibit, "Now I know why she expected us to work so hard."

☆

INCLUDED IN the show is a children's corner where the works of Sanford Blake, Martha Cassandra and Stephanie Kureth, Martha Lynn, Dawn, Melody, Kimberly, Holly and Kevin Ion are also being exhibited.

The children range in age from four to 13 years.

Moss Hart Comedy Hit Ends Season

COLDWATER — "Light Up The Sky," Moss Hart's greatest comedy hit, will be presented by the American Theatre Festival this week at the Tibbits Opera House here in Coldwater.

Festival producers selected the uproarious play dealing with show business "behind the scenes" as the final production of the summer season.

Performances will be held nightly through Sunday.

Moss Hart gives intriguing glimpses into the make-up of show people and illuminates the sentimental and cynical sides of show business in "Light Up The Sky."

The play hilariously relates "before and after" reactions of a group of Broadway theatre people going through a pre-Broadway opening of a new play in Boston.

Raft and Boats Transport Guests to Cameron Party

A Riviera raft and boats transported approximately 100 friends, neighbors, and former neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cameron to North Island in Evans Lake, where they helped the Camerons celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon.

Buffet luncheon that evening was enjoyed by 40 guests.

Granddaughters Judy Wilson of Clinton and Pamela Beckley of Fenton, had charge of the guest book.

Refreshments were served on the front porch and lawn. Centerpiece at the table was a four-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron received many gifts, cards of congratulations, and letters from friends.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

SENIOR CITIZENS

This Thursday is a big day again for the area senior citizens. Their monthly get-together is scheduled for the Community Center from 2 to 4 in the afternoon.

Besides cards and other table games, a short meeting will be held to plan future projects and fall and winter activity programs.

Bring along a firend or two and let them see just how much fun we have. It is hoped that some of the past committee members might be on hand a few minutes early to help out.

Coffee and donuts, furnished by the Parks and Recreation Department, will be served.

SWIMMING POOL

One of the most successful swimming seasons Tecumseh has ever seen, is drawing to a close. The third and final session for swimming lessons ended last Friday, with a demonstration held that night.

Several spectators were on hand to witness the many swimming skills taught during the summer lessons. Over 600 participated in the lessons.

Victor Lawson, Jr. and Ted Todd, swimming pool director and assistant director, and their well-qualified instructors, lifeguards and attendants should be complimented for their accomplishments during this season.

Safety was stressed by these people at all times, at both the swimming pool and at the "Pit."

COMMUNITY CENTER

Besides being a meeting place for many groups, the Center has other functions. Earlier this week, there was the bloodmobile.

Next Saturday, Sept. 12, the Tecumseh Little Garden Club will stage its annual flower show from 2 to 7 p.m.

On the same date as the flower show, at 8 p.m., the Shawnee Squares will use the Center for one of their western-style dances.

The Shawnees who hold dances on the second, fourth and fifth Saturdays, will be starting western-style square dance lessons Sunday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m.

These lessons will run for 10 weeks and are open to anyone interested.

So grab your partners and let's all swing.

ADULT WINTER RECREATION

Much interest has been shown in organizing an indoor winter activities program for both men and women.

Perhaps one night a week each group will meet at one of our schools and participate in some "low" organized recreation activity.

Volleyball, basketball and badminton rank high on the list of activities that have been suggested.

Along this same line of thought, possibly a Mr. and Mrs. program could be started. Couples could get together once or twice a month during the winter months at the Community Center for cards, dances and instruction, travel slides and films, hobby shows and demonstrations.

NATIONAL RECREATION CONGRESS

The 46th National Recreation Convention will be held in Miami Beach, Fla., the first week in October with my wife and I attending. Our agenda seems to be quite full at this convention, but should be a fruitful one.

Besides being a delegate to the convention, I have been selected as one of 100 professionals in the field of recreation in the United States, to attend a special two-day pre-congress school, which will concern Community Organization For Recreation.

The theme for the convention this year is a real good one. "Live All Your Life." The scheduled sessions of the congress are many and varied.

Some of them include: playground programs, trends in school-community concept, teen center programs, public swimming pools, master planning for parks and recreation facilities, and senior citizens programs, just to mention a few.

Caddie's Tip Helps Win Club Championship Match

Tecumseh Country Club has two new golf champions — Mrs. Robert Bowers and John Costello.

Mrs. Bowers won her crown by defeating Mrs. Bill Hannibal, 7 and 6, in a scheduled 18-hole match Sunday.

Mr. Costello of Britton, edged Peter Easter, 2 and 1, in a match decided on the 35th hole, when a birdie three by Mr. Costello closed the door on Mr. Easter's last hopes.

☆

JOHN COSTELLO, NEW CLUB CHAMPION

After playing 18 holes in the morning, the title contenders started on the final 18 in the afternoon. The heat and intense competition was taking its toll.

After his drive on the 35th, Mr. Costello was contemplating his 155-yard approach when Jeff spoke up, "It's an eight iron for you, Mr. Costello, but you're tired. Better use a seven."

Taking his caddie's advice, the golfer hit within seven feet of the pin. His birdie putt clinched the title.

Twenty-four hours earlier, Mr. Costello defeated defending champion Bill Holmes in a semi-final match while Mr. Easter was besting Bob Hoekstra to reach Sunday's finals.

Jan Davis won the award of the day in the Riviera Beach fishing contest at West Palm Beach, Fla. last week. It took about 30 minutes for the young fish enthusiast to land the 35½-lb. Kingfish which was more than four feet in length. Jan was on vacation in Florida with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Davis, Jr., 605 Murray Drive. Except for some black and blue marks obtained during her struggle with the fish, she is an extremely happy young lady.

Ranks Are Thin, But Hopes High for Grid Season

By JIM LINCOLN

Early season football practice has caused Coach Tom Fagan to cross his fingers — and for a just reason.

The ranks are thin.

The Indians must stay healthy if they're to make a run for a Huron League title and improve on last year's so-so season.

A healthy Tecumseh team, however, should be tough, particularly after three or four games when several newcomers have picked up experience.

A wide open offense is indicated. With the speed and power apparently available, Coach Fagan's Indians could easily be a high-scoring 11.

Defense could present a problem, mainly because many of the offensive players — as many as nine — going both ways.

A tri-scrimmage is planned next week against Dundee and a Detroit Class A school. Tentative date is Friday, Sept. 11.

☆

Ends—Mark Blatchford, Steve Derby, Gordon Gibson and Terry Alcock.

Tackles — Larry Merz, Jim Oberlin, Tom Elliott, Randall Maynard, Harold Butler and Bob Titley.

Center — Ron Boltz, Dan Vollmar and Joe Caterina.

Quarterback — Jeff Osburn and Ron Rentschler.

Halfbacks — Tim Collins, Don Baird, Gregg McEnroe, Fred Freeman and Bill Schulze.

Fullback — Kirk Lucas and Doug Hall.

☆

Only a few lettermen from the '63 team are apparently sure of starting positions at this time.

THE BOOK RENTAL plan continues the same as last year.

Kindergarten — $3
First through sixth — $6.50
Seventh and eighth — $7
Ninth through twelfth — $8

Fines will be levied at the end of the year for undue damage to the books.

Rental fees will be paid on the opening day of school by elementary and high school pupils.

High school pupils will report to the gym at 8 a.m. the first day. At this time book fees will be collected. Pupils will then receive their schedule cards from class advisor. Pupils can leave after they have obtained schedules.

Students are to return at 1 p.m. the same day and go to the gymnasium for an assembly. Regular classes start Wednesday, Sept. 9.

Pupils enrolled in physical education should be prepared to pay a $1.50 fee for towels and lockers the first meeting of their physical education class.

Seventh graders in the junior high are to report at 8 a.m. to the boys' gym on the first floor, and the eighth graders to the girls' gym on the third floor.

After book fees are paid and schedule cards passed out, pupils will be excused until 1 p.m. when they are to go to their sixth hour class for orientation. Towel and locker fees for junior high pupils are 75c.

Kindergarten students will meet Sept. 9. On that date the parents of the children are requested to pin a note on the child, giving the child's name and address.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Our next national holiday will soon be upon us, the holiday we have long observed as a tribute to the working men and women of America and to the great and vital force that is labor.

Labor Day, 1964, is important for other reasons as well. The holiday falls on a Monday, making the "Labor Day weekend" at least a three-day holiday.

Motorists will again crowd the highways, the National Safety Council will again plead for safety and sobriety and yet many citizens will not live to celebrate another holiday.

I have recently issued a proclamation designating Aug. 30 thru Sept. 7 as "Labor Safety Week" in Michigan.

I have asked citizens to reaffirm their genuine concern for the preservation of human lives and to demonstrate this belief not only with their lips but in their daily actions.

☆

LEADERS AND workers of organized labor, along with the National Safety Council, are cooperating on a nationwide safety program that recognizes the necessity for reducing accidents, not only on the job but also on the highways.

It is fitting, I think, that as we honor the cause of labor, we exercise caution and common sense to preserve every life, whether at work in the plant or on the farm, or driving on the highway.

Once again, Michigan's "light your way to safety" campaign is under way.

I urge all motorists to drive with their headlights turned on during the weekend to bring attention to the constant need for safe motoring.

We want to reduce sharply the number of accidents on the highway over the Labor Day weekend and this can be done if drivers are reminded constantly of the need for safety.

Constraint and patience are very much a part of motoring and I urge all Michigan motorists to keep this in mind.

In addition, children will soon be returning to school and these young lives must be protected as well.

I welcome the cooperation of the labor rank and file in the need to impress upon all citizens that safety is everybody's business, everybody's daily crusade, everybody's year-round pre-occupation.

The loss of one life is the loss of one person's valuable skills and potential.

'Our Heritage' Is Theme of Annual Flower Show

Members of the Little Garden Club are anxious to have residents of the community attend and participate in their Annual Flower Show, called "Our Heritage", to be held Saturday, Sept. 12, from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Community Center.

Open to non-member adults is a flower arrangement division with the theme, "Symbols of Our Heritage — The Flag."

Open to juniors — 18 years or under — is a flower arrangement division with the theme, "The Great Seal of the United States."

Horticulture exhibits are also wewlcomed. Anyone interested may call Mrs. Howard Furry, 423-7268.

☆

GARDEN CLUB members will enter arrangements under the theme, "Our Heritage" in 10 classes:

- Plymouth Rock
- Old World Memories
- First American—The Indian
- Thirteen Colonies
- Bill of Rights—Freedom of Press
- Bill of Rights—Freedom of Religion
- Louisiana Purchase
- One Nation Indivisible
- Westward Ho and Our Goal —Peace the World Over will be table arrangements.

☆

HORTICULTURAL exhibits will also be shown by members in divisions:

- Annuals
- Perennials
- Roses
- Bulbous or tuberous plants
- Shrubs or trees
- Vegetables and fruits
- House plants.

Official Federated Garden Club Flower Show judges will judge all arrangements and horticultural exhibits.

☆

IN ADDITION to these exhibits there will be decorative displays done by Tecumseh's three leading florists.

The entrance of the Community Center will be graced by floral arrangements, courtesy of Ousterhout Flower Shop. The tea table, where guests attending will be served punch and cookies, will be garbed courtesy of the Pickard Floral Shop.

The miniature wishing well fountain, where guests may make a wish and toss their coins in support of the construction of a fountain in the proposed park adjacent to City Hall, will be decoratively displayed by Tecumseh Greenhouses.

Tickets for the show are 50c and may be purchased from any member or at the door.

Jill Rainsberger Weds William Deuel

CLINTON — Low pyramid arrangements of white gladioli and majestic daisies enhanced the altar at the St Joseph's Shrine in the Irish Hills for the wedding of Jill Laraine Rainsberger and William Henry Deuel Saturday morning.

The Rev. Fr. Casimer F. Lutomski performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Rainsberger of Evans Lake. The groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Halchishak of Clinton and the late Frederick E. Deuel Jr.

MRS. WILLIAM DEUEL

☆

THE BRIDE, approaching the altar on the arm of her father, wore a fitted bodice floor length gown of embroidered organza accented with a bow topped band running from the waist to the hem. The embroidered double panel back fell into the full chapel train.

Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion fell from a cap of silk organza petals accented with pearls and lace.

They all wore matching gowns of ice blue taffeta floor-length gowns. Their bouquets were of pink and white carnations.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

New Faces

They're newcomers. They moved into the neighborhood just last week, and this is their first Sunday in our church.

Very soon they'll be making friends, and joining in many worthwhile church activities. Mr. Jones may develop his talent for organization, or fund-raising, or youth leadership. His wife may find her place in one of the busy organizations for women, or discover that she loves to teach. The children will settle happily into Sunday School classes suited to their age group.

Above all, this young family will share in the secure feeling of Christian fellowship and spiritual well-being that comes from serving God and His Church. They will be better people, better neighbors and better citizens because of their decision to put God's work first. THE CHURCH FOR ALL, ALL FOR THE CHURCH.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

WILD LIFE ALONG THE CREEK

I think we probably do not yet qualify as a big game refuge. However, the summer has been noteworthy for its good animal looking — we have had no huge monsters, but our visitors have been interesting.

The usual quota of birds and squirrels have been around of course, the minute breakfast is served these freeloading regulars start congregating.

Today though, let us concentrate on the 2wwild-life, which comes not because of us or what we do, but almost in spite of.

Last spring Gertrude was the first to sound the alarm that there was something new in the neighborhood. Soon "the thing" was a regular nibbler and often seen at the top of the creek bank where Gertie's yard and Marshes join.

A woodchuck — a very fat grizzly one, too. Day after day, before the leaves came fully out and blocked our view, we kept the area under surveillance with the binoculars — nothing.

☆

FINALLY, AFTER we had about given up hope, Doctor's bridge was discovered. As the animal waddled back and forth, our view was excellent. What an odd looking character — low slung, broad and a nondescript mixture of gray, tan and brown.

With so many other summer things happening, it was not long until the wowodchuck excitement died down. After all, we didn't see her often nor very close and besides, a fat, slow-moving animal who does nothing much but eat cannot hold one's interest too long.

Oh, Marda, just how wrong can you be! Our woodchuck watching soared to unexpected heights when, the last part of June, two youngsters appeared.

Never had we seen such small ones, they were only about half-grown. One was a much lighter tan than the other but both had black feet, medium tails and flat broad faces.

By the end of July, the darker and larger one was beginning to acquire the characteristic whitish band across the top of his sharp nose. An adult can weigh 14 pounds and from the way these two little ones ate, I am sure they were shooting for such a mark.

☆

WHEN THE mulberries were in season, occasionally one of the "kids" would venture into the side yard for a feast. Their favorite dining room though was in back.

For a while they were terribly brave and thought nothing of coming right up to the porch — this of course pleased us greatly.

Not so pleased were we when the woodchucks developed a taste for mother's lilies. Weeds and grass were fine, but when they started crunching on the lilies that was too much. And here was also where their not being afraid was bothersome.

To chase them away meant going practically to the flower-bed — they simply would not leave otherwise. Marigolds were also tasty. I am sure we have the silliest looking bed in town — the several plants which were protected by a wire fence are big and healthy, but the others are short, squat, nibbled off things.

GRADUALLY, the youngsters grew more wary and the slightest movements or noise sent them scampering over the creek bank. It was fun to see them run, their legs were so short and their bodies so fat. I'm using the past tense because we have not seen the woodchucks for several weeks now.

They are early hibernators and could it be that already they are tucked in for a long, cozy winter sleep? It seems frightfully early — perhaps we have just not looked at the right place at the right time or have they decided that the west end of Logan St. was not a good wintering spot?

On the other hand, could they know something we don't? Could our mid-August plunge into the deep freeze be the prelude to an early fall and hard winter? Let's hope not!

So it is that they may not be big or fierce, but really, we do have some interesting wild life along the creek.

Patrick O'Gorman, a visitor of Brisbane, Australia, spoke a few minutes on banking in that country at the Rotary meeting Aug. 25.

Edward C. Boss spoke on the topic, "Who Should Invest in Common Stocks."

Mr. Boss said that after a married man with children has invested at least 5% of his income in good ordinary life insurance for the protection of his family and is accumulating cash savings of at least three month's income, then other cash savings may be invested in common stocks.

He gave numerous basic rules for investing.

Leopard Hides, Boa Constrictor Skins on Sale

(Editor's note — Mary Seager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Seager, is spending 18 months in Venezuela with ACCION, a self-help program like the Peace Corps. In a letter to her mother, she told of recent experiences.

By MARY SEAGER

PUERTO LA CRUZ — Everything, but everything still continues to go beautifully.

Several of us drove down to the Guayana last weekend. I saw and traveled on the Orinoco River — the other big one besides the Amazon.

We went to Ciudad Bolivar where we saw the skins of boa constrictors being sold for $6 and leopard hides stretched out on the sidewalk.

The buildings on the Orinoco in Ciudad Bolivar look very much like New Orleans: long thin pillars with tiny shutters and iron grillwork on the second story.

From there, we went to Puerto Ordaz and San Felix where there are ACCIONistas working. We spent one day there on the banks of the Orinoco.

☆

THE GUAYANA area of Venezuela is the Wild West with iron, gold and diamond mines, lots of raw new roads, miles of temporary housing and a general air of excitement and busyness.

We spent an afternoon at the site of a huge new dam on the Caroni River which will supply three times as much hydroelectric power as is being used in all of Venezuela right now when it is finished.

At the dam site, there is a camp of engineers and civilian workers for the Kaiser Co., which is doing the construction. Everyone lives in air-conditioned house-trailers and curses little tiny bugs called jejenes — sort of like gnats or no-see-ums with a ferocious bite that lasts for two or three days.

In all the trees down there, green parrots, blue parrots and lots of noisy birds live. Early in the morning, it's just as if someone pushed a button — they all start singing at once, with a bang — it wakes you out of a sound sleep. The Orinoco is muddy, but the Caroni is clear and the color of Coca-Cola from all the dissolved minerals.

☆

ON THE WAY back — we were traveling with a Venezuelan — we drove through the eastern oil fields at night. Off in the distance you can see great orange clouds — on approaching, they become flares of waste gas which the companies burn off eternally.

We had to dodge cows, burros and other cars without headlights — very exciting like an enormous game of blind man's bluff.

Last week there was a flood in the town near us so we all worked in flood relief, but only by collecting used clothing and delivering it to the local charity agencies.

The flood ruined about 100 houses belonging to poor farmers in the area and destroyed next year's crop. And these people are so poor, that it will be near-starvation for them. And the river is coming up again from all the rain.

It's the rainy season here which means it rains some every day and after the rain, flies and mosquitoes run rampant.

But the crafty Venezuelans, confronted with centuries of la plaga (mosquitoes en masse), have developed a snail-like thing of evil-smelling substance which they burn at night. It really cuts down on the bugs — they don't usually have screens on the windows.

☆

ANOTHER wonderful Venezuelan product — my clothes are now soaking in a stone washing sink — is a blue and white marbled laundry soap called Las Llaves (the keys).

It's been made in Venezuela for 172 years and it gets the dirt out of anything. Promise. I found out about it talking to a man in a little restaurant near our school.

There's a marvelous fisherman whom we all know now. His name is Pedro, about 45, from Trinidad so he speaks a little English.

Every morning we arrive at the school he comes up and shakes hands and says "Good morning. How are you today, Mary?"

He took a couple of the kids out in his boat last week and they ran into the biggest storm there's been in ... ister in Maracaibo and he's offered to let one of the other girls stay at her house if we go there for more training.

I hope I'm going to be able to go to the Island of Margarita this weekend where all the pearls and fancy hammocks are.

AT THE TIME of the merger of the Methodist Protestant Conference with the Methodist Episcopal Church, 39 members of the Cone Methodist Church seceded to form the Bethel Independent Tabernacle. This was in 1939.

GM Makes $100,000 Offer for Sewer Line

By JIM LINCOLN

A gigantic sewer project for GM's Fisher Body Plant on Occidental Rd. was discussed at length and practically assured by Council Tuesday night.

The new sewer would handle Fisher's domestic and industrial process waste.

Sweetening the project for the city is GM's offer of $100,000 to help pay for the costs.

John Seeley of McNamee, Porter and Seeley, consulting engineers from Ann Arbor, reported three plans for installing a sewer, with estimates ranging from $100,000 to $201,000.

All plans involved lift or pumping stations, approximate cost of $12,000 each, with sewage flowing from the GM plant to a hook-up on Russell Rd. at S. Maumee St.

☆

PLAN COMING under the greatest study is a forced eight-inch line along Occidental, east on Ives Rd., north on Raisin Center Hwy., on Russell Rd. and then east on Russell Rd. to the hook-up point. Estimated cost is $130,000.

Company officals have requested a sewer to be operable by Feb. 1, 1965, and have given local authorities complete freedom in selecting the plan most feasible.

In determining what sewer to install, Mr. Seeley told Councilmen that GM's projected waste in the future is double the amount now contemplated for the plant's opening next spring.

Also troubling Councilmen in their decision is the possibility that the entire GM and Occidental Rd. area will be annexed to Tecumseh in the future.

With annexation and other extensive industrial or residental growth in the area, some costly sewer adjustments and changes would be necessary.

☆

EACH PLAN projected by Mr. Seeley, however, would accommodate an additional industry or an area population of about 2,000.

Two of the plans call for a gravity flow north to a pumping station on Ives Rd. Such an installation could, provide sewer service immediately to homes in the area — probably on a condition of being annexed.

Main obstacle to gravity feed line is a deep trench cut of about 28 feet on Occidental at the plant site. Such a cut, according to Mr. Seeley, is not feasible as it would ruin the present roadway and costs would be extremely high.

☆

A MEETING with GM representatives was held Tuesday morning and another is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 22.

Company officials wanted an earlier meeting, but Mr. Seeley said his firm would not have the results of water samples taken from industrial wastes at a similar Fisher Body operation in Livonia.

He said that it is possible that chemicals and other materials in the waste would be prohibitive for Tecumseh to accept at its disposal plant.

BY TOM RIORDAN

A short week calls for an abbreviated corner of tiny tidbits.

That offer from General Motors to pay $100,000 towards a city waste water expansion program sounds extremely fair.

Council is deep in consideration of various programs — with costs running up to $201,000.

I'd chip in the suggestion that by all means city fathers should assume for this area a steady, healthy growth in population and industry — beyond Fisher Body — and make a bold decision.

It might seem expensive now, but be cheap in the long haul.

From such a serious subject, let's jump to the gridiron and here's a wish that Coach Tom Fagan's lads go all the way this autumn.

Some talk goes the rounds that a project may be started to get new lights for the football field.

Sounds wonderful. More joy.

One of the happiest gals in town this week is Mrs. Bill Hannibal, 1109 N. River Ct.

With her trusty five iron, Mrs. Hannibal fired a hole-in-one Wednesday morning at Tecumseh Country Club's 150-yard No. 6 hole.

She was in a threesome with Mrs. Al Merz and Mrs. Jack Hanna, continued along to score a 43 for the round.

Which brings up a point — the local club should strike a plaque with names of all persons who scored holes-in-one, leaving room for future heroes.

There have been about a dozen aces scored here, but no official record is kept.

She Doesn't Remember Anything

Mrs. David Locke, 61, of 923 Occidental Hwy., escaped with minor head injuries when she lost control of her car on Pentecost Rd. at Pawson Rd. early Monday.

She told Clinton State Police that she didn't remember what happened.

Her car, headed north on Pentecost, ran off the end of the road and stopped 31 feet north of Pawson Rd.

The car knocked down a fence and a small tree after leaving the road.

She was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital and treated for head injuries and was released.

Clyde L. Burleson has returned to Vietnam after a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burleson, and two weeks machine gun training at Ft. Hood, Texas. Pvt. Burleson entered the army Aug. 6, 1963. He earlier had spent five weeks in Vietnam before returning to Fort Hood.

Products Picnic Will Be Saturday at Summer Camp

The annual Tecumseh Products picnic will be held Saturday, Sept. 12 at the Youth Summer Camp, Sand Lake.

Swimming, fishing, games, free pop, ice cream, doughnuts and coffee will be featured.

A dance will be held in the camp hall from 11 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. and a double header ball game between Marion and Tecumseh will start at 1 p.m.

Everyone attending the picnic will be required to show a Union badge or identification card before admittance. Gates will open at 8:30 a.m.

Forty-six door prizes will be awarded at 12:30 p.m., with tickets entered from the list of employees with paid union dues.

Local Company Takes Highway Repair Contract

Ayling-Cunningham Co. was low bidder for pavement repairs in Lenawee County to be completed for the State Highway Dept. by Nov. 1.

Out of three bids, the local company received a $29,002 contract for pavement repairs at M-50.

Posies To Perform in Red, White Blue

The Little Garden Club of Tecumseh extends an invitation to every member of the community to attend and exhibit at the annual Flower Show entitled "Our Heritage" at the Community Center Saturday from 2 to 7 p.m.

A special section has been set aside for non-member exhibitors in both the artistic division and the horticultural division.

Open to non-member adults is a flower arrangement class entitled "Symbols of Our Heritage — The Flag", which is to be a rhythmic arrangement using one or more colors of our flag.

The non-member section open to juniors, 18 years or under, is entitled the "Great Seal of the United States", and is to be an arrangement in a metal container.

☆

CLUB MEMBERS hope that many will display garden flowers, house plants and vegetables or house plants in the horticultural division of the show.

Since it is important that space be reserved for these exhibits, anyone wishing to display their flowers or plants, should call Mrs. Howard Furry.

In addition to the exhibits in the artistic and horticultural divisions of the show, there will be decorative displays done by Tecumseh's leading florists.

Symbols of our Heritage will be reproduced in fresh flowers in the form of an American Eagle complete with bunting and shields on a blue taffeta backdrop, in an impressive display at the entrance of the Community Center by Ousterhout's Flower Shop.

☆

PICKARD FLORAL SHOP will decorate the tea table with an antique table cover with the original date 1842 woven into the fabric. The floral display will be suspended just slightly above the table top.

As a background for this unusual display, Mrs. Pickard plans to use a silk hand-quilted coverlet of about the same vintage. Both of these valuable items belong to Mrs. Dale Cook of Tipton.

A special feature of the landscape and civic projects display, will be a miniature fountain about 4x5' symbolizing the proposed fountain for the new city park adjacent to city hall.

This display will be landscaped with Myrtle and other adaptable plant materials to simulate the possible development and construction of this fountain in the park.

All coins donated in this fountain will be used to further this project. Albert Musch of Tecumseh Greenhouses will do the landscaping.

☆

The general chairman of this year's Flower Show is Mrs. Judson Miles, with a committee assisting her of Mrs. Charles Gross, Mrs. Wilbur Andrews and Mrs. Donald Smith.

The staging chairman is Mrs. Richard Hammel with Mrs. Morgan Ford, Mrs. Willard Exelby, Mrs. Carlton Cook and Mrs. Sydney Turner.

Publicity co-chairman are Mrs. Douglas Dunn and Mrs. Donald Moffatt.

Landscape and education chairman is Mrs. Carson House with Mrs. William Adams and Mrs. LeRoy Retzoldt.

Hospitality is being handled by Mrs. Morgan Ford.

☆

ENTRIES COMMITTEE chairman Mrs. Orrie Gilbert, has been assisted by Mrs. Moffatt and Mrs. Bosche.

Horticulture display chairman is Mrs. Earl Baldwin with Mrs. Stanley Cook, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Barton Christman and Mrs. Paul Henning.

Tickets will be handled by Mrs. Donald Smith.

In the past, visitors have come from as far as Detroit, Monroe, Jackson and Toledo to attend the show and have been most impressed by the collection of talent, which has encouraged the Little Garden Club to make this an annual event.

Admission is 50c and tickets may be obtained from any member or at the door. The show will be open from 2 to 7 p.m. Light refreshments will be served and all ages are welcome.

BREAKS LOOSE — Speedy halfback Tim Collins broke away for a nice gain in the Indians intra-squad scrimmage Saturday morning. Collins is one of the fastest backs in the Huron League.

Stutesman Family Is in Accident

Philip Stutesman, his wife, Barbara, and their three children of Decatur, Ill. were involved in a two car accident Sept. 1 in Gary, Ind.

Philip and his son, David, 3, were hospitalized until Sunday. Mrs. Stutesman and Steven, 14 months, and John, nine weeks, were treated and released.

A witness told police the car driven by Mrs. Stutesman headed south was struck broadside when a car driven by Thelma Smith attempted to run a red light. She claimed the light was green. No arrests were made.

Mr. Stutesman, a teacher in the Stephen Decatur High School went to school Tuesday with his leg in a cast. He is expected to wear it for two months.

He is the son of Mrs. Walter Stutesman, 113 S. Maumee St.

Scrimmage Set for Friday Night

Scrimmage time is 7 p.m.

Coach Fagan says a team from Detroit also may join in the scrimmage. The metropolitan school wanted several conditions, such as admittance by pass only, and Tecumseh officials refused.

In an intra-squad scrimmage Saturday morning, the Indians hit hard and appeared further advanced in training than in previous years.

The scrimmage also showed Tecumseh will be tough with its top players in action. The Indians have good size, slightly bigger than a year ago, but considerably faster.

Next week, Tecumseh opens the '64 schedule against Willow Run, state Class B champs in the ratings. The Flyers, with many back from last year, should have an eleven comparable to their undefeated team of '63.

Paper Strike Hurts

How do you feel about the Detroit newspaper strike and has it affected you in any way

Murell Clark, Chief of Police — "Yes and no. The Detroit papers publish all bad checks twice weekly. Now we have to use cablegram or get the information from Wayne County. It breaks up the routine we've been used to. Criminals have more chance to slip through."

✓

Mrs. Kenneth Hunter, Sr., secretary — "I feel a strike like that should be settled and I depend on that paper each night. I've taken the Detroit Times-News for years, ever since I've lived in Tecumseh. I miss the editorial page and the features."

✓

Mrs. James Barton, housewife — "Yes, I miss my Free Press every morning — very much. My regular ritual of drinking my morning coffee and reading the paper has been upset. I think it's terrible that they can do a thing like this to the advertisers — look at the merchandise and sales that they have and can't advertise."

✓

Don Moffatt, parks and recreation superintendent — "Well, it's made me take the Adrian Telegram. I've always been used to a morning paper, but now I'm getting desperate for news. I'm a Tiger and Lions fan, whether they win or lose, and I miss out on that."

✓

Harold Sisson, newspaper distributor — "It cut two-thirds of my income off, that's how it affected me. Toledo Blade circulation has about doubled, but comes nowhere near supplying the community."

Returns Home

TIPTON — Mrs. Elmer Krout returned home Sunday afternoon from Adrian's Bixby Hospital, where she was a medical patient.

'What's Going To Happen To My Shoes?'

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"I wasn't too thrilled about Cheryl's going to school but I didn't want her to stay home for something like this," said Mrs. Roy Johns.

She was speaking of the accident which resulted in the injury and possible loss of sight to the left eye of her little four-year-old Aug. 31.

A steel-tipped arrow, shot by Cheryl's brother, Michael, 11, struck Cheryl as she watched its flight, running beneath it with her head tilted back.

☆

THE ACCIDENT happened while the Johns family were visiting the children's grandmother, Mrs. Zoa Johns, in Coldwater.

The youngster, who will be five-years-old Nov. 24, was thrilled about going to the Tecumseh Acres School Tuesday.

At first, not too avid about the idea, her enthusiasm mounted after the purchase of a new pair of shoes was made.

Her first comment soon after surgery was, "Oh, oh, what's going to happen to my shoes if I don't go to school."

Tractor Kills Britton Farmer

BRITTON — Services were held Wednesday at the Niblack Home For Funerals for Dale Willis, 33, who was killed in a tractor accident Sunday, shortly after noon.

A family gathering was in progress at the home of the deceased parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Willis, 4393 County Line Rd.

The victim was riding the large Ford tractor he purchased last fall, as his nephew, Kenneth R. Reau, 19, of Deerfield, drove. Mr. Willis apparently lost his balance and fell forward in front of the wheels.

☆

MR. WILLIS, 11080 Kniffen Rd., was born April 28, 1931 at the home of his parents.

Lenawee County Coroner Edward Braun ruled the death accidental.

He was a 1948 graduate of the Britton High School and employed for several years at the Tecumseh Products Co.

Mr. Willis was a member of the Moose Lodge No. 894 of Monroe, the Underwood-Orr American Legion Post and the Hall-Slater Post VFW 4187.

He is survived by his wife, LeDena Southwell Frasier Willis, two sons, Gregory S. and Kevin D., one daughter, Kimberly S. and two step-daughters, Kathaleen Q. and Connie K. Frasier.

☆

OTHER SURVIVORS include his parents, one brother, Robert of rural Dundee, one sister, Mrs. Bernard Reau of rural Deerfield and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his former wife, Treva Lynne Willis, and an infant daughter, Tracy Lynne.

The Rev. Ronald Corl officiated at the funeral and the Underwood-Orr Post of American Legion conducted military services at Ridgeway Cemetery.

City Will Search for More Water

A search for additional water sources on the west side of River Raisin, north of Brown St. and east of N. Union, was authorized by Council Tuesday night.

A professional survey will be made, along with testing, to determine if new wells there would provide the city additional, sufficient water.

An expenditure not to exceed $350 was approved.

Cash for Library

By MARJORIE COMFORT

"Them what has, gets."

It's an old saying, and not good English, but it describes the good news Tecumseh Public Library Board heard Tuesday at its first meeting of the new fiscal year.

Long plagued by money worries, the board learned:

► A long term drop in state funds was reversed this year, bringing in $1,000 more than had been expected from this source.

► A federal grant will provide subscriptions to some 130 magazines for the library, plus an index listing the contents of all.

The .6 mill local property tax approved by voters this summer already meant that the library would be able to restore services cut drastically during the pasts several years.

Current operating budget is $31,668.74, compared with $21,166.86 last year.

Also planned are purchases of new records and pictures for circulation to district residents free of charge.

With the federal grant, the library's magazine collection will more than double from the present 65 subscriptions. Ranging in interest from American Heritage and Scientific American to Hot Rod and Farm Journal, the magazines would cost an estimated $1,000 a year.

Librarian Jule Fosbender and her staff are examining their book collection and working with other community and professional sources to make best use of the book money available.

Two areas mentioned in particular were science and history.

Behind Page One

The Tecumseh Herald was on TV. Sure 'nuff. Ed McKenzie, whose wife is a niece of John Calhoun, used a picture of John taken by The Herald on his television program Aug. 27 over Channel 7. It appeared in an August issue of The Herald when John celebrated his 94th birthday anniversary.

During the 1964 model year, 8.1 million cars and 1.4 million trucks were sold — an all-time national record. This included 500,000 imported vehicles. And it looks as if 1965 will continue the pace.

First production this season for the Tecumseh Players will be timely. It's "State of the Union", the story of an idealist who runs for the presidency. Real good play and right in the middle of the 1964 vote.

How does one get four stitches on his nose from folding a blanket? Mike Bush, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bush, and a member of the Britton-Macon 4-H Club, accidentally tripped while folding his blanket at the 41H State Show in Lansing last week, hit his nose on a desk — bingo, four stitches.

Public Library Has Pass System on Lunch Hour

Serious overcrowding during the school lunch hour has forced the Tecumseh Public Library to extend a pass system to high school students.

In effect last year for junior high schoolers, the new ruling requires students to have a pass signed by a teacher before using the library during the lunch hour. The library welcomes young readers, even those who just want to come in and "browse" through the book, record or magazine collection. But because of a long lunch hour and no place to go, students have been using the library for a meeting place and lounge.

Some damage was inflicted, particularly on magazines in the areas which could not be supervised readily by librarians on duty.

The library board hopes this move will eliminate misbehavior, while allowing those who wish to read or study, a quiet place to work.

Walk Bridge With My Father Again? Never!

"I'll never walk it with my dad again. He set too fast a pace, but I couldn't let him beat me," said Mrs. James Barton after walking across the Mackinac Bridge Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton, Glen and Tom and [illegible]rs. John Hamilton, Mark, Johnny, Carol and Kim represented Tecumseh at the annual "Big Mac" walk. They were accompanied by Mrs. Barton's father and uncle, C. W. Glenn, 73, and Ralph Glenn, 70, both of Stockbridge.

☆

LABOR DAY is the only time pedestrians are allowed to cross the four and one-half mile span, which is half uphill and half downhill.

Glenn, Mark and Johnny crossed in 50 minutes, Tom and Carol finished in 90 minutes, Mrs. Barton dragged in with Mr. Barton and the elder Glenns in 90 minutes and last, but not as tired, were Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and Kim who walked it in 105 minutes.

The group celebrated Tom Barton's birthday anniversary Sunday by limbering up for the walk with a hike at the Hiawatha Club. They camped at Straits State Park over the weekend.

Bible School for Migrants Staged in Ridgeway Church

A Bible School for migrants was held the past three weeks at the Ridgeway Methodist Church.

The Michigan Migrant Ministry staff conducted the classes for two weeks with nine local churches serving hot lunches each day.

Participating churches were St. Peter's Episcopal, Tecumseh Methodist, First Baptist, Presbyterian, Friends, Macon Methodist, Ridgeway Methodist and Nazarene and the Britton Methodist.

☆

REFRESHMENTS were served at the close of each day's session and each youngster was given a booklet of the Ten Commandments, as well as prizes for attendance and scholastic ability.

Volunteers from the churches helped with the school and visited a migrant camp five times to assist in teaching sewing to girls in the families.

Park parties were also sponsored by the various churches.

OUR READERS WRITE

(Editor's note: Mrs. James Barton expresses her feelings about giving blood in letter to Tecumseh people about giving.)

I want to write to you about what I consider the "disgrace of Tecumseh". I am proud of our town. I love it — but where were you on Sept. 1? Were you at the Community Center giving your pint of blood? Why not? I realize many people can't give for some physical reason or another, but if you can't, can't someone in your family?

The last time the Bloodmobile came to town, I couldn't and I was crushed. This time I could and no one there was happier than I to be able to give my pint.

I hope my family never needs any, but if we should, we shall not feel guilty about accepting it, because our record is quite good.

If all physically able teachers had been there, it would have helped, or all the men who were not too old to play "blooper ball" the past summer, or all the golfers who fill the courses every day or all you softball players or bowlers or merchants and so on down the line.

Why do people read the pleas for blood and never think, "They mean me".

If you can't go yourself, send your sons or daughter or husband or wife. Let's don't have this terrible record next time. Nag a little.

102 pints from a town of 7,000. We should get 700 or else we're sicker than we realize.

Come on you red-blooded Tecumseh Indians, let's get in there and bleed!

Gene Barton

Recreation Activities

SENIOR CITIZENS

Last Thursday afternoon, 50 area senior citizens attended the monthly get-together held at the Community Center.

Winners of the card and other table games played, received as prizes, admission tickets to the Flower Show, scheduled for Saturday, at the Community Center.

These prizes were provided by The Little Garden Club, which will stage the event.

Besides the games, the group discussed their plans for the group's fall and winter projects and programs.

It was agreed by those in attendance, that they should meet twice a month, starting the new schedule at once. At this next meeting, all will submit an identifying name for their group and ideas for good community projects in which members could help.

Four women volunteered to serve on the committee to help plan the next get-together, scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 24. They are Clara Miller, Mrs. William Hotrum, Mrs. Oren Feight and Mrs. Ralph Peotter.

Besides the Sept. 24 meeting date, the group will gather on Oct. 15 and then a good time Halloween Party, scheduled for Oct. 29.

Coffee and donuts were served.

SWIMMING POOL

As long as the weather and attendance will permit, the pool will remain open for swimming.

The new schedule, Monday through Friday, will be 3:30 to 5:30 and 6:30 to 8:30. Saturday and Sunday schedule will remain the same.

Swimming at the "Pit" will be permitted on Saturday and Sunday during the regular hours, with weather and attendance permitting.

PLAYGROUNDS

More than 2,300 children enjoyed the past playground season, which doubled the 1963 season over the same nine-week span of last summer.

Now that school is back in session, the plea to all of us should be: Drive carefully and watch that child.

COMMUNITY CENTER

This weekend, the Community Center will be one of the busiest in town. On Saturday from 2 to 7, a flower show will be presented by The Little Garden Club.

Then at 8 the same evening, the Shawnee Squares will feature western-style square dancing 'til 11.

On Sunday, the State Line Gem & Minerals Club will hold its first fall meeting at the center from 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

Sunday evening, starting at 7:30, western-style square dancing lessons will be held for all interested in learning this type of dance.

The Shawnee Squares, sponsor of the lessons, invite anyone to attend this free trial lesson.

Ruffner, Buku Win Golf Title

The Tecumseh - Clinton - Macan golf league finished its season Wednesday night, barely in time for the bowling season. In fact several members showed up with their thumbs powdered and bowling shoes on.

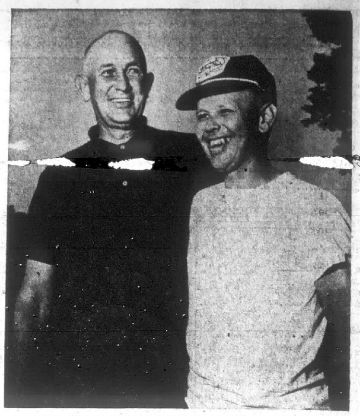
Nevertheless, the weather was wonderful and everyone thought they were tigers and chewed up the course. Clyde Gunder was one under par, Eldon Walker was even par, and Bob Beevers, Pat Hollar and Bill Johnson were one over par. Right behind them were several with 38's and 39's. It was a great day in all respects.

In fact it was a great year, even though the first 10 weeks were played in rain, snow, high winds and cold weather. Everyone just put another sweater over their golf bag and played any way. The only complaining anyone heard was in jest about the number of strokes to be spotted.

The final few weeks saw a see-saw battle between the first three teams but Jack Ruffner and Mike Buku were strong in the finish and ended up as champions.

The final standings—

Ruffner & Buku	232½
French & Manwaring	231
Hollar & Berkley	227½
Marsh & Yoakum	225½
Johnson & Garrison	223
Hall & Allen	216½
Hunt & Mattes	215½
Parker & Lancaster	208
Wojtowicz & Johnson	201
Walker & Walker	198½
Rang & Pierce	186½
Beevers & Morden	196
Mowrey & Nestor	190½
Busz & Turnbull	190½
Myers & Creager	186½
Phibbs & Studnicka	181½
Brown & Crane	178
French & Meyers	171
O'Neill & Roberts	167
Weakly & Mackey	162



PAUL CLAUDA, DICK EGGLESTON FINISH SECOND

Finishing in the runner-up spot were Dick Eggleston and Paul Clauda. Tied for third were the duo of Roger Linger-Bill Koster and Dr. Fred Feldman-G. Vanhaerents.

4 Arrested for Illegal Possession

Four youths, two of them juveniles, were arrested last week by the Tecumseh police on charges of illegal possession of alcohol.

The local officers noticed the boys hanging around the Gregory Barbershop at E. Chicago and N. Ottawa after midnight Friday night and investigated. The boys then tried to hide some beer in the entry way to Helms Furniture.

Two of the youths, Jack H. Mullins, 17, of 501 Murray Dr., and Thomas W. Wright, 17, of 312 W. Kilbuck, were fined $25 and placed on six months probation.

Council OK's New Officer for Juveniles

Council approved employment of a juvenile officer Tuesday night with the city and schools sharing the costs.

At its August meeting, the School Board approved an expenditure not to exceed $4,000, as its share.

Both Police Chief Murell Clark and City Manager Cal Zorn reported that applications had been received and others were expected.

A new officer will probably start Oct. 1.

Sanitary Sewer Project Waits for Easements

Little progress towards completing the Evans Creek Sanitary Sewer was reported by City Manager Cal Zorn to Council Tuesday night.

He said easements from many residents had not been secured but felt they were forthcoming with certain concessions to property owners.

Mr. Zorn reported that several residents are seeking sewer connections for granting the city permission to cross their property with the 16-inch sanitary sewer.

Train Engine Clips Car

Accidents in Tecumseh the past week ranged from the usual fender-benders to a minor skirmish with a New York Central switch engine.

George W. Tilton, 65, of 1903 Munger Rd., failed to notice the train switching cars on the tracks just off S. Evans when he pulled into a driveway there to turn around.

His auto sustained extensive damages to the right side, and he was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Harold H. Ousterhout, 65, Britton, and Gerald E. Jacobs, 38, Adrian, collided on S. Maumee Tuesday with minor damages to Jacobs' car.

Ousterhout was pulling out of the Tecumseh Products parking lot and failed to see the Jacobs' vehicle.

Forrest Sellick, 71, Toledo, and Howell Poucher, 40, Brooklyn, bumped nearly head-on at the intersection of E. Chicago and Maumee Tuesday, resulting in front-end damages to both cars.

Charles Wallace, 29, of 703 Adrian St., was cited Friday for reckless driving after an accident on E. Chicago with Jerry C. Gonzales, 24, Britton.

Two accidents Saturday resulted in citations to two motorists for failing to yield the right of way.

Dessie I. Crawford, 30, of 501 Kilbuck, was cited after an accident with Ira James Manwaring, 63, Macon Rd.

Floyd W. Shirley, 51, of 412 Brown, also was similarly charged after a scrape with an auto driven by Ruth E. Whiting, 57, of 106 W. Pottawatamie.

Orchard Lane Will Receive Sewer, Water

Although there were some objections, Council approved sewer and water installations on Orchard Lane with work to start this fall.

Several residents objected on the basis that their wells and septic tanks were satisfactory.

However, others on the street reported both well and septic tank problems.

Selders Excavating was awarded the construction contract at a cost of $7,289.

Another sewer and water installation on W. Chicago Blvd. to Harvey Carpenter's property was delayed on the advice of Cal Zorn, city manager.

Zorn said two bids received for the job were too high.

Blacktopping Is Scheduled To Start Soon

Three heavily traveled Tecumseh streets are due for blacktopping with work scheduled to start this week.

Due for bituminous concrete are Adrian St., from the railroad to Shady Lane; N. Union, north from W. Brown to the city limits; and the base or first course on a section of St. Maumee.

A block of N. Maumee was originally scheduled, but postponed by Council Tuesday night on City Manager Cal Zorn's recommendation.

A MESSAGE TO REPUBLICANS from
CONGRESSMAN GEORGE MEADER

TO MY FELLOW PRIMARY CANDIDATES:

My sympathetic understanding. Having lost twice in Republican primaries, I have experienced the disappointment of defeat. The best antidote I know for this disease is redoubled devotion to the common cause which unites us all — the Republican Party.

TO SUPPORTERS OF THESE CANDIDATES:

Your splendid efforts in behalf of your candidates in our traditional political contest evokes only my respect and admiration for your good citizenship. The party team needs your zeal and enthusiasm for total victory.

TO MY SUPPORTERS:

Heartfelt appreciation for your dedication and your deeds in my behalf. I shall do my best to deserve your display of confidence.

TO ALL REPUBLICANS:

Rally behind our standard bearers, Senator Goldwater and Governor Romney, in advancing Republican principles of individual liberty, equality of opportunity and treatment for all citizens, free competitive enterprise, strengthening state and local governments and combating powerful paternalistic centralized government.

All Republicans can dedicate their diligence to the basic Republican philosophy pronounced by Abraham Lincoln:

"The legitimate object of Government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all, or cannot so well do for themselves, in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere".

Pamela Musch, Richard Niedermier Wed

Marriage vows were solemnized in St. Elizabeth Catholic Church for Pamela Anne Musch and Richard John Niedermier Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Colformed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and potted palms.

The pews were marked with Jade foliage, white gladioli and white satin bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Musch, 4372 Blood Rd. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Niedermier, 2654 Munger Rd., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Donald Johnson, presented a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied Wallace Whiting as he sang "Ave Maria" and "On this Day O' Beautiful Mother".

☆

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar on the traditional white aisle cloth wearing a Maude Bell creation of peau de soie, trimmed with alencon lace.

The bodice had a round neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Lace encircled the midriff and edged the apron-shaped panel that overlaid the chapel train.

Her headdress was an open pillbox of matching lace.

MRS. RICHARD NIEDERMIER

She carried a crescent bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis accented with eucalyptus foliage. Konnie Lehmann of Springfield, Ill., was the maid of honor. Bridesmajds were Mrs. Wayne Castleldine of Ann Arbor, Diane Damon and Ruth Niedermier, sister of the groom, and Susan Pfeiffle of Adrian, a cousin of the bride.

The attendants were dressed in floor-length gowns of blue crystalette appliqued with lavender lace around the midriff and floating panels in the back.

They wore pillbox hats, also trimmed with the lavender lace applique.

They carried bouquets of lavender orchids, purple seafoam statice and purple velvet tubing.

☆

KENNETH JACOBS of Clinton was best man and Donald Oswald and Arnold Partridge of Tecumseh, Wayne Castleldine of Ann Arbor and Peter Pfeiffle of Adrian seated the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Spreeman of Tecumseh and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pfeiffle of Adrian were hosts for the reception at the Tecumseh Country Club for 300 guests.

For the reception, the club was decorated in tones of blue and lavender. Above the fireplace was an arrangement of lavender orchids and purple statice with eucalyptus foliage.

The cake table was flounced with blue satin and centered with a five-tiered cake, topped with a floral nosegay, encircled with a bridal ring of smilax and blue agapanthus florets.

☆

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and American Floral Art College of Chicago. She is a designer at Tecumseh Greenhouses and floral Shop.

The groom graduated from Tecumseh High School and served two years in the army. He is also employed at Tecumseh Greenhouses and Floral Shop.

After a wedding trip to northern Michigan, they will be at home at 412 W. Logan St.

Mr. and Mrs. John Niedermier entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Tecumseh Country Club Thursday evening.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Every newspaper does a great deal of selling for local merchants in the news and feature stories.

Information on new foods, styles, household appliances, real estate developments and new automobiles is carried as news.

Nearly every community newspaper constantly — and in many ways — publicizes the advantages of the local trade center. Even stories about recreational and cultural facilities in the community have an indirect effect on retail sales.

Of course, general selling done in the news columns is not sufficient to assure the use of a particular store by the consumer seeking benefits of a new or better product.

A news story may come from the local home demonstration agent, or, it may originate with the staff of the newspaper. It may deal with a new frozen food or it may be a picture story on the latest beach equipment at local swimming places.

Such stories are bonafide news. They deal with changes in tastes and customs. They anticipate public demand and to a great extent broaden demand for certain goods.

The stories pre-sell. But they do not pre-sell a particular brand or a particular store. Although they are an aid to active advertisers, they cannot and should not bring about final sales.

The alert local merchant makes use of the information included in special sections and special stories of his newspaper by using related advertising.

When new trends are started it is advertising which finally determines which merchant will profit from changing demands.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

IN BETWEEN SEASONS

The middle and last of August was a funny, peculiar kind of time. The sudden drop in temperature plunged us into a period, where looks and feel were in direct opposition to the calendar.

It was neither summer nor fall. It was too cold for the former, but too early in the year for the latter.

As we stayed inside watching the almost torrential rains beat down and shiverin'ed as the thermometer hit record low marks, the world outside responded to the odd non-season weather.

First of all, we tried to remind ourselves that this was not an unread-of thing — our eighth month is a fickle sort of gal, who usually changes her mind once or twice about what kind of weather she likes.

I am never prepared for this sudden taste of cold, though, and always bemoan the short summer.

Of course, warm weather lover that I am, summer could last until Christmas, then return on Jan. 2 and I would shout hurray. But August wintry spells are followed by hetter things — this, too, I kept telling myself.

ANOTHER shocking thing that August does is to provide a sneak preview of Mother Nature's fall extravaganza. Again this year a bright, golden yellow will be good.

The elm and walnut trees decided to brighten the dullness of the in-between time by trying on their fall garb. As a clump of leaves here and a whole branch there turned color over night, it was clear that yellow will be as high fashion as ever.

Even through the rain and cold, the goings on at the feeding station bespoke of summer. Drab little mother sparrows brought their big-mouthed youngsters — the freeloaders came in flocks, it seemed.

Such a racket Papa Cardinal was gradually working away from the last of his family responsibilities. Junior was still tagging along and being fed, but he was also being made to eat on his own.

JUST TO ADD to the confusion, some birds were indicating fall. Grackles, starlings and robins seemed to be bunching up. The gathering of the robin clan was especially noticeable — at one time we counted 22 in the back yard.

Were they really milling about comparing routes to the south?

Some of the youngsters seemed far too young for such a trip, they were still short tailed and had pale white breasts, heavily, heavily, heavily spotted. The older birds were in fine shape, big fat and smoothly feathered.

Not so well suited in their new fall clothes were our blue jays. They were certainly not ready for any prolonged cold spell.

At least, if we were really launched into fall, there were going to be some mighty cold blue jays here at the west end of Logan St.

Bright, new blue, white and black feathers covered the birds' bodies, but their heads and necks were in various stages of nudity.

One poor soul was actually bald, another had a few little feathers around his face and one long streamer for a top knot. As we said before, these fellows were definitely dressed for nothing but warm weather.

☆

AND JUST TO briefly mention several more "crazy mixed-up" things — our old flicker was back hanging on the roof at the feeder just as he did last spring.

At the other end of the calendar were the squirrels. Snug in their new heavy fur coats, they were beginning to cart away the already-dropping walnuts.

Dirty faces and dirty front paws are a dead give-away to the nut cache business.

So it is that August played a dirty trick on us. She could not make up her mind and thus we were suspended in the never-never world of in-between seasons.

NEXT WEEK.

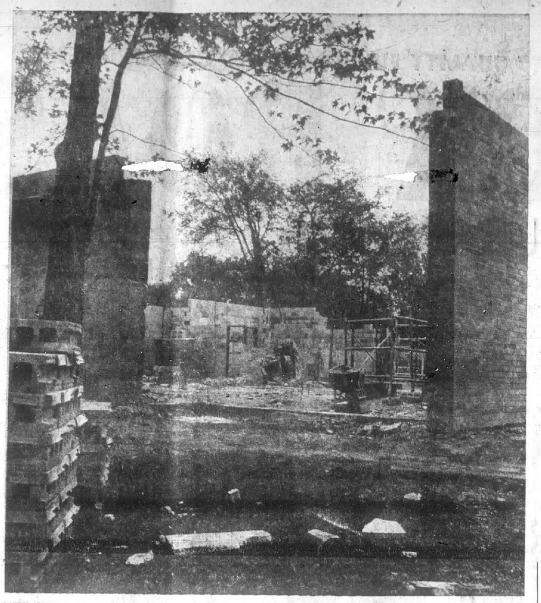
Nearly 2,500 local medical personnell in Indonesia, South Viet Nam, Peru and Ecuador have been trained by the more than 600 American physicians, dentists, nurses and technicians who have served aboard the hospital ship S.S. Hope.



NEW SITE – Tecumseh's new post office, being built at old Adams Park across from City Hall, promises to be a showplace upon completion. The modern, stone fronted building will house the U.S. Mail, greatly increasing facilities over present location on E. Logan St. Since this picture was taken, nearly three-fourths of the roof has been erected. Postmaster Jack Metcalf said he hopes to be moved into the new location before Christmas.

Schools Are in Good Shape

After hitting a low water mark in 1961-'62 and 1962-'63, the Tecumseh school system is now in good shape financially, reports Supt. James McDowell.

A large deficit has been turned into a $32,000 dollar surplus, he explained in an annual school report.

Between 1962 and 1963, enrollment in all grades increased by 114. This year, 89 more pupils will be attending classes.

The 3,190 children in the system are served by a staff of 176.

☆

THE JUNIOR HIGH School, working under crowded conditions for the past three years, has been given a gift of $100,000 for expansion in the 1965-66 school year.

The Tecumseh High School grant of $400,000, for improvements and expansion will be ready this fall.

Bus service has been cut down in the past years since pupils are required to assemble at group stops instead of being picked up at their homes.

The student activity bus will be supported by the School Board this year.

PTA activities are left to the desires of the parents and teachers of the various buildings, the superintendent said.

Special services of a speech correctionist and a teacher for the physically handicapped are available to the children of Tecumseh through cooperation with the county as in the past.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Michigan has made gigantic strides recently that have gained a good deal of attention. Business and industrial expansions in Michigan have taken most of the spotlight. But there are other barometers that indicate progress, too.

Things are booming in the Michigan construction industry.

Construction employment in July of this year was 118,400. That is more people than have been working in construction in Michigan since 1956.

The July construction employment figures are up 11,500 over June, and up to 10,000 over July a year ago.

And compared to two years ago, there are more than 30,000 more construction jobs today.

ANOTHER economic indicator: June contracts for future construction in Michigan totalled more than $181 million, an increase of 26% compared to June of 1963.

And the cumulative total of construction contracts for the first six months of 1964 amounted to more than $909 million, or an increase of 31% over the same period in 1963.

Of course, the economy of the entire nation is on the upswing, but let's compare:

In Michigan, for the first six months of 1964, non-residential contracts — not announcements, but contracts let — showed an increase of 49% over the previous year.

Nationally, non-residential contract value for 1964 was estimated to be 8% higher than 1963.

That's real Michigan progress.

☆

NOW, JUST ONE more indication of our economic strength:

Announcements of non-residential construction (not contracts as I mentioned above, but announcements) for the first six months of 1964 in Michigan include:

► About one billion dollars for industrial construction.

► About $300 million for utility expansion.

► About $100 million for warehousing and commercial building.

That adds up to about $1.5 billion in non-residential construction announced in the first six months of this year, which is double the announced non-residential construction for the entire 12 months of 1963. And that's another sign of real Michigan progress.

☆

WE'VE MADE gains for the working men and women of this state as well. Today, we have a construction safety code, a commission and a working program that is designed to benefit the men who earn their living in the construction trades.

We now have a minimum wage law, something this state needed for a long time. We have increased unemployment compensation benefits.

Our unemployment compensation law is one of the best in the country. Our unemployment compensation law is a public interest law, favoring neither worker nor employer.

Ours is a public interest government.

From Superintendent

McDOWELL

By SUPT. JAMES McDOWELL

Elementary schools this fall will be different from other years and we trust these differences will improve the basic educational opportunities for our children.

Not the least of the changes will be the opportunity for all elementary and secondary pupils who live in the city to be home for lunch at the same time.

Parents have had to put up with peculiar noon hours because of overcrowding for a long time.

Physical education will again be taught in grades four, five and six and will provide for physical development and for general health education.

Departmentalization in grades five and six in the larger elementary schools and partial departmentalization in the small ones will provide for improved teaching instructors who are the best prepared in certain subjects will be teaching just those.

☆

MODERN ARITHMETIC will be introduced into all grades this fall and I suggest that all parents read as much about this program as possible.

Essentially the difference between arithmetic as it has been taught, and the new method is one of technique.

Arithmetic has generally been taught as a collection of "basic facts" and computing techniques to be memorized and practiced until they become habitual "how" without "why". There has been little basis for reasoning in mathematics. Troubles in solving problems, therefore, have been many and varied.

☆

THE MODERN elementary arithmetic encourages pupils to look for and explore patterns and relationships among numbers and operations involving numbers and the principals governing the processes which make up the operations.

Parents may have more difficulty than their children in understanding the new arithmetic as new terms will be introduced.

However, at least one clinic for parents will be held this fall after the children have had a chance to become somewhat familiar with their work.

Contest Open to All Artists in Michigan

The sail tips of the mill in Holland will tower 125 feet above an authentic Dutch rural setting.

The contest is open to all residents of Michigan. First prize will be $50. Entries close Oct. 15. Entry blanks and contest rules may be obtained by writing Windmill Island Information Office, 4th at Central, Holland, Mich.

$250 Prize Buys Feeder, Pair of Trees

The $250 first prize won this year by the Little Garden Club at the Federated Garden Club convention will be used in the planting area southeast of the Nursing Center, just off the patio.

A bird feeder, star magnolia and maple tree are to be purchased.

FALL PASTURE from Sudan-sorghum hybrids can be utilized, but be careful to avoid prussic acid poisoning. Don't graze regrowth until it has reached 18 inches in height. If a frost occurs, pull the cattle off immediately. Danger from poisoning is greatest at this time. Cattle can be turned back on the pasture after the leaves have thoroughly dried, though. Exposure to drying dilutes the prussic acid content.

CONCENTRATES VS. FORAGE. Emphasize feeding high energy concentrates to dairy cattle during early lactation. Limit forage to 1½ pounds per 100 pounds of body weight. Increase grain as production increases. Instead of feeding a constant grain-to-milk ration throughout the entire lactation. After the first 140 days of lactation, grain can sharply be reduced and more forage substituted.

FEED EFFICIENCY is the most critical factor in profitable feeder pig operations. If you can produce 100 pounds of pork from 350 pounds of feed you can afford to pay up to $16.80 for a 50-pound feeder pig. This assumes a price of $1.10 for corn and a hog market of $15 per cwt. Where 400 pounds of feed per cwt. of pork is required purchase price needs to be held to $14.40.

IN-STORAGE LAYER DRYING OF CORN requires less investment than other drying systems for operations producing less than 10,000 bushels and where new facilities are needed. Costs need to be weighed against speed of drying and possible bottlenecks, however. Figure that a 21-foot bin may be able to dry only about 300 bushels per day.

7 Tipton Jets Attend State Show

TIPTON — Greg Smith, Douglas Feight, Larry and Susan Reis, Duane Radant, Greg Hardy and Tim McVay, all members of the Tipton Jets 4-H Club, are attending the State Show in East Lansing this week.

Mrs. Raynor Hardy is acting as counselor for the girls.

Germans Will Go To Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald German and children, Patricia, 8, and Ronnie 14, of Cambridge Junction will soon be making their home in Jveretara, Mexico.

Mr. German is being sent there to train employees of the Clark Equipment Co. in the maintenance operation of a new Clark plant.

Mrs. German is the sister of Mrs. John Conklin, 1207 Murray Dr.

☆

BECAUSE MEXICO is seeking buyers for their own markets, all appliances and furniture being bought there must be at least one year old. This has kept the Germans busy locating household goods which meet the specifications for entry.

Jveretara is located 40 miles northwest of Mexico City and is surrounded with mines or precious stones.

Mr. and Mrs. German spent one week vacationing there this summer and say it is beautiful and they are looking forward to their new home.

Indians - WR in '64 Opener Here Friday

By JIM LINCOLN

Tecumseh Indians open their third season here under Coach Tom Fagan Friday night against highly-rated Willow Run.

The Flyers, rated tops among the Class B schools in 63, upset the Indians last year for their first win ever over Tecumseh.

Chances are the Flyers' reign of the state's Class B teams will end here against the Indians, who could field one of its finest teams in several years.

Coach Fagan has discovered two weaknesses, either one may never develop.

Lack of depth could hurt the Indians if front line players are injured. Passing may or may not be a weakness.

Tecumseh will boast a strong running game and a good short pass game, featuring quarterback Jeff [illegible], a good ball handler, has hit well on short tosses in practice.

His understudy, Ron Rentschler, will throw the long ones, if needed, to break up a stacked defense against Tecumseh's running game.

4 PAGES OF FOOTBALL PICTURES, 3rd SECTION

Osburn is expected to be the Indians best field leader since Tim Sisson ran the club two years ago.

★

WILLOW RUN should have a team comparable to the one which went undefeated in '63. The Flyers always possess outstanding speed in the backfield, and several tough linemen are returning.

The first three or four games will be critical ones for Fagan's team. The first stringers must stay healthy, and some younger ones must obtain some game experience.

Injuries must be kept at a minimum to have an exceptional season.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

A fellow should never return to those places of long ago. For memories ought to be enough.

A business trip last week took The Herald co-publishers to Norwalk, O., which happens to be about 20 miles north of a 1,500-population farm community called Greenwich.

From 1950 to '56, my wife and I owned and operated The Greenwich Enterprise-Review, settling there the fall we married.

In fact we exchanged vows on a Saturday in October, were buying Linotype mats Monday morning in Cleveland and on Tuesday Cherie was selling advertising along Main St. while I labored in the shop.

When last week's business in Norwalk was completed, there just had to be a quick run into Greenwich.

It has been nearly a decade since I viewed the place.

One thing in particular that had changed was the educational setup. There now is a modern consolidated high school, replacing two badly-outmoded buildings.

How we, as Enterprise owners, had fought for that — along with others — over the years. Five districts were joined together one wintery night by the county board of education, an action which provoked some of the most bitter comments imaginable from the army of advocates who chorused, "It was good enough for granddad, my folks and me!"

"Where would a new high school go?" was the big question.

It took about four years to settle that one and the Riordans had long since moved to new pastures — thank goodness.

As the car rolled along Angling Rd. from Norwalk Friday, the spanking new school came into view, a really lovely sight, including a lighted football field. Back in our days, there wasn't even a team.

Once in town, a million memories raced back. The place was just about as it had been when we left in '56. There were some changes, like Connie and Jim Curfman's beautiful super market, replacing a trio of frame buildings of Civil War vintage.

The post office has gone into part of Crum's Hardware and looks like a million, presided over by Paul Foster, who used to grind hamburger meat in his dad's food

Jim Oberlin Will Miss Grid Opener

Starting right tackle Jim Oberlin will miss Friday night's grid opener here against Willow Run.

The 192-pound letterman suffered a foot injury during blocking drills Monday, and it's not known whether he has a hairline fracture in a small bone.

Painting Bee Slated Sept. 19

TIPTON — The painting bee which was to be held this Saturday at the Tipton Community Church has been postponed until Saturday, Sept. 19.

Lenawee Institute Opens on Monday

A new era in special education for Lenawee County begins Monday.

Lenawee Institute will open its door for classes, with about 50 youngsters checking in, according to Lynn Marvin, director of special education for the county.

Enrollment may reach about 72.

The Institute accepts all trainable physically and mentally handicapped youngsters from the county and is regarded as an outstanding example of special education facilities.

Eventually, other structures will go up at the 40-acre location on Sutton Rd., in a campus-type arrangement.

★

THE FIRST structure, which is costing $150,000, was made possible by the gift of a friend of education.

It will contain five classrooms, multi-purpose room, shop and home making room in 10,000-square-feet of space.

County Supt. Milton Porter states that Lenawee students will "learn skills, which can enable them to live, socialize and perhaps secure employment under a sheltered atmosphere."

Up until this fall, the handicapped youngsters have been attending classes in the 100-year-old Sutton School, which now has been turned over to the Tecumseh School District for sections of first, second and third grades.

Starting day at Lenawee Institute was delayed two weeks so that construction work could be completed.

★

CLARENCE LONG is principal and will assist in the shop and recreation programs.

An occupational therapist, Mrs. Alice Wooster, will spend half days in the Institute.

Others on the faculty include: Mrs. Thelma Frayer—primary. Jan Baxter—intermediate. David Lawson—multiple handicapped. Mary Ellen Vogel — senior room.

JIM MANLEY SHOWS SISTER MARY WHERE TRIBUTE TO ROYALTY HAD BEEN DELETED FROM BOOK OF COMMON PRAYERS

$1.50 Bid Brings Family Box of Historic Volumes

By TOM RIORDAN

For an auction bid of $1.50, Charles Manley, Jr., 611 E. Murray Dr., bought some fascinating history.

It came in the form of a box filled with old books.

While examining the treasure, he was offered $100 for the contents, but refused to sell.

There are two Protestant Bibles, one printed in 1759, an Episcopal Book of Common Prayer, printed in 1758.

The box also contains a Cobbs Walker dictionary, a new system of Arithmetick, published in 1832, and a Hymns and Spiritual Song book in metre, printed in 1800.

All this for 1.50.

★

A HISTORY-MINDED family, the Manleys — even the children — are delighted with the various volumes.

The oldest bible was once owned by Moses McCollum of New York State. When he died, it went to his daughter, Mrs. Robert Nesbitt, who came to Michigan in 1831. She lived in Pittsfield Township of Washtenaw County.

It passed on to her daughter, Mrs. Henry Wilsey, and then Mrs. Nesbitt's grandson, Joseph Wilsey.

The Bible, which is pocket size, was printed by Boulter Gruerson, Priser to His Most Excellent Majesty."

Another small bible, owned by Mrs. Wilsey, was printed in 1772, and won an Oldest Bible Contest sponsored by the Ann Arbor News in 1831.

A penned-in date — 1777 — on the flyleaf of the Book of Common Prayer helps explain an owner revision in the volume.

Struck out with brown ink, probably done with a quill pen, is the section relating to prayers for "His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, the Princess Dowager of Wales, the Duke, the Princesses and all the Royal family, Lords of the Council and all the Nobility."

★

IN THE "arithmetick" book, one problem bugs 15-year-old Vickie Manley. She invites anyone to try it and if they can come up with the answer to contact her.

I states, "The wall of a building on one side of a street is 80 feet and the other 70 feet. The street is 60 feet wide. What where-about must a ladder be placed so that the top may reach the top of both walls and how long must the ladder be?"

Time To Eat Roast Beef

When St. Elizabeth's eleventh annual Roast Beef dinner is put into full swing Sunday, some 200 parishioners will have spent many hours to contribute to its outstanding success.

They have been guided by a workbook manual, which was revised again this year to keep up with the growth of the dinner.

In the manual are supply needs, quantities of food, floor plans, schedules of work, etc., to aid each new chairman and various workers as they co-ordinate efforts in producing enough to feed some 1,500 people in 6½ hours, from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The original workbook was compiled by Mrs. Leo Bishop, formerly of Tecumseh and now of Royal Oak.

★

THE TRADITIONAL event has emerged from the first "Housewarming Dinner," which helped celebrate official opening of St .Elizabeth's School and convent.

The success of that dinner prompted the Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Collins, pastor of the church, to make it an annual affair.

Mrs. Josephine Dziachan and Mrs. Carlos Knisely, general chairmen of the dining room and kitchen respectively, will be busy several days ahead at the school to get everything in readiness.

Saturday, Mrs. Theodore Golat and her staff will convert one of the school rooms into a meat processing area as 800 pounds of choice standing round is boned and tied.

★

SHE HAS handled this job for the past two years and has assisted in the meat room for five other dinners.

She approaches her huge task with confidence and will have the meat in roasters all set to take to Van's Bakery to begin the 5½ hours of baking at midnight.

Sunday morning, when this task is done, Walter Mueller and Paul Burns, who are in charge of potatoes, will then transport the 500 pounds of potatoes, which have been made ready for

Fined $20 for Assault at Tavern

CLINTON — Robert Nickerson, 23, Manchester, was fined $20 Saturday when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery before Justice L. J. VanDeusen.

Mr. Nickerson was arrested on the complaint of John Bauer of Clinton after an argument in a Clinton tavern Aug. 22.

Mr. Bauer was hospitalized for injuries.

Off to Belfast

A British Overseas Air Jet skimmed over the Atlantic Wednesday, making the Detroit Metropolitan-to-London run.

Aboard was the John Costello family, formerly of Britton and about to be of Upper Galwally, Ireland.

Mr. Costello has been assigned by Ford Motor Co. to take over as operation manager of the new Belfast, Ireland parts plant.

Working with him will be Charlie Branigin, also from Britton, who'll handle quality control, and is already settled in Belfast.

Offices at the Belfast Ford layout are complete, but the plant won't be done until later. New hires will all be Irish.

★

MR. COSTELLO is well versed in the Belfast setup, having made four previous trips there since last December.

He found a home for his family on one of is visits and it has the unique address of Red Roof —no number or street, just Red Roof.

The Costellos will probably be in Ireland for two years, with the three elder daughters, Lucetta, 14, Jan, 12 and Sally Lynne, 7, attending the Richmond Lodge School for Girls.

John, Jr., 4, and Amy Jo, 20 months will stick close to Red Roof for the time being.

Mr. Costello as been with Ford for eight years, was production manager at the Ypsilanti plant before accepting the post in Ireland.

Raisin Offers Sewer Funds to Council - IF

By JIM LINCOLN

A decision by Raisin Township Board to share costs in a $130,000 sewer from GM's Fisher Body Plant to Tecumseh will probably not be reached until this Thursday evening.

The Board met with Tecumseh Council Monday night and offered $6,500 if the sewer was owned by General Motors.

Councilmen and City Attorney James Beardsley protested GM owning the sewer, with Mr. Beardsley citing several legal reasons why such utilities belong to governmental bodies.

Local officials want Tecumseh to own the sewer and indicate it will, with or without assistance from Raisin Township.

Township representatives did not state they would give — or not give — if Tecumseh owned the sewer.

Last spring, the city and township agreed to share costs in a six-inch sewer for sanitary waste along Occidental to Russell Rd. Estimated cost was $35,000, with GM paying $20,000.

The company since has asked Tecumseh to handle both its sanitary and industrial wastes, necessitating a larger sewer, and has offered $100,000 to help cover the costs.

Council is expected to reach a decision regarding the sewer next Monday night and will then meet with GM officials Tuesday.

GM has asked that a sewer be operative by next Feb. 1. Council must decide among three sewer plans projected by an Ann Arbor engineering firm.

Firemen To Burn Big Home

Tecumseh Fire Department will host the Lenawee County Firemen's Field Day Oct. 4.

A waterball contest and the burning of a 30-room house will highlight the day.

Four semi-finalist teams will play waterball for the Lenawee County championship, followed with a match by ladies teams from Madison and Morenci.

Palmyra, Madison and Hudson will vie against Tecumseh, which will be defending the championship title they have held for the past two years.

★

THE EVENT will be held in the parking lot behind the Fire Station, promptly at 1 p.m. said Chief Wallace MacGeorge.

A large three-family home at the corner of M-50 and Ford Rd. is destined for the flames.

William Brown has requested the burning of the 72 x 30 foot building, which provides the most unique opportunity for education for Lenawee firemen to date.

Representatives of the University of Michigan Fire Extension Service are expected to attend.

Mothers of Twins Meet in Deerfield

Mrs. Jack Williams of Deerfield was a guest for the first meeting of the Mother of Twins along with eight members Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Stacy Zilke of Deerfield.

Mrs. Kenneth Koons, president, conducted a short business meeting.

The program was discussed for the coming year with Mrs. Donald Hardcastle, chairman.

Discussion was held on a money-making project for the coming year.

Members voted to help a family or a needy child.

The bank was moved and modernized, Dorothy and Al Smith have built a dry cleaning plant, but from that point it's about the same.

Except that the town looked awfully small, in fact real tiny.

The Enterprise building had a fresh coat of paint, but inside, the paper appeared the way it did when we left, even to printer Clair King bending over the makeup stone putting a job together.

Poking about the shop helped spring my mind back a dozen years. On the darkroom wall was a picture of our daughter, just as I had pinned it up. A list of often-called phone numbers, in my scrawl, was still thumbtacked over the editor's desk.

On the shelf over it reposed pamphlets and catalogs which had been there during my reign. The current publisher, Chick Morris, sorting the mail, quibbed, "Here's one for you," as he flipped a paper my way.

It was a copy of the Ohio Legion News, with my name on the mailing tag. No one ever seems to bother to change those things. Like here. The Herald still gets stuff addressed to the late Earl Wickwire.

The Tom Eatons — he's the town doctor—still live next door and I wandered over for a chat. Their eldest son, Tommy, is now 6'5" and will be bouncing a basketball at Rollins College in Florida this winter.

There used to be a barn behind The Enterprise on which I'd fixed a hoop. Tommy would pop over and we'd try our luck. In those days, it was a real chore for him to get the ball all the way.

When I glanced at Tommy and then the rusty ring, still as it was, it was easy to see that the youth would have no such problem now.

A quick stop at several business spots seemed in order. At Chesrown's Music Store, there was Harvey Chesrown, 92 years young, still running things and looking as he has for probably the last 30 years.

There are hundreds of memories of Greenwich, but probably the most vivid was the first — my baptism as a country editor.

A few days after assuming the role, a lady phoned in a news item. "John Smith has just received delivery on a new Cadillac in time to make his annual trip to Florida," she told me.

We ran it with the personals.

"Boy were you taken," a man told me an hour after the paper had hit the street.

"What do you mean?" I croaked indignently.

"You're the new editor, aren't you! Well, that thing about John Smith was a practical joke. He doesn't have two nickles to rub together. One of his neighbors thought with a new editor, this could be a pretty good gag."

Boy, was one rookie, 29-year-old editor burning. Rushing to typewriter, I hammered out a column for the next issue. "Practical jokes are all right in their place, but that certainly isn't in the columns of this newspaper!"

Hardly had that edition been in the post office when the phone rang. The same voice was asking for the editor.

"Listen," she fumed, never letting me get in a word, "If we want to play a practical joke in our paper, that's our business. You keep your nose out of it."

With this, she hung up.

There wasn't anything to do but take the final indignity with a grin, realizing that Greenwich editors had come and gone over the previous three-quarter of a century and would probably for years to come.

But The Enterprise would rumble along — "their" paper.

Last year, 1,375 dinners were served including persons from many Detroit suburbs, Ann Arbor, Toledo and various surrounding areas.

Take-out dinners will again be a feature. As in the past the proceeds will go toward the general operating cost of the church and school.

40TH ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoagland, 7747 Hoagland Rd., Britton, will be honored by their family at an open house for their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 20. Relatives, friends and neighbors are invited to attend the event from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Britton Congregational Church. The couple have asked that gifts be omitted. LaRue Edwards of Tipton and Lawrence Hoagland were married Sept. 19, 1924, at the Congregational parsonage in Morenci by the Rev. S. N. Oliver, former pastor of the Tipton Church. The couple have lived on the Hoagland centennial farm their entire married life. They have one daughter, Mrs. Elwood Tucker of Britton and two grandchildren, Tommy and Tammie

Girl Brushed by Car

Eleven accidents, including a girl who was hit by a motorist, were investigated by the Tecumseh police during the past week.

Kathy Schultz, 12, of 703 S. [illegible] received an abrasion on her right arm after she jumped a water puddle at corner of Logan and N. Evans, and then was brushed by a car driven by Nancy L. Goetz, 38, of 601 W. Logan.

Another motorist LaVern Creger, Britton, suffered a cut on his right ear after he rolled his car on Mill Hwy. Being outside the city limits, the accident was turned over to the sheriff's department.

★

THREE DRIVERS were cited for minor property damage accidents.

Patricia L. Schwartz, 16, of 500 Seminole Dr., was charged with an improper start after her car scraped the side of a passing auto driven by Frederick F. Dickinson, 48, of 514 W. Pottawatamie.

Marsha K. Richard, 16, of 108 Maple, was cited for failing to yield the right of way when her car collided at the intersection of Shawnee and Oneida Sts. with a car operated by Carol J. Langham, 41, of 706 Outer Dr.

Failure to have car under control was charged against John R. Finnegan, 25, Centennial Rd., after his vehicle hit a mail box on N. Union St.

MINOR scrapes included:

Barbara I. Baker, 19, Clinton, and Beverley F. Nelson, 27, of 801 Occidental, were involved Friday when Mrs. Nelson backed into the Baker car.

The Rev. Alvin C. Brazee, 76, of 113 N. Maiden Lane, backed into a parked car owned by John B. Maurer, 21, Taylor, Texas.

Another backing incident happened Friday behind the United Savings Bank when Bernice M. Shadley, 48, Manchester, bumped into Mary M. Mitchell, Palmyra.

The vehicle driven by Refugio Montabre, 53, Britton, sustained damages when he opened his car door into the path of an auto operated by James F. Felton, 32, of 207 Burt St.

William K. Svoboda, 53, Adrian, and Raul Flores, 29, Sutton Rd., collided on Patterson St. near the Tecumseh Products parking lot. Damage was minor.

Futurama Sets Record

WORLD'S FAIR — The General Motors Futurama exhibit set a new attendance record Friday when the 13,180,001th person stepped across the threshold.

The event marked the greatest number of persons ever attracted by an industrial exhibit within one year anywhere in the world.

The previous record — 13,180,000 — was set by GM's "Futurama I" exhibit during the first year of the 1939-40 New York World's Fair.

Aspiring Stars Will Vie for Part in Play

Tryouts for the Tecumseh Players newest production "State of the Union" will be held Friday, Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall on Green Hwy.

Mrs. Donald Geiger of Clinton will direct the first play of the season, which will be presented Oct. 22, 23, 24, 28, 29, 31. Mrs. Geiger teaches first grade at Clinton Community Schools.

Mrs. Charles Parker of Clinton will be assistant director and Pres Caswell, technical director.

"Come to tryouts," says president Fred Pokorny. "Working with the Tecumseh Players is fun. We need actors, actresses, singers, dancers, musicians, carpenters, electricians, seamstresses and many others."

At the Players first general meeting of the year last Sunday at the Odd Fellows Hall, it was announced that Mrs. Dale Bowen has been appointed to the board of directors as publicity chairman, following the resignation of Mrs. Tom Corkery.

Excerpts were read from "State of the Union" during the meeting. The Four Dads quartette, consisting of Dr. Carlton Cook, Gene Earling, Gordon Comfort and David Wood entertained with selections from "Pajama Game" and Debbie Cote gave a musical pantomime.

Next general meeting will be Oct. 11 at 3 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Machinist Mate Halberstadt Serves on Cruiser

USS NORTHAMPTON — Machinist's Mate Third Class Ivan J. Halberstadt, son of Mrs. Blanche Halberstadt, 410 South Ottawa St., is serving aboard this heavy cruiser, which has been awarded the Navy's coveted "E" award for battle efficiency.

Northampton's home port is Norfolk, Va.

Basis for the award is the Navy's objective to achieve and maintain the highest degree of combat readiness and battle efficiency. Attainment of this objective requires vigorous training in all of the functions in which ships can be expected to participate.

Following a year of stiff competition among seven other cruisers of the Atlantic Fleet, Northampton attained the highest score in her competitive exercises for the year ending July 1, 1964.

Safe Driving Does It!!

Few drivers are recognized for their safe driving habits — even the drivers who travel the highways daily and roll up thousands of miles each year. One company does recognize these drivers, and it's the Wolverine Insurance Company. Here, Don Sunderland of Sunderland Insurance Agency, a representative of Wolverine Insurance, presents a 3-year safe driving pin to Buck Maynard and a 6-year pin to Charles Staples.

Looking on approvingly in the background are Chet and Clarence Beach, owners and operators of Beach Bros., large Fleet-Wing gasoline-oil product distributors, for which the two honored drivers are employed. Beach Bros., in business for 32 years, has maintained safe driving records for years, and Wolverine Insurance in turn has grown through insuring safe drivers and thereby providing lower rates.

St. Elizabeth School Clippings

By EIGHTH GRADE CLASS

In these Indian Summer Days, history, textbooks and arithmetic tests take the place of swimming, barbecues and sun tans.

Now modern mathematics and Spanish will fill the coming days.

Football practice has started with Gordon Gutowski as cub coach. Jim Greene and Jim Biscupski are assistants.

The first game will be with Onsted on Sept. 30.

Thanks to the Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Collins, Sister Maureen Therese, O.P., and Wes Haeussler, the Athletic Association president, and others it is possible for the Cubs to play junior high football.

Elections for class officers produced some close races.

Some time in November, the school children will hold a presidential vote.

Have you ever listened to "The Three Bears" in Spanish? Ask the fifth through eighth grade students at St. Elizabeth.

Sister Carmen Joseph, O.P., reads and acts out the story to the classes seeing how many words they could spot.

Some examples are:
Los tres Osos — the Three Bears
Casa — house
Mesa — table
Silla — chair
Platos — plates.

This year, eighth graders have a new and different type of history, studying the Westward Movement and the settling of the United States.

History is a favorite because it tells how our country became the great nation it is.

Also of particular interest is science, which is being taught by Sister Mary Angelica, O.P.

Even though this is an extremely vast field we will be studying many particular points such as peaceful usage of atomic energy and space exploration.

Music Makers Going To Picnic on Wamplers Lake

The Junior Music Makers will begin their fall season with a picnic at Hayes State Park on Wamplers Lake Saturday at 3:30 p.m.

The committee requests each one to bring their own table service, beverage and a hot dish to pass, for a 5 p.m. potluck supper.

In case of bad weather the group will meet at the Presbyterian church. Further information may be had by calling Mrs. Orrie Gilbert.

Diana Almaquer Given Scholarship to Albion College

Diana Almaquer, Youth for Understanding Student, who made her home with the Charles Mensing family, has been selected to receive a full scholarship to Albion College.

Mrs. Mensing said Monday that she thinks Tecumseh High School and especially Diana's teachers should have much of the credit for the young lady's success.

Fr. Placido of Mexico City, coordinator for the Y for U program in Mexico, flew to the Almaquer home in Cd. Valles, San Luis Potosi to tell Diana of her selection.

Mrs. Rachael Andresen of Ann Arbor was also instrumental in the recommendation to Albion College.

Tecumseh teachers who especially helped Diana were Mark Renfro, Vic Lawson and Mrs. Mervyn Boltz.

Diana arrived here Friday, spent the weekend with her Tecumseh family and Sunday they helped her move into the college dorm.

TEEN TALK

By DEBBY EARLING

Though few verbally admit it, most students are glad to be back in school after vacation.

Nothing compares with the first two weeks, the feverish excitement, anticipation of discussing summer experiences with new and old friends.

Then there are schedules to compare, plans for the first dance and football game — even settling down to thoughtful study.

Upperclassmen, as well as the new freshmen this year, spent a few confusing days locating remumbered or new classrooms and lockers.

The student body is pleased with the new addition, although it was evident the first day that until the new classrooms are put into use it takes great skill to navigate the halls.

The library isn't open yet and students must depend on the public library for their research.

To control congestion in the public library during the noon hour, passes are issued by teachers to permit any student with a legitamate purpose to use the library at noon.

Granddaughter Pens Poem on Anniversary

Editor's Note — Ruth Meads Penrod has summed up the fifty years her grandparents, Mr. & Mrs. Oscar Meads, recently celebrated in the poem printed below.)

50 YEARS FOR THE MEADS

On the 18th of September,
Just 50 years ago,
There's two that will remember,
What set their lives aglow.

They courted in a buggy,
Not a fancy motor car,
But it was just as "huggy"
Though it didn't take them far.

Through the years came 7 children
Three girls, four ornery boys,
They could fight and fuss and argue,
And just generally annoy.

There was George, Frances, Merle and Wilbur,
Wilma, Bob, and Eula May,
Then they got another daughter,
When Shirley came to stay.

In the 30's came depression,
These years were mighty lean,
And George tells all his children,
"We sure got sick of beans!"

There's a picture in the parlor,
Of young Oscar and his wife,
Ask him who the woman is,
"It's the first one in my life."

Now their children have grandchildren,
And the years are rolling by,
We hope that we can celebrate,
Their diamond — Seventy-five.

—Ruth Arlene Meads Penrod

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

We the Staff Nurses at Herrick Memorial Hospital, wish to voice a complaint. In a recent issue of The Tecumseh Herald, it was stated that the Hospital had "suffered a loss" because of the new pension plan and an increase in the nurses' salary.

This loss was not due entirely to nurses' salaries, but due to the fact that room rates are lower than in other hospitals in this area and because of low patient census.

The nurses did not receive any increase in salary, in fact they have been on the same pay scale for two years. The Michigan State Nurses' Association recommends that the starting salary be $425 a month while Herrick nurses start at $366 a month. This places us in the lowest third state-wide as far as salary is concerned.

Our retirement plan is a very good one and includes all employees, not just the nurses. Many of the personnel have been at Herrick for 15 years and some for more than 20 years, so they justly deserve a security plan for their future. The employees pay a portion of this plan.

This false statement in The Tecumseh Herald concerning a salary increase has made poor relations between the nurses and other employees. We feel that it is in your best interest to print a correction of the statement about the nurses' salary increase.

Sincerely,
Staff Nurses
Herrick Memorial Hospital

Editor's note: At a City Council meeting, Aug. 17, a member of the Hospital board stated that the Hospital loss of $6,740 during June was due to several factors: 1. An increase in nurses' wages, 2. Implementation of the new employee pension fund, 3. Obstetrics ward not too busy. The Herald reported this in its story. The above letter was received Sept. 15. The Herald called the hospital boardman, who explained that actually the nurses had not received wage increases, instead they agreed to accept the new pension plan in lieu of pay boosts. As well as nurses, all hospital employees were included in the program.)

'64 Crop is Spotty

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"Yes, we have a monstrous crop and no pickers," said Mrs. Charles Kapnick of Kapnick Orchards, southeast of the city.

"We not only have a bumper crop, but they are too large and well colored, really beautiful. The Jonathons are almost too large to store."

Other orchards in the area did not seem to have the same story.

"We have a good, but not an abundant crop of apples as two years ago. They are not quite as large as they ran at that time either," said Mrs. Sam Aiuto of the Aiuto Orchards, north and west of Clinton.

★

MRS. WALTER GERMAN of the German Orchards, 5107 Holloway Rd., agreed with her and so did Mrs. John Keeney and her son, John, of Keeney Orchards on M-50 just west of Tipton.

The Kapnicks are pondering the possibility of asking customers to pick their own, unless pickers are found soon.

They expect to retail as much of their own produce as possible from their market on Rogers Hwy.

They have storage for 30,000 bushels according to Mrs. Kapnick "but not 50,000" she said when queried about the bumper crop.

★

ALL BUT Kapnicks seemed to feel that lack of rain at the proper time thwarted what promised to be bumper crops for them too. However, they are pleased with the good crop they do have.

Mr. Keeney said that the crop is spotty, some trees heavy, some light, according to varieties. They are starting to pick this week.

He said that type of soil has much to do with the crop and also that moisture through the season. The hot summer this year was not good.

"Once the apples are set back they don't catch up again," continued Mr. Keeney.

★

MRS. GERMAN spoke about much of the other produce they have at their roadside stand. They are loaded with muskmelon and honeydrocks, also pears, pumpkins, late sweet corn, sweet onions and tomatoes.

Mrs. Aiuto said that warm weather pushed their peaches this year, which usually aren't ripe until Aug. 5. This year picking began July 27.

The rain, when it finally came, did help [illegible] apple [illegible] tremendously.

★

THE AIUTOS moved to the orchards only three years ago, but his father planted the trees some 23 years ago with a wide variety of fruit.

This accounts for the fact that the storage at Aiutos has apples nearly the year around.

From a brief survey, it would seem that the Tecumseh area will have no problem in obtaining their "daily apple to keep the physician out of the picture."

HONORED AS 4-H ALUMNI — Mrs. Robert Ries (left) and Mrs. Weldon Smith of Deerfield (center) were among volunteer leaders honored Sept. 1 during the annual State 4-H show. E. J. Clabuesch, president of the Michigan 4-H Club Foundation, presented the 4-H clover awards on the Michigan State University campus.

The classes for high school credits and other non-credit courses will begin Sept. 28.

Recreation Activities

By DON MOFFATT, Superintendent

SENIOR CITIZENS

Senior citizens meet at the Community Center Thursday, Sept. 24, from 2 to 4 p.m.

The activities are being planned by an all female committee — Mrs. Clara Miller, Mrs. William Hotrum, Mrs. Oren Feight and Mrs. Ralph Peotter.

Besides the social activities, there will be a short business meeting, in which the group will help select a name for their club. Future programs for this fall and winter will be discussed.

SWIMMING

With the colder weather coming on, it appears that this will be the last week for swimming. Unless it really turns warm, our many swimmers will have to wait until next summer for dips at the pool or the Pit.

Looking back over the last three months, and checking the attendance records, it is interesting to note the great amount of use that our swimming areas received this summer.

From June through August, the Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool saw 11,985 swimmers.

During the same time, the Pit, located at the newly acquired park, had 6,074 swimmers, and saw 438 area families take advantage of the special family rate.

The two swimming areas combined, kept busy with 18,221 swimmers, plus 438 families enjoying the nation's number one recreation activity.

OTHER SUMMER PROGRAMS

Four playgrounds, supervised over a nine-week period, saw a total of 2,802 children enjoying menty and various activities. The largest attendance was recorded at Shady Lane Playground, with 1,125 attending during the season.

Baseball diamonds saw a total of 14,472, both players and spectators combined. This was totaled from all three leagues — Pee Wee, Little League and Pony.

Softball for men, women and girls recorded 3,127 participants and 7,185 spectators, for a total of 10,312.

The tennis courts were kept busy during the summer months with 1,170 players.

Our picnic areas were used by an estimated totalof 1,180 picnickers.

TEEN CLUB HELPS

Our local Teen Club played host to a group of teens from St. Johns earlier this summer, to help them start a similar club.

The teens went home enthused, and at last report,t hey haveorganized a start of their club, and planned a "Back-to-School" dance and get-acquainted party.

Sounds to me that our teens did an outstanding job in conveying the message.

PIN FOR RETIREES — A lapel pin inlaid with precious stones has been authorized by R. W. Herrick to be given to Tecumseh Products Co. retirees as an expression of appreciation from management for years of service to the company. Jewels will indicate the number of years in employ; one ruby for up to 15 years, two rubies for 15 to 20 years, three rubies for 20 to 25 years and two rubies and one diamond for 25 years and over. Retirees notified by mail of the award are requested to contact Joe Fortunato of the Products personnel office to verify whether they will call at the plant to receive the pin or if they wish to have it mailed to them.

DAR Will Give $100 to a Lucky Senior

Members voted to give $100 to a senior student who excells in American History and expects to further his education.

Announcement was made of Constitution Day, Sept. 17, by Purnell Osburn, chairman.

She also stated that the city has been requested to observe the full following week as constitution week.

An acknowledgement of the donation to the Scout Cabin Fund was read.

★

THE REGIONAL meeting will be held Sept. 22 in Jackson with a noon luncheon.

The local chapter is holding a rummage sale Sept. 25, and 26 at the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Building with Mrs. Neal Pearson and Mrs. Osburn as co-chairmen.

They will be at the building Sept. 24 to receive articles for the sale. Mrs. Hoyt Whelan will be the cashier.

Mrs. Pearson asks that members contact her who are able to help at the sale.

It was also determined that a bake sale will be held Saturday in the same building with Mrs. Herbert Munger as chairman.

★

He said that Boysville has been in existence for 14 years for boys from the eighth through the twelfth grades. They have an enrollment of 187 including two Indians, 12 Negroes and a number of Spanish.

The slogan at Boysville is "Boys With a Problem, Not Problem Boys."

The backdrop for the table was a multicolor silk hand-quilted coverlet completed in 1889, after two years of hand stitching.

A special delight to visitors was continuous organ music by Mrs. William Feight, daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Feight of Tecumseh.

At the entrance to the main room was a miniature fountain and pool.

All coins donated in this pool will be used toward the construction of a proposed fountain in the city Park adjacent to City Hall.

Official Federated Garden Club Flower Show judges awarded ribbons for arrangements and horticultural exhibits. They were entertained at a luncheon at Don's Beef Buffet.

Fred Nash Is First From Local Kiwanis To Be Chosen Lt. Gov.

Fred Nash, past president of Tecumseh Kiwanis Club, was elected lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 7, the first to be chosen from the local group in its history.

A member of Kiwanis since 1958, Mr. Nash was chosen to fill the post for 1965 by 57 members representing nine clubs, who met at St. Peter's Episcopal Church Thursday for the election.

Mr. Nash was nominated by past Lt. Gov. Elwood Little of Onsted, who stressed the interest Mr. Nash has shown in Kiwanis, especially his active participation in community and club work with youth at Sutton School and Scouting.

Jan Baxter, a teacher at Lenawee County Retarded Children's Institute and member of the Tecumseh group, seconded the nomination, relating that the first time he met Mr. Nash was when he came to the school and asked to "do something for the kids".

Mr. Nash helped organize the Boy Scout troop at Sutton School. He also works with the YMCA in Adrian, teaching handicraft to young people and has done much to organize and maintain the Tecumseh Community Park.

★

LOCAL PRESIDENT Dr. George Burkhard, who conducted the meeting, said Mr. Nash constantly strives to strengthen Kiwanis with attendance and participation in any event whether large or small.

Mr. and Mrs. Nash live at 213 S. Pearl St. They have five children: Fred Jr., a Stockbridge High School mathematics teacher; James, senior at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo; Mrs. Gordon Bernstein of Clark Lake, Mrs. Morris Tuttle of Jackson and Mrs. James Dahlke of Tecumseh.

They also have four grandsons and are members of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Nash has been an agent for the New York Central Railroad for nearly 30 years, serving locally until 1959, when he was transferred to traveling agent out of Adrian.

Because his work with the railroad takes him from place to place he has attended every club in the division. Members have been heard to ask, "To what club does Fred belong?" Mr. Nash has also attended every Michigan District meeting since becoming a member.

Two other Kiwanians were nominated, but declined in favor of a unanimous vote for Mr. Nash.

★

Special awards were presented by Lt. Gov. Esta Gebert of Blissfield to Monroe, Addison and Tecumseh for achievement of membership goals.

A local barbershop quartet, "The Four Dads" entertained the group with several selections.

The Michigan District of Kiwanis will meet in Lansing Sept. 27, 28, 29 to confirm the election. Mr. Nash, Dr. Burkhard, Harlan Dicks, Sidney Turner and Kenneth Blumerick plan to attend.

IF YOU NEED CONVINCING THAT A CLOTHES DRYER BEATS HANGING LAUNDRY ON A LINE

make this simple test

Take two bath towels . . . dry one outdoors and the other in a friend's clothes dryer. Note how much fluffier and wrinkle-free the towel is that comes from the dryer. Do a load of laundry in her dryer and count how many pieces you can fold and put away that you would ordinarily iron.

TRUCKS FOR '65!

More models, more engines, more Chevy workpower!

The long strong line of Chevy trucks for '65 is rolling in with miles of new working equipment. Like that handsome Fleetside pickup that leads the pack . . . one of the 18 pickup models in the line this year.

Further along, you'll find economical Chevy-Vans, a wide selection of walk-in vans, a bigger choice of big trucks, more job-tailored components—trucks built to fit your business and budget.

And under those hoods you'll find the best in 4- and 6-cylinder, V8 and diesel power, 18 tough truck engines in all including 4 new lower cost diesels. Here's the huskiest bunch of haulers that ever came looking for work!

Our word for all this is workpower. That's the stuff that makes a truck a real truck. A hard-nosed money-saver. Yes, workpower's here and Chevy's got it, in such a variety of types and sizes that picking the best truck for your job will be easier than it's ever been before. If you're in the market, just get in touch with your dealer.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

It as long been my belief that all citizens should have a healthy respect for the law. Laws apply to all people alike. Laws do not exempt some and apply to others, nor are laws meant to favor some and discriminate against others.

I believe in applying the laws heartily, without fear or favor, to all groups. This belief has been a part of my state administration from the beginning.

I do not believe in applying the laws recklessly, then sitting back and "letting the chips fall where they may." I have applied the laws fairly and honestly.

The impartial application of the laws was evident in the Essex Wire Corporation strike in Hillsdale earlier this year. I favored neither side in that dispute. But law and order had to be maintained and the property rights of those not involved had to be protected.

★

RECENTLY, several incidents have arisen involving efforts by the National Farmers Organization (NFO) to discourage non-member Michigan farmers from delivering livestock for sale at various stockyards and livestock auctions.

I have instructed the Michigan State Police to honor requests from local law enforcement agencies for whatever assistance is necessary to maintain law and order at stockyards and livestock auctions anywhere in the state.

The NFO has several national chapters, and is organized in several Michigan counties as well. Incidents involving NFO members have been reported in Owosso, St. Johns, Charlotte and in some other Michigan counties.

★

THESE TWO points must be remembered:

► Members of the National Farmers Organization certainly have the right to peacefully picket stockyards and certainly may pursue peaceful persuasion to tell their story; but they must also respect the rights of others.

► Farmers desiring to take stock to market certainly have the right to travel public roads without obstruction, and certainly have the right to be safe from attacks on either their persons or their property.

I have asked the State Police to apply the law to everyone alike, without fear or favor. Any infringement on the personal and property rights of anyone in these incidents will be met by strict enforcement of the law.

WATERSHED DISPLAYED AT REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS — Mrs. William Damon points out Tecumseh in the scale model of the River Raisin Watershed on display at the Republican headquarters in the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Association Branch office building. The headquarters will be open each afternoon and evening from 2 to 8 p.m. A potluck dinner was held Saturday. Local Republicans are making the space available for civic groups for display and activity. Rummage sales are to be held the next two weekends by the Jaycees Auxiliary and the Tecumseh Chapter of Eastern Star.

David Crosby Dons GI Garb

David M. Crosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crosby, 305 E. Pottawatamie St., was one of five in Lenawee County to join the army during the month of August.

A graduate of Tecumseh High School, Pvt. Crosby will receive his basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and then take 12 weeks aircraft mechanic school at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Eastern Star Degrees Conferred

Forty members and guests attended the special meeting of the Tecumseh Chapter No. 51 Sept. 10 when a memorial for Pearl Tyler Colman and Hattie Collins, honorary life member of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, was given. The charter was draped.

The degrees of the order were conferred on Beverly Miller with Mrs. Katharine Hunt as a protem candidate.

Mrs. Marion McRae was the soloist.

Mrs. Donald LaBounty reminded members of the Association meeting and dinner at Clinton, Sept. 26.

Reservations should be made before Sept. 19.

Mrs. Robert Bonner announced that rummage sale will be held Sept. 18 at the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Building.

College Youths Must Bend IBM Cards To Be Noticed

ANN ARBOR — [illegible] a student gets noticed nowadays is if he bends his IBM card.

That's what Charles F. Lehmann, associate dean of the University of Michigan School of Education, has remarked.

"Unless we want our college graduates to end up with only a superficial education and lacking any enthusiasm, action must be taken," Mr. Lehmann declares. "Intense emotions and zeal are on the decrease on the university campus.

"While small numbers show some emotion off campus in pacifist and civil rights groups," he says, "I feel that the students' lack of zeal was pointed up last year when a student asked me to speak to a group on what they should be interested in."

Another indication of lack of student enthusiasm is the issues that the student press brought up this year, he says. "It seems that the earth-shaking issue was women's hours. Such things as antiquated grading systems and curriculum material never got mentioned."

Mr. Lehmann feels there is a definite need to bring about closer relations between the faculty and students: "For with the growing corporate structure of the university, unless such an association is created and enthusiasm is brought back to the campus, the university will become only a factory turning out a mass of fact-filled machines."

The U-M educator contends the present honors program attracts only grade getters and fails to bring about desired stimulation for eager students.

A program designed to bring together various areas of the social sciences and relate them to present-day situations attracted only one person, he recalls.

"The others, who were originally interested, didn't want to take the chance of having a G go on their record for it did look like a stiff course."

Report Will Be Available

LANSING — To assure visitors where and when the Michigan fall colors are at their best, a personalized fall color tour reporting service will again be available this year, according to William T. McGraw, Michigan Tourist Council director.

The service, instituted 10 years ago, advises individuals requesting the information when colors are best for viewing in various regions of the state.

The foliage normally begins to change in September in the upper peninsula, then gradually spreads downward to southern Michigan in early October and continuing throughout the month.

RED WINGS AND YELLOW HEADS

As far as bird watching goes, Monday, Aug. 24 was a red-letter day. Not only did we record a "first" but, once and for all, our bemoaning about nver seeing any redwing blackbirds was silenced.

We had them that day and in sizeable numbers, too. It always seemed strange that with so many redwings around town and in the surrounding country side, there were not some of them along the creek. Until that exciting Monday, these birds were a real rarity.

Actually, our redwing excitement started on Sunday — Mom almost doubted her bird identifying sense when she saw one hopping on the creek-bank.

Gee but these are pretty birds. About 10 inches long and chunkier than their cousins, the yellow-eyed common grackle, a male redwing is impossible to mistake.

Mrs. R. W. Blackbird is another story. Her drab browns and dirty whites are arranged into patterns of stripes, bars, dots and specks-les until she almost looks like a different family.

★

MONDAY AFTERNOON Ida and I started noticing unusual activity at the two mud-puddles in the road.

No, it just couldn't be — those three birds did not have red patches, our eyes were merely playing tricks on us.

Something like that just doesn't let go and as we kept watching, more and more birds arrived and, wonder of all wonders, they were redwing blackbirds.

Soon the dirty water-holes were full to brimming over with the ducking and splashing birds.

Just try to count — a census was impossible. The coming and going was constant. Finally, however, to twos and threes, our guests finished their bathing and flew into a ear-by maple tree.

Perhaps there had been 14 of them. Next our west-facing window became busy, as the flock started to move toward the creek. Surprise on us — while we had been busy looking to the south, another contingent had apparently started convening across the creek.

★

When the two groups blended together, it was, to say the least, quite a stag party. I shall not even guess what it might have numbered.

Methodically, the boys progressed up the creek, from limb to limb, tree to tree, one side of the water's edge to the other.

A late summer moult, which produces brownish-edged feathers, tends to make these birds appear rather dull but one of two things had happened to our flock. They had either already worn away the drab color or they had not yet acquired their new full feathers — it must have been something like this because the redwing blackbirds we saw were far from toned-down.

They were brilliantly colored birds. Beautiful, wish they would become regulars but since that one appearance, nothing else.

★

AND, NOW TO the second half of our title, the yellow heads.

When you read this article, the three Duncans will be bird-watching all right, but instead of looking for blackbirds with scarlet shoulders, we will be looking for black birds with yellow heads.

It is Happy Holiday time and if all goes according to plan, if all colds and laryngitis clear up, we should about now, be driving through the high plateau country headed for Colorado Springs.

So it is that for now it is goodbye, but in three or four weeks, I will be back, hopefully with some vacation tales.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Necessity for continuous expansion of advertising in highly productive nations such as the United States and Canada is related to a rather recent economic condition.

Such countries enjoy what economists call a "buyers' market". Goods are available in such variety and such quantity and from so many outlets that the consumer can buy as he pleases.

Six years ago, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said:

"American business must recognize that this is a buyers' market and act accordingly.

"New products, increased advertising, lower prices can have a dramatic effect on consumer psychology.

"The people who have most at stake in the survival of our free economy should be betting on its growth."

Since Mr. Nixon made the statement in 1958, the buyers' market has burgeoned because of automation and the development of countless new products.

More and more, the consumer buys, as he pleases, where he pleases.

Nationally, manufacturers meet the challenge by annual increases in advertising budgets. Locally, alert retailers meet it by constantly increased newspaper advertising.

'We Will Be Tough,' Coach Fagan Predicts

"Barring injuries, we're going to be tough."

This statement from Coach Tom Fagan clearly explains his views of the Indians for the 1964 grid season, indicating that Tecumseh will vastly improve on its 4-5 record of last fall.

Speed, experienced starters at most positions, coupled with a fine attitude, lends an optimistic approach to the opener here Friday night against Willow Run.

A few changes in tactics, both on offense and defense, have been readily grasped. Fagan calls the squad one of the smartest he's ever coached.

A switch of Don Baird from the line to a halfback spot could be one of the key moves of the season.

An all-league guard last year, the rugged 194-pound senior has the speed and drive to turn the Indians into a high-scoring unit. He's been one of the outstanding backs during practice, and has matched fleet Tim Collins in sprints.

Greg McEnroe and Kirk Lucas are battling for the fullback spot with McEnroe holding an edge. McEnroe will pair up with Baird as interior linebacker on defense.

Key to the Tecumseh offense may well be in the hands of quarterback Jeff Osburn. The slight, but tough 140-pounder, has leadership talent and intelligence, both vital to Fagan's offense particularly on calling blocking changes at the line of scrimmage.

Osburn was understudy to John Oberlin on offense most of '63, but proved to be Tecumseh's best safety man on defense.

Steve Derby and Mark Blatchford will handle the end posts. The 6'1" Derby is one of the fastest lads on the team, while Blatchford proved to be an outstanding end on the varsity in '63.

☆

JERRY HALE AND RON FORSYTH have won the guard assignments and both tip the scales near the 180-pound mark.

Ron Bolz gets the nod at center, but may not start against Willow Run due to tendonitis in the Achilles heel. Dan Vollmar has been switched from tackle to center and will start against the Flyers if Bolz is not ready.

☆

OTHERS EXPECTED TO PLAY some offense, and backing up the starters are:

Gordon Gibson and Dean Hebb, ends.

Jeff Noe and Tom Elliott, tackles.

Henry Mensing, Carson House and Ray Schmidt, guards.

Joe Caterina, center.

Several not in line for the offense yet, but starters on the defense include Elliott, 214-pound Harold Butler and Bill Chandler.

Tory Gridders Face Redskins

Vadasy, a graduate of Eastern Michigan and in his first year of coaching, undoubtedly will find the opener a tough one for the Tories, long a basketball school but one which generally took football lightly.

Some lettermen back this season could provide nucleus for Britton to move up the ladder in the River Raisin Conference. The sophomores and freshmen will have to collect experience as the season progresses.

Top backs will include Walt Korican, Bob Rowe, Ray Vershum and Larry Henning.

Outstanding linemen are Terry Auten, Jim Conrad, Dennis Mastie, Randy Frazier and Tom Yarkow.

Several others are pushing for starting assignments and may well prove the difference in forthcoming games. Although over 30 are out, many on the squad will have to learn more than one position.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

Three months ago, Mrs. Harold A. Wilson, 1010 Red Mill Dr., read what she describes as a "disturbing book."

So stimulated, she plunged into an intensive program of checking facts brought out by the author.

Twenty volumes later, Mrs. Wilson's one-woman project has signs of blossoming into a community-wide campaign.

The "disturbing book" was "None Dare Call It Treason," written by John Stormer, a Young Republican from Missouri who pulls no punches in his presentation.

Mr. Stromer talks of the "socialistic slide of our government."

Mrs. Wilson commented, "It made sense to me. You observe these things if you read the news and try to keep up with what's going on."

A graduate nurse, Mrs. Wilson has taken courses at the University of Michigan and presently is doing some work at Siena Heights in Adrian. By nature, she's a person interested in learning.

What she found in the current reading campaign has prompted a one-woman drive to get reference materials for the Tecumseh Library on socialism, communism and Americanism.

Several of her friends said they'd chip in. However, without waiting for contributions, she has already spent $16 to obtain four volumes, which she presented to the Librarian, Mrs. Jule Fosbender this week.

Included are:

► CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES by James Mussatti

► THE MAINSPRING OF HUMAN PROGRESS by Henry Grady Weaver

► THE ROAD TO SERFDOM by Friedrich A. Hayek

► AMERICAN MIGHT — SOVIET MYTH by Jameson G. Campaigne

(Short reviews of the four appear on the next page.)

There are another 16 or so she'd like to get and give to the library.

Mrs. Wilson hopes her fellow Tecumsehites will read these, maybe form discussion groups to talk about them.

She's frank about her distaste for socialism in America. Mrs. Wilson will get agreement on this from a lot of folks — this writer included.

Our nation is dynamic, but we have our weak points. It's entirely possible that summed up they could drag us under. That's what concerns Mrs. Wilson.

For one, I'm going to follow her lead and read these volumes.

What about you?

Police Check Minor Damages in Accidents

Only four traffic accidents were checked by the Tecumseh Police during the past week with damages minor.

Karen Lee Robinette, employed at Bud's A & W, reported her auto damaged while parked behind the restaurant. Other driver and car are unknown.

Ann L. Harvey, 21, of 9480 Stone Hwy., was charged with improper lane usage Friday when she changed lanes on W. Chicago Blvd. and hit a car driven by Paula L. Wallace, 20, Dinius Rd.

Larry D. Smith, 22, Tipton, lost control of his motorcycle on W. Chicago Blvd., near Cairns Tuesday, after another vehicle made a sudden stop in front of him.

Albert Glisson, rural Britton, suffered injuries last Thursday after his pickup hit a tree on Comfort Rd., near the River Raisin bridge.

He was taken to Herrick Hospital for treatment and then turned over to the sheriff's department. He reportedly did not have an operator's license.

City Must Enlarge Wastewater Plant

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Health Official Tells Council Any New Service Will Require More Capacity

By TOM RIORDAN

Even before the Tecumseh Fisher Body plant is up, there seems to be indications of an enlargement program.

The fact comes out as discussions are continued on the sewer service to be provided by Tecumseh.

In listing requirements, General Motors officials state that initially there would be about 60,000 gallons of normal sanitary sewage daily and 22,000 gallons of industrial wastes.

Eventual load would be 88,000 gallons in the first category and 50,000 in the second.

★

THE INDUSTRIAL waste portion has concerned city councilmen, who held a lengthy confab on the subject Monday evening.

On hand were John Holland, representing the city's consulting engineers, and Wallace Benzie, sanitary engineer of the Michigan Department of Health.

At Fisher Body a bonding chemical, which must be washed into sewers daily, would probably require special treatment at the plant before going into the city's system.

At a similar Fisher Body trim plant in Livonia, the company has installed a settling tank, which separates the gluey substance from other industrial wastes.

Mr. Benzie pointed out that this chemical could cause considerable trouble with a wastewater treatment system. He suggested an agreement between the city and Fisher Body concerning handling of these wastes.

The state official told Council that regardless of whom gets sewer service from the city, Tecumseh needs an addition to its wastewater treatment plant.

"The plant is at a design load of 700,000 gallons (per day) and the first six months averaged 686,000. It is overloaded biologically and nearly overloaded hydraulically," Mr. Benzie told the councilmen.

Before any added services can be rendered — whether it be to an industry or a new subdivision — the city must have a formal agreement with the Health Department showing that the wastewater plant will be enlarged, actually stating dates when work will start and finish.

He recommended that the design capacity be doubled, thus theoretically capable of handling a city of 14,000. The original plant cost $265,000, but what an addition would run is unknown at this time.

★

COSTS OF THE eight-inch pressure line from Fisher Body have been estimated at $130,000 by McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor, consulting engineers.

General Motors has agreed to contribute $100,000 to this, plus building a lift station at the plant, which would pump the sewage to the city.

In addition, Mr. Benzie opinioned that Fisher Body should have a sampling device to check various percentages of industrial wastes.

Representatives of GM and city officials met Wednesday morning of this week to go over these points.

★

AN IDEA advanced by Raisin Township's board drew disfavor from Councilmen. Raisin would contribute $6,500 for the sewer — if it would belong to Fisher Body.

"We don't want any part of this (private ownership)," said Mayor Harold Easton, who was fully supported by other Councilmen.

"If this sewer goes outside of the City of Tecumseh, it must belong to the city," the mayor added.

Jackson Team To Be Tough

Tecumseh could well bump up against its toughest opponent of the season this Saturday night when the Indians tangle with the Jackson St. John's Gaels.

The tilt, scheduled for 7:30, will be played in Jackson High School stadium which boasts a new lighting system.

The Gaels will be bigger and with Tom Goodwin, may have a slight edge in speed.

Goodwin is about 80% of St. John's offense and is outstanding on defense. The 170-pounder ranks as his team's top passer and runner—and punter.

The Jackson club was undefeated last year and has been rated this fall by its own coach as faster and more developed than the 1963 team.

★

LAST WEEK, the Gaels' trounced Okemos in their opener, rolling up five touchdowns in the first half.

Fans going to the game may reach the stadium by leaving the new M-50 bypass at Michigan Ave., driving through the downtown district, then angle off to the right about two or three blocks past Hotel Hayes.

AP Ranks Tecumseh as Top 11

The crazy game of rating high school football teams hit Tecumseh this week when the Associated Press picked the Indians as No. 1 among all state Class B schools.

In past years, Tecumseh has often been rated three, four and once two — but never No. 1.

The top ranking actually means little at this stage of the season. In all probability, the Indians gained the honor by knocking off Willow Run last Friday night.

The Flyers were No. 1 in 1963, but their ball club this fall certainly is not of that caliber.

House Burning Marks Field Day for Firemen

Preparations continue for the Oct. 4 Firemen's Field Day at the Kitty Kurtis Farm on the corner of M-50 and Ford Rd.

The annual event is customarily the beginning of Fire Prevention Week, which runs this year Oct. 4 through Oct. 1.

Lenawee County Association members have decided to make this a two-day affair to best use the burning of a large three-family house donated by William Brown.

Part of the residence will be burned Oct. 4 and the remaining section Sunday, Oct. 11.

Much may be learned by firemen as they alternately burn and quench the flames.

Wallace MacGeorge, Tecumseh Fire Chief, said Tuesday, "It would be a waste not to take advantage of the opportunity that this large house in such good condition can offer us."

Arrangements have been made with nine departments in the county with 13 pieces of fire apparatus. There are still eight departments to contact.

The county association has purchased 1500 feet of 16 M.M. movie film and arranged for Riga Chief Clyde Filter to take movies inside the house during the fire.

Chief Wes Camp of Hudson, an instructor with the University of Michigan Fire Extension Service, stated, "This is the type of house the Fire Service looks for and seldom finds."

Tecumseh Firemen's wives are making preparations for a lunch stand at the burning site.

Donald Moffatt Attending Session

Tecumseh Parks and Recreation Superintendent Don Moffatt will be sent by the city to attend the 46th annual National Recreation Congress in Miami Beach, Oct. 3-8.

Expenses of $350 were authorized by the Parks and Recreation Board.

CHARLES DES ERMIA HAS GOOD REASON TO BE PROUD OF HIS UNIQUE WATCH COLLECTION

Watches Are His Hobby

By JUDY FIELDER

"There are four kinds of gold — white, yellow, green and rose — and three of them are used on this watch case," said Charles DesErmia, when speaking of his most treasured pocket watch, unique in a collection of 45 old timepieces.

Mr. DesErmia, who has been hunting and trading the watches for more than 10 years, keeps his prize possession in a safe place. And well he should — it sold for over $400 before the turn of the century.

"I was lucky — the man who had the watch wanted something I possessed, so we traded," said Mr. DesErmia. "It caught my eye five years ago and three years passed before I could talk him into a deal.

"He had owned it for over 20 years and said he had carried it only on special occasions because it was perfect when he bought it," Mr. DesErmia added.

The watch has remained perfect with its exceptional care and not a scratch is visible.

The 18-size case is solid 14-carat yellow gold, about two and a half inches in diameter.

Estimated to have been made about 1880, it is hand engraved and crafted, laden with rose gold flowers, engraved edges and an inner border similar to a cameo frame. Green gold leaves and fern adorn the flowers.

★

A HALF CARAT diamond is centered in an eight-pointed star on the back.

When first viewed, the diamond appears round, Mr. DesErmia explained, "Look closer, you'll see it is oval—instruments were not precise as today, so when a diamond cutter finished a stone, he cut as close to round as he could, then mounted it. They took the stone for what it was, then finished it."

Green gold fern leaves surround the "mine-cut" stone, with rose gold flowers set between the leaves.

This too, is within a cameo frame.

When the top of the winding stem is pressed, the hunting case lid flips open to reveal precision craftsmanship in a high grade 17-jewel premier Waltham movement.

In the lower portion of the dial, another, smaller face records the seconds.

When the watch rests in the palm, it creates for the holder a sense of the past, the care and time devoted by the hands of a

Pipe Organ of Rare Quality

By DOROTHY GRIGG

A pipe organ of rare quality is presently being installed in the St. Peter's Episcopal Church by two gentlemen from Germany.

Timm Sckopp, a German, and Richard Hamar, an American who apprenticed in Germany and has been employed there for seven years, were sent there last week by the organ builder, Rudolph Von Beckerath.

Noted for his skill, technique and craftsmanship, Mr. Von Beckerath of Hamburg will come to Tecumseh, himself, in about two weeks to complete the tonal finishing of the installation.

The men from Germany have been staying in the Glenn Driscoll home while working on the handsome classic organ, said to be one of the few of its kind in this part of the country.

Members of the parish have been taking turns in serving the evening meal for the workmen.

Mr. Hamar married only three weeks ago, left his bride in New Jersey according to Rev. Frank Hawthorne.

The tracher action organ, diligently sought out by the organ committee of the church, is the same type of instrument used by the famed Johann Sebastian Bach. It is being installed in the gallery of the church.

The Rev. Hawthorne said Monday that the committee had considered several American builders, one Canadian and several European builders before finally hiring Mr. Von Beckerath.

'Happy Memories' Prompt Donations

As a youngster, Ray Herrick resided with his family in the tiny western Michigan community of Central Lake for five years.

He never forgot the "happy memories of my childhood there" and the town's residents will surely never forget him.

A gift of $250,000 from Mr. Herrick has been made to the village for a new public school — then topped with another for $50,000 to equip the building.

He told Central Lake representatives that his gifts were made because he felt the cost of the building and equipment would place an extra heavy burden on those retired people with fixed incomes who make up a large percentage of Central Lake taxpayers.

He stated to Clinton State Police that he lost control when he tried to dodge an object in the road.

Mr. Bozeman was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital and was released.

BOARD APPOINTS — Dr. Fred Freeman, manager of Hidden Lake Gardens for Michigan State University, was appointed Monday night by the School Board to serve out the term of Mrs. June Stone. Mrs. Stone resigned earlier this month to accept a teaching position at the Sutton School.

Behind Page One

Four-year-old Donnie Hoover qualifies as a real fisherman after his first fishing trip up north with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoover of Brooklyn. When asked Wednesday if he caught any fish, he replied, "Yes, but the big ones got away." Didn't take him long to learn the tricks.

Always quick with a quip at city council gathering is Bob Bonner. When someone mentioned that federal funds might be available for a proposed community project Monday, Mr. Bonner chirped, "I keep my hand out at all times (for federal aid) but very little falls into it."

Even math experts can pull a rock. No names, here, but an assessment program for the city is being redone because the numbers were first totaled as $8,004.76, but turns out the sum is actually $9,143.28. Join the crowd, even newspapers sometimes make mistakes.

The Fourth of July celebration treasury came out in the red, exactly $66.57. That means the nine sponsoring organizations will each chip in only $7.40 — not a bad price to pay for a terrific time for everybody.

A recent contribution to the hospital landscaping fund was made by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mensing in memory of Lee V. Phibbs.

Next year the "little flying machine," a humming bird, at Grigg Manor will have plenty of trumpet vines in which to seek nectar. Mrs. Ernest Hammack contributed a number, which were gathered up and planted post haste by garden and lake.

One reader adds to last week's item concerning the coincidence of the administrations of Kennedy and Lincoln. John F. Kennedy's death continued the uphappy tradition that, since William H. Harrison, every American president elected in a year ending in "0" had died while in office. These were Harrison (1840), Abraham Lincoln (1860), James A. Garfield (1880), William McKinley (1900), Warren G. Harding (1920), Franklin D. Roosevelt (1940) and John F. Kennedy (1960).

A contribution to the Scout Cabin Building Fund from Senior Scout Troop 102 brings the total to $1,556.64.

Watches Are His Hobby

★

MOST OF THE watches in Mr. DesErmia's collection have solid gold cases and many are overlaid with different shades of the precious metal.

The rarity of the solid gold watches makes them a sought after collectors item.

A puzzler among his watches is a gold cased one with the name E. F. Kirchgessner, Tecumseh, Mich. engraved on the dial.

Mr. DesErmia said the man had to be a jeweler in order to have his name engraved on the watch face.

"No one I've talked to seems to be familiar with the name," said Mr. DesErmia, "but I hope that someone with a knowledge of the early history of Tecumseh can come up with the answer."

Charles and his wife, Marcia and two children, Kelly, 3 and Mark, 2 live at 116 W. Shawnee St. They recently returned to Tecumseh after living eight years in Pioneer, O., where he managed a fruniture store.

He is now affiliated with his father, Lyle, in the furniture business. The elder Mr. DesErmia has been a businessman in Tecumseh for 33 years.

The young couple are avid collectors of antiques. Mr. DesErmia has fobs and watch chains to add to his timepieces and many antique firearms, including several Colt cap and ball revolvers.

Charming Westminster chimes ring throughout the home every quarter hour.

"That's not an old clock," said Mrs. DesErmia. "But it's pleasant."

"We have a Seth Thomas Jewelers regulator eight day clock with an octagon case and face with pendulum frame of solid walnut about five feet high," Mr. DesErmia added.

The two are part of a collection of about a dozen old clocks.

The DesErmia's have a large grouping of colored glass including Amberina, Cranberry, Amethyst, Amber, Cobalt Blue, End of Day, and others, plus a rare collection of antique barber bottles. The prize of the group of 20 bottles is an amethyst colored Mary Gregory, with enamel overlay.

★

A YOUNG COUPLE with a fabulous collection of antiques—several days are necessary to see and feel all the items from the past.

"We were very fortunate to have an older couple in Pioneer help us in collecting," said Mrs. DesErmia. "They advised and went with us many times during our hunting trips."

"I guess you could say we're hooked," added her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Golat, 221 Herrick Park Drive will be honored by their family at an open house for their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, September 27. Relatives, friends and neighbors are invited to attend the event from 2 to 5 p.m. at St. Elizabeth School Auditorium. The couple has asked that gifts be omitted. Gertrude Drouillard of Tecumseh and Theodore Golat of Clinton were married Sept. 30, 1939 at St. Elizabeth Church by the Rev. Fr. Stanley Kaminski of Detroit, cousin of Mr. Golat. They have resided in Tecumseh their entire married life. They have one son, Richard, at home and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Morgan, and two granddaughters, Stacey and Shari.

Freedom Library

(Editor's note: The following short reviews tell about books which Mrs. Harold Wilson recently presented to the Tecumseh Library.)

Constitution of The United States by James Musatti.

This is a book specifically written to help citizens understand and appreciate the Constitution — to show the reader that it is no mere historic document, but rather a vital contract between Americans and their government.

It is only through grasping the special significance of this document — understanding it and applying it in one's daily life and contacts — that its basic ideals can be reaffirmed and preserved with the vigilance and respect that are essential if the United States is to remain a self-governing nation of free people.

The Mainspring of Human Progress by Henry Grady Weaver.

A fascinating history of human progress and how not to stop it. Mainspring deals with the fundamental and ever-present issue of our time — war, the purpose of government, economics, religion, and how to preserve independence in a society based on interdependence.

Mainspring is dedicated to the principle that only free men can make effective use of their imaginations and creative abilities; that the purpose of government is to protect personal liberty. This book is probably the best available introduction to the history of human freedom and the resulting moral, social and material benefits.

The Road to Serfdom by Friedrich A. Layek.

This is the classic warning against the dangers to freedom inherent in social planning. Mr. Hayek holds that the extended collectivism toward which free nations are gradually moving is incompatible with democracy, that social planing as interpreted today, may eventually destroy all individual freedoms, political no less than economic.

It shows how some economic controls tend to paralyze the driving forces of a free society and what kind of measures are particularly dangerous in this respect.

American Might—Soviet Myth by Jameson G. Campaigne, Editor of The Indianapolis Star.

America is suffering from a failure of nerve. The national will to resist is being drained—but by what?

It is this noted author and journalist's contention that we are dupes of orrational fear. Never in history have two more unequal powers faced one another than America and the Soviet Union, the free world and the communist countries.

Russia cannot stand against the U S economically, militarily or ideologically.

Mr. Campaigne proves that possession of the powerful rocket engines which launched the Sputniks, the head start in space which was allowed by our lack of vigilance, does not alter the fact that our total striking power is immeasurably greater than the Soviet.

Russian accomplishments are shown to be a brilliantly exploited facade which hides from the West a backward and primitive country, far more terrified of atomic war than we.

Nevertheless, Russia is overcoming us by her aggressions. In this deeply probing book, the analysis of the psychological failure of American nerve is devastating.

America suffers from chronic underestimation of her own vitality. In those areas where we have been backing down under Russian pressure, we need only assert a degree of firmness to cause Russia to retreat.

Where mishandling of foreign aid has made us hated in the very areas we have been trying to help, we need only apply our most natural and native abilities in order to become genuinely effective.

This is a positive book — a hopeful book. In an age whose critics cry doom on every side, it is a much needed application of common sense.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

My wife and I are both former Tecumseh area residents and Tecumseh High School graduates. Our major contact with the "folks back home" is through The Herald and we enjoy the paper very much.

In your last editi- you had an article about the Manley family buying some items at an auction. The "arithmetick" problem interested me, so I worked it out for Vickie. Perhaps you could forward the following results to her:

By the Pythagorean Theorem — in a right triangle, the sum of the squares of the two sides are equal to the square of the hypotenuse. Therefore in triangle A:

$(70)^2 + (60-x)^2 = z^2$

Likewise in triangle B:

$(80)^2 + (60-y)^2 = z^2$

Since the ladder labeled z, is a constant length, the quantities are equal to each other:

$(70)^2 + (60-x)^2 = (80)^2 + (60-y)^2$

Substitute for y in terms of x:

$70)^2 + (60-x)^2 = (80)^2 + [60-(60-x)]^2$

Expand and transpose:

$(70)^2 + (60-x)^2 = (80)^2 + (+x)^2$

$(60-x)^2 - x^2 = (80)^2 - (70)^2$

$3600 - 120x = 6400 - 4900$

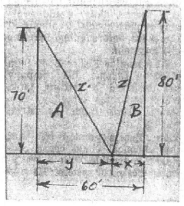
$-120x = 6400 - 4900 - 3600$

$120x = 6400 + 4900 + 3600$

$120x = 2100$

$x = 17.5$

Therefore, the ladder is 17.5 feet from the wall which is 80 feet high and 60—17.5 or 42.5 feet from the wall which is 70 feet high. The length of the ladder is found by the same method.



In triangle A:

$(70)^2 + (42.5)^2 = z^2$

$4900 + 1806.25 = z^2$

sq. root of 6,706.25 = z

82.5 feet = z

In triangle B:

$(80)^2 + (17.5)^2 = z^2$

$6400 + 306.25 = z^2$

sq. root of 6,706.25 = z

82.5 feet = z

TO THE EDITORS:

I am wondering if it would be possible to get a copy of your paper of Thursday, Aug. 27, showing pictures of Miss Edith Haviland and the history of the Old Sutton House.

I am a son of Dr. W. A. Frost, who practiced medicine in Tecumseh for many years. I left there for Portland, Oregon, in the fall of 1907.

We have lived in Newberg (23 miles southwest of Portland) for many years. Miss Mary Sutton and her sister, Sarah Sutton McCracken, are warm friends of ours.

I was in that Old Sutton House several times, when in my teens, going with my father when he was called there for medical help.

Thanking you very much, for this information, I am

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS:

I was horrified this morning to see that the land at the site of Shady Lane playground had been bulldozed clear up to the swing set, ready for the foundation of a new house.

I was also angry when I remembered the fun my children and the neighborhood kids had had there this summer.

And, perhaps, even angrier still when I remembered that it was reported in last week's Herald that it had the largest attendance of all!

No doubt we'll hear grand sounding phrases like "it's all for progress" and "the city must grow!" I'm sure these words will be a great consolation to the children.

Well, in my opinion, it's just another shameful pursuit of the almighty fast buck!

Introducing Comet 1965:

livelier, more beautiful sequel to the World's Durability Champion

We couldn't make Comet much tougher, so we made it more beautiful. Made the outside sleeker, sportier—from every angle. Made the interiors more luxurious. Made every engine bigger, from the 200 cu.-in. "6" through the hefty new 289 cu.-in. Cyclone Super V-8 (225 hp). Made the ride even smoother, more solid and silent. The one thing not new in this racy '65 sequel is the stamina that made Comet the World's Durability Champion. You wouldn't want that to change, would you? It didn't.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Spectators at last Friday night's Tecumseh-Willow Run football game were once more reminded of the antiquated lighting system we have.

When the wiring shorted-out and caught fire, delaying the game for nearly a half-hour and almost costing the Indians a victory, there was considerable discussion along one single theme: new lights.

Tecumseh's athletic field is one of the finest anywhere.

Its lights are the poorest.

Every team in the Huron League has better lighting, as does every school in Lenawee County.

Our 23-year-old system has long failed to provide adequate lighting for games, the Band Festival and other events.

The poles are so ancient that school officials no longer can get Consumer Power or local electricians for repairs and bulb replacements. Repairmen simply refuse to climb them.

Fortunately, a school custodian still has the nerve to climb the poles and service the bulbs and reflectors — otherwise, the lights would go unattended.

New lights are badly needed — now!

'Recovery' Is Self Help Organization

A group of adults meet Tuesday evenings at 8 p.m. on an informal basis in the educational building of the First Methodist Church, which is the second house west of the church on Chicago Blvd., to help each other back to the kind of normal life taken for granted by most people.

They are members of the Tecumseh Chapter of Recovery, Inc., a nation-wide organization begun in 1937 by a Chicago psychiatrist to help people back to recovery.

A leader who has received training from an area Recovery office is in charge of demonstrating the method. She is also a former nervous patient.

There are no professionals on hand to guide the group, but it is not designed to supplant the physician. It neither diagnoses nor treats.

Although the Methodist Church is not responsible for, nor directly associated with the group, the Rev. Donald Porteous feels it is a very worthy group and serving its purpose.

The tools the Recovery patient has at his disposal include Dr. Abraham Low's book, "Mental Health Through Will Training," a set of positive vocabulary words used in discussion and a simple method of "spotting" the reason behind a reaction and thereby overcoming the fear of nervous symptoms and strengthening self confidence.

By following Dr. Low's book, establishing panel procedures, analysis of problems and avoiding demoralizing phrases, Recovery members bring problems into proper perspective.

The program is entirely self-help financially. A contribution at each meeting is used to pay rental and refreshments which are served during the "Mutual Aid" period following the panel discussion.

A local physician stated he felt it was a good thing to be doing, along with medical help, "Talking problems over with another human being seems to allay severe anxiety reaction."
